President Acts Personally to Revive Parley

'REVIEW' OF ISSUES OFFERED PANAMA

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson made a personal move Saturday to try to get talks with Panama back on the track.

Johnson walked unannounced into a routine briefing being held by Press Secretary George A. Reedy and surprised reporters by reading a detailed statement of his attitude toward the Panama dispute. Johnson said:

"We are prepared to review every issue which now divides us, and every problem which the Panamanian government wishes to raise. We are prepared to do this at any time and any place."

Although Johnson described the statement as a reaffirmation of American policy, key phrases appeared to be sufficiently vague to leave ample room for maneuver in any settlement talks.

Initial Panamanian reaction was favorable.

Miguel Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, said he would have to study the Johnson statement but commented, "It's what we have been working for since January."

Johnson said he was sending his statement to Juan Bautista de Lavalle, chairman of the Council of the OAS who has been chosen to try to mediate the dispute. De Lavalle moved at once to set up a meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

After reading his statement, Johnson opened the floor to questions, launching what proved to be another impromptu news conference.

During the questioning, the President said that "obviously" restoration of formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Panama would have to precede any review of divisive problems.

The President had this to say in his statement about the machinery for such a review:

"As soon as he is invited by the government of Panama, our ambassador will be on his way. We shall also designate a special representative. He will arrive with full authority to discuss every difficulty. He will be charged with the responsibility of seeking a solution which recognizes the fair claims of Panama and protects the interest of all the American nations in the canal."

Johnson said the instructions to be carried by a special representative would "not prohibit any solution which is fair and subject to the appropriate constitutional processes of both our governments."

The President emphasized that his statement repeatedly referred to a "review" of problems that triggered bloody rioting in Panama nearly three months ago.

"I don't say discuss," he said, "because that is a sticky word. Some of them do not quite understand what it means."

Last Sunday evening, an OAS committee announced that the United States and Panama had agreed to resume diplomatic relations, then "discuss and negotiate" common problems. The Johnson administration disavowed the OAS announcement, which prompted some criticism of Johnson—notably in Latin America.

The President's latest statement on the knotty dispute obviously was designed to put new life into settlement talks in the

Hypo Needles in Rubbish Alarm Authorities Here

By WILLIAM JONES

Dumping of contaminated hypodermic syringes and needles and discarded drugs in trash cans in Long Beach is causing serious alarm among medical examiners.

In a special letter to all Long Beach doctors this week, City Health Officer Dr. I. D. Litwack warns that children innocently are using the medical refuse.

Dr. Litwack flatly said:

"Numerous complaints have been received recently by this department concerning children finding disposable syringes, needles and medicine and drug samples in trash cans of clinics, physicians' and dentists' offices and hospitals."

Litwack's own investigators last week made this startling discovery: More than 100 syringes and 40 bottles of unused drugs in trash barrels outside a Long Beach medical facility.

Dr. Litwack added:

"Careless disposal practices of these items may create a health-safety hazard to youngsters."

Health officials are so concerned over the trash-can problem that the State Board of Medical Examiners is enclosing a special warning to all doctors in the state this week with their license-renewal papers.

The message tells doctors that "disposal by physicians, dentists and hospitals of unused or partially used drugs, used syringes and other biological products creates a health problem when such refuse can be picked up by children and, possibly, drug addicts."

The warning asked all doctors to review their office procedure in disposing of the items.

The State Board said that the California Medical Association recommends destruction of the items, stressing disposal in a locked or in a tamper-proof refuse can, or prompt incineration.

As director of the Long Beach Health Department's environmental health division, L. G. Estes has put his 10 inspectors into the field to look into the problem.

Estes said that most doctors are toeing the line in disposal and that the "exceptions still have not become the rule in Long Beach."

Nevertheless, he warns, "the potential danger to one child is a case of one too many.

"We might make it inconvenient, hurt a lot of people, but—and what's the proverbial saying?—if it saves the life of one kid, it's worth all of that struggle."

Nikita, De Gaulle Invited to Record Thoughts on JFK

By BILL BROOM
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The voices of Nikita Khrushchev and Charles de Gaulle reflecting on what might have happened to the world had John F. Kennedy lived may be recorded for posterity.

The two leaders and 96 other foreign statesmen are being invited to grant tape-recorded interviews for the oral history archives of the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard, The Independent, Press-Telegram was informed Saturday.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's personal invitation to the world leaders requests them to record their impressions of the late President "with complete candor."

The words of those who respond may never be known to present generations. The interviewees are being offered the privilege of withholding all or any part of their reminiscences and setting conditions under which they may be used.

* * * *

OBJECT of the oral history project, in Robert Kennedy's words, is "to rescue and record material which would otherwise not be put down on paper and which would in consequence be forever lost to the future historian."

The library's invitation, over Robert F. Kennedy's signature, makes it clear that mere eulogies would be of little relative value to the library. It asks for personal impressions of the President, "his policies, his achievements, his mistakes, his failures, with complete candor."

In addition, the leaders are requested to give their estimates of the direction in which world affairs were moving at the time of President Kennedy's assassination and their opinions of what might have happened if he had lived.

The entire oral history

GROOM GLOOM

Like, Till Debt Do Us Part

The bride and groom were emerging Saturday afternoon from the First Christian Church in Bellflower when someone drove off in their car.

Quickly, a member of the wedding party called Lakewood sheriff's station. Two others gave chase.

A sheriff's car and the newlyweds' friends caught the culprit five blocks from the church.

But he wouldn't surrender the car. He was, the driver explained, from the finance company and, wedding or not, he was repossessing the 1958 auto.

"I only owed $65 on it," said bridegroom William A. Russell, 20, of 9720 Flower St., Bellflower.

Russell offered partial payment, but the repossessor turned him down.

So the wedding party ended with guests transferring presents from Russell's—or the finance company's car—to the best man's.

FREEDOM LOOKS MIGHTY GOOD

First Lt. Harold W. Welch, one of three Air Force fliers shot down over East Germany, is taken into ambulance at Wiesbaden, West Germany, Saturday for transport to Air Force hospital at Wiesbaden-Erbenheim.

'Mom, Now Don't Faint,' Freed, Wounded Flier Phones Home

DETROIT (AP) — "Mom, now don't faint, it's only me," were the first words Mrs. Gerald Welch heard from her 24-year-old son, Harold, freed Saturday after 11 days in a Soviet military hospital in East Germany.

"It's wonderful they let him go," said Mrs. Welch, with her husband, Gerald, smiling his agreement. "It's been a terrible ordeal."

Their son, 1st Lt. Harold W. Welch, was one of the three U.S. fliers shot down over East Germany March 10. He was turned over to American military representatives Saturday at Magdeburg, East Germany.

Welch's father, a 62-year-old taxicab driver, said he and his wife talked with their son for two or three minutes in a transatlantic telephone call from a hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

"He just let us know he was all right," said Welch. "He said they were kind and courteous in East Ger-

PAYLOAD FOR B52

Superbombs Needed Now, Says LeMay

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay says there is a military requirement for hydrogen bombs as big as 100 megatons and that they can be delivered to target by present-day B52 bombers.

The views of the Air Force chief of staff — who still is battling to keep manned bombers in the Strategic Air Command along with the rival missiles—appeared Saturday in a 981-page transcript of testimony taken last summer in connection with Senate ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee, released the transcript (still heavily censored in many places).

It was being made public, he said, because it "gives an accurate and reasonably complete picture of the significant issues involved and of the views of the various witnesses." The document was in addition to previously published portions of testimony.

In his testimony, LeMay said the Air Force had "restated our military requirement for a high-yield weapon and recommended that we proceed immediately with the development of a high-yield bomb (50 to 100 megatons) to be compatible with the B52 aircraft."

He said such a bomb could be produced before the B52s were worn out and added they would be around until the early 1970s.

The questioning grew out of discussion of the Soviet announcement more than a year ago that Russia had a 100-megaton weapon. In her last series of tests, one shot was reported to have been of about 58-megaton yield.

LeMay and other officials testified that even without further atmospheric testing, the U.S. can make nuclear weapons of much higher yield than now in the arsenal. (Plane-delivered bombs now are believed to be of between 20 and 30 megatons, with two carried by a B52. Warheads for ICBMs presumably have yields ranging up to two or three megatons.)

The doctrine of the Defense Department has been that several smaller bombs and missiles have more military value than one big one.

Joan's in San Juan, S. America Next

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Housewife Joan Merriam Smith of Long Beach, landed in San Juan Saturday, completing her fourth—and first over water—leg on a planned round-the-world solo flight.

Mrs. Smith, 27, wife of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Marvin Smith, crossed over from Miami in 6 hours and 41 minutes. She is flying a twin-engine Piper Apache.

The 5-foot-2 blonde said she ran into thunderstorms shortly after leaving Miami International Airport, "but I was able to pick up tail winds about 150 miles out that helped my crossing time."

* * * *

SHE SAID she felt a bit lonely, particularly "after I passed the Caicos Islands. Then there was nothing but water."

In Hamilton, Bermuda, another American pilot and housewife, Mrs. Jerrie Mock, delayed her departure for the Azores on another hoped-for round-the-world solo flight. Mrs. Mock, 38, wife of a Columbus, Ohio, advertising man and mother of three, was expected to take off today. She is flying a single-engine Cessna 180. Each has denied she is racing to be the first woman to fly around the world alone.

* * * *

MRS. SMITH began her trip Tuesday in Oakland, Calif. She is scheduled for takeoff this morning for Paramaribo, Surinam (Dutch Guiana), and from there to Natal, Brazil. She will cross the Atlantic to Africa from Natal.

She said she is somewhat apprehensive about her South American flying. "All those swamps and rain forests bother me," she said.

She complained of radio reception trouble coming into San Juan and her set was replaced by another donated by San Juan's international air services management.

THE EASTER STORY

(Editor's Note—In 1849, famed Victorian novelist Charles Dickens wrote a special story—not for publication but particularly for his nine children. That story, in letter form, told the Easter story. Here it is, in condensed version, reprinted on this Palm Sunday.)

By CHARLES DICKENS
Distributed by United Press International

My Dear Children:

I am very anxious that you should know something about the history of Jesus Christ. For everybody ought to know about Him. No one ever lived who was so good, so kind, so gentle, and so sorry for all people who did wrong or were in any way ill or miserable, as He was.

That you may know what the people mean when they said "crucify Him!" I must tell you that in those times, which were very cruel times indeed, it was the custom to kill people who were sentenced to death by nailing them alive on a great wooden cross. It was the custom, too, to make them walk to the place of execution, carrying the crosspiece of wood to which their hands were to be afterward nailed, that their shame and suffering might be the greater.

Bearing His Cross upon His shoulder, like the commonest and most wicked criminal, Our Blessed Savior Jesus Christ, surrounded by the persecuting crowd, went out of Jerusalem to a place called in the Hebrew language Golgotha. They hammered cruel nails through His hands and feet and nailed Him on the cross, between two other crosses. Over His head, they fastened this writing: Jesus of Nazareth, the King of Jews. At about the sixth hour, a deep and terrible darkness came over all the land, and lasted until the ninth hour, when Jesus cried out with a loud voice:

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me!" The soldiers, hearing Him, dipped a sponge in some vinegar that was standing there and, fastening it to a long reed, put it to His mouth. When He had

L.A.C. Says: Looking Back Over a Generation

When the New Deal took over 31 years ago many changes were made in the government's controls over our economy and social lives Many of these changes were long past due. Today some of our greatest safeguards have resulted from laws enacted during that period. But we have sacrificed many civil liberties that were provided by the Bill of Rights and the people of this country. There are those today who insist on giving up certain of these rights but say it is fantastic that other civil rights are endangered. The Rumford Housing Act is an example of how property rights are taken away under the guise of civil rights.

Almost daily we read of such losses which a generation ago we would have said could never happen. But government has over these years steadily encouraged their loss. A recent NLRB decision approved a union action that called for fines and expulsion from the union—and the jobs—of three members. The members' crime was that they produced more products a day than the limit placed on the production by the union. The men had worked harder and more efficiently to earn premium pay for their work. They now have to hold down their production to conform to union rules.

Over these years the people have approved of many welfare programs because they believed they would be used to help those who are in need. They have seen their taxes steadily increased for this purpose. It would have seemed fantastic a generation ago that any public official would say these funds could be used for gambling by the recipient. But only last month the welfare director of New York City was asked if it was proper for welfare recipients to use their mony to buy tickets for off-track race horse betting. His reply was: "I do not believe in the double standard—if the wealthy can wager—the same right goes to those who are not wealthy."

If we look at the debacle of the farm program—controls over production and subsidizing of sales to Russia, we have a program the people would have thought fantastic a generation ago. But these and many other such programs are apathetically accepted today as normal. Each year some new interpretation of civil rights is announced—such as the ruling that prayers cannot be said in our schools.

Five market chains in the state have just lost a court battle with the state Director of Agriculture. The markets wanted to cut the price of milk by 2 cents a quart. But the state refused them permission and the court upheld its decision. Result is that millions of people who buy their milk in stores will pay this higher cost. The object is to protect the home delivery dairies from losing business from this competition. Few people ever expected this interpretation of the law when it was enacted.

Now there is the proposal that it will be illegal for individuals, who want to make more money to hold two jobs. It is said this causes unemployment. But records show that most of these "moonlighters" are in demand because they have skills or experience that is not available among the unemployed. School teachers often serve as recreation supervisors after their school hours. Accountants do work for others in their offtime period from regular jobs. These people are ambitious and willing to work. But now it is proposed that they would break the law by accepting other work.

These are some examples of how government has taken over the freedoms of private enterprise. It would have seemed fantastic that these would be the results of legislation taken many years ago. But laws are subject to changing interpretations by courts and bureaucrats. It is a reason why the people should look ahead to see what may happen to them under other so-called civil rights welfare laws.—L.A.C.

Doctors Warned on Peril of Trash to Youngsters

The health department inspector, who, like his men, carries a special Long Beach Police Department badge, said the drugs found by a Long Beach hospital last week were:

"On the painkiller-type level. Potentially, of course, they are dangerous to children.

"With extreme doses, they can kill!"

The blame for all this, experts say, is the office help in doctors' offices. Too often, they say, the doctor finds himself too busy and he delegates the authority of disposal to his office secretary or the janitor in the medical building.

When the day of rubbish collection comes around, the open cans of medical refuse are left in the alley, available to any curious youngster or drug addict.

This situation prompted the Long Beach Medical Society last week to warn its members that "disposable needles and syringes prevent transmission of infection . . . but they also have proved to be a boon to narcotics addicts."

Dr. Jack M. Lynn, editor of the society's newsletter, said that three narcotics offenders last year were caught with hypodermic syringes fished out of trash barrels.

Recently, more children have found unused drugs in alley trash barrels and have used the syringes as squirt guns, Dr. Litwack said.

The Long Beach Medical Society has warned:

"Every medical office is requested to establish a mandatory routine by which disposable syringes and needles shall be made unusable before their disposal."

Wife Fatally Hurt as Man Wrecks Car in Suicide Try

A 35-year-old Los Angeles woman died in St. Mary's Hospital Saturday after her husband went beserk and rammed their car into a palm tree on Long Beach's East 15th Street in an attempt to kill himself.

Mrs. Josephine Winans died as a result of critical injuries caused when her husband, William H., deliberately drove his car into a tree in the 400 block of East 15th, under the delusion that he "was being chased by Communists," officers said.

The couple's five-year-old daughter, Michelle, was listed in fair condition in St. Mary's.

Winans, officers said, ran from the wreckage containing his unconscious wife and child and rushed into a nearby house, grabbed a paring knife and plunged it into his throat, then shoved his arms through a kitchen window, cutting both wrists on jagged glass.

Described as a "large powerful man," Winans fought desperately with officers and ambulance attendants.

Court Order Bans L&N Rail Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad averted the threat of a strike by obtaining a court order Saturday night to keep four unions from walking off the job.

U.S. District Judge Henry Brooks issued a temporary restraining order four hours before the deadline announced for a walkout.

He set March 30 for a hearing in the case which involves a dispute over work rules.

The L&N's complaint centered on a single point. It claimed the unions agreed to national negotiations, which would involve all major rail lines at the same time, and then demanded to negotiate on a local basis.

The railroad said it never received direct notice from the unions that they intended to strike.

Governor's 2 Tax Bills Due Monday

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Brown's tax package, containing relief for 1,230,000 income taxpayers and simpler forms will be introduced Monday, the governor announced Saturday.

The package contains an income tax bill and a bank-corporation tax bill.

The income tax bill would cancel taxes outright for 120,000 state taxpayers with low earnings and reduce them for about 1,110,000, Brown said.

* * * *

THE SECOND bill would adjust taxes for banks and corporations.

Brown said the bills would "simplify reporting procedures for individuals and corporations."

The measures will be introduced by Sen. Virgil O'Sullivan, D-Williams, and Assemblyman Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland.

Brown said they would bring California law more into conformity with federal laws.

* * * *

THE PRINCIPAL way Brown would reduce and simplify income taxes would be in taking the standard deduction.

Currently, the deduction is 10 percent of gross income up to $500 for single persons and $1,000 for couples.

Under the new proposal, individuals would take a flat deduction of $500 and couples $1,000, no matter what their income.

* * * *

BROWN'S PROPOSAL also contains some new tax benefits for elderly persons, persons who move for job reasons, sickness, and persons with fluctuating incomes.

On the other hand, it would deny some present deductions such as motor vehicles charges, excise taxes and unemployment disability tax.

The measures would not affect 1963 taxes.

The Legislature already has one slightly different income tax bill before it, introduced by Petris early in the session and supported by Brown a year ago. No action has been taken on it.

BAL WEEK DOLL HOUSE

A group of girls from Upland High School, a small but pretty part of the 30,000 teenagers expected to crowd the Newport-Balboa area by today, lounge on the front porch of a Newport cottage they rented Saturday for Bal Week, the annual Easter vacation invasion of high school and college youngsters. The beaches were noticeably vacant Saturday due to overcast skies, but teenagers were sure Bal Week would brighten up any minute.

U.S. Won't Hand Over Cuba Pair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States rejected Saturday a Cuban request that two defectors who hijacked a military helicopter to Florida be returned against their will.

The only way army Capts. Guillermo Santos and Andres Izaguirre, both 20, can be forced to go home is through extradition proceedings instituted by Cuba in American courts, a State Department spokesman said.

But the United States agreed to turn over to Cuban authorities Sergio Rogue, a 17-year-old crewman who wants to go home, and the body of Capt. Jose Arcadio Garcia, the pilot killed in the hijacking.

* * * *

CUBA PRESSED for the return of Santos and Izaguirre through the Czechoslovakian embassy, which handles Cuban affairs in Washington in the absence of U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations.

Czech counselor Jaroslav Zantovsky presented to William Bowdler, deputy coordinator for Cuban affairs, a Cuban note charging the two defectors with desertion, kidnaping, treason and murder.

State Department legal authorities said the desertion and treason charges are political and not grounds for extradition. As for the kidnaping and murder charges, authorities said it would be up to a judge to decide if they are politically related.

A-Blast That Shook Hawaii Was Only 500 Miles Away

WASHINGTON (AP)—The megaton-size nuclear blast which startled Hawaiians and set off burglar alarms in Honolulu in 1962 was detonated only 500 miles from the city at an altitude of 250 miles.

This was reported officially in testimony given the Senate preparedness subcommitte by Atomic Energy Commission and military officials during hearings last summer on the nuclear test ban treaty. The testimony was published Saturday.

At the time of the 1962 test series in the Pacific, the Pentagon and AEC reported only that a device in the megaton range had been launched by a Thor missile from Johnston Island and was detonated at an altitude of more than 200 miles.

In the testimony made public Saturday, Col. Roy L. Clinton of the Pentagon's defense atomic support agency told the subcommittee the explosion occurred at a height of 400 kilometers and 800 kilometers from Honolulu. A kilometer is about .62 mile.

This shot, bearing the code name "Star Fish," was of 1.45-megaton yield — rather small as nuclear weapons go. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of energy released by conventional explosive.

She is Mrs. Billy Korn, 30, wife of a Portland mechanic.

Multnomah County Hospital officials said the triplets weighed six pounds, three ounces; five pounds, nine ounces; and four pounds, 14 ounces.

The Korns have three other children, 13, 12 and 10.

GETS IT BACK

Ill Wind Blows His Paycheck Away

BOSTON (AP)—Festus Johnson was at work on the 26th floor of a building under construction when the foreman delivered his paycheck. A gust of wind tore the check from Johnson's hand and blew it out a window.

Johnson thought it landed several blocks away and went looking for it, without success.

A half hour later a gas station attendant showed up at the building—with the check. It landed right after Johnson gave up the search, he said.

Envoy to Denmark May Go to Manila

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says William McCormick Blair Jr., retiring ambassador to Denmark, will be given another diplomatic assignment. But it declines to say whether he will be named envoy to the Philippines.

There have been reports that Blair, who is being succeeded in Denmark by Mrs. Katharine Elkus White of Red Bank, N.J., would get the Philippines post.

2 IRISH SWEEP PAYOFFS IN AREA

$56,000 for San Pedro Widow and Her Nephew

By JIM MELTON

David Shebane doesn't know it yet, but he and his aunt split a $56,00 Irish Hospital Sweepstake jackpot.

His aunt, Mrs. Helen Shebane of 1929 Cumbre Drive, San Pedro, has to pinch herself a couple more times to make sure it isn't a dream. Then she will get in touch with David, 21, who is working for the state Division of Forestry in the woods of Northern California.

A 17-1 horse named Purple Silk romped home second in the Grand National Steeplechase in England Saturday to make Mrs. Shebane and David's $3 ticket worth $56,000.

Right behind Purple Silk was a 40-1 shot called Peacetown, which made a Santa Ana ticket-holder, Mrs. Mary C. Briggs of 1002 N. Lyons St. $28,000 richer.

* * * *

MRS. SHEBANE, 56, a widow who works in the El Segundo offices of North American Aviation, has no definite plans for her windfall.

"But it will help out when I retire," she says.

She hopes to go to Ireland to collect the prize, and is promised within three weeks.

One thing she won't do with the money is keep it around the house. Four months ago, someone broke in while she was gone and stole radio, cameras and jewelry valued at $800. With that still in mind, she's taksince Tuesday she had a ing no chances.

Mrs. Shehane has known chance for the big money. She got a telegram telling her that her horse was in the big race.

But she didn't let her nephew know because she didn't want him to be too disappointed if Purple Silk failed to finish in the world's toughest horse race — a 4½-mile obstacle course.

David's share may make him a prosperous private. He's due to take his draft physical late this month. Now working for the forestry division near Garberville—about 65 miles south of Eureka — he lived with his aunt while attending classes at El Camino College.

MARY AND JOHN BRIGGS take another happy look at a telegram they pinned their hopes on for most of last week. It told them their Irish Sweepstake ticket might be among the big winners. Saturday, their horse came in second and won $28,000 for the young Santa Ana couple.

MRS. BRIGGS sums up her reaction to winning $28,000 in one word: "Fantastic!"

It had been a long week for Mrs. Briggs, a 21-year-old housewife, who also was informed Tuesday of her chance to win as much as $140,000.

"We didn't dare think of it before we won."

The Briggs don't know what they'll use the extra money for. Husband John is an accountant.

Midwest Snow Sweeps East

An early spring snowstorm, which left up to nine inches of snow on the Midwest, powdered into the East Saturday and foreacsters posted heavy-snow warnings for the Northeast.

Five inches or more of snow was expected Saturday night in eastern Pennsylvania, southestern New York and portions of Connecticut.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for Rhode Island, Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire and Vermont.

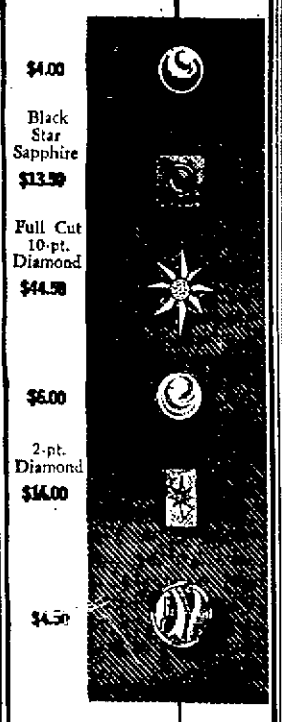

Cochrane's Widow, Sons at Launching

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—The 440-foot guided-missile destroyer USS Cochrane was commissioned into Navy service Saturday in the presence of her namesake's widow and two naval-officer sons.

Named for Vice Adm. Edward Lull Cochrane, chief of the Bureau of Ships during World War II, the destroyer was built by the Puget Sound Bridge aand Dry Dock Co., of Seattle. Her keel was laid in July 1961 and she was launched for testing and evaluation a year later.

wake of Sunday's fiasco.

On other questions raised by newsmen, Johnson said:

—He does not see any signs that the resignation of his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, indicates that associates of the late President John F. Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy are anxious to leave the Johnson administration.

—The President "was not disturbed" by Salinger's resignation Thursday to seek the Democratic Senate nomination in California. Johnson said Salinger told him about his plans barely two hours before announcing them.

—Johnson talked to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Saturday morning about hijacking of a Cuban helicopter flown to Florida after two defecting Cubans killed the pilot. He declined to comment on the matter.

—Comment also was withheld on a Soviet decision to release an injured Air Force officer—one of three seized after their reconnaissance bomber was shot down inside East Germany.

In discussing his Panama statement, Johnson said at one point, "I want everyone to know our position and I think this helps."

Asked if it might help clear up any differences of interpretation that snarled earlier settlement attempts, Johnson said, "I would not speculate on that."

He said he is "well aware that the claims of the government of Panama, and of the majority of the Panamanian people, do not spring from malice or hatred of America."

many."

Mr. Welch said his son didn't give any details concerning the injuries he suffered when he bailed out of the RB66 reconnaissance bomber.

Mr. Welch quoted his son as saying, "They've got me strung up pretty good. I'm going in all directions."

It had been reported earlier that the flier had received arm and leg fractures and abrasions.

"He was kind of nervous," said Mr. Welch. "He said 'Hello Mom' and he was talking to me."

"I asked him if the Air Force told him to stay out of those trees," said the smiling Mr. Welch.

Welch said his son said nothing of his two companions in the plane, Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn., and the pilot, and Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia. The Soviet Union has not indicated what fate awaits the other two.

"We know what the other parents are going through," said the elder Welch. "The longer they are in there, the more they will have to go through."

"We'll write to their parents," said the gray-haired Mrs. Welch.

Welch, who said he felt like singing like a canary when he first heard his son was safe, said he learned of the release early Saturday when newsmen called the family's modest brick home in northwest Detroit.

Welch, a short, dapper man who has owned his own cab since 1928, voiced hope that the other fliers also would be freed.

"Now if we could get news that the other boys are released," he said, "it would be good news for all of us."

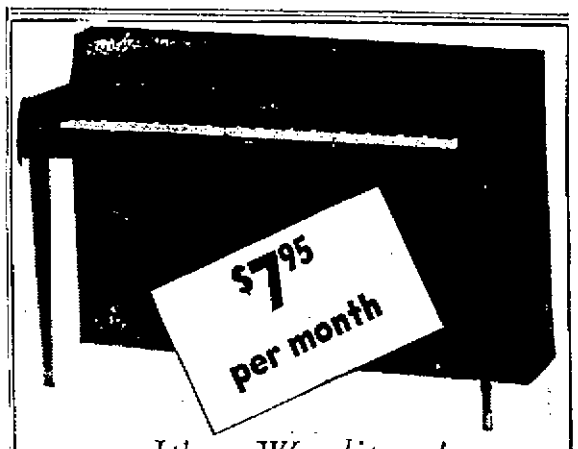

"He told me to dress up and go to church tomorrow," said the flier's mother. "I wonder if he thought I had a new Easter outfit."

Bakery Sit-in Group Arrested

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (CNS)—Fifteen sit-in demonstrators protesting alleged discriminatory hiring practices by Van de Kamp Bakeries were arrested here Saturday and charged with blocking exit facilities.

The arrests, made by the fire department in a Van de Kamp coffee shop, cut short a sit-in which was to have been the climax of an all-day picketing.

JOB OF THE Explosive Ordnance Demolition Unit is to locate and "pull the teeth" of explosives in or out of water. Members of the unit, under supervision of Chief Warrant Officer Harry Jones (in boat) are shown retreiving float device from practice mine.

Lose a Mine? Demolition Boys Here Will Bring It Back--but Not Alive

By BOB SANDERS

"If somebody drops something overboard and then decides he wants it back, he usually calls us."

This is how Chief Warrant Officer Harry Jones described part of the mission of his unit, the Explosive Ordnance Demolition Unit No. 1.

EOD's primary mission, as its name implies, is to locate and de-fuse mines and other explosives in and out of the water.

Jones is in charge of four enlisted men, all divers qualified for hardhat and SCUBA gear.

"We've brought up everything, lost tools, rifles and other equipment, even drowned bodies," Jones said.

Their main activity is recovering practice mines used by Pacific Mine Force minesweepers during training manuevers.

To do this they drop a bobber float in the water as they go over a mine a minesweeper has located.

Then a diver descends via a 130-foot line trailing down from the bobber. When he finds the mine he attaches a line and it's hauled up for use another day.

If a mine is alive they detonate it unless the Navy wants to study it first. In that case they defuse it and bring it to the surface.

All EOD men are qualified to disarm all types of weapons, including nuclear, according to Jones.

Other duties the EOD men perform are recovering aircraft that crash, surveying underwater damage from collisions and conducting a variety of specialized salvage operations.

"We also inspect bottoms," Jones added. "Ships' bottoms."

U.S. Asks New Pact for Grain

GENEVA (AP)—The United States is willing to bargain with other nations on American farm price supports in exchange for a treaty stabilizing world grain prices and guaranteeing access to foreign markets for American wheat.

This unprecedented proposal was made to members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) preparing the groundwork for the "Kennedy round" of talks on reducing trade barriers due to open here May 4. It was disclosed at a news conference Saturday by U.S. negotiator W. M. Blumenthal.

* * * *

GATT SOURCES said that so far there has been no hard and fast reaction to the American idea—presented Tuesday — because there has not been time for other governments to digest it. Blumenthal, however, described himself as "highly gratified" with the initial response.

The American plan has nothing to do with the U.N. conference on trade and development opening here Monday to consider problems of underdeveloped countries.

* * * *

ON THE CONTRARY, it is aimed at opening up the markets of industrialized areas such as Britain, Japan and the Common Market nations to sizable surpluses of American grains, especially wheat. It may, therefore, face tough sledding with the French, for example, who have grain surpluses of their own and are seeking to keep competing producers out of the Common Market.

Tenderloin Gives Away Dollars

Patrons at The Tenderloin restaurant, 4363 Atlantic Ave., can scarcely believe their eyes. The restaurant is giving away silver dollars on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

As the patrons pay their checks, the management hands them gleaming dollars polished in the restaurant's silverware burnishing machine. Each dinner couple receives one dollar.

"People think we're crazy," says Rex Welch, owner of The Tenderloin, "but we're not. The Silver Dollar Nights are our way of thanking our guests for their fine patronage."

The Tenderloin, one of Southern California's most beautiful restaurants, features tender, flavorful prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled steaks and salads mixed at the table in huge bowls atop beds of ice.

State College's Faculty Groups Call for Probe of 'Interference'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Support of the faculty members of San Francisco State College who have petitioned the governor and the legislature for "a thorough public investigation of the administration of state colleges" came Saturday from the executive committee of the State Council of the Association of State College Professors.

Faculty members of San Francisco State contend state college trustees have developed a tendency to centralize control of the state colleges, to ignore local conditions and to ignore official faculty bodies like the academic senate.

* * * *

THE PROTESTERS say this condition has developed under Glen S. Dumke, chancellor of all the state colleges. They assert he centralized policy. San Francisco State has enrollment in excess of 15,000.

The eight-member executive committee headed by Prof. Ben Franklin of Chico State, president of the state council, met in San Francisco.

They said a major phase of the problem is that the trustees under Dumke are interfering in matters that are best handled at the local faculty level.

The resolution adopted by the council executive committee expressed support for the San Francisco State College professors and declared:

"The policies of the Association of State College Professors are generally in accord with the objectives expressed by our colleagues at San Francisco.

"We contend that the trustees must delegate considerably greater authority to the faculties in order to bring the California state colleges in line with practices and policies traditionally accepted by the governing boards of the major American colleges and universities.

* * * *

"WHAT IS happening at San Francisco will undoubtedly occur in other state colleges unless the trustees recognize that the faculty should have legislative power in matters of academic, educational and professional concern on the statewide, local college and departmental levels.

"This is the only appropriate way to resolve the controversial issues now erupting at San Francisco State College and becoming increasingly crucial in other state colleges."

Two Pancake Gluttons Visit Land of Bard

LONDON (UPI) — Two American pancake- eating champions flew into London Saturday night for a week's visit to England that will concentrate on Shakespearean culture.

They are pert Janet Lehrer, 18, of Middletown, N. Y., an English major and Shakespearean expert at Boston University, and six-foot-five inch John Danon Henry, Boston University tackle from Brooklyn.

The trip to England was their prize for winning a national pancake-eating contest. Between them they ate 367 pancakes in 30 minutes.

Poseur Ends Hoax, No Kin to Bormann

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) —A man claiming to be the brother of missing Nazi henchman Martin Bormann broke down minutes before a scheduled lie-detector test Saturday and said his real name was Richard Rolnik.

"I've been lying," the imposter said. "I only wanted to alert public opinion and to step up the prosecution of Nazi criminals who were responsible for the extermination of my whole family."

Rolnik turned himself in to police in Santos Friday and said he was Martin Bormann's younger brother, and that he had heard Martin was seen in Brazil's Mato Grosso state about 15 months ago.

Evert Carroll, Registrar at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE states that . . . "Every day, millions of dollars are spent by businesses in So. California for Data Processing equipment. The result: every day, more Automation Careers open up. In banks . . . hospitals . . . industry . . . government . . . colleges & universities. Wherever these new Business Automation machines are put in, skilled specialists are needed to operate them."

Mr. Carroll goes on to say that, "the most popular course of instruction at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE is the 4-Week Card Punch Course."

The CARD PUNCH OPERATOR is a Data Processing Specialist. This is the pathway to professional growth for ambitious women from 17 years up—in the field of Business Automation. Most of our students who graduate from our intensive training as IBM Card Punch Operators are high school seniors, recent graduates and young business women seeking a more secure and satisfying career.

Evert Carroll, LL.B.
Registrar
Automation Institute

CARD PUNCHING is the "heart of business Automation." Card punching (sometimes called key punching) is the basic method of converting written information into punched holes. The card punch machine is a keyboard instrument which punches holes into sturdy, specially-treated cards. The holes, and the patterns in which they are arranged, represent the facts vital to a business operation.

The use of the punched card is as unlimited as the number of business problems to be solved. For example: Punched cards serve the world of fashion by taking quick, accurate inventories. They speed the making of airline reservations—and serve as airplane tickets, too. They keep track of telephone calls. They register the amount of electricity used in a home—and many, many other uses as well!

When you enroll in Automation Institute's Card Punch Course you will be assigned an IBM Card Punch Machine for your exclusive use during classes.

Within a few weeks you will master the necessary techniques. Most important, you'll be taught the theories behind Card Punch practice, for your understanding of the "why's" as well as the "how's" which is essential to your professional growth and achievement for promotion.

You can qualify to train as a Card Punch Operator at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE . . .

*By successfully completing a personal interview in which your educational and work experience is evaluated.

*By passing an aptitude analysis.

Results of your analysis, which is given by appointment and is without obligation, will be discussed with you by your counselor immediately after completion.

No special mechanical or mathematical skills are needed. If you have the ability to think logically and accurately . . . and a desire to learn . . . you can be trained for success at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE.

Tuition is reasonable and deferred payment can be arranged. You may enroll in either morning, afternoon or evening courses. While the evening program takes a little longer, it enables you to hold a full or part-time job while attending our AUTOMATION INSTITUTE. Kids Log Mileage Off Roads

By PAUL WALLACE

When the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shook go to apply for driver's licenses, they will be able to claim an impressive total of 20 years of driving experience among them.

It will all be legal, too. State motor vehicle laws apply only to driving on public highways. And the Shook kids, whose parents are back country, four-wheel-drive enthusiasts, will have logged all their time off the roads.

* * * *

THE SHOOKS, who live at 5918 Faculty Ave., Lakewood and operate a jeep supply business at 6309 Paramount Blvd., Long Beach, taught their three youngsters to drive about a year ago.

At that time, Keith was 8, Clarence Jr. was 9 and Susan was 11. They learned to operate the family jeep and their father's doughnut-wheeled sand buggy, a vehicle designed for sports driving over the Southland's rolling dunes.

The big buggy, though, was quite a handful for the youngsters. So Shook built his offspring a compact-sized sand buggy of their own.

* * * *

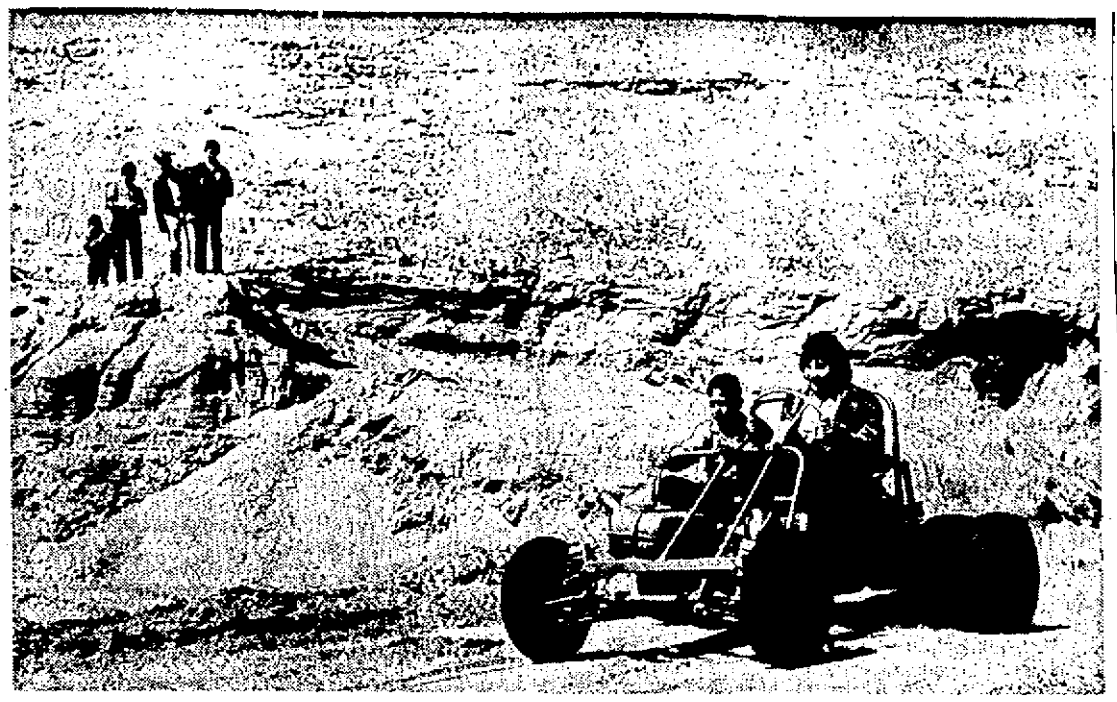

HE STARTED out with the engine, four-speed transmission and running gear of one of the smallest of the imported economy cars, the German motorcycle-engined NSU Prinz.

He mounted these components in a typical bodyless sand buggy frame and added dual wheels in the back. The result is a brisk and rugged little car that only weighs about 600 pounds.

* * * *

THE SHOOK kids haven't decided exactly whether the vehicle is a junior-sized automobile or a grown-up go kart. They don't care much, either.

But they do know that the buggy is huge fun to drive. And after the steep hill trails and sand bowls they hurl the car up and down, freeway driving should be a cinch.

France to Back Red China for Seat at Parley

GENEVA (AP) — France will support admission of Red China but not East Germany to the U.N. World Trade and Development Conference opening Monday, a French delegation spokesman said Saturday.

He said the French will make a sharp distinction between Red China and other Communist countries such as East Germany, North Korea and North Viet Nam.

The French view is that the Chinese representation is simply a matter of credentials; a decision whether Peking or Taipei should speak for China.

China — Nationalist China — has a seat in United Nations while the other countries do not, the spokesman pointed out.

Opinion here is that the French view on China will be rejected.

Postage Stamps Honor President Kennedy

NEW YORK, MARCH 22, (EN)—The tragic assassination of our late President John F. Kennedy has focused the attention of many philatelists to the Togo Kennedy Visit issue, and we already have had numerous inquiries for this set.

The stamps were issued last year when Togolese President Olympio visited Washington.

The set consists of 6 stamps with a common design . . . cameo portraits of Presidents Kennedy and Olympio. The Capitol Building is shown in fine detail in the background. Due to the limited remaining quantities of this issue, we can offer the available stocks of sets on a first come, first served basis.

Interested collectors may obtain the complete set of 6 stamps by sending $1.00 to ELMONT STAMP CO., Queens Village 29, N.Y. (We reserve the right to limit quantities.) Approvals and other offers included.

L.B. Officials Will Attend Ship Ritual

Two Long Beach officials will attend the launching of the destroyer escort named for the late Rep. Willis W. Bradley on Thursday in San Francisco.

Don P. Davis, civil service commissioner, and Toby Wick, administrative assistant to the city attorney, received invitations from the Bethlehem Steel Co. to witness the ceremony at which Mrs. Bradley will be the sponsor and Rep. Craig Hosmer will speak.

Davis was Bradley's campaign manager and Wick his field secretary during the former naval captain's term in Congress in 1947-48.

REASSURING BUT UNNECESSARY

Anesthesiologists at Hand as Gourmets Gulp Bubbles

By CHARLES SUTTON

When the members and guests of the Beverly Hills Wine & Food Society arrived at Las Vegas' Flamingo Hotel last week, it was only too obvious to some of us in the group that we had come to the right place.

The Flamingo's marquee read:

"Welcome, 38th Congress of International Anesthesia Research Society."

Not that we needed any help in getting gassed, but it was nice to know we were in the company of experts.

* * * *

I BRING all this up by way of introducing the Beverly Hills group, as hail-fellow a gang of gourmets as you could wish to sit down at a table with.

The society, led by its host for the day, Art Linkletter, made an eight-hour excursion to Las Vegas the other day for one of its periodic adventures in dining and drinking. And I must say it was an altogether uplifting experience.

MITZI GAYNOR
"Dish of the Year"

* * * *

THAT MISS MITZI Gaynor happened to be opening at the hotel that same night was more than just a coincidence, since the fellows in the society were honoring her as "America's Dish of the Year."

After seeing Miss Gaynor on stage and off, I confess I'm in complete accord with the gang. She's a most delectable dish indeed—and a first-rate performer, to boot.

The other dish of the evening, by the way, was Boeuf a la Wellington, with sauce perigourdine (the fellows always go first class). This was accompanied by fresh asparagus hollandaise, tomato au gratin and pommes Parisienne.

Our repast further consisted of a seafood cocktail (supreme en glace, at that); green turtle soup, amontillado; hearts of palm, and Belgian endives.

Except for two overheard critizisms, the meal was considered a brilliant culinary success. The two critics insisted the chef must have taken leave of his senses when he prepared the broth. Too much amontillado, they asserted.

I was in no position to argue.

While all 50 of us enjoyed both the meal and the show, some of us found the champagne cocktail party preceding the meal the real highlight of the trip.

The bubbling refreshment at the praty — a superb wine of 1955 vintage, cuvee Dom Perignon — was served by two young ladies who never seemed to tire of supplying us with fresh glasses. Between sips, we gulped down

* * * *

THE CHOICE of evening's wines' I might add, was largely the responsibility of former USC All-American footballer Marshall Duffield, now handsomely gray-haired, if memory serves me correctly.

Mr. Duffield lives in Newport Beach and owns a car dealership in Long Beach, which led me to wonder how he ever became a member of the Beverly Hills Wine & Food Society.

I stopped wondering, though, when I savored some of his wine selections.

* * * *

WITH TWO OF his colleagues, Duffield chose the following wines and spirits for the evening:

Pouilly Fuisse, 1961, a delightful white wine; Puligny Montrachet, 1961, a white burgundy; Chateau Lofite-Rothschild, 1959, a bordeaux of exquisite bouquet; Romane Saint-Vivant, 1959, which I am unable to describe because I took the Rothschild over it; Mumm's champagne, and, finally, Martell's Cordon Bleu cognac.

The only thing I missed was a 50-cent cigar.

Other than that, I'm happy to report, the whole thing was a gasser from start to finish.

I know, because it finished me good for the next day.

CIA Viewed Doubtfully, Solon Finds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Frances P. Bolton, the top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says the American people "do not trust" the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The Ohio lawmaker made the comment in previously-secret congressional testimony made public Saturday.

She strongly criticized the administration for allowing the CIA to issue a recent report contending there were great weaknesses in the Soviet economy and agriculture.

". . . I think it was unfortunate that the announcement was made by the CIA," she said. "This is because of the reactions I have had from home. People do not trust the CIA."

Mrs. Bolton, who was directing her remarks to Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, said:

"If the President had announced it, if you had announced it, if the secretary of state had announced it, it would have been an entirely different matter.

"It would have had an entirely different impact. I think it has had almost a bad impact. They do not believe it. I think that is terribly unfortunate."

Dickens Tells the Easter Story

received it, he said "It is finished!" and—crying, "Father! Into Thy hands, I commend my spirit!—He died.

The next day being the Sabbath, the Jews were anxious that the bodies should be taken down at once, and coming to Jesus and finding Him already dead, they only pierced His side with a spear.

From the wound, there came out blood and water.

There was a good man named Joseph of Arimathea, a Jewish-city, who believed in Christ and going to Pilate privately (for fear of the Jews) begged that he might have the body. Pilate consenting, he and one Nicodemus rolled it in linen and spices and buried it in a new tomb or sepulcher, which had been cut out of a rock in a garden near to the place of crucifixion, and where no one had ever yet been buried. They then rolled a great stone to the mouth of the sepulcher, and left Mary Magadlene and the other Mary, sitting there, watching it.

The chief priests and pharisees, remembering that Jesus Christ had said to His disciples that he would rise from the grave on the third day after his death, went to Pilate and prayed that the sepulcher might be well taken care of until the day. Pilate agreeing to this, a guard of soldiers was set over it constantly, and the stone was sealed up besides. And so it remained until the third day. When that morning began to dawn, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, and some other women came to the sepulcher with some spices which they had prepared. As they were saying to each other, "How shall we roll away the stone?" the earth trembled and shook, and an angel, descending from Heaven, rolled it back and then sat resting on it.

Mary Magdalene ran to Peter and John who were coming towards the place and said, "They have taken away the Lord, and we know not where they have laid him!" They immediately ran to the tomb. When Peter came up, he went in, and saw the linen cloths lying in one place, and a napkin, that had been bound about the head, in another. John also went in, then, and saw the same things. They then went home, to tell the rest.

But Mary Magdalene remained outside the sepulcher, weeping. After a little time, she stooped down and looked in, and saw two angels, clothed in white, sitting where the body of Christ had lain. These said to her, "Woman, why weepest thou?" She answered, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him."

* * * *

AS SHE GAVE this answer, she turned round, and saw Jesus standing behind her, but did not then know him. "Woman," said he, "Why weepest thou? What seekest Thou?" She, supposing Him to be the gardener, replied, "Sir! If thou hast borne my Lord hence, tell me where thou hast laid Him, and I will take Him away."

Jesus pronounced her name "Mary!" Then she knew Him and starting, exclaimed, "Master!" "Touch me not," said Christ, "for I am not yet ascended to my Father; but go to my disciples and say unti them I ascend unto my Father and your Father, and to my God and to your God!"

Accordingly, Mary Magdalene went and told the disciples that she had seen Christ, and what He had said to her; and with them she found the other women whom she had left at the sepulcher when she had gone to call those two disciples, Peter and John.

These women told her and the rest that they had seen at the tomb two men in shining garments, at sight of whom they had been afraid and had bent down, but who had told them that the Lord was risen; and also that as they came to tell this, they had seen Christ, on the way, and had held him by the feet and worshipped Him. But these accounts seemed to the apostles at the time as idle tales, and they did not believe them. The soldiers of the guard, who went to the chief priests to tell them what they had seen, were silenced with large sums of money, and were told by them to say that the disciples had stolen the body away while they were asleep.

BUT IT happened that on the same day, Simon and Cleopas—Simon one of the 12 apostles, and Cleopas one of the followers of Christ—were walking to a village called Emmaus, at some distance from Jerusalem, and were talking, by the way, upon the death and resurrection of Christ when they were joined by a stranger who explained the Scriptures to them and told them a great deal about God, so that they wondered at his knowledge.

As the night was fast coming on when they reached the village, they asked this stranger to stay with them, which he consented to do. When all three sat down to supper, he took some bread, and blessed it, and broke it, as Christ had done at the Last Supper. Looking on him in wonder, they found that his face was changed before them, and that it was Christ Himself; and as they looked on Him, He disappeared.

They instantly rose up and returned to Jerusalem, and finding the disciples sitting together, told them what they had seen. While they were speaking, Jesus suddenly stood in the midst of all the company and said, "Peace be unto ye!" Seeing that they were greatly frightened, He showed them His hands and feet, and invited them to touch him.

But Thomas, one of the 12 apostles, was not there at that time; and when the rest said to him afterwards, "We have seen the Lord," he answered: "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe!"

AT THAT moment, though the doors were all shut, Jesus again appeared, standing among them, and said, "Peace be unto you!" Then He said to Thomas, "Reach higher thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing." And Thomas answered and said to Him "My Lord and my God!" Then said Jesus, "Thomas because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed. Blessed are they that have not seen me, yet have believed."

After that time, Jesus Christ was seen by 500 of his followers at once, and He remained with others of them 40 days, teaching them, and instructing them to go forth into the world and preach His gospel and religion: not minding what wicked men might do to them. And conducting His disciples, at last, out of Jerusalem as far as Bethany. He blessed them, and ascended in a cloud to heaven, and took his place at the right hand of God. And while they gazed into the bright blue sky where He had vanished, two white-robed angels appeared among them, and told them that as they had seen Christ ascend to Heaven, so He would one day come no more, the apostles began to teach the people as he had commanded them. And through the power He had given them, they healed the sick, and gave sight to the blind, and speech to the dumb, and hearing to the deaf, as He had done. They took the name of Christians from our Savior, Christ.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Mother, Five Tots Burn to Death

UPLAND (UPI)—A 25-year-old mother and her five children burned to death in a fire that consumed their home early Saturday as the father watched helplessly, screaming, "My children, my children."

The father, Ruben Duran, 39, who leaped from a second story window bleeding from critical burns, failed in a desperate attempt to rescue his family and was restrained by police from dashing back into the 60-year-old wood frame structure that "went up like a matchbox."

Duran and a niece, Florence Solis, 14, who also escaped by jumping from the window, both suffered third-degree burns over 20 percent of their bodies. The dead, who were trapped on the second floor, are Sandra Duran, the mother, Ruben Jr., 8; Louisa, 6; Luis, 3; Douglas Bruce, 18 months, and Veronica, 5 months.

Washington Girl Is New Junior Miss

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Washington's 18-year-old Linda Felber was crowned America's 1964 Junior Miss Saturday night.

The radiant, green-eyed high school beauty from Colfax won over the judges with her talent presentation—a dramatic reading from George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

LINDA FELBER

STEPHANIE LEE

When her selection as the nation's ideal high school girl was announced, she flashed a brilliant smile and then burst into tears.

First runner-up was Ohio's Connie Lockwood, 18, of Jamestown, and second runner-up was 17-year-old Stephanie Lee of Los Alamitos, Calif.

Next was Hawaii's Evelyn Sugawa, 18-year-old beauty from Honolulu. Fourth runner-up was Rhode Island's Linda Cave, 17, of Warwick.

The new Junior Miss gets a $6,000 college scholarship, the first runner-up $4,000, second runner-up $2,000 and third and fourth $1,000 each.

Pierre's Nob Hill Headquarters Hums

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pierre Salinger began putting his delayed-action U.S. Senate campaign together Saturday from his hastily-rigged Nob Hill hotel room headquarters.

The recently-resigned White House press secretary filed entry papers Friday for California's Democratic Party primary June 2. He filed in his native San Francisco 1½ hours before the deadline and one day after resigning his White House post. A registered voter in Virginia, Salinger may be able to run but he won't be able to vote for himself. The legal question yet to be answered—Can anyone who isn't a voter in this state run for the Senate?

Barry Wants Dummy Missile Tests

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater wound up a whirlwind campaign tour of California Saturday by accusing Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara of wanting "to put his faith in a weapon (missiles) which has not been tested in combat conditions."

Before emplaning for Arizona shortly before 3 p.m., the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination charged McNamara with "dragging his feet on tests we could be making now . . . with dummy warheads." He told 800 persons at a Republican Party breakfast that Russia has the advantage over the United States because it has tested missiles and anti-missiles in "a nuclear environment"—using nuclear warheads while this country has not.

Rocky Wins Home-Front Budget Fight

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A possible obstacle to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's national political campaign was cleared Saturday night when the Republican-controlled state legislature passed his $2.9 billion compromise budget over bitter Democratic opposition. Legislative reluctance to pass Rockefeller's program forced him to curtail his presidential campaigning last week and return here for fear that defeats at home would blight his national stature.

Brandy, Wine Make Inroads on Whiskey

CHICAGO (UPI) — American drinkers seem to be passing up the good old fashioned shot of whisky for a more demure snifter of brandy or goblet of wine.

Commerce Clearing House said that 1963 whisky production dropped more than 30 million gallons from the previous year. Production of gin, vodka, brandy, rum, wine and beer increased sharply.

388 Asked to Give Impressions of JFK

project is a new concept in gathering and recording history. The extension of it to foreign leaders who dealt with the late President on matters of war and peace would make it truly remarkable.

* * * *

WHEN THE project was conceived some months ago, it was announced as a series of interviews with members of the Kennedy personal staff, his cabinet and his family. Since then, it steadily has been expanded. It is now planned to include interviews with 290 Americans and 98 foreigners. These will range from Kennedy's personal valet to Khrushchev, De Gaulle and others.

Will some of these officials be willing to trust the library with their innermost thoughts about the late President? The sponsors and Atty. Gen. Kennedy fervently hope so. Robert Kennedy is offering his personal assurance of obsolute security. The invitation informs interviewers that no access to the tape recordings will be granted to anyone except under conditions they choose to lay down.

"The purpose is not for this generation but for posterity," the invitation states.

The use of tape-recorded interviews was developed at Columbia University relatively recently. Historians there interested Robert Kennedy in the method shortly after plans for the Kennedy Memorial Library were announced and he enthusiastically endorsed it.

In its early stages, the project is being supervised by the attorney general, McGeorge Bundy, Arthur Schlesinger and Richard Neustadt, with organization, selection of interviewers and other details under direction of Frederick S. Dutton, an assistant secretary of state. Later this year, it will be turned over to Harvard historians and archivists.

The method lends itself particularly to compiling a record of the late President Kennedy, who used the telephone as an instrument of government and shied away from documentation. The rationale behind the project is that documents by themselves do not reflect reality in any period of history and particularly in modern times.

Great care is being exercised in setting up the interviews. The project's managers are aware that a candid and complete record cannot be obtained unless there is total trust and rapport between the questioner and respondent.

A number of the interviewers occupied positions of rank and responsibility in the Kennedy administration, and thus are candidates for interviews themselves. As an example, Schlesinger, a presidential assistant at the White House, is conducting the interviews with Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. The attorney general will be interviewed by John Bartlow Martin, well-known author and former ambassador to the Dominican Republic.

With the list of interviewees now standing at 388, and some interviews running into a score of hours, the number of tapes to be stored, transcribed and indexed poses a gargantuan task. It is estimated that the Kennedy project will equal the world's present total collection of tape-recorded history.

Libyans Won't Let King Quit

CAIRO, Sunday (AP)—The Libyan radio reported early today that King Idris of Libya, 73, abdicated and then withdrew his abdication when the Libyan people demonstrated against it.

The radio, monitored in Cairo, said thousands of people demonstrated before the king's summer palace at Tobruk urging the king to keep his throne.

It said the king emerged from the palace and in a short speech told the demonstrators he was staying.

The radio quoted the monarch of the North African desert kingdom, where the United States has a giant air base, as saying:

"I decided to abdicate because of old age and inability to serve you properly. But, since you want me, I am staying and it is your duty to correct me if I fail you."

7 Military Men Die in Auto Crash

NEEDLES (UPI) — Seven servicemen were killed in a one-car accident Saturday night 50 miles south of here on U.S. 95.

The accident occurred a few miles south of the desert whistle stop of Vidal Junction not far from the Arizona border.

A California Highway Patrol officer in Barstow, said four of the victims were taken by ambulance to Parker, Ariz., and three were brought here.

Other details were not immediately available.

Compton Man Struck, Killed

SOLONS HIT SECRECY

Assail Defense 'Fund-Hiding'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Complaints that defense and space officials may be secretly spending millions of dollars without knowledge of Congress and taxpayers has come from Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

They cited as evidence President Johnson's surprise announcement that a costly new military aircraft — the 2,000-mile-an-hour A11 — had been developed secretly.

"It was indeed a shock to me," Allott said of the presidential announcement, when asked about it by Scott in a report taped for use on Pennsylvania radio stations.

Allott is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which must pass upon details of the multibillion-dollar annual spending on both defense and space programs and projects.

Allott said that although he had followed all available details closely for more than four years, "not one word was said about" the speedy new aircraft until the President removed secrecy wraps.

* * * *

ALLOTT SAID development of the A11 "perhaps cost $50 or $100 million or maybe more" and this raises questions on how defense officials could "hide this much money" in their budget from Senators who are required to approve such spending.

The Colorado Senator said he since has learned "about four members" of the 27-Senator pursestring committee knew of the project, adding:

"But how can the rest of the committee be led to act upon a budget which hides so much money?"

Allott noted this development came during the same period that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Congress were sharply divided over development of a large future jet aircraft—the B70 or RS70—for the Air Force.

If Senate and House members had known about the A11 project, Scott said that results of the other dispute might have been different.

Scott said Congress was treated like "a little boy you feel something isn't good for him to have."

* * * *

AGREEING, ALLOTT said this raised questions as to how many other costly projects are being hidden.

"Take this business of spending billions of dollars every year to send somebody to the moon from Texas," Scott said, adding it was "quite possible we never will know how much is being spent."

He said his chance question last year revealed that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was spending $25 million on a scholarship and fellowship project.

"If you hadn't asked the question, the $25 million would still be secret, in other words?" Scott asked.

"That's correct," Allott replied. "It would have been entirely hidden."

Brady Heads City's Harbor Legal Branch

City Atty. Leonard Putnam has announced the appointment of Philip J. Brady, assistant city attorney and a veteran staff member, to head the harbor branch of the municipal law office.

The vacancy was created when former Asst. City Atty. John C. Spence Jr. resigned Feb. 6 to accept appointment as a municipal court judge.

Brady has been with the city attorney's office since 1948. Earlier he was the public defender and also served as a deputy city prosecutor. He received his law degree from Stanford University in 1939.

Noting that this week will mark the transition to a new oil development contract for the harbor tideland area, Putnam said he selected Brady because of the latter's "vast knowledge and background on gas and oil contracts."

Dep. City Atty. Leslie E. Still Jr., who has been assigned to the harbor branch since 1960, will continue in that capacity.

$112,000 Raised for Red Cross

A total of $112,000 has been collected toward the Long Beach Red Cross chapter's goal of $387,974 during the March fund campaign, it was reported at the group's second report breakfast.

Charles Long, chairman of the buildings division, was awarded a special prize—use of a limousine and driver for a day — for reporting the largest percentage of workers and collections the first week of the campaign.

Others honored for highest percentages were Dr. Michael Mayuga, Jack M. Billings, and Richard Wilson.

James A. Willingham, campaign chairman, announced the next report breakfast for April 3.

R. L. Grey, Red Cross field director at U.S. Navy Base, turned in $161 from the Marine barracks on the base, which he said represented a hundred percent Red Cross enrollment at the barracks.

Roland Bach, chapter manager, told the group this is his twentieth Red Cross campaign in Long Beach and that Red Cross services are needed more in 1964 than ever before.

CHARLES LONG is ushered into a limousine by Charles W. Greene, volunteer driver. The limousine is Long's for a day — his reward for his division showing in collections and workers on the job in the Red Cross fund drive.

Light May Beat Tooth Decay

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Powerful light beams from new devices called lasers may someday be able to glaze tooth enamel and make it resistant to decay, two dental research scientists said Saturday.

Dr. Ralph H. Stern and Dr. Reider F. Sognnaes of the University of California at Los Angeles told the International Association for Dental Research such light beams may also be used to repair existing cavities.

Lasers are devices for amplifying light and concentrating it in beams that are parallel instead of scattered as in ordinary light, with a resultant increase in energy delivered to a focal point.

The intense pinpoint heat of a laser beam, the doctors said, might be used both to drill out the cavity painlessly and then to fuse powdered porcelain into the hole. The result: a tooth-colored dental restoration.

Although laser pulses can be intensely hot, they last only a fraction of a second. Temperature changes in nerve tissue below the enamel, the researchers found, were significantly less than those caused by standard rotary drills.

Exemption Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Customs Commissioner Philip Nichols Jr. said that U. S. residents returning from the Virgin Islands stand to lose their special $200 exemption unless Congress renews it.

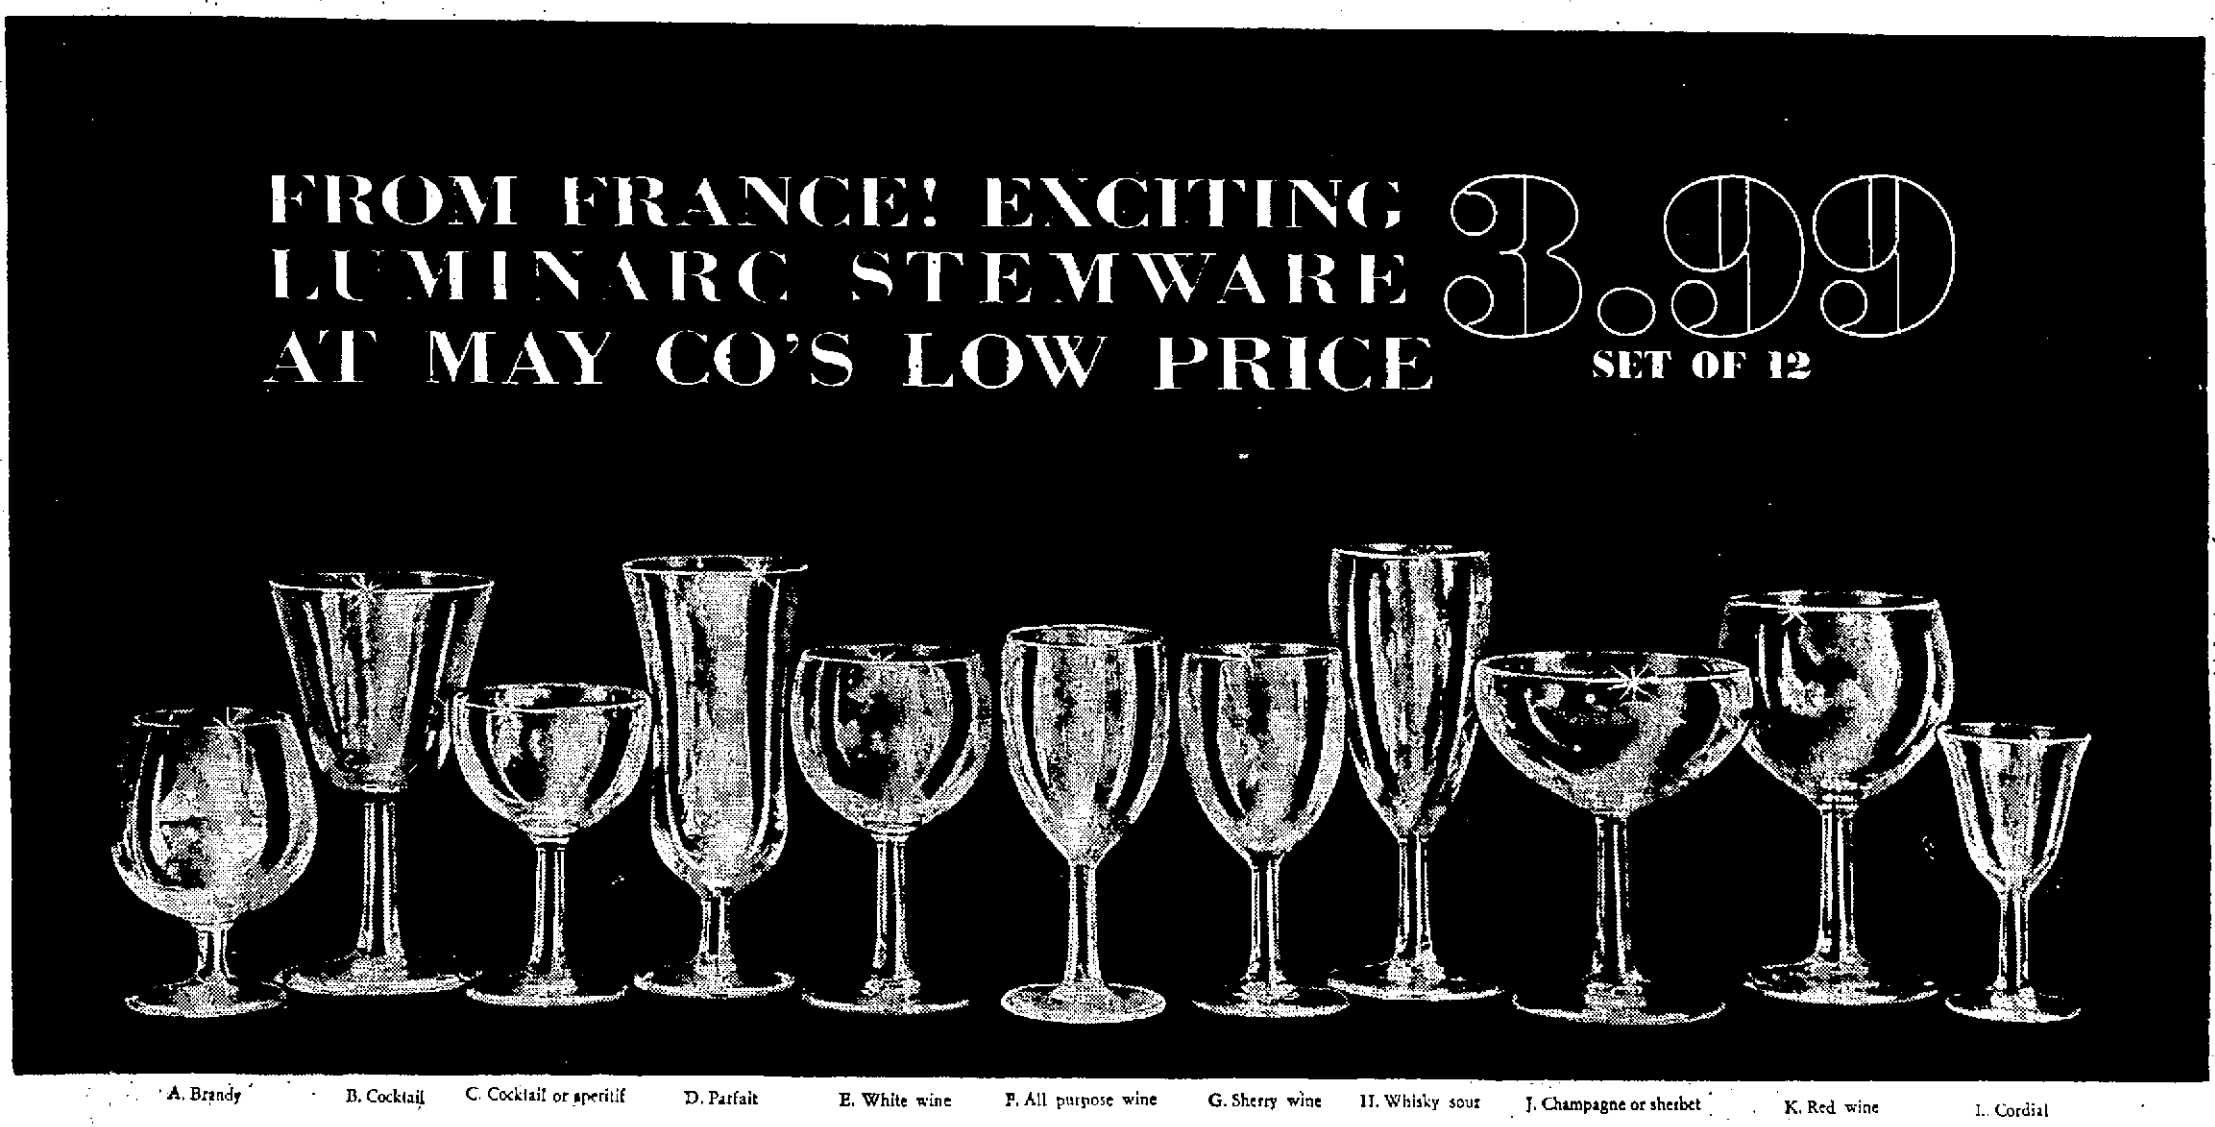

The $200 exemption is due to expire April 1. After then, residents returning from the Virgin Islands will be entitled only to the normal $100 exemption, Nichols said.

A bill to extend the $200 exemption to June 30, 1965, has been reported out of the House Ways & Means Committee but neither the House nor the Senate have acted on the measure.

Thrilling Concert Poorly Attended

By RACHEL MORTON

There should have been a capacity audience in the Little Theater of California State College at Long Beach Friday night, for two very fine artists gave an outstanding program.

The public may be excused for not attending as the college gave no publicity to the event, despite its being the only professional musical program put on during the year and despite the fact that it was a fund-raising project for the Vasquez Memorial Scholarship Fund.

But there are 15,000 students attending the college, a small fraction of whom easily could have filled the hall. Sometimes the idea of making Long Beach a cultural city becomes very discouraging.

The two artists were Eudice Shapiro, violinist, and Julien Musafia, pianist. They were heard in a choice sonata program for piano and violin in works by Schubert, Bach, Chopin and Franck. Two finer musicians would be hard to find. Each is an artist in his own right and each is a virtuoso performer.

But two great soloists do not always combine happily in ensemble playing. This was where these players excelled. They approached the music with musical affinity; they sought out the beauty of the music in a mutual interplay rather than trying to outdo one another. Both were acutely sensitive to the music and both were master musicians. Thus we had a concert of near perfection.

The music of the Sonata in A Major by Cesar Franck for violin and piano was so beautiful and the playing so amalgamated that one forgot technique. There was, of course, marvelous technique displayed throughout the program. Miss Shapiro's big tone, lucsious quality, facile fingering and unhurried sureness showed a master craftsmanship.

A tour de force was her magnificent playing of Sonata in B Minor for unaccompanied violin, by Bach. That performance alone placed her in the front rank of women violinists. The audience was quick to discern her wonderful talent and recalled her with bravos.

Under Julien Musafia's fingers, the piano speaks—sometimes intimately and tenderly, sometimes vehemently in massive tone—always with poetry.

The Sonata in B-Flat Minor by Chopin gave ample scope to display Musafia's pianistic virtuosity. In the beautiful meditative Grave Movement, he delved deeply with a keen sensitivity; the Scherzo was exciting under his fleet fingers. In the Funeral March, the slow lugubrious music grew in dramatic portent to a powerful climax and subsided in a plaintive little song, which Musafia kept delicately under his touch, but in a strict tempo.

The cortege moved steadily forward with increasing volume of tone, with crisp trills and a thrilling crescendo. His flying fingers in the Finale made music like the whirr of many birds in fast flight. It was a stirring performance attested to by the many recalls from the audience.

The program opened with a very fine performance of Schubert's Sonatina No. 3 for violin and piano with its familiar melody heard in the song, "Aus dem Wasser zu singen." Here the interplay between the two artists made for very fine ensemble playing. Miss Shapiro drew gorgeous viola-like quality from her priceless Guarnerius violin and Musafia matched it with the rich sonority of his own tone. The audience was enthusiastically aware of a priviliged evening of music with two superlative artists.

Hastings Unopposed in Demos' Primary

Willard E. Hastings, a Long Beach teacher, has announced his candidacy for the 39th District Democratic assemblyman nomination.

WILLARD HASTINGS
Backed by CDC

Hastings, unopposed in the primary, has received the endorsement of the California Democratic Council. He is serving his second term as CDC district director for the 32nd Congressional District, and also is a member of the Los Angeles County Democratic Central Committee.

The 30-year-old teacher is area representative for the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

He went through Long Beach schools, earning an associate of arts degree from Long Beach City College and a bachelor of arts degree from Long Beach State. He has done graduate work at Long Beach State and Washington University.

Hasting said he will work for school redistricting, development of recreational facilities and the Rees rapid-transit plan.

Hastings, his wife Nila and their two daughters live at 7014 El Cedral St.

After graduation and successful completion of the state board nursing examination, nurses are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army Nurse Corps and must serve a minimum of two years.

Henpecked Husband Club Lays an Egg

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — The "Henpecked Husbands Club" disbanded Saturday two weeks after it was formed. Chairman Lin Yen-lu said the charter specified that members must "absolutely and unconditionally" obey their wives. The club broke up when wives complained the husbands were making fools of themselves.

CAMPAIGNERS BUSY

Youths Sing, Somersault for El Dorado Park East

Young entertainers attracted crowds as campaigners for the development of El Dorado Park East talked up their project and distributed literature in the parking lot of the Big A Store, 5500 Cherry Ave., Saturday afternoon.

Led by Mrs. Helen Hicks, 3508 Knoxville Ave., the campaigners urged that the undeveloped area be preserved as a "green island" in a rapidly growing metropolitan district. El Dorado Park East, a 512-acre tract, was purchased by the City of Long Beach in 1955 for approximately $1,700,000 but has not been developed because further funds have not been allocated.

The entertainment Saturday featured vocal, instrumental and acrobatic acts by young people. Mrs. Hicks said similar programs in behalf of the park will be held frequently at various locations.

Talent-Hunt Competition to Continue

Youthful performers will vie Tuesday at Hughes Junior High School for further competition in the Exchange Club's 19th annual search for talent, Michael Cullen, president of the sponsoring North Long Beach Exchange Club, has announced.

Two winners from two age divisions will be selected Tuesday, and they will advance to the district competition scheduled in the Armed Services YMCA on April 16.

Four district winners will compete in the state finals in Palm Springs in June, Cullen said.

PURPOSE of the annual program is to encourage development of talents and abilities of youth of California. There are six categories of competition: individual vocal, group vocal, individual instrumental, group instrumental, individual dance and group dancing.

Contestants are divided into two divisions, those 13 and under, and the 14-to-19 group.

Cullen will serve as master of ceremonies at Tuesday's program which will get under way at 7 p.m.

OTTAWA (AP) — Rough ice has forced Norwegian adventurer Bjorn Staib and his comrades to return to their expedition base near Alert for sled repairs after launching an attempt to trek to the North Pole.

Officials here said a radio message had been received from Alert, most northerly Canadian settlement at the tip of Ellesmere Island, about 500 miles from the pole.

The 11-man group left Thursday for an effort to traverse the pole on skis.

$962.5 Million Asked to Fight Poverty

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

President Johnson handed Congress his far-ranging anti-poverty program last week. It carried a "total victory" label, a $962.5 million price tag, and is aimed at opening the doors of prosperity to the nation's have nots.

Some Republicans branded it a warm-over of current projects and pictured it as making a "czar" of Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver who will manage it. A House subcommittee opened immediate hearings.

* * * *

THE PRESIDENT conceded that poverty is too deeply rooted in city and rural areas to be wiped out overnight. But he said his blueprint, which already is covered in his budget, would provide new opportunity for millions, especially under-privileged youths.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz scoffed at GOP claims that he and other cabinet officials now directing some programs would be reduced to "servant and master" status under Shriver. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said the plan would help millions of young men who can't meet military service draft standards.

The President also greased the ways for the annual congressional fight over foreign aid. He asked for $3.4 billion for a "no waste, no retreat" program and pledged he would try to put more recipient nations on a self-supporting basis. The total includes $1 billion in military assistance.

It was the smallest request since foreign aid was born in 1948, but initial reaction in Congress was that it would be cut anyway. Johnson warned that meat axe cuts could do irrevocable harm to the war against communism. He added that aid had been ended to 17 nations and that 14 others were approaching that status.

A surprise changing of the guard took place at the White House. Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, 38, resigned to run for California's Democratic senatorial nomination June 2. He was succeeded by George E. Reedy, 46-year-old veteran assistant to Johnson.

* * * *

ALSO quitting to accompany Salinger to his native San Francisco was Associate Press Secretary Andrew Hatcher, first Negro ever named to the White House press staff and influential in California politics.

Salinger, a key member of the once strong Kennedy team, will face two formidable opponents, one of them Sen. Clair Engle who recently underwent brain surgery and is fighting for his political life.

The White House announced that U.S. aid to strategic South Viet Nam will be increased in an effort to win the war against Communist North Viet Nam guerrillas who are backed by Red China. The decision was made after the President and his National Security Council were briefed by McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who recently toured the area.

The White House admitted setbacks in the so-called gateway to Asia and is now staking its hopes on a new South Viet Nam pledge to use stepped up aid — possibly as much as $50 million — to clear the Red-infested Mekong Delta. There are 15,500 U.S. "military advisers" in Viet Nam, and 119 Americans have died in combat.

* * * *

AT THE Geneva disarmament conference the U.S. offered to destroy $1 billion worth of B47 bombers if Russia would scrap a comparable number of TU16s. Soviet negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin countered that "a bomber bonfire" would not represent real disarmament.

The President pledged to the Organization of American States (OAS) that the United States would use its full power to resist the intrusion of communism into this hemisphere. The occasion was the third anniversary of the Alliance for Progress, which has been slowed by lack of Latin American self-help programs.

At the same time the United States reaffirmed its opposition to Latin American dictatorships and military coups, but reserved the right to deal with each case as it arises. This is the same yardstick recently applied to Communist nations by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

* * * *

AMERICA'S newest ballistic missile, the 400-mile range Pershing, will be deployed with U.S. Army forces in West Germany next month. The Pershing is a "shoot and scoot" weapon with a mighty nuclear punch.

The President told a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Washington, D.C., that the party must campaign this year on a national unity platform offering "a better deal" for everyone. He will seek closer ties with labor this week in two major appearances in Atlantic City and Washington. Last week he helped the Irish in New York celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Reports persisted that Secretary of State Rusk is finding his job too arduous and intends to resign. He issued a denial and said he considered Johnson "a great man."

The United States warned Moscow that Soviet-American relations would be jeopardized unless the Russians immediately released three U.S. Air Force officers shot down in East Germany after they strayed off course. Russia has accused them of espionage.

The Federal Trade Commission opened hearings on whether the tobacco industry should be forced to label cigarettes as health hazards. The American Medical Association (AMA) was among those opposed. This drew a charge from Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., that the AMA had made a deal with tobacco state congressmen in return for their votes against the President's medical-care-for-the-aged program. The AMA said the accusation was "ridiculous."

The Army announced that heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay had failed to qualify for the draft when given physical and mental tests. It said it was satisfied that Clay "put forth his best efforts."

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

London Sees Ruby's Trial as a 'Mockery of the Law'

By United Press International

The Jack Ruby trial drew criticism last week from European newspapers speculating that he might know more than has been told so far.

The London Daily Mail said, "The big 'D' stands for Dallas, but not dignity."

"The British people have watched with fascinated interest the progress of this affair, from the assassination to the conviction of the killer's killer," it said.

"They have been shocked by the absence of decorum in the courthouse. The whole frenzied scene looked, from this distance, like a mockery of the law."

The London Daily Telegraph said, "as with most big American trials, its interest for outsiders was mainly in the spectacle of an unfamiliar, often bizarre, legal system in action."

The Austrian Neue Tagezettung said:

"The surprisingly quick agreement of the jurors — the more surprising since unanimity is a legal pre-requisite—is apt to cause distrust and discomfort all over the world . . .

"The last word has not yet been said. Ruby is still alive, but the fact that he is facing execution might prompt him to make statements which he had suppressed so far . . . if no such sensation occurs, however, and if the good friend of the Dallas police is electrocuted, (the late President) Kennedy's assassination will go down in history as an unsolved puzzle."

The Austrian Arbeiterzeitung said, "All we can do is hope that he will become another (executed convict Caryl) Chessman, a political Chessman, not only because capital punishment as such is problematical, but also because it is still conceivable that Ruby knows much more than had been discussed in the Dallas trial."

The East German Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland said, "The real loser in the trial was not Ruby. It is American justice. That was condemned to ridicule."

The West German newspaper Wiesbadener Tageblatt said President Johnson, in his television interview on his first 100 days in office, showed himself "to be precisely the thoughtful . . . man to Americans have given their confidence with a popularity rating of 75 percent. This confidence is again, as it was under Eisenhower, the essential element in the relations between president and people."

Around the world in Tokyo, the newspaper Sankei commented on French President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Mexico. It said Mexico's attitude towards Cuba resembles Japan's attitude towards Red China:

"Mexico is not subservient, even to the United States, and it is an admirably independent nation. Yet the country appears to feel something unsatisfied with its neighbor, the United States. The latter is a strong anti-Communist nation. Although the U.S. is seeking a line of peaceful coexistence with the Soviet Union, it is not such a country as to admit communism. The United States is violently hostile to Cuba, which it looks on as a bridgehead of communism. Mexico is not a Communist country. However, it refrains from regarding Cuba as an enemy as mercilessly as the United States. Such a mental attitude is in harmony with the Japanese. The Japanese cannot grin and regard the Chinese Communists as an enemy even though they are told to do so."

The Japan Times, commenting on Johnson's foreign aid program, said the worst kinds of foreign aid are military aid, and aid given with "no strings attached."

Trustee Loses Battle of Teaching Counselors

By KEN KNIGHT

As a member of the Huntington Beach Union High School District Board of Trustees, Joseph Ribal finds himself in the position of being unable to aggressively fight to establish a policy in which he believes.

A proposal by the 32-year-old Seal Beach resident that school principals and counselors should teach one 50-minute class a day has fallen flat for lack of support by each of the four other board members.

"I kinda feel like Gen. Lee at Appamattox," Ribal, a psychology instructor at El Camino College, explained. "My troops have all gone."

* * * *

THE PROBLEM faced by Ribal is that he feels by pushing too hard for the principal-counselor instruction program he will render himself ineffective as a board member by repeatedly incurring the wrath of other board members.

"There are too many other things that need to be done besides the establishing of school assignments for school administrators and counselors," Ribal said.

"But it is my feeling that principals, counselors and activity directors in the Huntington Beach Union High School District should teach one class a day.

* * * *

"THE TENDENCY in schools these days is to turn every one into a specialist and, as a result, everyone has less and less knowledge about what is going on. Educators, many years out of the classrooms, lose sight of the actual problems.

"Principals and administrators have to be aware of the problems in the classrooms to plan the school curriculum."

Ribal's proposal has received only hostility from school counselors and an even colder reception from his fellow board members.

They have asserted that the use of administration personnel would detract them from jobs of planning and that the district is currently facing a growth problem.

* * * *

THE USE of counselors would cheapen the counseling program and the district is concerned about drop-outs and guidance, the members further contend.

"In other school districts, counselors teach as part of their duties and a teacher can often be of help to students in counseling," claimed Ribal, who was a student counselor at Long Beach State College.

Eighteen counselors, three principals, three assistant principals and two activity directors would be affected in the Huntington Beach district, which has three high schools and 6,000 students.

* * * *

"RATHER THAN have so many counselors on full-time status, I would rather see each school have a qualified school psychologist and a teacher guidance program," Ribal stated.

The freshman board member believes one reason his proposal was turned down was that it required the trustees to recommend a policy.

"I didn't expect support from the school administration, as the usual proceedure is for the board to approve suggestions made by the district superintendent," Ribal said.

* * * *

WHEN RIBAL made his proposal, he was told by Board Chairman E. A. Hartsook to submit a detailed study of the plan to the trustees but that he (Hartsook) felt it would be a waste of time for the administration staff to have to compile such a survey.

Generally it is the school board that asks for the study and the staff that prepares it, Ribal contended.

A teacher for 10 years with a Ph.D. from the University of Southern California, Ribal is not discouraged but rather at a loss for a sense of direction.

JOSEPH RIBAL
"Not a Windmill"

"It's a good program and I believe in it but I'll wait before pushing it anymore.

"Something like this needs community support. I have received a lot of mail supporting the idea and maybe more support will come—but it's hard for me to play the part of a windmill."

Pay-as-You-Go Urged for Park

By GEORGE WEEKS

A proposal for pay-as-you-go financing of the development of El Dorado Park East is under study by the City Park Commission.

Annual budget appropriations for piecemeal improvements were recommended last week by the El Dorado Park Improvement Committee of the Community Welfare Council.

Mrs. Renee Simon, committee chairman, urged an initial appropriation in the 1964-65 budget of $250,000 for grading and installation of water lines — first steps toward woodland development.

Approximately that amount will be available, she said, from the sale of park land to the state for access roads to the San Gabriel River Freeway in the vicinity of Pioneer Boulevard.

City officials reported later that negotiations indicate an actual price of around $186,000.

Park commissioners delayed action on the pay-as-you-go plan until their April 1 meeting. Their authority is limited to recommending policy to the City Council.

The only alternatives to pay-as-you-go financing are substantial aid from other public agencies or a municipal bond issue.

Los Angeles County is expected to turn down such a request. The County Park and Recreation Commission has advised the Board of Supervisors against such a grant, according to Milton B. Arthur, commission chairman.

Arthur noted that funds available for developing the county's own park system are far short of needs.

As for a bond issue, the City Council so far has indicated no interest in submitting a ballot proposition for the park improvement.

* * * *

IN AN APPEARANCE before city park commissioners, Arthur recommended the establishment of a trust fund to consist of private donations to pay for trees in the park.

Pledges of thousands of trees have already been offered, he said. The trust fund would enable the city to control the planting operation.

Arthur also proposed a survey to determine the exact acreage remaining for development after the allotment of various parcels for the Naval Hospital, the tree farm, a gas holder and other purposes. Current estimates range from 422 to 509 acres.

One small change in the El Dorado Park East development plan has been approved by three city commissions—Park, Planning and Recreation. It will be referred to the City Council.

The commissions advocate moving the site of a proposed archery range from the original location north of Wardlow Road to one north of Spring Street.

Carl Bartlett, district supervisor in the Recreation Department, said the new site is more accessible to all utility installations and thus will cost less to develop.

Long Beach target archers have been without a public range since their facility in Heartwell Park was converted to other uses 18 months ago.

'Father O'Landreth' Hangs Up His Whistle

By ROBERT WILCOX

In 1928 referee Orian Landreth lost a close friend. His "goof" cost a high school football team the city championship. The losing coach never forgave him.

In 1935 he lost a traveling companion. His wife, watching him escorted by police out of a steaming Corvallis arena, decided she could no longer stand the strain.

In 1948 he earned a bitterly sarcastic nickname. The practicing Methodist gave Notre Dame a last-second football victory over USC. He still receives letters addressed to "Father O'Landreth."

In 1956, leg-weary and "dean of Pacific Coast officials" after 32 years, Landreth decided to quit. He went out in a blaze of typical glory.

* * * *

UCLA KICKED OFF to USC before a packed and bitter Coliseum crowd, Jon Arnett in a twisting, turning run went 90 yards for a touchdown amid the delirium of half of the spectators.

Unnoticed was Landreth's indignant red handkerchief on the 40-yard line. USC, he declared in an almost unheard of kickoff ruling, had been offside. "I tried to warn them twice," he claimed.

Landreth, always mild-mannered and almost oblivious to the clamor, calmly went home and waited for the pictures to confirm his decision. But first he disconnected his telephone for two months.

In all, Landreth officiated at more than 300 major high school, college and professional football games, including three Rose Bowls and a Cotton Bowl. One year he traveled 26,000 miles.

* * * *

WHILE PACIFIC COAST sports' "Mr. Neutral" moonlighted in a striped shirt on weekends, he was coaching Long Beach Poly to its greatest football heights.

Later, quietly but still with grave impartiality, he was meting out discipline and giving advice as head of student activities at the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

The associate dean is retiring this June at 60 after a quarter-century at City College and 37 years with the Long Beach Unified School District.

When Landreth landed at Poly in 1926, he was 22, the school was 15, and its familiar Greek columns wouldn't be earthquaked to dust for another seven years.

The young coach didn't figure to stay long. The one-time champion pig raiser already had deserted his Quaker minister father's Kansas wheat farm on the grounds that it meant "routine labor."

He'd wanted to be a doctor but shifted to education and sports. Since college he'd quit two other coaching jobs in as many years.

* * * *

BUT HE'D LEARNED his football well under Knute Rockne, Howard Jones and Bob Zuppke as a post-graduate at three universities. He'd started officiating in 1922 to find out more. And he had a long memory.

On his very first play as an end for Friends University in Wichita, he was ground into the turf on an 87-yard touchdown run.

"The coach had a substitute warming up but decided to give me another chance," recalls Landreth. "I remembered that in all my years of coaching."

Landreth went on to make all-state and also starred in tennis and basketball. Working his way through school, he graduated from Friends in 1923 and later studied at Northwestern, Illinois and USC.

ORIAN LANDRETH . . . Helped Shaped Modern Football

At Poly, Landreth was a radical in the Stone Age of football. He won his first Bee football championship on a carefully hoarded "flea flicker" play—triple reverse, lateral and forward pass. He liked to throw on first down "or whenever the other team wasn't expecting it."

* * * *

IN 1929 HE was advanced to the varsity where his teams, in nine years, won five league titles and four CIF championships. One year they enlarged the all-coast high school football team to 12 men to include an alternate Poly fullback. Poly already had the other 11 positions.

The Landreth-vintage Poly greats are legion—all-American Norm Franklin, Oregon State; Bob Fuhrer, Bob Berryman and Sax Elliott, USC; Bob Carlton, UC; Wayne Rapp and Cecil Story of the then-mighty Chicago; Louis Wilcox, San Francisco State.

Coach Landreth could snap at a referee with the best of them. Once one of his backs, also captain, confusedly called back his own 55-yard touchdown run by taking a 5-yard penalty.

"You victimized my boy!" Landreth shouted at the official. The Poly back was even angrier. He went 60 yards for a touchdown on the next play.

* * * *

LANDRETH QUIT POLY in 1938 for an abortive one-year season on leave as head football coach at Arizona University. He returned in 1939 to City College as a physical education instructor, was made dean of men the following year.

On returning from three years in the Navy in 1945, he was advanced to assistant dean of activities and promoted to associate dean in 1948.

As a member of the national rules committee, Landreth helped shape modern football. One of his more notable achievements was the 2-point conversion.

He has continued to use his influence toward a uniform set of football rules for the high school, college and professional sport. "There are 155 differences," he points out.

LANDRETH, who married his wife, Frances in 1925, saw his rigid impartiality meet its sternest test in his own family.

When he first moved to Long Beach City College, he attended a Poly-Wilson football game with the couple's only daughter, Nancy, a Poly student.

"Why don't you root for Poly?" a disgusted Nancy asked its most illustrious—but significantly silent—coach. "I'm neutral now," piously answered Landreth.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

AT a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored forum on the state lottery issue, several speakers lambasted the idea and none defended it. Yet local and statewide opinion polls showed strong majorities of the populace in favor.

Apparently a state lottery is one of those things which nobody wants but the people.

THIS small voice in the wilderness again suggests that there is a lot of loose and, it seems to me, erroneous use of the word "hate" in current controversial parlance.

Some people have seized upon the word as something devastating to hurl at just about anybody who disagrees with them. Calling the opposition a "hater" or a "hate group" is supposed to summarily dispose of any question of merit in its position.

Some attacks on "haters" are so venemous that they themselves sound like an exemplification of hatred.

SOME of the luster seems to have left the flamboyant San Francisco attorney named Melvin Belli.

The reason: He couldn't accept defeat gracefully.

It may be a hard thing to do, but every person who engages in any kind of a contest would do well to train himself for it. Including politicians who battle for votes.

The after-a-licking blow-off may be a genuinely human thing to do but it just doesn't set very well with other humans.

Of course, if you don't give a damn what others think, let 'er go. But most people do, later on if not at the moment. It's smart to recognize that and keep the brakes adjusted for that painful moment to temptation.

THE seeming ease with which fires get to and consume luxurious houses intrigues one of my readers. He can't understand why people with that much to spend on a house ($100,000 or more) couldn't lay out a little more for special fire protection, especially if the house is located in an area that makes it vulnerable.

Some time ago this observer visited a man who had a house on a canyon-side on Palomar Mountain. Asked if he wasn't afraid of fires in surrounding brushlands, the owner showed the visitor how he had run small water pipes up the sides and over the roof of his house.

In case of fire a simple twist of a value sent water streaming over the house and prevented fires from starting from those wind-blown embers.

The correspondent poses an interesting question. Possibly one answer is that the owners of those houses that have burned in recent fires just never thought it could happen to them.

ANOTHER chapter, and a happy one, has been added to the story of the news vendor across from our office and his dog which was accused of biting somebody. (I've never heard exactly who was bitten).

The dog spent several days in quarantine. It was kept at the home of June Jarvis, 5715 Walnut Ave., who happens to be a former humane officer. After passing several days of observation, the pooch has been returned to his owner and the street corner stand.

According to my reports, Mrs. Jarvis found the dog B.B. to have a sweet disposition. It didn't appear to be anti-social in any way and isn't regarded as likely to bite anybody.

The saga of B.B. turned out to be quite something. It's not often one little dog could stir up so much public interest. There's a significance in that which I think we must rate as encouraging and good.

PROFESSOR CITES MAIN REASONS FOR DIVORCE:

Immaturity, Poor Training

Chapman College professor, Dr. Bernard J. Oliver of Orange believes the country's high divorce rate is the result of the improper raising of children and the pairing of persons too immature for marriage.

"The nationwide average is that one out of every four marriages will fail. In 1962 46 per cent of the marriages in California failed and the number is much too high," the 45-year-old sociologist and clinical psychologist said.

"A large percentage of the population is too immature when marrying and are not ready for the problems and sacrifice that come with marriage," Dr. Oliver explained.

"Many people marry, hoping to solve their own personal problems of perhaps loneliness or wanting to be accepted and they are not able to cope with the resulting situation."

Marriage is a constant period of adjustment to different situations and it takes a minimum of five years to find out what marriage is all about, believes Dr. Oliver, who has been married 20 years.

A successful marriage is one where the partners have developed the ability to appreciate the other's problems and worry more about the other mate than themselves, according to the professor.

"Ours is a child centered culture. We do not give the children any responsibility until they grow older and then we load them up with duties and responsibilities while still keeping them tied to our apron strings.

"In Japan, for instance, children are given duties and responsibilities at an early age and then as they grow older, they are treated more as adults and regarded as such."

Two solutions are offered by Dr. Oliver, a licensed marriage counselor, for better marriages.

"Stricter discipline of children by parents, making them more aware of life's problems, and a requirement that a couple must be married at least three years before they can get a divorce."

Moonlighting

ARE THE NATION'S moonlighters impeding the war against poverty?

Moonlighters are people who hold two jobs—either because they have unusual energy and ambition or because they need the extra income.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 3.9 million Americans hold a second job. The moonlighting rate is almost as high as the nation's rate of unemployment.

Superficial reasoning suggests that if moonlighting were eliminated, unemployment would vanish.

The AFL-CIO doesn't go that far, but it considers moonlighting a serious factor in the national unemployment picture. "Moonlighting is bad," says the big labor organization, "and we try to discourage it."

The criticism of moonlighting has the same weakness as the recent federal proposal to create new jobs by forcing industry to pay double time for overtime. It assumes that the presently unemployed workers would be qualified to do the jobs now being done by others.

Actually, most of the nation's unemployed workers lack jobs because they are not trained for the work available—the work which falls to the moonlighters or which requires the expenditure of overtime.

The federal program of retraining unemployed workers to qualify for the job market remains the most realistic plan yet offered in the "war against poverty."

Economic improvement comes from creating new opportunities, not from robbing the ambitious of their right to earn extra income.

It's What's Up Front That Counts

Draft Nonsense

THE NONSENSE AND unfairness that occur in the nation's draft program are illustrated by the case of heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

The Army reports that Clay failed his aptitude tests and therefore is not qualified for induction.

Ridiculous.

We haven't the slightest idea how well Clay does his math problems or whether he knows how to fit the blocks together. But obviously he is mentally resourceful and physically capable.

Aptitude tests are designed to show what a man is most likely to succeed at. Clay's test showed something. If it didn't—if he scored a complete blank—then the Army should use its good sense and assume that a man capable of talking and fighting his way into the heavyweight championship and a million dollars might be qualified to serve in some capacity in the armed services. At the very least, he has muscles for digging a ditch.

Other youngsters are being called to do their part. Why not Cassius?

So much for objective reasoning of the matter. Speaking from a purely personal prejudice (involving not skin color but mouth size), it would be rather refreshing to think of Cassius standing there in ranks with his lips closed just listening to the Sergeant.

Behan's Excess

GIFTED PLAYWRIGHT Brendan Behan is dead at 41, victim of too much liquor.

Some people do it to themselves with food, some with tobacco. Behan's excess was drink.

It's foolish to suppose that he didn't know what excessive drinking of liquor would do, or that his life would have been saved if a government official had ordered a skull and crossbones painted on all whiskey bottles.

Human beings are well aware of their immoderations and of the consequences of those immoderations.

This is a problem that is not solved by putting a label on a package or dictating how an advertisement must be written.

It goes deeper, into the human personality and the power of will—sometimes so weak in the greatest intellects.

Barbadoes Assembly Debate Sounds Like U.S. Congress

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Drew Pearson today continues his report on the prospects of democracy or communism in the trouble-torn Caribbean.)

BRIDGETOWN, Barbadoes—Except for the color of the skin, democracy in some parts of the Caribbean is about the same as democracy in Wasington.

I sat in the House of the Assembly, or parliament, of the British Barbadoes. Its 24 members gathered around a circular table, microphones in front of them, all Negro except for the clerk. Facing them sat the Speaker in black robes and very large wig. The day was warm, most of the spectators were in shirt sleeves, but the speaker held to the British tradition of wig and gown.

PEARSON

Electric fans turned lazily overhead. The high-gabled assembly hall with mahogany beams and stained-glass windows featuring the monarchs of England resembled the House of Commons in London. But the debate was more like the House of Representatives in Washington.

An appropriation bill was under discussion, specifically the entertainment allowance for the Governor General of Barbadoes. Premier Errol Barrow proposed that it be increased from $7,200 to $9,600. The Congressman H. R. Gross (R-Ia.) of the Barbadoes, Frank Walcott, laid down the newspaper he had been reading more carefully than he followed the parliament debate, and rose to speak.

What he said sounded like the congressional debate over the annual personal fund of the President of the United States.

"It looks as if government house was a place for scotch, not rum," protested Assemblyman Walcott. "I do not believe in this nonsense."

He spoke at some length, sat down and resumed reading his newspaper. Premier Errol Barrow then moved passage of the increased entertainment allowance for the governor. It passed unanimously.

Afterward the premier told me: "Everyone used to gripe about the Governor's salary. Now they gripe gripe about his entertainment allowance."

Premier Barrow is a quiet-spoken Negro, educated in the Virgin Islands, who spent seven years in the Air Force and has given the Barbadoes one of the best governments in the West Indies. He believes that the way to hold off communism is by education, jobs, digging sewers, bringing water to villages and improving garbage disposal.

"When we took over," he said, "we found a great deal of unemployment. We had to start public works which would both put people to work and bring us permanent improvements. Have you seen our new hospital?" he asked.

I had not, but later drove by to find that it merited the Premier's pride.

"We are inclined to think more of constitutional law than economic development," Mr. Barrow explained. "Right now we are passing a series of constitutional amendments to change our relations with London."

"How long will it take?" I asked.

"We shall get them done this afternoon," was the confident reply.

In the United States constitutional reform would require years.

I also talked with Cameron Tudor, the Minister of Education, educated at Oxford and a man who has helped push literacy in Barbadoes' predominantly Negro population up to 97 per cent.

Barbadoes is one of the better-governed islands in the Caribbean stepping-stones and is not likely soon to go Communist. On the other extreme, like British Guiana, is St. Vincent, whose Premier "Chief Minister" is the rootin'-tootin' haranguer Ebenezer Joshua, a member of the same political party as pro-Communist Premier Cheddi Jagan of Guiana, namely the People's Progressive Party.

Premier Joshua is now under investigation by a rebel commission of his own government for putting his wife on the payroll as a cabinet minister without portfolio and for allegedly dipping into the treasury for $240,000 for a controversial road program. He declares that regardless of this investigation he intends to hold office until 1966.

* * * *

CHIEF DANGER in these little island governments is that they are long on nationalism, short on unity. For four years, from 1958 to 1962, they were members of the West Indian Federation, but it fell apart, according to Premier Barrow, because: "It was built from the top instead of from the bottom."

Dallas Needs No Vindication in Oswald Death, Ruby Trial

(Editor's Note: Bill Hunter, a member of the Independent, Press-Telegram news staff, is a native and long-time resident of Dallas. He returned to Dallas on assignment to cover the events immediately following the assassination of President Kennedy and later to cover the Ruby trial. We asked him to compare the city's true nature, as he sees it, with the widely-expressed opinions of outsiders in recent months. His report follows.)

ON MARCH 14, 1964, a jury of eight men and four women sentenced Jack Ruby to die in the electric chair for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald.

That jury did not vindicate Dallas—the Texas city in which the verdict was returned, Oswald was killed, and President Kennedy was assassinated.

Dallas does not need vindication.

Dallas did not slay President Kennedy—Lee Harvey Oswald assertedly did. Dallas did not kill Oswald—Jack Ruby assuredly did that. And Dallas did not sentence Ruby to die—12 persons did that.

Those 12 heard and saw the evidence and the testimony and, if they vindicated anything, they vindicated the system of justice of a nation.

Their system of justice is stern and often unforgiving. But as often it is tempered with mercy. This jury did not elect to show mercy to Jack Ruby.

* * * *

WHEN DALLAS—and Texas—were young and struggling from Reconstruction wreckage, one man's life was as important as another's. The fastest draw of a pistol could mean one man dead. But if the survivor had not taken unfair advantage, he was seldom brought to trial. Their differences had ended with the firing of the fatal shot.

Still heard around Texas courts is the saying, "If you get in a heated argument with someone and have to sneeze, for God's sake don't make a fast grab for your handkerchief in your hip pocket."

Texas justice stands behind a man's property, his family and, to a certain extent, his good name. The founders of Texas placed this justice in the hands of the juries. Justice in Dallas is justice as provided by the American system.

Fingers from around the world have been pointed at Dallas accusing the city of harboring "ultras" who wanted President Kennedy dead, a police department whose men wore 10-gallon hats to cover pin-size heads, and a shamed citizenry that wanted to clean the slate by executing Ruby.

What—or who—is Dallas?

Dallas is a man who has bought the most expensive silverware and puts it on the table when guests arrive. But he is not exactly certain of which fork to use and he really doesn't give a damn. He's comfortable as long as the peas stay on the tines.

Dallas is a city that leads the state in murders but has very few unsolved ones on its books. And a man can walk the Dallas streets without constant fear of death at every corner as there is in New York or Chicago.

Dallas is wealth, the finest cuisine, the best shows—yet the streets are virtually empty at midnight because tomorrow is a working day.

Dallas has risen, in 107 years, from a single log cabin on a ford of the Trinity River to the youngest, cleanest metropolis in the nation; and if that statement is not true, it is at least the most talked about. And it has prospered without an abundance of natural resources.

That feat alone should convince critics the city is not filled with men wearing 10-gallon hats over pea-sized brains.

* * * *

DIVERSIFICATION has been the key to Dallas's success—in climate, in wealth, in politics, in religion. Predominantly Dallas is the South and Southwest with an increasing strain of the North.

Dallas wants to do what is right and proper as long as the social restrictions don't interfere with a man's right to greet a friend publicly as "Joe, you————" without being ostracized.

"Independent" has always been a fitting term to describe someone from Dallas.

Dallas is filled with independents—from their point of view—or "Muleheads" from their opponents'.

But never has there been a Boss Tweed or Tammany Hall in Dallas to silence those independents. "The last time I looked we still lived in a nation of free speech and ideas," said a Dallas man trying to explain his beliefs to a group of visiting newsmen at the Jack Ruby trial.

These independents went Republican long before the Eisenhower tide engulfed the state. They elected Republican Congressman Bruce Alger in the early 1950s, and they voted for McKinley over Bryan in 1896. Their hard work and support also aided immensely the election of N.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.).

* * * *

ONE HUNDRED years ago, Dallas was a small spot on a very wide plain. It was marked by the river that twisted and branched into three forks and a long cabin that even then gave an imposing skyline.

The railroads came, the cattle came, the oil came, the banks came, the money came, the people came and Dallas grew and grew. It is still growing. The river is still there, but now it is being dredged into a canal that will make Dallas a seaport—and the nearest salt water is 200 miles away.

Dallas has the growing pains of New York, the financial problems of Boston and the assumed sophistication of San Francisco.

Unfortunately, 100 years has not given Dallas time to absorb all those pains. Dallas wears tuxedos and evening gowns but is more comfortable in blue jeans and sweaters.

Innocent People Hurt by Rumor

EDITOR:

I appreciated your editorial concerning rumors being circulated that Jack Ruby is an epileptic, that he possibly shot Oswald during a violent seizure. Epileptics suffered for many years under the mistaken belief by the general public that they are likely to become violent or at least extremely upset.

I had hoped that as a result of the National Epileptics League's protest, these stories would be dropped. However, Ruby's defense attorneys continued to pursue this line.

Innocent people should not undergo renewed and undeserved persecution. I do believe the Warren Commission should make public the facts about Ruby and not allow them to lie hidden under charges that he shot Oswald during a seizure for whatever excuse, whether in the name of national security of for political reasons.

Congressmen Act Like Little Boys

EDITOR:

GOP solons rap secret U.S. outlay. It has only been a few weeks since I heard Barry Goldwater say there had not been anything in the way of improvement on our jets for defense purposes since 1957. Had he known about the A-11, the Russians would have had it before we got it off the blueprint.

We have several congressmen who should be treated like little boys. For instance, those who think they should have a $10,000 raise, and out of the other side of their mouths cry about government spending. Truth is these guys don't care anything about government spending.

This is a call and advice to the New Testament church to come to the service with New Testament doctrine.

We must answer the challenge. It's Mohammedanism against Christ. We must win. If we lose this fight, all that we've accomplished since we've been emancipated with our Americanism and our democracy is vain.

Sees Our Policy Adding to Evil

EDITOR:

In regard to the recent editorial in the Press-Telegram concerning the proposed state lottery: It is hard to accept the fact that a man holds a position that either influences or attempts to influence public opinion who apparently fosters such a negative philosophy towards life that he would advocate more evil be added to already existing evil. What hope would there be in the world if this philosophy was universally adopted?

Future Cloudy on Oil, Education Issues

Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The capitol is swarming with so many would-be oil and education experts that the future is cloudy on both issues.

Some Sacramento quarters are betting that the waters have been so muddied on both issues that there may be no 1964 decision on new policies for either tidelands oil or education.

M'CAULEY

The Assembly - Senate Joint Tidelands Committee has recommended a compromise plan for solving the controversy between Long Beach and the state over control of the offshore tidelands and how the public profits are to be spent.

But though the 10-to-2 committee decision was endorsed by the top leadership in both houses of the legislature, the complex tidelands controversy still is several hurdles away from being voted into law.

The reasonably-fair compromise plan of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh is likely to have smooth sailing in the Assembly. But some Senate extremists, however, may try to revamp the Unruh bill into a drastic shoreline-grab measure.

Sen. Virgil O'Sullivan, D-Williams, and some powerful interests still are trying to head off any compromise in O'Sullivan's all-or-nothing-for-the-state policy.

Though O'Sullivan professes to be representing the public interest, he has adopted a position which only could force the tidelands controversy into litigation and block development of the $3.5 billion East Wilmington Field off the eastern shoreline of Long Beach.

One puzzler: the real motive of O'Sullivan. One possibility is that he hopes to prod the city and state into an impasse or a prolonged court battle. His present obstructionist policies are calculated to do that.

A prolonged state-city row over the tidelands—if it delayed further oil development—would work to the advantage of importers of cheap foreign oil. Hurt would be both state and city taxpayers.

Some Long Beach tidelands critics have decorated the bill hopper like a Christmas tree with give-away money bills aimed at the tidelands.

Regardless of the moral or legal position of Long Beach, these tidelands give-away bills serve to confuse the issue. They also may help lure some lawmakers and geographical areas into teaming up in support of fund-grab bills.

Thus far, separate tidelands bill have proposed parceling out oil revenues from the tidelands off Long Beach for education, state harbors, marinas throughout the state and school districts in areas in which state park lands are off the tax rolls.

Both Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick and C. George Deukmejian of Long Beach have been approached by a number of lawmakers who say they can support a tidelands settlement with the provision that their favored project be cut in for some of the revenue.

The tidelands - pork - barrel approach of Long Beach foes has been an effective device for rallying some support for a raid on the present shoreline trust fund.

Many lawmakers still are hoping that any additional state aid to education can be tied to reforms and school district mergers. Though educationists firmly are resisting mandatory mergers.

One bill would authorize counties to allocate horse-racing revenue to public school districts. Another would slash all non-education new programs in Sacramento, and earmark the savings for education.

Bills for higher cigarette and sales taxes also have been proposed — obviously drawn up to provide more funds for education.

Gov. Brown, California Teachers Assn. and other sources also have introduced their own proposals. The issue is so confused and the pressures are so conflicting that anything could happen at the 1964 session.

And sometimes when anything can happen the result in the legislative process is this: nothing happens.

Villains Are Winning; Could They Really Be Good Guys?

WASHINGTON—While tuning the TV dial about the other evening seeking seeking various interpretations of what had happened in the New Hampshire primary, the decision was made to watch a commentator with a beard. He not only had a beard, but a long, thick, dirty looking beard. He had long dirty looking hair and was naked from the waist up. A pretty formidable looking sight, too; a monsterous belly and arms, coupled with a mean expression.

SUMNER

You can see Huntley or Brinkley any old night.

"That bum's got a yellow streak a yard wide," he roared into the microphone. "I'l break him in half."

Or Cronkite. You can see Cronkite almost any evening, earphones on, speaking of the significance of things.

"Why don't you tell the people how good I am," he yelled at a fellow who was holding the microphone, grabbing it from him. We were saved from witnessing violence only by an advertisement for used cars.

Well, that was a wrestler, and things being what they were in New Hampshire a research project was begun into the present state of the art. It has changed, it can be stated here with some authority. It is more violent, and the good guys always lose.

It used to be that the villain spent the first 10 minutes beating up the hero pretty badly, the hero staggering under tremendous blows and dirty tricks the referee never could see. Then the hero would return blow for blow and it was time for the bad guy to stagger and—this is something the good guy never had done—plead. It would then become nip and tuck for a few minutes, the conclusion of which found the hero with his arm stretched high in victory.

* * * *

NOW, THE bad guy is just as bad as he can be. Worse. He is a gloating, mean, shouting sort of fellow. The villain outfit these days is long hair, sometimes a beard, jaws you can see grinding and a pot belly. He is likely to wear blue jeans into the ring, or long tights.

The good guy looks like he always did. More clean cut, a straightforward, noble look in his eye. He will as a rule, however, look somewhat more stupid than the villain, and that is why he always loses.

Some explanations have been offered for the new fortune of the villains. There is the new realism which holds that the pure of heart don't necessarily win, that a good bad guy can beat a good good guy any time.

I like to think, however, that the villains, once having been good guys in the ring (before they gained so much weight) remain good guys at heart, and that they know the truth about the new crop of good guys, that they are really bad. Appearance is not everything, you know. A god-like look can disguise a black heart. A greasy, hairy bum can be a saint. The wrestling promoters are, in their wisdom, seeking to drive that message home and are to be honored for it.

Poor Out of Sight as We Whizzed By

WASHINGTON—There are several things about the war on poverty which nag at the mind as the big offensive is prepared.

One is a sense that the public has not yet been fully informed as to the magnitude of the problem. Another is why it persisted so long unnoticed.

Mr. Johnson's message dealt, perhaps because the length and form demanded it, in what might be called round fractions and generalities. "One-fifth of our people" have not shared in the general abundance.

Ample detail was provided in a special section of the Jan. 20 report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The upper limit of poverty, for government purposes, is a family of four with money income of less than $3,000 a year. There are 9.3 million such families. They have more than 30 million people in them. There are another five million people living by themselves on less than $2,000.

The CEA summarized some of the details. Even the summaries were hard to cram into a news story. Here is an attempt at a summary of the summary:

Six or seven million of the poor are non-white. Nearly half of all non-whites live in poverty. The heads of over five-and-a-half million poor families have only grade school education. One-third of all poor families are headed by someone over 65. More than half the poor live in cities. One-sixth live on farms. One-third live in the country, but not as farmers.

Over 40 per cent of all farm families are poor. More than 80 per cent of non-white farmers are poor. Less than half of the poor are in the South. But in the South, the chance of being poor is about twice as good as elsewhere.

One quarter of poor families are headed by a woman. Nearly half of all families headed by a woman are poor. Some families have several jinxes. A family headed by a young non-white woman who never reached the eighth grade is poor 94 out of 100 times. If she is white, the chances are still 85 out of 100.

There are several reasons always given why we didn't notice what was going on. What they boil down to is that the poor are out of sight, in slums, in mountain pockets, on remote dead farms, making little if any noise, and we went whizzing by them.

The Neighbors

Politicians Shun Real 'War on Poverty'

WASHINGTON — Nobody here has started the real "war on poverty." The politicians are afraid to do it. So, instead, there is a big fanfare about how the federal government, by spending money for better schools and for training students or by eliminating "discrimination" in employment and by other welfare measures, can eventually increase the incomes of the unfortunate individuals who are earning less than $3,000 a year.

LAWRENCE

But, as is always the case with those theorists in our midst who never see the economic forest for the realistic trees, the biggest way to cure much of today's "poverty" is overlooked. The remedy is to be found in opening the doors of job opportunity in business.

* * * *

THE MOST important thing needed to encourage economic growth today is the removal of the barriers against business expansion. This ranges all the way from the need for a reduction of tariff and quota walls imposed overseas to a recognition of the trials and travails of the American free-enterprise system at home which is no longer free.

For the simple truth is that wage scales imposed arbitrarily and across the boards by national labor unions—irrespective of the competitive position of the different businesses within a given industry—have done more than any other single factor on the American scene in recent years to create unemployment, stimulate automation, and throw conscientious people, even those with adequate education, out of work.

It will do little good in the long run to multiply the number of government agencies, increase the handouts, and foster the "welfare state" concept. American businessmen are spending a lot of money to make products they can sell both here and abroad. The desire to expand is deep-sated, but the incentives are diminishing as the government itself—a partisan of labor monopoly and still dependent on demagoguery to get votes—uses such catch phrases as "the war on poverty" to gain favor.

It would be as logical to declare war on laziness, incompetence and inefficiency—as if anything government could do would overcome these handicaps—in an atmosphere in which the government is supposed nowadays to owe every man a living or put him on relief.

Nor is a preachment of the doctrine of self-reliance likely to solve all the problems of unemployment. There must be a drive to increase the number of jobs. For the real problem today is what is best described as "job creation."

Almost unnoticed by the general public, the government just two years ago, with the approval of Congress, put into effect certain credits on taxes for depreciation and thus encouraged investment in new plant and equipment. The amount sacrificed by the government in taxes was relatively little, but the present business upturn is in no small part due to the opportunities opened up by this phase of the tax law which was passed in 1962 and improved in 1964.

* * * *

PERHAPS the biggest factor in unemployment is the geographical dilemma. A big company, for example, employing many thousands of people suddenly fails to get a renewal of a government contract because a particular item is no longer needed. The workers have bought their own houses, and their roots are imbedded in their home communities. To get new employment, they must, of course, move away, and it's expensive to gamble on the place to which to take a family.

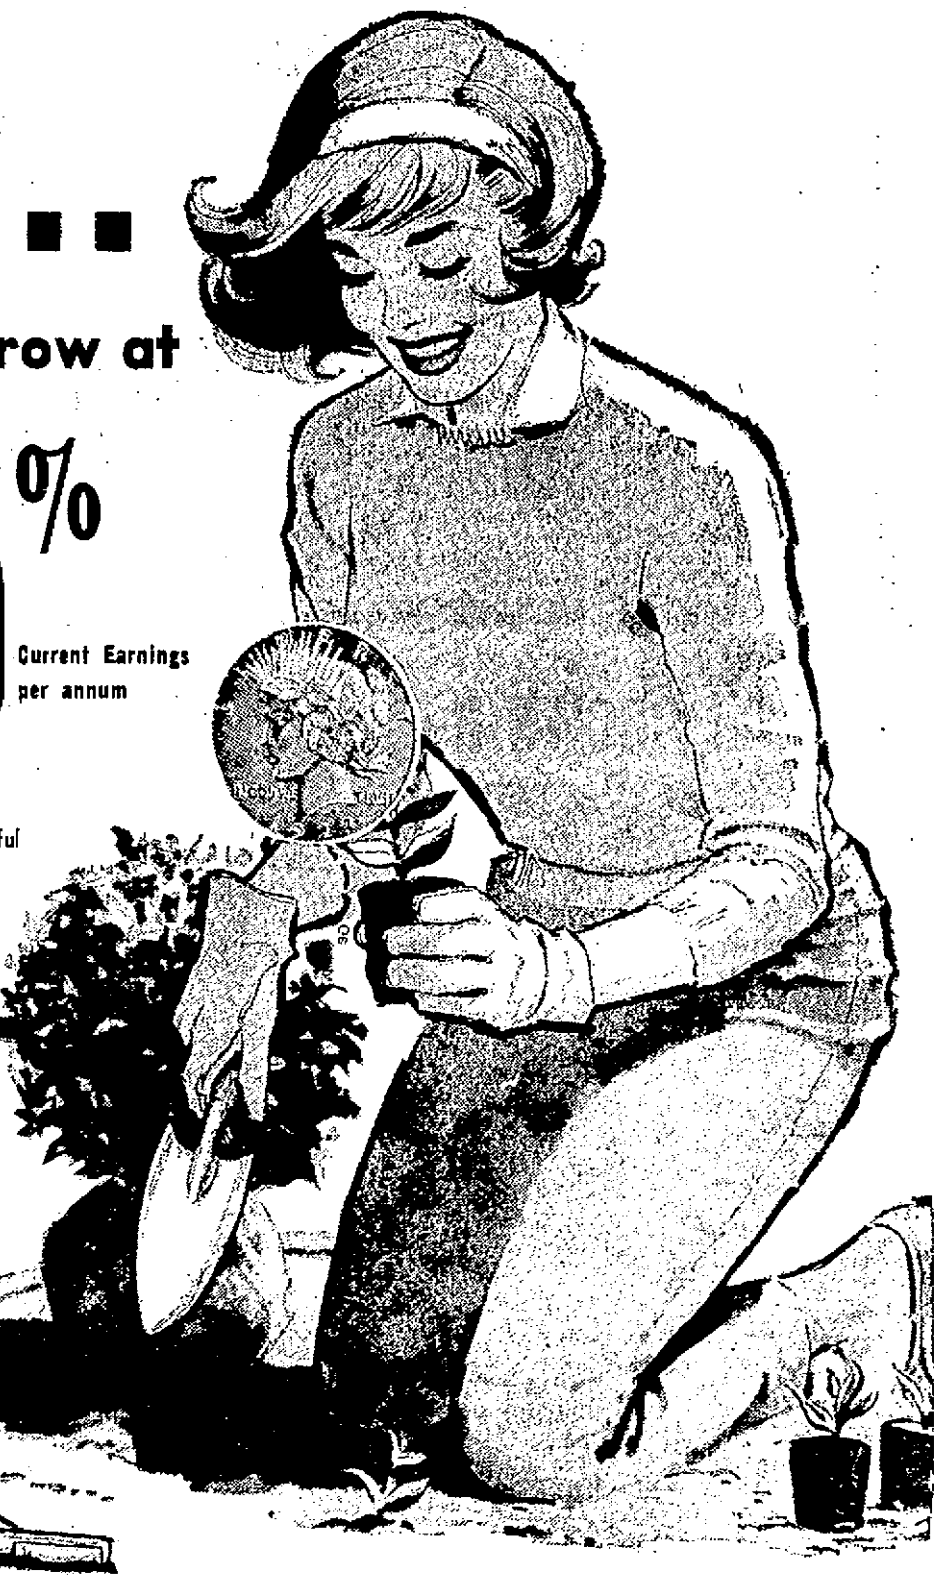

The President's program submitted to Congress provides for some relief in this direction for the coal miners of the Appalachian region whose work opportunities have been diminished through no fault of their own or of their employers.

Undoubtedly, there are many Negroes in the South who would like to go north. Certainly many of them could get jobs as domestics which pay from $2,000 to $3,000 a year. When two in a family work, this would be doubled. These jobs go begging today. Many families well able to pay for domestic help have been compelled to give up their houses and live in apartments because they can't get such help.

Somewhere in the country there are plenty of men and women who would jump at the chance of getting jobs in the cities, and they have adequate education — but they are far away geographically. A war to overcome geographical barriers would help in "the war on poverty."

SAD BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD

Mothers' Teacher Retiring

By MARGARET McKEAN

It's been a custom during the past 20 years for parents to seek out Beatrice Woodbridge to help them raise their children.

When the current school semester ends, so will Mrs. Woodbridge's help. She reached the age of 65 on March 19, and hundreds of her adult students gathered for a most unhappy birthday party.

Her enforced retirement will bring to an end an era of parent-education which has touched the lives of almost 5,000 children, all between the ages of 2 and 5.

Her title with the Los Angeles City School District is "Institutional Supervisor in Adult-Education, Banning High School Program." But her role in the lives of parents and children has been mother confessor, teacher and confidante. She imparts guidance and counseling daily from the Marine Avenue Center, Wilmington, and evenings by telephone from her home in Rolling Hills.

The regard in which she's held prompted the party in Wilmington, attended by mothers from Palos Verdes, Eagle Rock, Huntington Park, South Gate, Los Angeles, La Mirada, in addition to all the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor cities.

BEATRICE WOODBRIDGE
Forced to Quit

She then explained what originally prompted her career in child guidance and parent education. A math major from the University of Washington, she married Frederick Woodbridge, who, for 26 years, was chairman of the accounting department of USC's school of business administration.

When they became parents in 1940, "My inefficiency frightened me and I scurried back to school and got my master's degree from USC in child development. It was wicked to waste what I'd learned so I went to work for the city school district. It's been a gratifying career and my retirement is not welcome, it's enforced," she remarked ruefully.

Just as unhappy over the mandatory retire-at-65 ruling are the mothers whom she's taught to "understand yourself first, then understand your child."

She's dispensed full rations of her education and experience at the Marine Avenue Center where mothers bring their children at 9:45 each day. From then until 2:15 p.m. the children play, lunch and nap while the mothers observe, learn and listen to what Beatrice Woodbridge tells them.

"We discuss facing our own emotions, nutrition, problems in child-rearing such as fibbing or hostilities. Parents make much of toilet-training. I remind them that when he needs them, all children will develop the socialamenities. Parents worry about thumb-sucking, and I say let the child have his thumb."

There's a waiting list of mothers who want and need her kind of advice. They are unconvinced that because she's 65, she no longer has the answers.

Weed-Cutters Busy

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

County crews this week start clearing weeds from vacant lots in unincorporated territory and 27 contract cities, at the property owners' expense, to prevent fires.

Nearly 50,000 lots were posted in February with notices directing their owners to destroy weeds and brush and clear away rubbish to eliminate fire hazards.

In the local area, the order applied to lots in Lakewood, Artesia, Bellflower, Dairy Valley, La Mirada, Norwalk, Paramount, Palos Verdes Estates, Rolling Hills and Rolling Hills Estates and Pico Rivera.

Although the City of Palos Verdes Estates has its own fire department, it contracts with the county for weed abatement.

Only a half dozen property owners appeared Thursday before county supervisors at a protest hearing on the annual week-abatement order.

If a property owner does not choose to clear the weeds on his lot, the county does the work under contract and bills the owner. Average cost for clearing a 50x150-foot lot which has no trees is from $12 to $15, a County Fire Department spokesman said.

Any property owner who wishes to clear his own lot, should send a postcard to the County Fire Department, P.O. Box 3009, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, 54, promising to take such action before June 1. He should include the legal description of the property.

County crews clear about 20,000 parcels each year. Many of the others are cleared by their owners and some are improved by construction of homes or business, a department spokesman explained.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Suzanne Pleshette is a Cary Grant fan. She recently met her idol for the first time and Cary told her he would like to work with her—"if only I were ten years younger."

Replied Suzanne: "When I go home tonight and start thinking about how close I came to working with you, I'll age ten years."

CITIES HUDDLE WITH NAVY

Links Buffer Sought at Jet Base

A new golf course in the Los Alamitos-Cypress area will have a jet runway as its "19th hole" if current negotiations between the Navy and Orange County cities work out.

The cities of Cypress, Los Alamitos and Garden Grove propose a golf course bordering the main landing strip of the Los Alamitos Air Station. The course would serve as a buffer zone between burgeoning housing developments in the area and the airfield's noise-and-crash hazard.

Officials from the communities suggest that a golf course would (1) bring revenue to the sponsoring community, (2) create beauty in the area, and (3) comply with the Navy's request for a "green belt" for safety around the eastern border of the air station.

The Navy seeks a recreational barrier around its perimeter to prevent close housing development, which it contends would result in agitation to close the station because of the thunder of jet engines and the danger of crashes.

Cypress officials have expressed interest in developing a golf course on the southeasterly border of the air station.

Because of funding problems, Cypress representatives have discussed the possibility of a federal grant toward establishment of the 18-hole golf course.

Federal officials late Saturday told The Independent, Press-Telegram that government loans for such developments are allowed for up to 20 percent of the price of acreage in what they termed "open land."

The whole problem stems from plans by developers to build multifamily dwellings near the main jet runway.

Capt. William Tanner Jr., air station commander, has offered to give the county or neighboring communities land near the runways to establish a recreational buffer zone. Under another official proposal, the Navy would acquire privately-owned land near the runways in exchange for air station land some distance from the runways and therefore more suitable for residential development. Then the air station would lease the newly-acquired land near the runways to the adjoining municipality for development as a park or golf course.

Another meeting between the Navy and officials of the cities is expected in the near future to hammer out final details, according to James Smith, Los Alamitos city administrator.

Ex-Teacher to Appeal Denial of Credentials

A former Long Beach and Garden Grove teacher has won the right to appeal the state's denial of teaching credentials because of past membership in the Communist party.

Sam Wellbaum, 40, had filed suit to compel the State Board of Education to issue new credentials to him. At issue was whether the suit was filed within the time provided by law, and Superior Court Judge Macklin Fleming ruled Friday in Los Angeles that it was.

Wellbaum admitted in his petition that from 1946 to 1953 he was a member of the Communist Party, but denied he committed perjury in 1956 when he signed a loyalty oath.

In 1952, the Long Beach Board of Education refused to rehire Wellbaum, then a probationary speech teacher at Jordan High School. A controversy developed when the board refused to give a reason for its action.

His dismissal from the faculty of Garden Grove's Rancho Alamitos High School in 1961 because of the former Communist affiliation sparked another controversy.

Center Plan OK'd

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Brown said Saturday the state had approved a preliminary proposal to build an $897,000 center for the mentally retarded in San Francisco.

STAN . . . still quite a man.

SETS HIGH EXAMPLE

Musial's Goal: Fit U.S. Adults

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Good healthy sweat rolled down the face of the new director of the nation's physical fitness program. Stan Musial was practicing what he preaches.

After 30 minutes of this exercise, Musial and the St. Louis Cardinals trouped to the clubhouse at Al Lang Field to change their shirts.

In a few minutes Stan came out, cradling a bat in one arm. Hatless, he sat on a bench in the warm sun, watching batting practice and talking about his recent appointment by President Johnson.

He has been on the job a little more than a month and still is feeling his way. However, he does not regard this new post as a purely honorary position.

"The health and well being of our country is so important," Musial said. "It can't be over-estimated. If a person is physically fit, he or she is mentally alert.

"We have a full time staff of 14 in Washington. I expect to go there every month and stay as long as I am needed. However, I do expect to make the first road trip with the Cardinals helping Manager Johnny Keane wherever I can.

"But my retirement as a player is final."

Does Musial have any new projects in mind?

"Yes," he said. "We have been basically concentrating on the youngsters. I would like to get into other areas involving adults and a wide recreation program outside of school activities.

"Calisthenics are fine but they are not the entire basis of physical fitness. Exercise is only one phase. Games and other means of recreation are important, too."

UCLA in 98-83 Win Over Duke

DON'T WORRY, COACH, WE'LL WIN IT !
UCLA basketball coach John Wooden (center) seems a bit more frantic than his star, Walt Hazzard (right) during tense moments of Saturday night's 98-83 win over Duke for NCAA championship.

Coaches Laud Bruin Stars as 'Fantastic'

'Quickness Key Factor'--Wooden

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Both winning coach John Wooden and loser Vic Bubas were in harmony signing the "fantastic" and "tremendous" praises of guard Gail Goodrich and substitute Kenny Washington in the wake of UCLA's 98-83 NCAA championship victory over Duke Saturday night.

Wooden, who celebrated his daughter Nan's 30th birthday with UCLA's 30th victory without defeat in the championship game, said this year's Bruin team was "the quickest but not the fastest" he had ever coached, and pointed out that quickness was the key factor in UCLA's success.

Bubas said his Duke team lost its poise when UCLA's zone press "upset our tempo and forced us into mistakes" in the first half after the Atlantic Coast Conference champion had forged a slight lead.

* * * *

THE DUKE coach described Goodrich's first-half play as "fantastic" and Washington's come-through from off the bench as "tremendous."

"In fact, their (UCLA's) passing and shooting was fantastic," Bubas said. "I want to congratulate a tremendous team.

"I knew they had speed and I knew they had a good zone press, but until you see it on the court, you just can't realize how great it is."

Wooden said Washington's performance made him a poor prophet.

"At the end of his freshman year last year, I questioned whether he would be any help to us. But his play when we had to have it was tremendous," Wooden said of his star sophomore who scored 26 points, led the team in rebounding with 12 and generally sparked the Bruins' second half play.

Goodrich, a junior guard, scored 27 points, most of them in the first half.

Wooden said he felt UCLA had to play Duke "with pressure from end to end" of the court.

* * * *

UCLA'S all-America Walt Hazzard, who fouled out with 6:14 left for the first time in his career, also came in for some of Wooden's praise.

"Hazzard has gotten the publicity and he deserved it," the UCLA coach said.

"But the type of press we put on can't have a weak link anywhere," he added, in reference to UCLA's over-all team play.

Wooden laughed when asked if he thought he would find himself in this same situation next year.

"I doubt it, but we will have a good team. We've got three starters (Goodrich, Keith Erickson and Washington) returning."

115-104 LOSS

Hawks' Surge Trips Lakers in NBA Playoff

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks came on with a strong finish in the closing minutes Saturday night to defat the Lakers, 115-104, in the opener of the National Basketball Association Western Division playoffs.

The Hawks went into the fourth period trailing by one point and when Dick Barnett added a basket, Los Angeles led 89-86.

The Lakers were leading 93-92 when Don Nelson fouled out and St. Louis immediately took over the lead to stay on a basket by Chico Vaughn.

* * * *

JERRY WEST, who scored 35 points for Los Angeles, hit a free throw which put the Lakers one point behind, 97-96.

St. Louis added three successive baskets to take a seven-point lead, 103-96, until West connected for three points and Elgin Baylor added a basket to cut the Hawks lead, 103-101.

Richie Guerin's free throw made it 104-101 but West scored for the Lakers who got possession of the ball until Wilkens stole it under the Los Angeles basket, tossed to Cliff Hagan who put St. Louis ahead 106-103.

From there on, West was able to score only a free throw while the Hawks sank a total of nine points for the victory.

The Hawks took a nine-point 32-23 first-period lead and Baylor's basket at the buzzer put Los Angeles ahead, 58-57, at halftime.

Baylor with 30 and Barnett with 15 points were the other Los Angeles players in double figures.

Hagan was high for St. Louis at 27 and four others hit in double figures—Zelmo Beaty with 23, Bob Pettit 21, Wilkens 19, and Guerin 14.

The second game of the best three-out-of-five playoffs also will be played here tonight. The third game switches to Los Angeles Wednesday and the fourth, if necessary, at Los Angeles Saturday.

Perfect Year for Bruins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — UCLA's blistering fast Bruins, directed by all-America Walt Hazzard, ripped into Duke with a devastating attack that beat the Blue Devils, 98-83, Saturday night and brought the Bruins the NCAA basketball championship.

The overwhelming victory before 10,864 howling fans in Municipal Auditorium and a national television audience capped a perfect season for the unbeaten Bruins, who gained their first national championship with their 30th straight victory.

UCLA's total of 98 points was a record in NCAA title play, compared with the 92 by LaSalle in 1954.

Bill Buntin led Michigan to a 100-90 victory over Kansas State for third place.

* * * *

THE BRUINS, shortest team in the final field with no starter over 6-foot-5, built their biggest victory on a blazing fast break, Hazzard's ball-handling and an aggressive press defense that had the Blue Devils bothered and bewildered.

The key to the victory was a string of 16 straight points reeled off in a span of three minutes, 51 seconds midway through the first half. That lifted the Bruins from a 30-29 deficit to a 43-30 advantage and for all intents and purposes the game was over.

The tall Blue Devils, the Atlantic Coast Conference champions, didn't get closer than 10 points again.

* * * *

THE BRUINS had heroes galore. Gail Goodrich, Hazzard's back court running mate; Ken Washington, a 6-3 jumping jack who came off the UCLA bench with a 26-point effort, and Jack Hirsch were among them.

Hazzard, however, was the main figure, directing the attack and producing assists by the handful before he fouled out with 6:14 remaining.

Hirsch made two key steals

WBA SEEKING TO UNSEAT CASSIUS

MIAMI (UPI)—The Miami Herald quoted World Boxing Association president Ed Lassman Saturday night as saying that the WBA Executive Committee is being asked to vacate the world's heavyweight title of Cassius Clay.

In its Sunday edition, the Herald quoted Lassman as saying that he expected the committee to approve the request. He said he expected action to be taken within a week.

* * * *

LASSMAN, of Miami Beach, was quoted in the newspaper as giving two reasons for the action. First is because Clay signed a contract with Intercontinental Promotions, in which Sonny Liston has an interest, to promote his future fights before he met Liston for the world heavyweight crown.

The second reason, Lassman was quoted as saying, was because "Clay's conduct has been unbecoming a champion and he is setting a very poor example for American youth."

Blades Blast Seals, 7-2, Meet Denver in Playoffs

By AL LARSON

"It was pretty much a reversal of form. We did almost what they did to us up there," coach Alf Pike said after his Blades had lashed San Francisco, 7-2, Saturday night to clinch third place in the Western Hockey League.

A crowd of 8,590 watched L.A. close out its regular-season play by bombing the Seals for the seventh time in eight encounters on its home ice as well as run its season margin to 11-4-1.

Now that the Blades have their first 70 games out of the way, they can start thinking about the playoffs which open Wednesday night. L.A. travels to meet WHL-champion Denver in a best-of-seven series.

* * * *

SATURDAY'S victory, which pushed the Blades unbeaten streak at home to eight, was worth $3,360—or $150 per man. The fourth-place Seals received $1,809.

L.A. finished the regular campaign with 31 wins, 31 losses and 8 ties for 70 points. The Seals wound up three points back with a 32-35-3 mark.

San Francisco's defending Lester Patrick Cup playoff champs drew Portland in their first-round series, the winners of the semifinal go-rounds then meet in the finals.

When the Blades scored four goals in the opening period, it helped take the sting out of last Wednesday's 7-4 loss when the Seals scored five times in the first 10 minutes.

Six different Blades scored—something of a reversal in itself, L.A. came into its 70th match with the lowest number of goals scored in the league. Willie O'Ree led the way with two, while Howie Young, Marc Boileau, Leo LaBine, Norm Johnson and Marc Dufour pumped in solo goals.

Pike said "we've now got to convince the boys that they can win at Denver. We've only beaten them once there. Since we'll be playing Wednesday and Saturday at Denver U., I hope we can get in some practice Tuesday. This will be the first time we've played in that rink."

Pike also commented "Jack (Norris) lost his own shutout when he let Haley's (Len) shot get by him. After that, we just relaxed and didn't play too well."

Young, who saw his first action at left wing, said "it's kinda' fun going forward instead of always going backwards." The Blades' defenseman moved up to a front-line spot in the second period. "I wanted him in shape for the playoffs," said Pike. "Remember, he hasn't been on skates all week with that had back."

The tenor of the match was set in the first minute of play when Con Madigan and Seal defenseman Larry McNabb got involved in a bitter tug-of-war. McNabb drew a double roughing penalty (4 minutes) while Madigan was socked two minutes — all of this with only 50 seconds elapsed.

A minute later, Frank Arnett was sent to the pokey for 12 minutes, which included a 10-minute misconduct violation.

By the time the fireworks had ended, a total of 33 minutes in penalties had been assessed against both teams in the first period of play. This was in contrast to Wednesday when the game was 29 minutes along before the first infraction was whistled.

L.A. came back in the middle session with two goals to forge ahead 6-0 and Boileau's shot at 6:33 in the final period made it 7-0.

Haley ruined Norris' shutout with 6:24 to go. Charley Burns connected at 17:58 to cap the scoring.

The Blades swept Star of the Night honors, with Young, O'Ree and Dufour as top votegetters.

Johnson was honored as L.A.'s most valuable player for the season. The veteran center also won the top offensive player award while Madigan was named best defensive player.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

Pay-TV Hornet's Nest

In composing a column recently on the merits of pay-television, this corner stirred another hornet's nest.

The clients seemed to be against it by a 2-1 margin, but they offered some quite legitimate arguments, as evidenced by this letter from Larry L. Gerner, 15725 Delcombre Ave., Paramount.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

"As I am quite interested in the aspects of pay-TV, your column was quite interesting, even though limited. I was glad to see a comment on the theater-backed 'Citizens Committee for Free TV,' an organization that has been amusing me greatly for the past few weeks. Your comment, 'Tonight: Championship fight $20 in the theater. Next time: $2 at home. So, what's wrong with pay-TV?' didn't quite complete the issue. I have been told there will be an initial installation fee and then a further monthly charge of $7. Whether or not this is so, no one seems willing to tell. Since many of my friends are interested, and since you are usually willing to show both sides on an issue we would appreciate it if you would fill us in on this matter and give us your opinion of whether or not the few really big events of the year justify paying this monthly fee."

Two other parties, who wished to remain anonymous, voiced these opinions:

"You talk very foolish when you say we should have pay-TV. How many could afford it? TV is all the enjoyment some bedridden folks have and many others enjoy it now that would not be able to afford it. It's OK for people like you to talk, but you are well and able to work. But do you ever consider how many who can just get by?"

And . . .

"How do you think older people can afford pay-TV? Sure you say there will be free TV, but for how long? If it once starts, soon it will all be pay. I work at the Naval Shipyard and you'd be surprised how many baseball fans there say they won't pay for any TV."

That's the way it went, through bundles of letters.

AS A RESULT, we again went to Bob MacLeod, former Dartmouth all-America who is a Subscription TeleVision (STV) official, for answers.

"Hank, you'll catch a lot of flack on a variety of subjects," began MacLeod. "The theater owners have a partyline that is a beauty!

"The senior citizens' complaint is part of it—shutins and hospital patients, too.

"For openers—this entire argument is founded upon the premise that STV will replace 'commercial' TV.

"This is the BIG LIE that is behind the campaign of FEAR that the theater boys are waging. Our function will be to add three new channels to existing television receivers.

"If senior citizens wanted to see the Clay-Liston fight, husband-wife attendance would have cost $20 in L.A. area theaters, plus the costs of getting there and other expenses of an evening out. If one senior citizen 'next time' has STV, he can invite a living room full of friends and all can watch for $2. Is this bad?"

"Regarding hospitals, we will announce a program of installation and service that will knock this argument into the fourth row, center bleachers! As to shutins, they still have everything they're now receiving PLUS the chance to get sports events, operas, ballets, concerts and OTHER attractions they couldn't possible attend personally.

"The big deal is the unprincipled FEAR technique that theater owners are using to intimidate the uninformed.

"Now the cost. Our charter subscribers fee will be $5. There will be no weekly charge for 52 weeks—a full year's trial. If at the end of this period the subscriber isn't happy, he calls and says 'get lost!'

"We don't think this will happen. We believe we can serve and satisfy our customers and reserve the right at the end of a full year of service to ask for $1 a week for maintenance and a schedule of bonus attractions that will be shown as a subscriber service.

"There will be NO commercials on Subscription TeleVision—ever!"

NATURALLY, I can't crystal ball into the future and predict what eventually will happen after pay-TV gets underway. I would be against pay-TV if I believed it would kill most of the free television we now view.

But I still sincerely think that pay-TV will offer us many top programs, sports and otherwise, that are not now being channelled into the living room.

In answer to Mr. Gerner, at this time I believe pay-TV is justified.

Most important, nobody is forcing anyone to subscribe to pay-TV.

Remember this, too: With no commercials on pay-TV, you can bet your life that the advertisers will do their utmost to maintain the present free television caliber. I'll leave it to your opinion whether THAT'S good or bad!

SHRUGS OFF '63 SLUMP

Thomas Has Eye on Ball, Angel Comeback in 1964

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.-P-T Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS—As any Little Leaguer will tell you, the most important fundamental of the game may be summarized in six short words:

Keep your eye on the ball.

It's not that Lee Thomas took his eye off the ball last season; it's just that he couldn't see it.

This peripheral problem caused Thomas' batting average to dip 70 points from its robust .290 of 1962, found his home run total of 26 dwindling to nine and his runs-batted-in mark of 104 shrinking to 55.

The Angels plunged from third to ninth and reporters still have nerve enough to ask manager Bill Rigney, "Why?"

"I wasn't picking that ball up until it was almost on top of me, "revealed Thomas Saturday after San Francisco had defeated the Angels, 10-1. "You can't be a great hitter unless you see the ball from the moment it leaves the pitcher's hand. This is what made Williams and Musial outstanding hitters.

"It got so that I was concentrating so hard on the pitcher's hand that I was virtually hypnotized after he had thrown it. The next thing I knew the umpire was yelling 'strike three.'

"There was nothing wrong with my swing, I was just swinging late and everything, I was even popping the inside pitch, which is my money pitch, to leftfield. I struck out as if it was going out of style. At least 20 times I went for a bad pitch with two strikes simply because I didn't see it properly."

* * * *

THERE WAS nothing wrong with Thomas's eyes, although at times during the season-long slump the fiery 28-year old thought there might be something radically wrong with his mind.

"It was strictly a matter of bad habits," explained Thomas, who is hitting the ball with 1962 authority this spring and reading Joe Cronin's signature on the ball as soon as it leaves the pitcher's hand.

"Now, I'm seeing the ball and the result is I'm attacking it," said Thomas, who will be called on to fill the offensive slack created by Leon Wagner's dismissal. "I'm not worried about anything but the ball. If I follow the pitch my swing will take care of itself."

Thomas admits that his red-hot temper has often led to trouble with the umpires, but it played no part in keeping him mired in the slump.

"Everyone should have a little temper," said Thomas with a little wink, "Most of the good players occasionally show their emotions. I'd rather get mad on the field than pout on the bench."

Thomas estimated that a repeat of the 1962 performance would have brought him a $35,000 contract. However, he is most gratified to have received a repeat of his $24,000 pact.

"This club has always treated me good, and I feel I let everyone from the general manager to the bat boy down last year. Still, I didn't spend the winter moping, I always want to remember how it was, but my memory won't be such that it will affect my play this year.

"I realize I'm a key player on this club and I realize what my failure to get the 50 extra hits and 50 extra RBI last season means to the team.

"I have no goals, only to play 162 games. I'd like to repeat my 1962 performance, and I feel I'm capable. That year it wouldn't have taken much more for me to hit .300. I still feel I can hit .300."

Thomas will patrol the outfield on a full-time basis this season and had "no doubts" about his ability to do the job. "I have as good an arm as there is on the club," said Thomas. "I'm partial to first base, but the outfield is certainly more relaxing."

Having seen Lee Thomas throw a golf club through a screen fence and wrap one around a tree limb, and having seen Lee Thomas sit in a clubhouse splintering a bat, it is comforting to know that there will not be a little more relaxation in his life.

ANGEL ANGLES: The rampaging Giants made it eight exhibition in a row before an overflow crowd of 4,165, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower . . . Juan Marichal, allowing only one hit in five innings, was the winning pitcher. The loss went to Dom Chance, who was touched for 10 hits and seven runs in five frames . . . San Francisco continues to lead the Cactus League with a record of 12-1 while the Angels have dropped below the .500 mark at 6-7 . . . Leading the Giant attack were rookie outfielders Jesus Alou and Arlie Angel . . . Alou, younger brother of baseball stars Felipe and Matty, had five hits in six trips, for three runs and batted in another . . . Angel went two-for-four with two runs scored and three runs batted in. He connected for the game's only home run, a two-run shot off Angel rookie Lee Maranetta in the ninth . . . Another big swinger for the Giants was veteran Harvey Kuenn, with three-for-five, including two doubles . . . The Angels collected their only run in the ninth on singles by Charlie Dees, Jay Johnstone and Tom Satriano.

The Eyes Have It

Yogi a Serious, Dignified Pilot

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.-P-T Staff Writer

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla.—Contrary to popular belief, Yogi Berra does not read comic books, pass out exploding cigars or tie tin cans to a cat's tail.

The new manager of the Yankees still enjoys a gag but, in general, Lawrence Peter Berra is as serious and dignified as a Madison Ave. executive. What's more, he wears a flannel suit, the only difference being the distinguished and distinguishable pin stripes of the perennial American League champions.

Berra acts every bit the part of a manager. He has acquired the unshakable confidence of his predecessor, Ralph Houk, not to mention the cigar.

"I gave up cigarettes for lent," Berra explained, "but I don't smoke many of these things, I hate 'em, but they ease that craving for the butts." He laughed and added, "Maybe they make me look more like a manager."

* * * *

THERE WAS little managing involved Saturday when the Yankees punctured the invincible armor Sandy Koufax carried in the World Series. The Yankees, their October lineup intact, won the fifth game, 5-3, after a delay of five months.

Koufax allowed his first runs and walks of the spring and Roger Maris hit his first home run.

Berra took considerable ribbing.

"Would you like a World Series rematch with the Dodgers?"

The question was obvious, as was the answer.

"Let's take first things first," said Berra.

But the presence of Mantle, Maris, Howard, Kubek, Tresh and Richardson would make Milton Berle a confident manager. Berra revels in the role.

"This is fun," said Berra. "Of course, I may change my mind during the season."

Few doubt that Berra will have to change his thinking.

"He's going to do all right," said Joe DiMaggio, who still wears the familiar No. 5 as a Yankee batting instructor in the spring. "I learned long ago never to sell Yogi short.

"I remember the first time I paid any attention to him. He joined us late in 1946 and I was never aware of him until I saw this peculair-looking creature waddling to the plate for his first swing in batting practice.

"One swing and—boom! He hit the first pitch into the seats. That's when I began to pay attention to him and I haven't stopped since."

DIS AND DATA—Koufax allowed five runs, three earned, on seven hits and trailed 5-0 after two innings . . . Al Downing, loser in the second game of the World Series, held the Dodgers to two singles and one unearned run in five innings . . . Maris homered in the first inning after Richardson drew a walk . . . An error by rookie Wes Parker and a passed ball made two of three Yankee runs earned in the second . . . Parker, playing first base, bobbled Willie Davis's throw from center, allowing Downing to score after Tony Kubek singled home Elston Howard . . . Doug Camilli's passed ball brought in Kubek.

The Dodgers scored against Downing in the fifth when Mantle dropped Parker's fly ball for a two-base error and John Werhas followed with a single . . . rookie Pete Mikkelsen was touched for two runs in the sixth on singles by Jim Gilliam, Willie Davis and Al Ferrara . . . Gilliam scored when Richardson dropped Mikkelsen's pickoff attempt on W. Davis, but the subsequent hits made the run earned.

Nate Oliver was forced to sidelines again when he aggravated a pulled abdominal muscle Friday night . . . John Roseboro made his second appearance as a pinch-hitter, but still is unable to catch . . . He cannot squat because of the swelling in his knee . . . Camilli, who entered as the Dodgers' leading hitter (.538), was blanked for the first time in five exhibition games . . . the Yankees evened their record at 4-4; the Dodgers stand 3-2 . . . Tommy Davis had little chance to celebrate his 25th birthday. He was hitless in three chances and has gone 0-for-12 since hitting a home run against Baltimore Wednesday.

The Dodgers split their squad today for a doubleheader . . . the varsity meets the Orioles for the third time, at Miami Stadium, while a 'B' squad goes to West Palm Beach to play Milwaukee. Johnny Podres, Jim Gilliam and Maury Wills are the only regulars going to West Palm Beach, under the direction of coach Pete Reiser . . . Don Drysdale pitches against Mike McCormick in Miami.

Bud Daley, trying a comeback after elbow surgery, has allowed only one earned run in five innings against Baltimore and Kansas City.

SPRING ROUNDUP

Colts Explode--With Some Help

By Associated Press

The normally weak-hitting Houston Colts rapped out 19 hits and walloped the Minnesota Twins' B team, 17-1, Saturday with the help of four errors by rookie outfielder Jeff Talbott.

In other exhibition action, Boston trounced Cleveland, 10-1, as Red Sox ace Bill Monbouquette went seven innings, the St. Louis Cards edged Kansas City, 3-2; Philadelphia beat Washington, 4-0; the New York Mets whipped the Chicago White Sox, 8-1; Milwaukee beat the Minnesota A team, 9-8, in 12 innings and Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati, 6-5, in 14 innings.

The Colts had their biggest outbreak of the spring against the Twins, while Talbott's four errors in right field let in six Houston runs. He dropped two fly balls and let two base hits get through him.

Catcher Bob Tillman drove in four runs with a homer and a double for the Red Sox. Relief ace Dick Radatz finished up after Monbouquette became the first Red Sox pitcher to go seven innings.

Lew Burdette went five innings for the Cards and gave up solo homers to Gino Cimoli and Jim Gentile.

Jim Bunning and Ryne Duren combined on a two-hitter for the Phils. Bunning went the first six against the Senators and gave up both hits, singles. Duren allowed only two walks in the last three innings.

* * * *

THREE METS, Ron Hunt, Rob Taylor and Frank Thomas, had three hits each as the Mets rose up against the White Sox.

The Braves got the winning run home in the 12th inning on a sacrifice fly by rookie infielder Lee Bales. They battled back from a 6-0 deficit to give the Twins their second defeat of the day.

Montreal Has NHL Lead; Title Deciders Today

Compiled From Wire Reports

The Montreal Canadiens, driving for their sixth National Hockey League championship in seven years, took over first place in the next-to-the-last game of the season Saturday night with a 5-1 victory over the Boston Bruins.

The Canadiens, who play at New York in their final game today, hold a one-point edge, 83-82, over the Chicago Black Hawks, who finish their regular season at Boston.

The Toronto Maple Leafs clinched a third-place finish as they scored twice in the third period for a 5-3 win over the Detroit Wings in a game in which 23 penalties were called.

After Montreal's Billy Hicke and Boston's Jerry Toppazzini traded first period goals, the Canadiens took charge. Andre Boudrais' first NHL goal, on n power play, broke the tie at 3:40 of the middle session and then Dave Balon and Jean Beliveau scored inside of a minute and three seconds late in the period.

Boudrais, playing in his third game, assisted on the Canadiens, fifth goal scored by John Ferguson midway through the third period.

Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge, in a tight battle with Chicago's Glenn Hall and Toronto's Johnny Bower for the Vezina Trophy, stopped the Bruins after Toppazzini's goal and it tied for the goalie trophy with Hall. Each has allowed 166 goals in 69 games.

Baseball in Pay Boom

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The cost of putting a big league baseball team on the field has gone up considerably during the past 25 years.

And the players' salaries have had a lot to do with it.

Thirty-three or 6.6 per cent of the major leaguers will earn $40,000 or more this season.

Twenty-five years ago, Joe DiMaggio's salary with the New York Yankees was $25,000 and Terry Moore of the St. Louis Cardinals, another star center fielder, was getting $12,000.

The 1964 salary derby is topped by two other center fielders, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks. Mays will get $105,000 and Mantle $100,000.

Milwaukee will pay veteran pitcher Warren Spahn $85,000 while Don Drysdale will collect $71,000 and Sandy Koufax $70,000 for pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Roger Maris of the Yankees, who hit 61 homers in 1961, took a $7,500 salary cut this year. But he's still well up there with a $65,000 contract.

Whitey Ford, the Yanks' star southpaw, moved up into the $62,000 class after accepting the added burden of a pitching coach.

Elston Howard, the Yank catcher and the American League's most valuable player last season, was boosted to $60,000. This put him in the same bracket as Milwaukee's Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews and Detroit's Al Kaline.

Outfielder Rocky Colavito of Kansas City took a $4,000 cut to $50,000. Others who signed at the same figure were Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati, Maury Wills of the Dodgers, Orlando Cepeda of the Giants and Dick Groat and Ken Boyer of St. Louis.

The Yanks have the most players earning $40,000 or more. They have six. The Dodgers are next with five.

WYNN

DORIS

By JERRY WYNN

"Watch the game, dear." The words are nudged into my ribs by my wife.

"What game?" I reply hazily.

You see, it's not that I have anything against Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and the boys when I attend games of the Lakers. I prefer Doris Day.

America's sweetheart with her smile and sparkle and song, Doris will be seated front-row center as usual when the Lakers clash with the St. Louis Hawks in NBA playoff games at the L.A. Sports Arena Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Are you proud to be known as the Lakers' No. 1 fan, Doris?

"I didn't know that I was considered the No. 1 fan, but if I am—yes, I'm very proud and happy. I'm also delighted to see that attendance has increased at the games this season. I feel that we should support our team, and I only wish that more people knew how great basketball really is."

Who is your favorite player on the Lakers?

"This is very difficult to answer. I can only say that each man, as an individual, contributes something great in his own way.

"I think Elgin Baylor is a brilliant athlete. He seems to do everything right and so effortlessly. Jerry West is on a par with Baylor. I feel that Dick Barnett is not only a great athlete, he brings humor to the game as well. Rudy LaRusso is a scrapper. All I can say is I'm very happy when he is in there.

"Jimmy Krebs is playing wonderful basketball now, and I've always felt that Frank Selvy contributes so much to the team. This season, I feel that Jim King has brought so much spirit to the team. Then we have Ellis, Wiley, Reed and Nelson, who also have been so necessary to the Lakers.

"I know you asked me to mention a favorite player, but it's impossible. I think of the Lakers as a team, and that's what makes them so great."

Who is your favorite coach?

"Fred Schaus has done a fantastic job coaching our beloved Lakers. I marvel at his poise during the games. I know that he has the admiration and respect of all Laker fans. I'd like also to mention Chick Hearn. He's not only a very nice person, but a truly great and inspired announcer."

Have you found any "leading man" types among the players?

"Actually I haven't thought about it. That would be my husband's job, anyway."

Do you feel sorry for the officials when they are booed by the fans?

"Are you kidding? I'm the one who boos the loudest! It's nothing personal, however. They're all nice guys."

Have you participated in sports?

"There's nothing I like better in this world. I played basketball and baseball in school. Since coming to California, I'm playing tennis and volleyball and I water ski and swim almost daily. My next project is snow skiing. Actually, I think my husband would rather wait until I retire. You can understand why!"

Which do you read first, the sports or society pages of a newspaper?

"I didn't know there was a society page."

Have you thought of a fight song for the Lakers?

"I'm not a songwriter, but I think we should have one for next season."

Do you ever get tired of signing autographs for kids during the games?

"Actually, I don't because it is handled very nicely. They only approach me during the rest periods, and, of course, that isn't a bother at all. I'm delighted that they want my autograph!"

The Lakers finished in third place. Will they rise back to the heights in the playoffs?

"That's a negative question because they haven't really fallen. You can't win them all, and regardless of what spot they finish, they're still the greatest!"

And so is Doris Day.

LBCC's Rich Lawrence is out by step as El Camino completes double play Saturday

Vikes Hammer 2 Wins

By GARY RAUSCH

The Long Beach City College Vikings are no more. They're now the Kardiac Kids and Bart Hammer is their leader.

Hammer, the muscular third baseman from Millikan High, shot the Vikings into a first-place tie in the Metropolitan Conference standings Saturday with game-deciding hits in LBCC's 1-0 and 3-2 victories over El Camino.

A small, frozen Blair Field crowd saw Bart hammer out a sharp single to left with two down in the ninth inning that drove in Chuck Williamson for the opening win.

In the nightcap Williamson got his third hit of the game with one out. Don Keel walked and was forced at second, sending Williamson to third.

So in the identical situation as the first game, Hammer went to right field with the second of Don Coil's servings for a single with Williamson again tallying the decider.

Long Beach has now won nine of 11 games. Two have been by two-run cushions and five others by a single run, causing some pulsating moments for coach Bill Hatch and Viking followers.

All the credit can't go to Hammer, however, as Jim Parks notched his third win on a nifty two-hitter and Mike Linck ran his record to 2-1, scattering seven hits and fanning eight.

Bradley NIT Champion for 3rd Time

Lobos No Match for Torrid Braves

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bradley's bumptious Braves beat New Mexico at its own defensive game in the first half and then poured it on in the final 20 minutes to win the National Invitation Basketball Tournament for a record-equalling third time, 86-54, Saturday in a runaway title game.

A crowd of 15,137 at Madison Square Garden and a national television audience watched Bradley blank New Mexico from the floor for almost 10 minutes in the first half.

During that period, from the 10:15 mark until 19:40 when Dick Ellis finally broke the ice for the Lobos with a basket, the Braves from Peoria, Ill., spurted to a 33-22 lead.

* * * *

NEW MEXICO, which led the nation in defense during the regular season, limiting its oppusition to 55 points per game, was hurt early when Ira (The Large) Harge, the Lobos' leading rebounder, picked up two personal fouls in the first 90 seconds and was taken out of the game at the eight-minute mark when he drew his third infraction.

In the next six minutes, while the 6-8 Harge sat idly on the bench, Bradley went on a 12-2 tear to open a 27-17 lead. The Braves never looked back thereafter.

Bielefeld, Perry Go Route, 49ers' Win Streak Hits 7

Bill Bielefeld and Ed Perry went the distance Saturday as Long Beach State College ran its win streak to seven with 6-4 and 9-4 wins over highly rated Cal Poly of Pomona on the LBSC diamond.

Bielefeld whiffed 14 batters in going the route for the fourth time. Perry spun a four-hitter for his first victory.

Big Don Anderson continued his hot hitting with 5-for-8, running his season average to .509—28-for-55.

Long Beach made five hits go a long way in the opener, then exploded for 14 safeties in the nightcap as the 49ers collected eight runs in the final three innings.

Rick Bryson slugged a two-run homer in the fifth to give LBSC a 3-2 margin, then his single brought home another pair in the sixth. Barry Wallace tripled home two in the seventh.

LBSC now boasts an 11-4 record.

State Spikemen Trounce Diablos

By JOHN DIXON

Long Beach State's Goliaths of college-division track and field presented indisputable evidence that they can compete on a major-school level by crushing Los Angeles State, 97-47, Saturday on the 49er field.

Jack Rose's stalwarts established five meet records, set two best-of-the-year marks and produced a host of individual seasonal bests while scoring their third successive dual meet rout.

The 49ers showed so much that L.A. State's learned coach, Jim Crakes, with tongue in cheek called it "a moral victory—we held them under 100 points."

The major achievements were chalked up by old-timer Dee Andrews and newcomer George Frenn.

Andrews breezed through the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in 37.6, top time in the nation this year.

The solidly-constructed senior seems a cinch to better his 1963 peak of 36.5, which ranked second in the U.S. and remains the fastest time ever run by a junior.

It wasn't a one-event day for the former Poly High and Long Beach City College record cracker, though.

Andrews also won the long jump (23-5½) and high hurdles (15.0) and was second in the triple jump (43-¼). He took only a single try in the jump events, and his 120 hurdles win was a repeat of an earlier victory in 14.4. The re-run was held because starter Chet Prosser's recall gun jammed.

* * * *

DEE COMMENTED, "It was a good day; I'm getting in shape. The 330 felt good, but I let up and know I can run faster."

Frenn, like Andrews an Olympic team candidate, threw the hammer 196-7, well beyond his own school record of 186-0, and the longest sail in the U.S. this season.

He also had a winning discus toss of 155-9½, five feet better than his former 1964 pinnacle.

Other 49er meet record breakers were Ralph Lee, 1:53.0 880; Darryl Taylor, 4:15.0 mile; John Rambo, 6-6 high jump, and Kent Parson, 14-2¾ pole vault. Dave Shirley equalled the 440 record of 48.4.

Bill Pace of Los Angeles, formerly of L.B. City College, set a shotput record of 53-2½.

100—Pipkin (LA) 10.0, Gaudet (LB) 10.0, Richardson (LB) 10.1.

WEST COAST TRACK ROUNDUP

Poynter Hero in Development Meet

(Compiled from Wire Services)

Santa Clara Valley Youth Village sprinter Bobby Poynter, bucking a 30-mile wind, turned in a sprint double Saturday.

But Poynter's much-heralded duel with Oregon's Harry Jerome failed to materialize in an Olympic development meet at Sacramento State.

Jerome stayed home with the flu as Poynter won the 100 in 9.7 and the 220 in 21.6. Jerome is co-holder of the world 100-meter record.

Former Oregon star Keith Forman bypassed the steeplechase to take an easy win the half mile in 1:52.7.

Stanford rolled to an 80-65 track and field victory over Fresno State at Fresno's wind-whipped Ratcliff Stadium.

Fresno's 440-yard relay team of Marvin Bryan, Charles Craig, Sid Nikolas and Darel Newman scampered to a 40.6 clocking for the only meet record and one of the nation's speediest times.

Oregon State opened its track and field season with an 82-63 victory over California at Corvallis.

California took all but a single point in the high jump, broad jump and javelin but the Staters took 10 firsts to Cal's seven and showed good all around depth.

Best efforts of the day were 170-6½ in the discus by Oregon State's Lou Fasano and 56-2½ by State's Lahsen Samsam, a foreign student from Morocco.

UCLA sprinters outran competition in the longer events to take a non-league triangular track meet from the University of California at Santa Barbara and Cal Poly at San Louis Obispo.

Bruin victories in the 880-yard relay, mile run, two-mile run and mile relay, plus a first in the discus event, sewed up the meet for UCLA with 73 points to Cal Poly's 59 and Santa Barbara's 48.

Sports Is Battleground of Pay TV

The fantastic package TV deals received by the two pro football leagues recently were more than just bidding contests among the networks to gain prime attraction.

It was the first broadside in a major battle developing between free TV and subscription television.

The plains of the sports world is where this battle is being first fought . . . for subscription television's biggest appeal in the beginning will be sports.

Here in California, for instance, it will be the Dodger and Giant games, but later would include those of the Angels, Rams, Blades, Lakers, etc., in Southern California as well as national headline events.

The networks, meanwhile, are striving to keep the major sports events for themselves. The ratings show that sports events are among the most successful show on TV.

FOR INSTANCE, SOME OF THE highest rated shows in television history has been a Sunday game of the World Series, seen in 20,260,000 homes across the country, and several football attractions.

Football generally is the favorite sport of TV viewers. After the World Series (Sunday) on the list of most popularly-televised sporting events come eight gridiron games before the Kentucky Derby breaks into the No. 10 spot.

The Rose Bowl, for instance, is seen annually in over 16 million homes; the NFL title game by around 14 million; the NFL's Thanksgiving Day game, 12 million; the NFL Runnerup Bowl, 12 million, the Sugar Bowl, 10 million, and so on.

The mathematics are staggering when you begin to think of these events on pay television. Or any event, for that matter.

AT THE TIME OF CBS' amazing $28.2 million bid to telecast National Football League games for the next two years, there seemed to be little hope that the network would be able to break even on the deal since commercial time before had sold as high as $65,000 a minute for regular games and $100,000 for the championship playoff.

However, it appeared that the network was willing to take a loss for the prestige of showing the NFL games and also to help ward off the arrival of pay TV.

But free television has scored a big victory in its first move against the pay TV forces. A trade paper has revealed that CBS already has sold all of its time on the NFL telecasts for '64 at rates which indicate a gross of $40 million for the two years . . . a sum that would produce a net profit of around $5 million for the network.

NBC's $35 million deal with the AFL to telecast its games for five years beginning in 1965 was another victory for free TV.

HOWEVER, IT HASN'T AS YET stemmed the tide towards pay TV, which is set to get under way in California by July with subscription telecasts of the Dodger games in an initial area in Santa Monica and the Giant games in San Francisco.

Each area will be equipped with about 10,000 sets by that time. The telephone strike delayed installation. It is estimated it will take about five years to fully install equipment in most homes in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Meanwhile, foes of subscription television appear to have won their battle to put the question before the state's voters as to whether they want to pay for their television.

A measure to repeal a law rushed through the '63 Legislature permitting pay TV through a telephone hookup with home sets will be on the ballot Nov. 3.

THERE IS NO DOUBT BUT what pay TV will be attractive to many people due to the promise of first-run motion pictures, theatrical productions and a greater selection of sports events.

But it also means a greater expenditure to the individual . . . and an even greater battle for the scarce entertainment dollar.

It has been estimated that the entertainment cost of pay TV to the average family will multiply to as much as $1,000 a year.

It is not difficult to see where a family would spend that much or more on pay TV. That's an average of $20 a week.

In one small, but successful pay TV operation in Hartford, Conn., some 5,000 homes are serviced and the average cost a year for movies, sports and specials—limited at this time—is around $120.

At first, the programs offered in Southern California over the limited setup will cost a family about $150 if it watched most of the major attractions . . . plus $10 for installation and $1 a week more for maintenance.

WHILE PAY TV WOULD HURT free television, theaters and the smaller sports attractions . . . it would be a gold mine for the sports promoters whose events are telecast.

Walter O'Malley and Horace Stoneham moved the Dodgers and Giants West in 1958 because of the vast money potential in California . . . made even greater by the prospect of pay TV.

Foremost among the six principal stockholders of Subscription Television, Inc., of course, are the Dodgers and Giants.

Thus, Dodger Stadium and Candlestick Park will become the most expensive television studios in history . . . if the public wants to pay for its TV instead of getting it for free!

Casper Nabs Lead With 67 in Doral Golf

Nicklaus Drops Back to 3rd Spot

MIAMI (AP)—Plump Billy Casper shot a five-under-par 67 on a wet course and in gusty winds Saturday to surge from seventh place to the lead in the third round of the $50,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Casper's 54-hole score of 207, nine under par for the 7,028-yard course, dislodged Jack Nicklaus, Rex Baxter and Bob Shave who had shared the top spot.

CASPER

Baxter took an even par 72 and dropped a stroke behind Casper at 208. Jack Rule, riding a 68 up the ladder, went into a three-way deadlock for third place with Nicklaus and Shave, who settled for 73s.

For the bulk of the field, scores ran higher than Friday when Nicklaus, Baxter and Butch Baird broke the course record with 66s.

Saturday play was delayed for almost an hour at midday by a drenching rain.

* * * *

CASPER SHOT eight birdies and three bogeys during a strong, but erratic round.

The 32-year-old Casper, winner of the Doral inaugural two years ago, launched his round by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt following a sharp recovery when his tee shot landed behind a tree. He also birdied the second with a six-foot putt.

Victory in the Doral would bring Casper a $7,500 prize, by far the biggest he has managed this year. Although he has won 21 titles on the tour, including the 1959 U.S. Open, his game has produced only $2,612 this year.

Sam Snead and Joe Lopez, an unemployed club pro from Miami, wound up the third round in a tie for sixth at 210 after rounds of 73 and 72, respectively. Both are 51.

Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, who with Nicklaus have made up "The Big Three," were far behind.

Big Step for Opinion Research

National AAU Cage Play at Denver Today

DENVER, Colo. (Special) — Long Beach's Opinion Research basketball team takes a big step up in competition today when play opens in the National AAU tournament.

The Southern California champions meet Sav-On Stores of Ogden, Utah, in the tournament's second game at 11 a.m. (PST).

Ogden has a lineup of Troy Collier, 6-8 center for Utah State's NCAA regional semi-finalists at Corvallis, Ore., last weekend; Terry Tebbs, the 5-9 flash from Brigham Young; Jim Lyons, 6-3 sharpshooter who earned Little all-America honors at Weber State; Art Crump from Idaho State and Ted Smith of Utah State.

In an exhibition tuneup last week Ogden outgunned a team featuring 6-10½ AAU veteran Terry Rand, 131-107, and Lyons scored 39 points.

If Opinion Research gets by that awesome obstacle, it runs right into the top-seeded Phillips Oilers at 6 p.m. (PST) Monday night—unless, of course, the defending champions are upset by the St. Louis All-Stars in the first round.

The Goodyear Wingfoots of Akron, Ohio, are seeded second, the Service Jets third and the Lincoln Liberty Lifers of Lubbock, Tex., fourth.

First round pairing (all times Pacific Standard):

9:30 a.m.—Goodyear Wingfoots, Akron, O., vs. Cortez Peters Business College, Wash.; 11 a.m.—Opinion Research, Long Beach, Calif., vs. Sav-On Stores, Ogden, Utah; 12:30 p.m.—Federal Oil Line Insurance, Seattle, vs. Allerton-Key, Brownston, Ind.; 2 p.m.—Service Jets vs. Hetherington-Moore, Norman, Okla.; 4:30 p.m.—Phillips 66, Bartlesville, Okla., vs. St. Louis All-Stars; 6 p.m.—San Francisco AC vs. Capitol Federal Savings, Denver; 7:30 p.m.—Jamaco Saints vs. Tennessee State U.; 9 p.m.—Lincoln Liberty Lifers vs. Al Maroone's Ford.

RACQUET WIN FOR 49ER

Peps in Classic Victory

By BOB MARTIN

Powerful Pepperdine goes into the record books as winner of Long Beach State College's first Spring Tennis Classic.

The Waves edged out Redlands, 5-4, Saturday in the finals of the two-day tournament which featured six strong net teams from three conferences.

Keith Nielson of Long Beach, Gene Waters of Bellflower and Bob Kerbo of Lakewood are members of the six-man championship team. Also representing the Waves were Lafayette Allen, a Negro star from Los Angeles who plays No. 1; Bob Lansdorp, a Dutch native now of San Diego, No. 2; and George Bentley from British Columbia.

The host LBSC team whipped San Diego State, 7-2, in a battle of first-round losers for the consolation trophy.

Los Angeles State, the reigning NCAA college division national champion and seeded No. 1 in the meet, was eliminated in Saturday morning's semifinals by Redlands, 5-4. The Diablos won the top three singles matches and the No. 5 singles, but Redlands took the other two singles and all three doubles.

* * * *

THE OUTCOME of the championship finals between Pepperdine and Redlands also rested on the doubles matches, as the two teams broke even in singles. Pepperdine won the first and third to clinch the title, and Waters-Nielsen, playing No. 2 doubles, defaulted after splitting the first two sets of their match.

Some extremely long and hard-fought matches featured the day's play. Waters was involved in the longest set as he beat Bill Carroll of UC Santa Barbara, 18-16, 8-6, in a morning semifinal contest. In the same team match, Lansdorp edged out Don Gaynor of UCSB, 10-12, 7-5, 9-7.

Tournament director Dan Campbell, the LBSC coach, plans to make the meet an annual affair. Results:

U.S. Skiers Continue to Sparkle

WINTER PARK, Colo (AP)—Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., successfully defended a skiing title for the second time in two days Saturday, posting the best time of any U.S. entrant in the giant slalom event at the National Alpine Championships.

Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., won first place in the men's competition.

Miss Saubert actually was beaten by Pia Riva of Italy, who is not eligible for the national title because she is not a United States citizen.

U.S. OLYMPIANS again took most of the top places, but did not quite repeat Friday's near-shutout.

Bud Werner, last year's national giant slalom champion, lost his title to Kidd, but his third place run in 1:54.0, along with a third in the downhill, put him in a good position for a shot at the combined championship if his time is fast in today's slalom.

Ferraris 1-2-3 at Sebring Amid Flaming Pileups

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — A new hot Ferrari racing team of Mike Parkes of England and Umberto Maglioli of Italy won the Sebring 12-hour Grand Prix of Endurance Saturday.

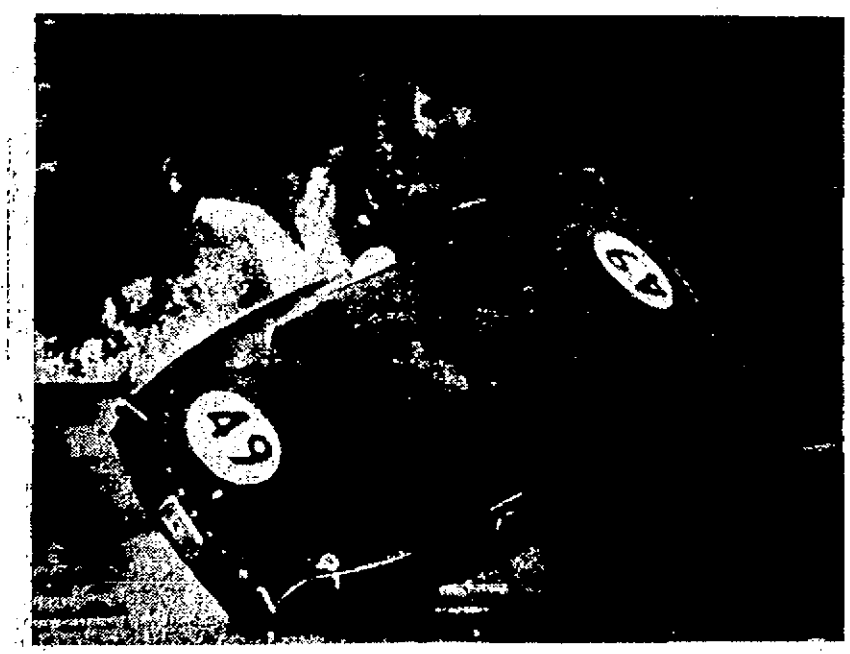

They unofficially drove a record distance despite a flaming collision of two other cars less than an hour before the end which brought out the yellow caution flag.

Ferraris finished in the first three places. All three were 12-cylinder prototype cars. Ford Cobra's production models were the next three unofficially even though one of the Cobras was in the spectacular wreck.

The average speed of the winner was about 92 miles per hour, bettering the old record of 90.7 m.p.h.

The first 12 finishers:

1. Ferrari 3-liter prototype, Mike Parkes-Umberto Maglioli, (91.344 mph—new record).
2. Ferrari 4-liter prototype, Lodovico Scarfiotti-Nino Vaccarella, (one lap behind).
3. Ferrari 4-liter prototype, John Surtee-Lorenzo Bandini (two laps behind).
4. Cobra Coupe, GT, Bob Holbert-Dave McDonald (five laps behind).
5. Cobra GT, Lew Spencer-Bob Bondurant, (9 laps behind).
6. Cobra GT, Jo Schlesser-Phil Hill, (11 laps behind).
7. Ferrari Berlinetta GT, David Piper-Pedro Rodriguez (13 laps behind).
8. Cobra GTN, Harold Keck-Robert Scott (18 laps behind).
9. Porsche 904 prototype, Briggs Cunningham-Lake Underwood (19 laps behind).
10. Porsche 2000 GT, Don Wester-Bruce Jennings (24 laps behind).

ANCHORS RELAY, RUNS 13.7 AND 18.5

McCullough Sizzles, Gives Poly Tie for Spike Title

By DOUG IVES

Sensational Earl McCullough blazed 13.7 and 18.5 in the hurdles and ran a sizzling anchor leg in the relay that earned Poly High a share of the title with Muir in the 43rd Southern Counties track and field meet at Westminster Saturday.

Although the 13.7 highs equalled a national record and the 18.5 lows tied the meet standard, neither will go in the record book due to 5.8 and 6-1-mph winds. The allowable limit is 4.4.

McCullough did earn plenty of self-satisfaction, however, as he roared from five yards behind to score a four-foot win in the 880 relay that gave Poly 42 points, equal that of favored Muir.

The Poly swifty also was named co-athlete of the meet with Paul Wilson, the Warren pole vaulter who shattered the only meet mark with a 14-7¾ effort. He missed thrice at 15-2.

Poly's points were compiled by McCullough (10), Manuel Murrell (9), Al Nichols (5), Larry Freeman (5), the relay team (5), Ron Wilson (3), Ron Sommer (2), Rick Anderson (1), Tom Halpin (1) and John Hubbell (1).

Murrell was the most surprising performer. He won the long jump on his last effort at 23-4½ and was runner-up in the lows at 19.2—nearly a full second better than his previous best.

Freeman was a winner in the high jump at 6-4¾, just missing 6-6¾. Nichols, with less than a week of workouts, won a half-mile heat by a nose in 1:58.9. Compton's Devonne Smith was a graceful victor in the other trial in 1:55.7 — three-tenths off a meet mark.

* * * *

IT WAS a banner day for Long Beach as 18 spikers (nine from Poly) scored points. Millikan miler Charles Webb turned in a dandy 4:22.3 for a second-place finish.

Ram soph Mike Kuhn ran a 49.7 quarter, Lakewood got a 54-5½ shotput heave from Harold Olmstead and a 22-10½ long jump from Bob Hanrahan and Wilson's Bob Deeds ran third in a 9.9 century. A muscle pulled kept him from the 220 after a 21-2 heat victory.

Other L.B. pointmakers were Wilson pole vaulter Larry Laufenberg and miler Hartzell Alpizar, Jordan quarter-miler Jim Buck and Millikan half-miler Ralph Spicer. Millikan tied for fourth behind Compton and Chaffey with 10 points.

Muir was led by Tim Kearnin, who did 61-8½ in the shot, miler Rex Whittle, who clocked 4.18.8, and sprinter Harold Busby, who won the 220 in 21.1 and ran second in the 100 in 9.7.

Crespi's Steve Caminiti was a double winner in the small schools' hurdles with 41.1 and 18.8 times. The 41.1—run with 4.1-mph wind — was good enough to tie a meet record.

MET REFUGEE CRAIG MEETS CASEY AGAIN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Casey Stengel ambled across Al Lang Field to a smattering of applause. Even the bifocal set could recognize the old boy with No. 37 on his back.

A knot of St. Louis Cardinals, deep in conversation about the dinner menu, the weather and the No. 2 dog at Derby Lane, broke up to salute the "perfessor." Stengel stepped back and threw up both hands in mock surprise at seeing Roger Craig in the camp of the enemy.

"How were things in Mexico?" Craig asked.

"Not bad but the infield was torn up with three teams using it," said Stengel. "My men would field grounders like this (he gave an imitation of a man trying to catch a ball while shying away at a 90-degree angle).

STENGEL

Stengel was asked why he didn't have a top relief man.

"I told you fellows Craig oughta been on relief. If the Cardinals get in trouble, he'll be a two-way man over there.

"Relief pitcher? When I came here I never had a starting pitcher."

Recommendations for Hunting Dates

California hunters need not expect any major changes in the hunting dates and regulations this year. The Department of Fish and Game already has filed its recommendations with the Fish and Game Commission, which will have a public hearing (the first of three) at Sacramento April 3.

There is a slight foulup on the inland deer season. The coastal or early deer season would be from Aug. 1 through Sept. 20. The inland season would be from Sept. 19 through Nov. 3, with the exception of Modoc, Lassen, eastern Shasta and Siskiyou Counties, where the season would be from Sept. 21 through Oct. 13.

That area became involved in a legislative hassle at Sacramento last year and Pauline Davis, chairwoman of the Assembly's Fish and Game Committee moved successfully to take control of those countries from the Fish and Game Commission.

That means that hunters may have only three weekends in that particular area and they must not kill any deer that doesn't have three points or more. So much for the deer. Let's look at some of the other seasons.

Coastal archery deer, July 11 through 26. Inland archery deer, Aug. 19 through Sept. 13, and in the Pauline Davis-controlled area, Aug. 13 through Sept. 15.

PHEASANT SEASON, MOVED BACK last year to aid the rice harvests, which were late, again will be later this year, Nov. 21 through Dec. 6, with the usual bag limit of two per day and 10 for the season. In eastern Riverside and Imperial Counties the season would run from Nov. 21 through Dec. 20, with the same bag limit.

Bear, Sept. 19 through Jan. 3, with a limit of two. Archery season, Aug. 29 through Sept. 13, except in the northeast where it would be Aug. 31 through Sept. 15.

Quail, Oct. 31-Jan. 3, but with a close of Dec. 13 in the northeast and a bag and possession limit of 10. A special mountain quail season would run from Sept. 26 through Oct. 30, with a limt of six.

Chukar, Oct. 31-Jan. 3, except closing Dec. 13 in northeast, with a limit of four birds.

Sage, Sierra and ruffed grouse, Sept. 1 and 2 in Inyo, Mono, Modoc and Lassen Counties, with a limit of two birds for the two days. Central state Sierra and ruffed grouse season, Sept. 26 through Oct. 4.

Tree Squirrels, Oct. 31-Jan. 3 except closing Dec. 13 in northeast, bag and possession limit of two.

Cottontails, Sept. 1 through Jan. 3, bag and possession limit of five per day.

DOVE AND MIGRATORY waterfowl seasons and regulations can not be set until the U.S. Department of the Interior announces a framework for the states. The Fish and Game Commission then can set California dates. That occurs usually in August after commissioners of adjoining states meet with our own group.

However, Sept. 1-30 is most likely to be the dove season. Those have been the dates for years.

While we are on the subject of hunting, I might add that Fred Kindel, Catalina Island's game manager, has extended the boat and wild boar season through April 15. Reservations and information may be obtained by calling Betty Lee at HE 5-7662, or in the evenings, TE 0-0681.

Also, on the subject, it is well to remind all youngsters that nobody under 18 years of age can obtain a hunting license unless he has successfully completed the California Hunter Safety Training Course.

Prior to this year, the age was 16, but the Legislature raised the age at its last session. The law goes into effect July 1, 1964. If a boy has a previous hunting license, he may obtain the 1964-65 license without taking the course. Information on the courses may be obtained from any office of the Department of Fish and Game.

An Easter sunrise service for boaters is scheduled at the Long Beach Navy Landing (foot of Magnolia Avenue) at 6:30 a.m. next Sunday and Chaplain Malcolm Carpenter, of the U.S. Naval Base, is hoping that hundreds of boaters will turn out for the event.

This is the third year that Chaplain Carpenter has undertaken this service, and he will have plenty of assistants to show boaters where to moor or anchor their craft. There will be special Easter music. The entire service will last an hour.

Chaplain Carpenter says that even though all boats can't squeeze into the landing area, those outside will be in calm water and can hear the service over loud speakers.

San Diego Yacht Club is hosting a hearing sponsored by the California Boating Council, Inc., next Tuesday night at 2803 Talbot St., San Diego. The CBC is holding such hearings throughout the state to find out the wishes of boaters and to prepare data for possible future legislation.

The CDC expects to have an agenda concerning conflicts in local and state regulations, needs for launching facilities special fees being charged boaters at every inland waterway, boat taxation, and how the boater who pays the tab wants his money spent. The public is welcome.

L.B. Soccer Club to Renew Action Today

The Long Beach Soccer Club, after resting last Sunday, will continue Pacific Soccer League play today when it meets the Los Angeles Italia S.C. at Pan-American Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

The club has dropped to seventh in league play but will enter the Southern California Municipal Federation Cup Tournament May 3.

Indy Cars in Phoenix Go Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A preview of this year's Indianapolis 500-rear engine racers against conventional roadsters—is scheduled today at the new Phoenix International Raceway.

Two and perhaps three American-made rear engine machines, patterned after the English Lotus Ford that Scotland's Jimmy Clark drove to second place at Indianapolis last Memorial Day, will participate in a 100-mile race.

One of the cars will be driven by Indianapolis veteran Len Sutton.

Ready to push the new cars in conventional roadsters will be 500 winners A. J. Foyt, Rodger Ward and Parnelli Jones.

San Pedro Girl, 18, Wins National Ski

ALPINE MEADOWS (UPI) — Cathy Allen, 18-year-old San Pedro skier, Saturday won the girls slalom at the National Junior Ski Championships.

Miss Allen's first run was 51.9 seconds and her second 49.9 for a total of 1:01.8. It was windy with snow flurries limiting visibility on the 1,500 foot course.

UNEASY SITUATION

This is the kind of action cowboys will try to avoid when rodeo comes to town April 2-5. Quite obviously, the bull is in command in this situation.

RODEO AT L.B. ARENA

Bulls Back in Town April 2-5

By AL LARSON

The bulls, which made a habit of flattening the cowboys here last year, will be back to improve on their record April 2-5 at the second renewal of the Pacific Indoor Rodeo at the Long Beach Arena.

The top bucking stock from four livestock strings will wage duels with the best rodeo hands in the land during five performances. Night go-rounds are scheduled Thursday, Friday and Saturday while matinees are billed Saturday and Sunday.

Such ornery critters as Hurricane Hank, Little Booger and O.K. Red helped run up a 34-18 advantage over the professional riders here last year.

Defending all-around champion Dean Oliver, Harry Charters, the biggest man in the business at 6-6, 265 and currently the season's leading money winner, Marty Wood and Bill Kornell are just a few of the touring cowboys who will check into Long Beach.

Team roping will be added to the competitive events this year, plus clown acts and entertainment features.

Tickets are on sale at the L.B. Arena box office and all Liberty and Mutual agencies. Opening night tickets are being offered only at Unimart stores. A special family matinee has been set for Saturday with children under 13 admitted for half price.

Canadians Rich But Cautious

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gulfstream Park is holding a $77,040.60 twin double ticket for three Canadians, who apparently are giving a good look at their rights under Uncle Sam's tax laws before cashing it.

Gulfstream's mutuels manager, Jay Matthews, said Saturday he still had the winning ticket locked in a vault at the race track.

Matthews said he had received no indication when the Canadians would collect their winnings.

When track officials notified the Canadians Friday that they, as aliens, would have to fill out a form and accept deduction of 30 per cent of the winnings, the visitors balked.

Ex-GI Realizes Dream, Horse Wins Irish Sweeps

AINTREE, England (AP)—A young American soldier serving with the Army Transportation Corps here during World War II became so fascinated with the Grand National Steeplechase course that he vowed he would enter a horse in the race one day—and win it.

The dream came true Saturday for Ron Woodard of Indianapolis, co-owner of Team Spirit, who scored a thrilling half-length victory in the 123rd running of the classic.

"I bought Team Spirit for 4,000 pounds—$11,200—," Woodard recalled as he helped celebrate the first triumph by an American-owned horse since 1938.

"I was stationed at Aintree during the war. I made up my mind that one day I'd win the National. Never thought I would. But it happened."

Woodard is co-owner of the new Grand National champion with Jack Goodman of Tucson, Ariz., and Gamble North of Chicago. It was the 12-year-old gelding's sixth try in the event.

Team Spirit was an 18-1 betting shot in the field of 33 starters.

GUN BOW COASTS TO EASY FLORIDA WIN

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Gedney Farm's Gun Bow, holding some of his front running speed in reserve, withstood the furious stretch charge of Admiral Vic Saturday to win the $116,600 Gulfstream Park Handicap.

The California champion, rated just right by Jockey Bill Shoemaker, finished the mile and one-quarter in sloppy mud by a decreasing one and one-quarter length.

Gulfstream stewards disqualified Admiral Vic and moved the little black horse to third behind Garwol for interference in the stretch.

* * * *

GUN BOW RAN the mile and one-quarter in 2:01.4 to pick up his fourth stakes victory of the year. The victory was worth $76,000 and ran Gun Bow's total earnings to $288,097.

Gun Bow was the favorite of the crowd of 20,103 and paid $3.60, $3.20 and $2.60. Garwol was worth $28.60 for place and $11.40 for show while Admiral Vic returned $3.60.

Returning to the scene of some of his greatest triumphs, classy veteran Irvin Paul outgamed familiar tormentor Mr. Budlong in a spectacular stretch duel to win the $7,500 Pomona Pace before a thrilled crowd of 16,117 at Santa Anita Saturday.

Irvin Paul, Western Harness' "horse of the meeting" at the Arcadia oval last spring, courageously held off the fiercely determined closing bid of Mr. Budlong by a neck to win in 2:00 2/5 and hang up the fastest mile in the nation this year.

Irvin Paul, the 4-5 choice, paid $3.80, $3 and $2.60, Mr. Budlong returned $4.20 and $2.80 and Rusty Range paid $3.

Oil Group Seeks to End Price Wars

By HARRY W. SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Mid-Continent Independent Refiners Association thinks and hopes it has found a way to end costly gasoline price wars.

So does Chairman James Roosevelt, D-Calif., of a House small business subcommittee whose verbal assaults on marketing practices of major producers fills volumes.

Mid-Continent has petitioned the Federal Trade Commission to call an industry conference and devise a code of fair competitive practices covering such abuses as price discrimination, unfair differentials, and discounts.

It said the issue "is one of survival" for the independent refiner and thousands of filling station operators.

* * * *

BEFORE THE plan can get off the ground the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division and the business-policing FTC would have to give it their stamp of approval. And to be a success it would need the active cooperation of all types of marketers. These would include the big integrated companies which, in contrast to many independents, can weather a fierce price war and still show a handsome profit.

Mid-Continent is made up of 13 independent refiners in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Colorado. Price wars are currently raging in such Mid-Continent markets as Kansas City, St. Louis, Wichita, Des Moines, Dallas and Fort Worth. In calling attention to this, Roosevelt told the House that "over a billion dollars a year is being spent by suppliers to subsidize price wars by making up part of the dealers' losses."

The proposed rule would have no force of laws, it would merely set up guideposts. There already are statutes, including the Robinson-Patman Discrimination Act, to deal with unfair practices. But the rule would add up to an industry code which, theoretically, would enable the FTC to single out and prosecute violators under the existing laws.

* * * *

ROOSEVELT, who for years has been making legislative threats against dual marketing and other alleged abuses, regarding the petition as so important that he urged the entire industry to back it.

The question now is whether the case-burdened FTC will give ear to Mid-Continent's plea. A spokesman told UPI "there is no way of guessing" what it will do or when. Roosevelt said the Justice Department should be present at any industry conference to protect the public's interest. In the light of past experience, the industry has been wary of government-Sponsored plans not approved by the department.

The FTC itself conceived the trade rule idea as a way to put specific industries on notice against unethical practices. The theory behind this is that rather than risk prosecution, the companies covered would walk the straight and narrow.

* * * *

DONALD C. O'HARA, general counsel of the National Petroleum Refiners Association, noted that FTC rules to date never dealt with pricing questions. He suggested, therefore, that if it attempted to enforce such a rule "it would be blazing a new trail and the proceedings, including the court reviews, might take many years."

Mid-Continent's proposal would be interpretive of the Robinson-Patman Act, which has thrown courts into confusion in trying to spell out its scope. Congress also has got in the act but has produced no remedy.

Roosevelt told the House that the rule could lead to fair competition if observed generally. He said there is clear evidence that some large integrated companies are subsidizing price wars and thus are inviting divorcement or divestiture legislation.

He said that unless competition is preserved, "the independent sector of the industry will not survive. In a word, this industry is sick. A cure must be found. It must be found now."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

GM's Spending Program Gives Economy a Boost

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy got some supercharged shots in the arm this week.

The diagnosis was that business is fine and likely to get better.

General Motors Corp. injected new strength into the business bloodstream with announcement that it will invest $2 billion in new plant and equipment in 1964 and 1965. In addition, it will spend $600 million on tooling for new models in each year.

The February increase in nonfarm jobs was the largest rise in nearly two years.

The steel industry reported production and shipments at a booming rate.

* * * *

THE MORGAN Guaranty Trust Co. of New York had these observations:

"The economy, which during much of its convalescence from a mild 1960 chill fretted and fussed like the most nervous hypochondriac, now is acting like a patient finally convinced that he is solidly on the mend. Confidence in the business outlook is stronger than at any time in the past four years.

"The medicine that has made the difference appears to be a compound of several ingredients — among them tax reduction; good news from the retail counters, factory order desks and corporate board rooms, and the elixer of persistently rising stock prices."

General Motors made plain that it is expecting a business boom when chairman Frederic G. Donner announced the record capital spending program at a plant dedication at Fremont, Calif.

* * * *

"THESE PLANNED plant expenditures may be said to be a measure of the confidence of General Motors in the future — its own future in the automobile industry — the economic future of our country," Donner said.

GM estimated the new facilities will provide 50,000 new jobs in the next two years.

The No. 1 automaker is aiming at an industry sales mark of 10 million passenger cars by 1970.

Lynn Townsend, president of Chrysler Corp., has predicted that sales this year will total a record 8 million, compared with 7.7 million in 1963.

The industry turned out its 2 millionth car of the calendar year this week. Passenger car production for the week totaled an estimated 165,500 units, compared with 164,448 last week and 155,688 a year ago.

* * * *

SALES HELD to their booming pace with dealers delivering 194,625 cars in the first 10 days of March, up 19 per cent from a year earlier.

The increase in jobs last month made a heartening dent in the persistent unemployment problem.

The nonfarm payroll rose 80,000 from January to 56.9 million, compared with the usual seasonal drop of 200,000. The increase was concentrated most heavily in construction and factory employment.

The steel industry boom, still picking up steam, is rivaling the pace of the peak years of the mid-1950s.

Production was running at an annual rate of 120 million tons, which would be 10 per cent ahead of the 1963 total of 109 million in 1962 and would top the 117-million record of 1955.

* * * *

SHIPMENTS of finished steel were headed for a shade less than 20 million tons in the first quarter.

Thomas E. Patton, chairman and president of Republic Steel Corp., said he expected the company's shipments in the second quarter would be at least 10 per cent greater than in the first quarter.

Steel production last week racked up its 10th gain in 11 weeks, totaling 2,315,000 tons, up 3,000 from the previous week.

National Steel Corp. announced it will build "the steel mill of the future," combining three new processes controlled by automation, at Weirton, W. Va. U.S. Steel Corp. said steelmaking processes now in the experimental stage may combine to bring about a new era in production and service.

The Federal Reserve Board reported industrial production in February showed its biggest advance since October and posted a record for the fifth straight month. Its index rose to 127.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Housing starts dipped below the January level but were substantially higher than in February 1963. Starts were at an annual rate of 1,643,000 units against 1,729,000 in January and 1,380,000 a year earlier.

Four Seeking Queen Title

Four Bellflower High School girls will compete for the title of queen of the Bellflower National Record Relays, scheduled for Saturday in the school's stadium.

Contestants are Carol Felardo, senior; Pam Westby, junior; Nancy Heaton, sophomore, and Denice Perkins, freshman.

Votes will be cast by the purchasers of tickets to the seventh annual track festival. The meet, hosted annually by BHS, is considered a classic of high school track and field competition in California, Arizona and Nevada.

Cold Feet

DURHAM, England (UPI)— Police Saturday described Peter Greenfield's escape from Durham Prison as a case of cold feet. Eleven minutes after he broke out, Greenfield was found shivering ankle deep in a nearby river.

9 Players in AFL Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets and the Denver Broncos Saturday swapped a total of nine players—perhaps the biggest trade numerically in the history of the American Football League.

The Jets gave up their leading scorer of last year, placekicker Dick Guesman, and four other players in exchange for middle linebacker Ed (Wahoo) McDaniel and three players.

In addition to Guesman, the Jets sent to the Broncos defensive end Ed Cooke, offensive guard Sid Fournet, defensive tackle Charley Janerette and outside linebacker Jim Price. In addition to McDaniel, the Broncos sent to the Jets defensive tackle Gordy Holz, tight end Gene Prebola, and defensive back Bob Zeman.

GOODRICH, a 20-year-old junior, started it on a fast-break layup, and was the big scoring gun, producing eight points in the spree. Hazzard had one key steal and a big assist. Goodrich finished it off with a couple of free throws after the Hazzard steal for a 13-point lead and the Bruins had it in their pocket.

Their pressing, harassing defense forced the Blue Devils into countless mistakes and loss of the ball, and served as the perfect complement to UCLA's running game.

Big Bill Buntin, playing without scoring twin Cazzie Russell, scored 33 points to lead Michigan to a 100-90 victory over Kansas State and third place in the tournament.

300 OARSMEN COMPET

L.B. Regatta Next Week

More than 300 oarsmen from 17 rowing groups will see action in the sixth annual Long Beach Regatta in Marine Stadium Saturday.

More than half the participants will be crewmen in the racing shells of seven universities and colleges, and the remainder will come from rowing clubs, Navy ships, high schools and scout groups.

The 19-race card gets going at 1 p.m.

Most attention probably will be on the college "eights," and the feature is the varsity 2000-meter race between USC, Loyola, Oregon State, San Diego State, Iona College of New York and Long Beach State.

The March 28 event, the traditional opener for West Coast crew competition, takes on added interest in an Olympic year, especially for the Long Beach boat.

The 49ers, under coach Bill Lockyer, are reputed to have their "best ever" crew, and could become a serious contender for the right to represent the U.S.

New Theory Sees Growth of Continents

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The earth's great continents are constantly growing.

That, at least, is the theory of Dr. Robert S. Dietz, an oceanographer of the Commerce Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Dietz proposed his theory, the survey said today, to explain the continental slopes, the cliff-like ramparts of the world's land masses.

The continents rise some three miles from the ocean floor. Their edges are steeper than they would be, Dietz believes, if they were formed by sediment and rubble shed from the land.

They also must be young, geologically speaking, or they would have been worn down with time.

* * * *

AS DIETZ SEES IT, the continents are like huge relatively flat icebergs floating on the mantle. The mantle, comprising 80 per cent of the earth's volume, is the deep and dense rock layer underlying the comparatively thin and light crust.

According to Dietz, sea floor sediment from time to time thrusts against the continental blocks. The great mass of material thus compressed assumes accordion-like folds which become cemented to the continental edges to form a zone of new rock growth.

Dietz believes this process accounts for the continental slopes off California and around much of the Pacific Ocean. He believes these slopes were born only about 150 million years ago when dinosaurs dominated the earth.

The Atlantic slopes are similarly young. They, however, are basically cliffs rising from a great rift in the sea bottom which formed when the new world and the old world split asunder.

* * * *

THE CONTINENTS, Dietz believes, have been slowly drifting apart during the millions of years since the original split. Many scientists consider the theory of continental drift to be "outrageous." They do not believe the continents can move horizontally through the mantle in which they are rooted.

But, Dietz says, it is the mantle itself which moves, and the continents are carried passively along like icebergs in a sea current.

Drift on a subcontinental scale is going on now in California. The part of California on one side of a long rift in that state moves about two inches a year relative to the other part, according to Dietz.

* * * *

THEIR STEEPNESS and youthful ruggedness convince him that the continental slopes could not have been original or even very early features of the 4.6-billion-year-old earth. So they cannot have been caused "by some primeval catastrophe such as the moon being pulled out of the Pacific or great meteorites blasting out the ocean basins."

Dietz also ruled out later catastrophes. Life has been for some three billion years.

"The evolutionary spectrum of life," said Dietz, "would have been markedly affected or even entirely snuffed out by catastropes on the scale needed to create the magnificent continental slopes."

Cuba Prisoners Beaten If They Shoo Away Flies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If you shoo a fly in a Cuban concentration camp, you get swatted, a refugee said today.

Alejandro Aguero, one of 54 exiles who arrived in five small boats yesterday from Cuba, said he served 10 days in such a camp.

"Flies were thick there because of lack of sanitary facilities, and they would get in our food and on our person," Aguero said. "But we were supposed to let them bite us. Part of our punishment, I guess. If we shooed them, guards would hit us with sticks."

Aguero, a 25-year-old student, said he was sent to the camp for not attending classes.

U.S. Using New Yardstick on Buying Power

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government is now using a more precise yardstick to measure the buying power of the dollar spent by the average American worker and his family. Although it is too early to tell how accurate a gauge it will be, the first measurement indicated that price changes in 1963 eroded the $10 bill by 45 cents.

The first edition of the so-called streamlined Consumer Price Index also showed that almost everything a family buys, except meats and electricity, cost more last year.

Labor Department experts claim the new index will provide a more accurate reflection of price changes than the old one, which is to be abandoned in June.

The monthly computation is a vitally important one. It has a tremendous impact on labor-management wage contract negotiations, federal estimates of national economic growth, and public psychology about inflation.

* * * *

WAGES OF 2 million workers are directly tied to changes in the index under escalator clauses that provide raises when prices go up by a certain amount or pay cuts if the index falls sharply (which rarely happens). Union demands for wage increases for millions of additional workers are usually based in part on upward movements of the index. Auto workers got pay boosts totaling $1.20 for a 40-hour week in 1963 because of escalator clauses.

The annual increase in consumer prices is used by the President's Council of Economic Advisers to arrive at its "deflated" estimate for the gross national product, a central tool in economic analysis.

Sizable monthly advances in living costs as measured by the index also have had an impact on congressional discussion of inflationary dangers and public concern over value of the dollar.

That is why so much discussion of inflationary dangers and public concern over value of the dollar.

That is why so much discussion has been generated by the Labor Department's recent revision of the methods used for computing one of the government's most vital statistics.

* * * *

THE NEW INDEX—Like the one it replaced—uses the average price level in 1957-59 as a base period and measures price changes since then.

It rose to 107.7 in 1963 on the Labor Department scale. In shopper terms, this meant it cost $10.77 to buy the same goods and services that were sold for $10 during the 1957-59 span.

Although the base period remained the same, almost every other ingredient of the index was altered during a five-year $5 million modernizing program based on a 1960-61 survey of American buying habits.

The aim was to find how the average city wage earner spent his income and then measure the price changes in items found in a typical market basket of goods and services.

The number of items priced was raised from 325 to 400. Some items were dropped and many more added to reflect consumer habits of the 1960's—window air conditioners, airplane fares, parking fees, garbage disposal units, phonograph records.

* * * *

CITIES IN ALASKA and Hawaii were added in a reshuffling of the areas where price samples are made on the basis of the 1960 census. Stores in suburbs also were included for the first time.

Finally, less weight was placed on food purchases and greater stress on services, like housing and medical care, in computing the revised index.

The first version of the new CPI showed a slight increase—one-tenth of 1 per cent to a record-high level—while the old index was unchanged.

Government experts said, however, that this did not mean the new index would rise in the future by a greater amount or more rapidly than the old yardstick.

A penny saved is a penny earned —IF you put it in the bank. MONEY SAVED in buying a used car sometimes is actually MONEY LOST. Sure, it is important to make a good deal as you can, when buying, but spend your money wisely. You can always find a car CHEAPER somewhere, and UNfortunately for the buyer, it is CHEAPER. Inspect the local CADILLAC trade-ins on our lot before you make your purchase.

THAT DENNIS GIRL

New Toast of Bw'y

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The reigning belle of Broadway is a taffy-tressed, moist-eyed miss from Nebraska who dotes on stray cats and dogs, walks shoeless whenever possible and talks a quaint blue streak.

Of her sudden spotlight adultation, Sandy Dennis herself remarks:

"It's sort of a matter of luck in many ways and I think you come to a point where these things — you're ready for them and you're lucky enough to get them, that's all."

THE REASON for all the admiration that has been cascading upon the 26-year-old blonde (5-foot-5 and 124 pounds) is "Any Wednesday," a romantic trifle that sneaked unheralded into the Music Box Theater a few weeks ago and turned out to be the season's sleeper-hit sensation.

Some reviews were virtual love letters.

Miss Dennis portrays a barefoot lass kept in a love nest by a big-wheel executive who mixes romance with tax deductibility. The place is full of balloons and Miss Dennis seems less an object of passion than cuddly innocence.

A good part of the Dennis performance consists of throwing lines away with a disregard for context or ending a scene with an adder-like, irrelevant flick of her tongue.

"That's my own idea," she asserts, "but I don't really know what it is, and I guess it's just my way of playing it."

MISS DENNIS pays attention to what critics say about her — "especially a bad review if it's intelligent."

A Broadway associate attempts to explain the strange mixture of evident vulnerability and success in a highly competitive, tough craft.

"Sandy is a mixture of naivete and a core of toughness," the friend commented. "And the naivete isn't phony — it's the real thing."

AS SHE TALKS and sometimes listens, Sandy frequently cups slender fingers across her face, across a set of the biggest pearl-white teeth you ever saw.

Some years back the family invested a small fortune in orthodonistry, but last summer on her first whirl to Hollywood, Sandy was dismayed to find that the film makers wanted to cap her teeth and pad her bosom. She's appeared once only in a feature picture and just four times on television.

"I'd like to stay in the theater all my life," she says. "Theater is something I can do. The demands are enormous, but you can do it for a year and then you can relax."

SANDY DENNIS . . . a Reason to Purr

New Ambassador

MOSCOW (UPI) — Phillipe Baudet, France's new ambassador to the Soviet Union, presented his credentials Saturday at the Kremlin.

Barbara Loden, Plodder, Success After 13 Years

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Barbara Loden pattered in out of the rain into a French restaurant on the West Side . . . shook the water out of her hair . . . and still nobody recognized her as the brilliant actress who plays the Marilyn Monroe part in Arthur Miller's "After the Fall."

"You're not wearing your blonde wig," I said . . . Now she was a mousy looking brunette.

"No, but this is a wig, too," she said, shyly. "I didn't want to meet you without a nice coif. I didn't want you to think I'm too bad-looking."

LODEN

Such humility is rare today, especially in successes like Barbara Loden. I'd known her close to a dozen years . . . back when she was "Candy" Loden, chorus girl at the Copacabana, and comedienne with Ernie Kovacs' TV show and one of his "Nairobi Trio."

Barbara says she's a plodder. Her husband, Larry Joachim, has spoken of "Life With Plodder."

"I've never been pushy, but I guess by plodding, I've been pushing, pushing, pushing," she said.

* * * *

SHE CAME from Asheville, N. C., at 17. She's 30 now, so it took 13 years for people to start flinging hats into the air over her.

"I never knew Marilyn Monroe," she told me. "But she was always struggling to gain acceptance and be somebody, just as I was.

"I came to New York with very little money. I felt the necessity of exhibiting myself. Everybody was doing it. I got a job modeling brassieres but I never really did it. I mostly sealed envelopes. The boss asked me to be his girl friend to the tune of $250 a week.

"I refused. Later, after I'd become an actress, he said, 'I'm glad to see my opinion of you was justified.' Some men think they can buy anything. On another job I had, one of the assistants said, 'Look, honey, the boss likes you, if you want to stay on here . . .'"

* * * *

BARBARA assumes that Marilyn Monroe had the same problems.

"A lot of people look down on this kind of girl and think she's stupid," Barbara said. "Anybody who thinks this girl is stupid has no heart."

When Elia Kazan — who'd put her in a movie, "Wild River" — and Arthur Miller asked her to portray "Maggie" in the Miller play, Barbara was fascinated because it gave her a chance to express something about people who look down on the Marilyn Monroes.

"Miller has kept saying that Maggie isn't really Marilyn," I said. "Why, then, is Maggie a blonde with all the MM trappings?"

"She had to be a blonde, that's classic . . . Jean Harlow, Betty Grable, Lana Turner," Barbara said.

As an actress, all she wants to do is practice, practice, plod, plod, plod. Sure, she could go to Hollywood now.

But unless you want to make money, what does Hollywood have for you?"

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Allan Drake insists that he had terrible luck in school: "Not only were my marks bad, but I sat on the side of the room that used the wrong toothpaste."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Jackie Mason claims Richard Nixon isn't worried about getting the nomination: "All he wants is the presidency."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A toastmaster is a man who eats a meal he doesn't want so he can get up and tell a lot of stories he doesn't remember to people who've already heard them." — George Jessel.

EARL'S PEARLS: Two types of people will tell you there are better places to be than where you are — real estate salesmen and preachers.

Barbara Streisand has these lyrics in a "Funny Girl" song, describing her marriage to handsome Sydney Chaplain. "To tell the truth it hurt my pride, the groom was prettier than the bride." That's Earl, brother.

California's Big Drink

Icy waters of the Feather River, tumbling from diversion tunnel (right) near the rising 735-foot-high wall of Oroville Dam (background), will one day slake the arid Southland's thirst in the biggest water supply program of mankind's history.

By BILL DUNCAN

Melting snow in the High Sierra will trickle one day through water taps in the Long Beach area.

This man-made miracle of getting water from California's frozen reservoir in the High Sierra—some 700 miles away—to Long Beach is expected by 1972 when Feather River water is brought through the world's largest aqueducts to the Castaic Reservoir at the northern tip of Los Angles County.

From this reservoir, the Metropolitan Water District will guide the water through a distribution system into pipes in Long Beach and other cities in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

THE FEATHER RIVER, Anglicized from its original Spanish name "Rio de las Plumas," is fed by melting snows draining into the upper tributaries in the High Sierra. Its waters are sometimes rampant and destructive—and now flow uselessly into the ocean.

Not for long. Man has envisioned an engineering feat to capture the river's vast supply of "liquid gold" and, in a mammoth project which staggers the imagination, bring the water to arid Southern California.

The plan is called the State Water Project. It begins at Oroville, a historic village of California's gold rush era, situated on the slopes of Sierran foothills eight miles northeast of the Feather River's headwaters.

It will end eventually in Riverside County—having traversed almost the length and breadth of the state.

WHY SUCH AN ENORMOUS PROJECT? Because 70 per cent of California's water supply originates in the northern one-third of the state while 77 percent of the water needs is within the southern two-thirds.

The state long has sought a solution to this problem. In fact, the initial concept of getting northern water to the southern part of the state was proposed first in 1933. Voters authorized bonds, but the depression years were not favorable for their sale. The state project died, but the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation did develop the state's Central Valley project, constructing the Shasta, Trinity and Folsom dams and an aqueduct to deliver water as far south as Kern County.

No water was transported south of the Tehachapi Mountains—a natural barrier impeding water transportation. However, the federal project did prove that water transportation fom plentiful areas to arid areas was feasible.

YEARS LATER IT became apparent that northern water would have to be brought south over the Tehachapi Mountains. Southern California was experiencing a 20-year drought, broken only twice by any real amount of rainfall. At times the humidity in the Southland was less than 1 percent—as dry as could be measured and drier than the Sahara Desert and Death Valley, two world famous dry spots.

In 1957, after years of research, the Department of Water Resources proposed a plan to capture the full runoff of streams in northern California and to convey this water via the Feather and Sacramento rivers across the Delta. The state agency also proposed construction of an aqueduct system to carry the water to Southern California. Pumps would boost the water over the mountains.

The State Legislature adopted the plan in 1959 and approved the Burns-Powell Act (named after its authors) authorizing a method of financing.

California voters in November 1960 approved a $1.75 billion bond issue to finance construction. The bonds have been sold and the project is deep in construction stages.

Financial experts predict the cost of the project will be repaid through revenues forthcoming from the sale of water and power and reimbursement from the federal government for flood control and conservation projects the water plan will provide.

The water will reach the Southland no later than 1972, according to the current timetable.

The principal storage facility for the water will be the gigantic Oroville Dam and Reservoir under construction on the Feather River five miles east of the town or Oroville.

THE $121 MILLION CONTRACT for the dam construction was the largest civilian contract ever awarded in the United States. When completed in 1968, the dam will be 735 feet high, making it the highest in the United States. It will be more than one mile long at its crest. The reservoir will have a capacity of 3.5 million acre feet of water.

An acre foot of water is that measurement which is a foot of water uniformly spread over an acre of land and is equivalent to 325,872 gallons. For example, 1,100 acre-feet of water a year is approximately equal to a million gallons a day.

(The MWD has contracted for 1,500,000 acre-feet annually for Los Angeles and Orange counties.)

The dam itself will have an underground power plant in its left abutment and a downstream complex at Thermalito capable of producing 700 megawatts of power.

HERE IS HOW Feather River Water will reach the Southland in 1972:

Water from the Oroville Reservoir will flow down the Feather River into the Sacramento River and then to the Delta Lands, at the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers east of Suisun Bay. The Delta Lands, called America's Holland, is where the first stages of the 444-mile long California Aqueduct will begin.

Here the water will start its climb uphill. To raise the water from the Delta floor, at sea level, to the foot of the Tehachapis will take four large pumping stations. The aqueduct—aided by the pump lifts—will shuttle the water along the west side of San Joaquin Valley to a point south of Bakersfield. The lift to the foot of the mountain is an elevation of 2,000 feet.

The Delta pumping plant is under construction and should be operating by 1967.

ONCE THE WATER has reached the Tehachapi Mountains a pumping plant will lift the water to an elevation of 3,165 feet. The water will travel 11 miles through the mountain in a concrete-lined aqueduct, a series of horseshoe tunnels and siphons until it reaches the south portal of the mountain.

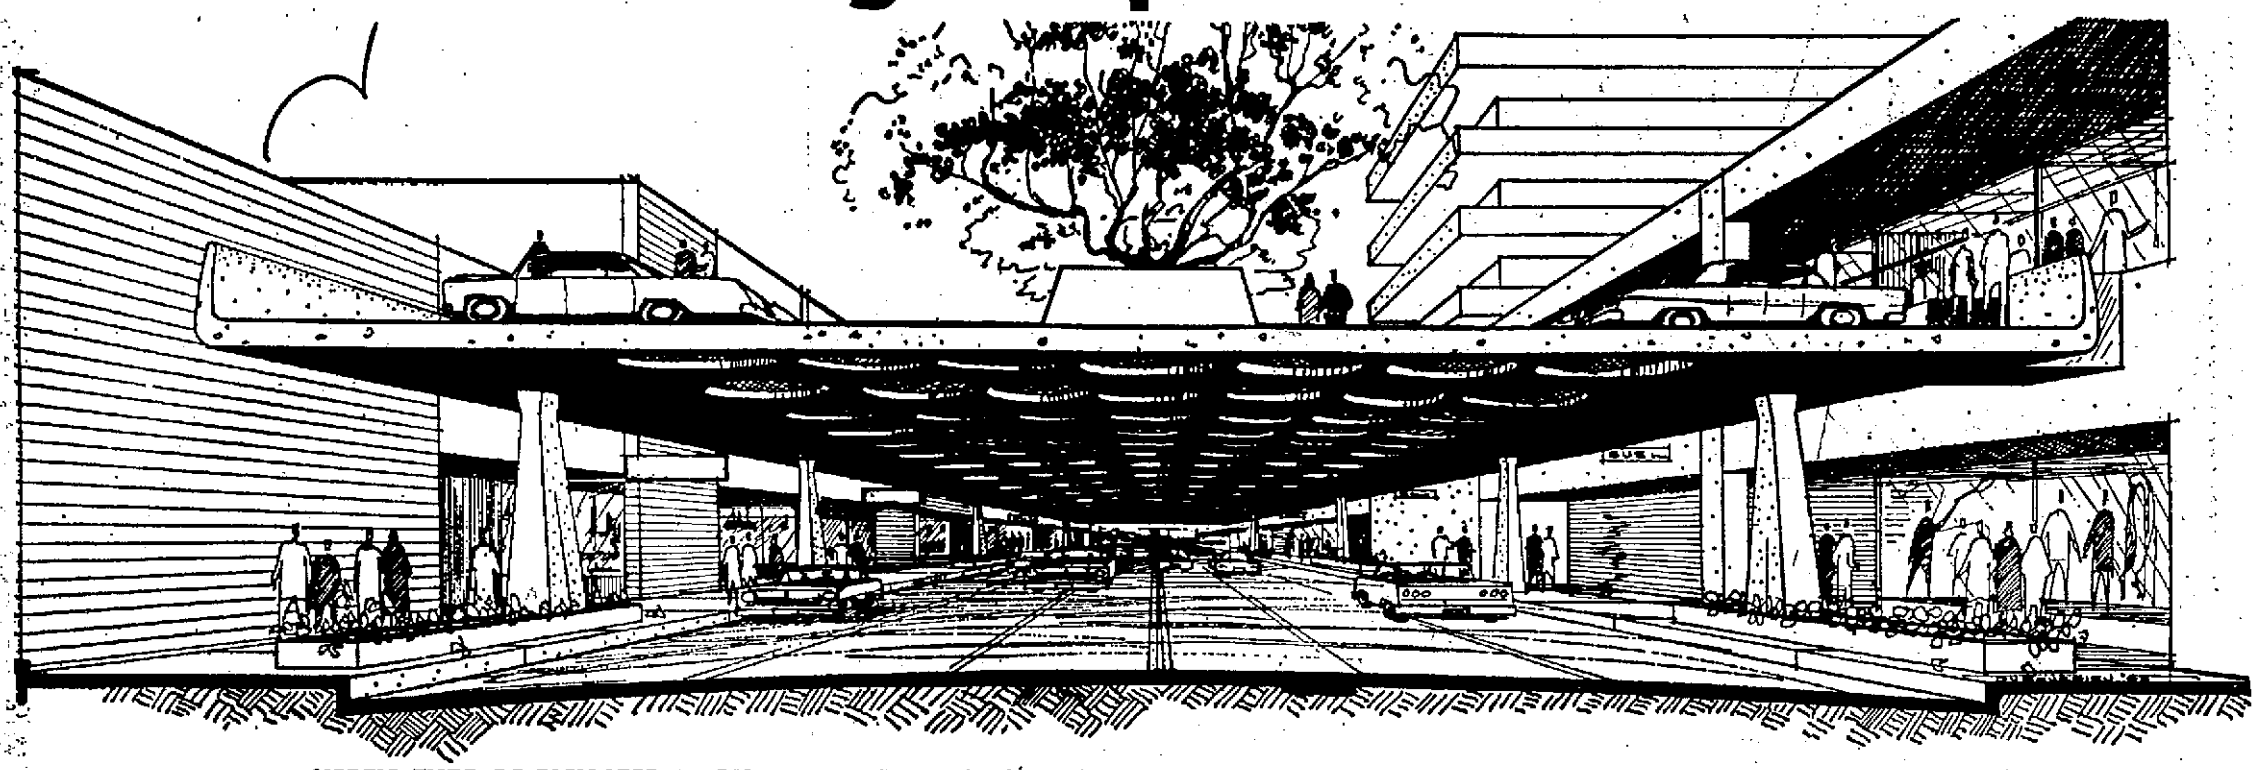

At this point the water will have reached Southern California. It will divide here into east and west branches—part going to Los Angeles County and part traveling farther southeast to Riverside County.

The west branch will bring the water to earthfill structure

Plaza Project Urged for East-West Streets

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A striking plan to build elevated plaza parking on east-west streets in the downtown area is proposed by a Long Beach architect, Laurence Farrant, who has designed parking structures and parking plans for many cities, both in the United States and abroad.

Farrant declares the elevated plaza plan would make walking and shopping a pleasure, with plenty of parking spaces.

The plazas would be above east-west streets with the interconnecting ramps and sidewalks above the north-south streets. Immediate access to the above-street areas would be by conveniently located escalators and stairs.

• • • •

AFTER PARKING a car on the upper level, a shopper could walk directly into the second floor of a department store from a ramp. There would be no waiting for stoplights.

Under his proposal, most of the plaza would be 60 feet wide and would project just over the curb lines, leaving 10 feet from the store building face to the plaza, which, he says, would be adequate for daylight and natural ventilation.

Structural glass would cover circular openings in the plaza floor to provide daylight on the street level.

• • • •

"MY PLAN has three distinct advantages," declares Farrant. "The Mid-Town Plaza (suggested name) would give an identity to the downtown area. It would provide 5,000 more parking spaces which would mean 50,000 more shoppers could be accommodated each day; and with adequate parking above the street, curb parking no longer would be necessary and traffic could flow unimpaired.

"It has been shown in cities that creation of a mall in the downtown area has revived business. Under my plan you have a mall, parking space and improved flow of traffic."

• • • •

FARRANT proposed a 36 block area from Pacific Avenue, on the west, Atlantic Avenue on the east, Seventh Street on the north and First Street on the south.

The architect estimates the project would cost $7,500,000 and since it would provide 5,000 parking spaces, the cost would be $1,500 per space. This is far lower, he adds, than most subterranean parking facilities. Total cost would be $150 per front foot of the property.

To stimulate downtown business, Farrant suggests the parking should be free to the shopper, with the cost underwritten by property owners and businessmen.

• • • •

"THE AMORTIZED cost would be about $10 per year per front or about 3 cents every time a car parked," he said.

A native of Australia, Farrant came to the United States from England where he was educated at the School of Building and the University of London. For 26 years he has been actively engaged in the building industry and has received numerous awards both abroad and in this country for new techniques in the building field.

He has prepared parking plans for such cities as Salt Lake City, Rochester, Miami and Riverside. During his three years in Long Beach he has engineered more than 100 apartment buildings.

Farrant is chairman of the American Institute of Architects legislative committee.

Feather River Water to Be Southland Boon

Castaic Dam which will create a reservoir with a capacity of 100,000 acre-feet of water. The reservoir will have a water surface of 1,260 acres and a shoreline of 23 miles.

* * * *

FROM ITS JUNCTION with the east branch to Castaic Reservoir the aqueduct will consist of 15 miles of tunnels and siphons, one pumping plant and three power plants. The one pumping station, near Fairmont, will lift the water about 270 feet to an elevation of 3,225 feet. From this point the water will flow southward through Portal Ridge and along Elizabeth Canyon.

The east branch will extend 116 miles from the junction of the two branches until it reaches Perris Reservoir in Riverside County. Along the way the water will travel through 79 miles of canal, 33 miles of siphon, four miles of tunnel and through one pumping plant and two power plants.

* * * *

AT PEARLBLOSSOM, a pumping plant will lift the water 535 feet to an elevation of 3,470 feet. From the pumping plant the aqueduct will cross the Mojave River by siphon and will discharge into the Cedar Springs Reservoir at the north base of the San Bernardino Mountains.

About 200,000 acre-feet of water will be impounded at Cedar Springs Reservoir. The water will continue in an underground pipe to the Perris Reservoir, located in a wide valley surrounded by the Bernasconi Hills of Riverside County, where 100,000 acre-feet of the water will be stored.

CHAMBER CHIEF APPLIES SYMBOL
Harry Krusz, executive vice president, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, fixes anniversary symbol on REA Express truck as W. L. Bostic, REA general agent in Long Beach, stands by.

L.B. Joins in Noting 125th Anniversary of REA Express Co.

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

W. L. Bostic, general agent of the Long Beach REA Express offices at 3976 Cherry Ave., has announced that his company now is celebrating its 125th anniversary.

All vehicles operating from the local offices, as well as internationally, will carry Anniversary Year symbols, Bostic said.

Joining in the observance by attaching one of the symbols to an REA truck recently was Harry Krusz, local Chamber of Commerce chief, who offered 'birthday' congratulations to the company.

* * * *

IT WAS on March 4, 1839, that a frail young man named William F. Harnden inaugurated the first regular express service between Boston and New York City.

Harnden, employed by the Boston & Worcester Railroad, noted the lack of facilities for transport of valuables, papers and packages; and he conceived the idea of regular 'express' service. Hence, the firm of Harnden & Co. was formed.

At first, his traffic was small enough to be carried by carpetbag. At one time, wheelbarrows were used.

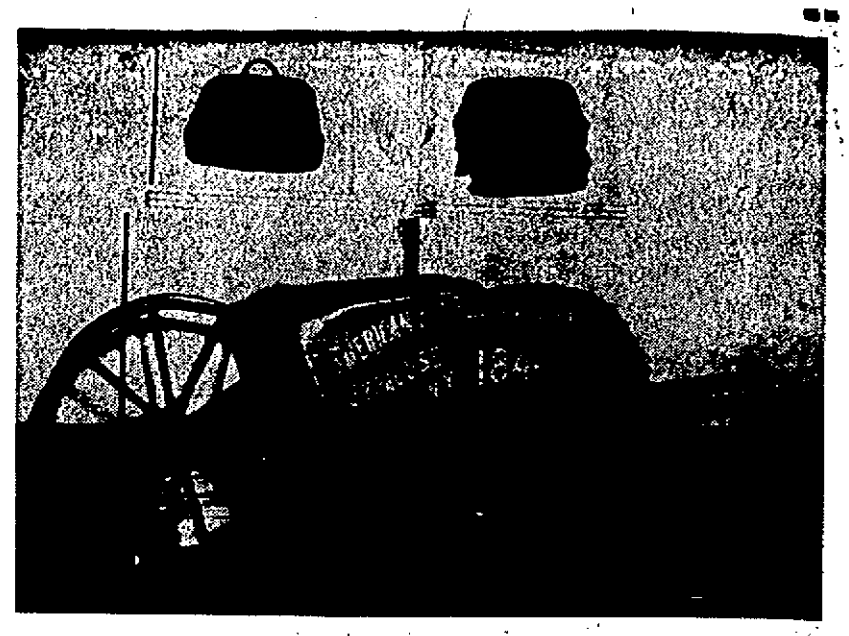

* * * *

EVENTUALLY, Harnden arranged with the railroad to use a small box-like express car, pulled right behind the locomotive — and to this day express cars run at the head-end of trains.

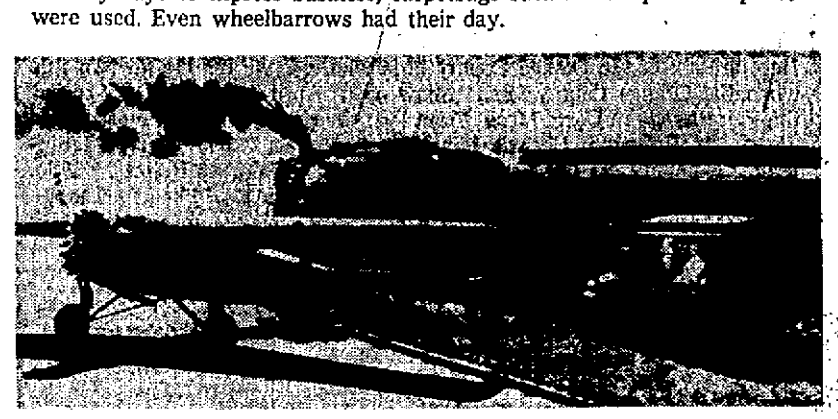

Other companies were formed, such as Adams Express, American Express and Wells Fargo.

REA Express, formerly was known as Railroad Express Agency, now has more than 30,000 fulltime employes.

There has been an express office in Long Beach since the earliest days of railroading here, according to Bostic.

HOW THEY USED TO DO IT
In early days of express business, carpetbags such as at top of this photo were used. Even wheelbarrows had their day.

Plan 201, the large split-level home at El Dorado Park Estates was decorated in the popular Spanish motif, with bold use of red and black with an all white background. Many comments of praise are given the officials on this particular model. "It's an exciting motif and we're very proud of the decorating," the spokesman added.

New Springdale South Unit of Homes Will Be Available Soon

The new unit of Springdale South Homes in Huntington Beach is expected to be unveiled soon as sales on the remaining residences of the current Pacifica Series approach the concluding mark, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

He adds that even at this early stage considerable interest is being shown on the new unit by prospective homebuyers as construction work proceeds rapidly on the new unit.

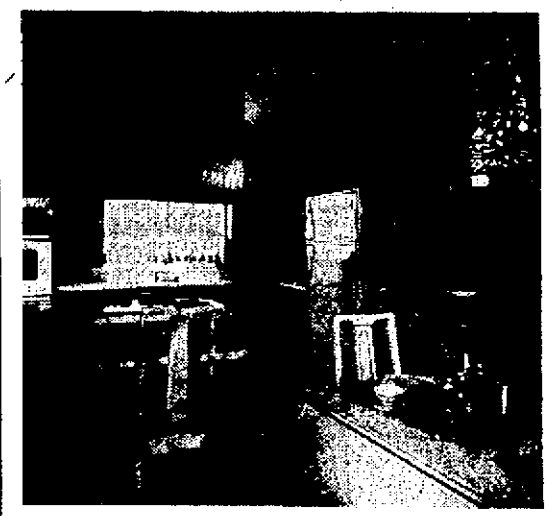

As is previous developments, Bram expects the upcoming unit to experience rapid sales on the basis of the extra value that is built into each Sunkist Plaza Home and which results from the firm's mass buying power.

* * * *

THIS ENABLES not only to build more dollar value into each home, Bram notes, but to sell the homes with a minimum outlay of cash.

Springdale South, whose models are at the corner of Bolsa Ave. and Edwards St. in Huntington Beach, features an array of four three and four bedroom plans with a variety of exterior designs. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment and only $100 costs to move in.

To reach the development, go west on Bolsa to Edwards and models.

This appealing dining and kitchen area is in one of the new Springdale South Homes offered by Sunkist Plaza Builders in Huntington Beach. Only $100 in cash is needed by a qualified buyer.

NEARLY HALF SOLD

(Parcels 10 Acres and Up)

Southern California Mountain-Ringed Recreational Retreat . . . for Discriminating Buyers

Close-in Location—Two hours, twenty minutes from Los Angeles over freeways and excellent roads in "Old West" seclusion and charm. Historic gold-rush area in beautiful natural basin is protected by surrounding mountains. Accessible by three roads—and an airstrip on the ranch.

Lush, Growing Land—In Walker Basin, an area of working ranches with lots of trees and green vegetation, the property is rich in history. On it the famous old Joe Walker gold mine was closed, after water came in faster than it could be pumped out.

Fabulous Climate—At the 3500-foot level it is definitely cooler in Summer, enjoyable all year. Four seasons, blue skies, good rainfall, some snow, and clear, clear mountain air make this a wonderful vacationland all year.

Water and Utilities—Fed by runoff from surrounding mountains, the water table is reportably good. A 60-foot well sunk in 1962 tested 240 gallons per hour. Electricity is available, and telephones are now in.

A Great Playland—Surrounded on three sides by Sequoia National Forest and overlooked by towering peaks to 8,900 feet, this is fantastic country. Ideal for horses, it provides practically endless miles of adventure on horseback. Just 16 miles north you can fish, swim, boat and waterski on Lake Isabella. Another 15 miles is Shirley Meadows, with good snow, skiiners and rope tows.

Wildlife Paradise—Excellent hunting, easy limits on a variety of game birds, and one of the largest deer herds in the state.

Acreages—These are nice spacious spreads—10 acres and larger. Once a working cattle ranch, but presently raising quarter horses, this is scenic land with oaks, rock formations, stream beds, flatlands and rolling hills. Each parcel has a choice of several sites for building that hideaway home. Plenty of land is available for you to divide and retain a view site for yourself.

Not a Cheap Speculation—No $10 down-$10-when-you-catch-me promotion—and not desert sand. This is good land at a fair price in an unspoiled high mountain valley setting, for those who hope to invest in recreational living. We insist you stand on the land and know what you are buying. But first, mail the coupon today for additional information.

The upstairs features the unique growing room which can be used as a spacious one room family activity center or can be finished with five or six bedrooms and three baths. Regal Homes New Unit Is Half Sold

The second unit of Regal Homes is nearly 50% sold, states Tom Sims, builder of the Buena Park subdivision. Last week, Sims reported nearly $200,000 worth of homes were sold.

The excellent location of Regal Homes is one of the most important reasons for the popularity, Sims added. Located on Orangethorpe between Valley View and Knott Ave. in Buena Park, Regal Homes are short driving distances from Long Beach, the industrial areas of Fullerton, Anaheim and East Los Angeles.

REGAL HOMES are three and four bedrooms, family room and two baths. They are priced from $22,900 and have been designed to provide many of the homes with unusually large "king-size" lots for pools, gardens, etc.

Offered by Tom Sims, builder, in Buena Park, Regal Homes provide a variety of stylings priced from $22,900. Here is one of the models.

Sunkist Plaza's Homes Appealing

Public enthusiasm after preview showing of the new Treasure Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach continues high as evidenced by the number of homeseekers to the development and sales are expected to follow in the footsteps of the recently sold out Buccaneer Series.

This was the prophecy of Sy Bram, executive director of the Sunkist Plaza Builders, the firm that built and developed the residential subdivision.

The use of quality materials and workmanship coupled with the inclusion of many extras not usually found in homes of this price range are expected to be the leading factors in the sales in much the same way that they helped the previous unit sell out in record time.

* * * *

THE EXTRA VALUE built into the homes has propelled the Sunkist Plaza firm into the upper echelon of the homebuilding industry. They have built thousands of quality residences in various locations of the Southland.

Ande due to this voluminous operation, the firm has acquired a mass purchasing power that enables it to make the residences available with a minimum of outlay. An example is the fact that the homes sell for no down payment—only total costs of $150. All are priced from $19,750.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; turn right to Bolsa; then right to Springdale and left (south) on Springdale and follow the signs to the furnished models.

Scottsdale Town Houses Offer Varied Recreation Programs

GARAGES AT REAR

Shown is one of two-story residential buildings at Scottsdale. This shows how Scottsdale Town House buildings all face landscaped malls. Garages are behind, with access from rear drives.

"Swimming, Little League baseball, dancing and tennis for the younger set, dancing, informal parties and pot-luck dinners for the grown-ups are the most popular leisure time pursuits in recreational communities."

This was the statement from Neil Murdoch, activities director of Scottsdale Town Houses near Long Beach, who used a majority of residents in his new family development as a barometer.

Along with arts and crafts and football, the activities above were listed most frequently in a survey taken at Scottsdale, Ray Watt's residential-recreational community where more than 500 of 600 single-family residences have been sold in six months.

One hundred seventy-seven families, representing residents in the development's first-built section, responded to the survey, said Murdoch.

"The Status of the Tidelands Oil Situation" will be discussed at the Long Beach Community Forum Wednesday by local city officials.

Making the presentation will be Ray Kealer, city councilman, and Leonard Putnam, new city attorney.

Sponsored weekly by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Forum is held in the Crown Cafeteria, First Street and Alamitos Avenue, beginning at 7:15 a.m.

Lake Park Location Attracts

Proximity to major centers of employment, commercial, educational and recreation centers gives Lake Park, the $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, an appeal rarely found in new residential developments, reports sales manager Don Hermanson.

"Location always is a major factor in the success of a new community," Hermanson said, "and if a man can buy a home close to his place of work, plus all of the other amenities, he will do so."

Lake Park has not only the widest selection of two-story homes available in Orange County but also the lowest priced two-story models and is now selling in its fourth unit, he added.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story homes, Hermanson noted.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co., an affiliate of Larwin Group Companies, one of the nation's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to the model homes just east of Moody.

Great Ocean Vista From Harbor View

Busy, bustling Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors are but five minutes from one of the more outstanding home values available in Southern Los Angeles County. Harbor View Estates, located just two minutes from the Harbor Freeway, is above the noise and traffic of the city, on a hill looking eastward to the basins of the sister harbors of Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Both small boat sailors who want to take their boats out in the winter and ocean-racing big boat men find this location unequalled in convenience to the many facilities of the Small Craft Harbor of Los Angeles Harbor.

* * * *

"MANY WEEKENDS there are ocean sailing races that start and finish right there in the basin," reports sales director Joe Garibay. "Every other year there is the Trans Pacific Yacht Race which finishes in Hawaii . . . and starts right here in full view of a spectator fleet of thousands. I don't know of a comparable community that offers such an attraction."

Harbor View Estates is a Ray Watt development of one- and two-level, three- and four-bedroom homes priced from $22,950. Drive to the end of the Harbor Freeway to Gaffey, north one block to Capitol and left to the models.

Trade-in Plan for New Home

A special trade-in plan at Suburbia Heights now makes it possible for buyers to move into a new home without waiting until their present one is sold, according to Norm Williams, director of sales for the Harry Trancredi Co., developers of the Buena Park project.

Priced from $33,950, each two-story home includes four or five bedrooms, three bathrooms.

Suburbia Heigths can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the Beach Blvd. exit. Travel northbound to Luitwieler Ave., turn north on Luitwieler.

Family-Ready Home Appeals

new-home headaches, and comparatively low selling price are the three factors credited with the rapid sales pace maintained at the 250-home Fountainhead development in Fountain Valley.

Lowell Evans, president of Evans Building Co., decided that the homes at Fountainhead were going to offer more than any other new homes and would be built to eliminate as many new-home headaches as possible.

* * * *

"THE OUTLAY of money and hard work involved in laying carpets, hanging drapes, planting lawns and building fences were making more and more people decide that they would rather buy an older home," Evans said. "That's why all the homes at Fountainhead are 'family-ready' . . . which means simply that they are ready to move into and enjoy."

Family-ready features at Fountainhead include fences, lawns, landscaping, sprinklers, carpeting, drapes, dishwasher, built-in TV antenna, and a complete built-in G.E. kitchen.

FIND WHAT you want when you want it by reading Classified ads. Turn to Classified now.

In addition, buyers are given a choice in financing their new Fountainhead home. They may pay just $495, which includes all move-in costs, and start making monthly payments upon close of escrow; or they may pay 10 percent down in which case monthly payments are deferred on plans 503 and 504 until Jan. 1, 1965. Prices start at $20,950.

The homes are located on Cannery and Warner in Fountain Valley.

They do the double job of helping to make your individual future, as well as your country's future, secure.

Buy the ones that fit your budget—at your bank, or through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Owners of Stardust Homes Help With Sale to Others

IN BELFONTAINE SERIES
Belfontaine Series of Stardust Homes in Fountain Valley offer all-electric kitchens with dinette and include colored built-ins, ceramic tile counters, hardwood cabinets and inlaid vinyl floors.

"My best salesmen are my satisfied home buyers," says Robert H. Grant, builder-developer of Stardust Homes.

Results of a recent company survey showed that nearly 50 per cent of Stardust Home sales were to people who had been advised and directed to the models by former customers.

"Having satisfied owners of a Stardust Home recommend them to their friends and acquaintances is undoubtedly the best tribute that any builder could ask for," says Grant. "It has always been a fundamental policy of our organization to provide quality construction of medium priced homes with warranty and service after sale."

* * * *

GRANT HAS demonstrated his versatility in the real estate development field by building more than 5,000 new homes in Southern California during the past 10 years. His most recent development is the Belfontaine Series of Stardust Homes in Fountain Valley. The project may be reached via Beach Blvd. to Garfield Ave. (from the Santa Ana Freeway) then east one-half mile to furnished models where a children's playground is provided.

Location, of course, is this prestige community's biggest drawing card since it is only two miles from Huntington Beach, enjoying sea breezes that provide ideal temperature and clear days all-year round.

* * * *

STARDUST HOMES are built on large lots, a minimum 72 feet wide, with concrete driveways. The homes are hardwood floors over raised foundations on solid concrete piers. Copper plumbing is featured throughout.

Baths have a marble top pullman and glass-enclosed showers. Kitchens with dinette are all-electric with colored built-ins. The cabinets are hardwood, floor is inlaid vinyl, and kitchen counters are ceramic tile. Bedrooms contain double wardrobe closets with cedar floors. Additional features include landscaping, fencing, sprinklers and garages with special boat doors.

Home prices start from $23,600 with either low $650 down, 30-year bank financing or FHA and VA financing.

Luxury Rental Unit Development Sold

Sale of one of the ultra-modern apartment houses now under construction here was announced by Ted C. Bradshaw, sales manager of the C. Robert Langslet Co., well known local building firm.

Known as "Fairway Park," the 45-unit, three-story structure is being erected at Broadway and Wisconsin Ave. It will feature a large swimming pool, a 9-hole putting green, large recreation for all units.

Buyer of the development was the Executive Investment Group of Garden Grove, Bradshaw said, and the price was in excess of $600,000.

* * * *

THE GROUP is headed by Fritz L. Krauth, Garden Grove CPA who for many years was captain of the Long Beach Flying Wheels, national champion wheelchair basketball team. Krauth recently purchased and completed a 36 deluxe unit apartment at 910 Freeman Ave., bought from Langslet. Both projects are rentals.

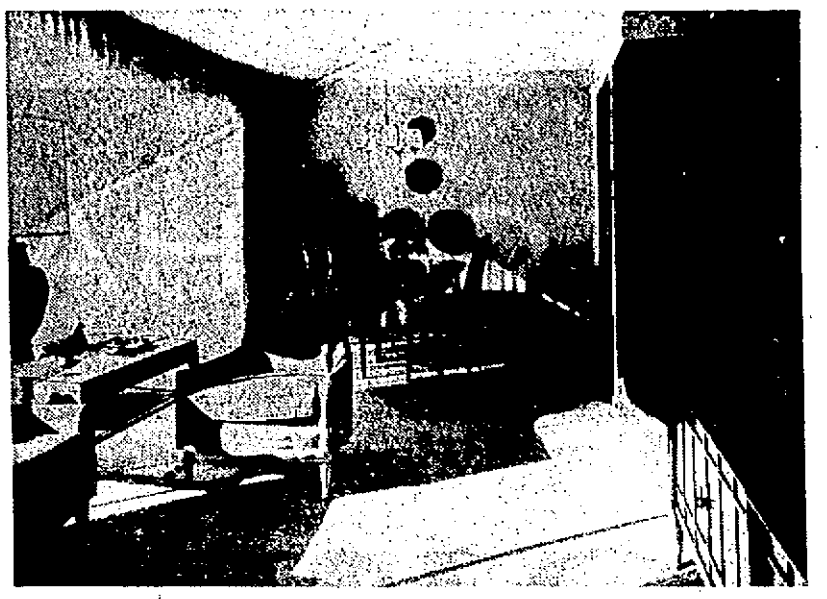

Paul Noble, designer for Fairway Plaza, said the three-story structure will be soundproofed, will have an elevator, extensive landscaping, large wood-paneled lobby with a graceful water fountain.

There will be 31 two-bedroom apartments with two baths, a large three-bedroom suite and 1 one-bedroom unit. All apartments will have huge closets, pullman baths, all-electric built-ins, wall-to-wall carpeting, draperies and theromostatically controlled radiant heat.

Expansion of Buffums' Department Store has raised sales and profits to a new high, announced Vaile G. Young, president.

Sales the past year rose 22% to $21,745,376 and net profits advanced 12% to $523,446, equal to 95 cents per share, up from the 85 cents last year.

As Buffums' enters its 60th year it reaches a peak in its growth having added some 200,000 sq. ft. of retailing space during the past two years as it has opened new stores in Pomona at the Top of the Mall, Buffums' Palos Verdes at Peninsula Center, a new Men's Store adjacent to the main store in Santa Ana at 10th and Main and an additional lease space for a new Home Decorating Center and Sportsman's Shop on Broadway adjacent to the Buffums' Downtown Long Beach.

* * * *

THE VOLUME during this two-year expansion program has increased 40% while profits have increased 18% with allowances for non-recurring expenses in connection with this expansion program.

VAILE G. YOUNG

Easter Charade!...

Brothers and Bonnets

A hat's not just something you pull down around your ears. Any girl — even a little girl — knows that. A bonnet, particularly an Easter bonnet, has to flatter — be very pretty. When Mrs. John A. James of Lakewood Village took daughter, Julie, 6, and son, Ricky, 4, shopping for Pacific Coast Club's Easter parade (see story, left) — Julie, just like a woman, took her time. But, as you can see, Rickey had time for everything . . .

Members of the John A. James family—like millions of families across the nation—are busy this week whipping wardrobes into shape for next Sunday's Easter parade.

The Jameses—with their three scrubbed, well-dressed youngsters in tow—will be among holiday celebrants at Pacific Coast Club's annual brunch (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and Easter parade (1:30 p.m.).

Member families will parade their Easter finery to vie for three special prizes. On the fun side, special entertainment will be provided by the area's delightful and happy clown, Bob "Bon-Bon" Bonney.

The event is a benefit for the Cerritos Pool for the Handicapped.

1. ALL THE SUITS suited him fine in boys' department at Buffums'. One with bright plaid jacket, another with red jacket over black and white striped vest were "just swell." So Ricky, with mom's help, made snap decision. That done, he looked around for Julie. There she was STILL trying on hats. "Girls!"

2. "HMM! WONDER HOW this goes," muses Julie, now trying on 20th bonnet. In background: Ricky, one bored brother, ponders his reflection, also the foibles of females. Then, an idea! Quick as you can pull a rabbit out of a hat, he was in one—a frilly girl-type bonnet with bows.

3. HATS CAN GO TO YOUR HEAD, in fact they're kinda fun, decides Ricky. Moving in closer, he views himself in straw sailor with big brim and streamers—likes the look. Julie isn't so sure about pink flowered number, her 39th try-on. "Does it make my face look too round?" she asks.

4. HOPING OVER TO ladies hats, Ricky tries a big one for size. Enter the saleswoman: "Cute," says she. Soon, Ricky attracts a crowd of amused on-lookers. Meanwhile, Julie sits nearby, lost in lonely—and feminine—indecision. Hat No. 43, she finds, is a lot like first one. "But, does it fit better, maybe?"

5. "GO HOME?" MOANS RICKY! "Why? This is fun!" Julie, who's just discarded hat 44, hasn't heart to try more. She wants to come back—without brother, please. Ricky puzzled, wonders why. He thought girls liked to buy hats. He'd take this one, "Wow, it'd make a swell Easter basket!"

Families Enjoy Being 'Taped' Together

By Iola Masterson

I, P-T Women's Editor

THEY DON'T read letters, they spin 'em at the home of Jack and Alyne Dillon. Literally getting the latest word from family members far away is Jack, supervisor of senior citizens activities for the Long Beach Recreation Dept., seen below, in his favorite position whenever a new "letter" arrives.

In favorite position after visit from mailman.

The Dillons daughter and son-in-law, Jaclyn Sue and Capt. Robert L. Brown, sent them the tape recorder as a gift when they were Army-stationed in Germany. Although closer, now that Bob is serving with the Central Intelligence Agency in Falls Church, Va., the localites still know their grandchildren, Bobby and Robin Lynn, better by their voices than by their faces.

They send tapes back and forth across country—then erase them, re-record and off goes another long, satisfying message. The gift of a tape recorder to someone dear, but not close, if you catch my meaning, isn't a bad idea.

RUNNING AFOUL of The Law is getting to be a monotonous habit for law-abiding Ruth Grisham. A supervisor for student teachers at Cal State LB, on a part time basis, she has had seven tickets in one, two, three (through seven) order. The tickets were received on campus parking lots. First time she hadn't had time to attach her just received new parking sticker. Another time she took husband, Jack's, car (naturally sans sticker), and the others, I gathered, were written like lightning while she just "parked a minute" (sometimes in the wrong places) to make dash in and dash out trips to buildings.

TRAVELING, not as swiftly as March winds have been blowing, but with the steady roll of a big ship are Gertrude (Mrs. Will) Winston and Adele (Mrs. Herman) Lane. They flew to San Francisco and debarked Saturday on the S.S. Cleveland for Japan.

They'll leave the ship at Yokohama, and will spend a month touring. They'll meet Adele's daughter and son-in-law, Frances and Major "Bus" (Stewart) Bachtelle, USAF, in Tokyo. The Bachtelle's will fly over to rendezvous from duty in Guam. Then, all together, they'll return to Guam where Gertrude and Adele will spend 10 days before flying home in mid-May.

"DID YOU HAVE a good time," was an innocuous question, but I asked it anyway and the answer was, as expected, enthusiastically affirmative from Caye Elliott. She and "Scrub" just returned from a flying trip to Mexico City and Acapulco to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

Marvelous weather and they met such wonderfully hospitable people. Caye said that in Mexico City especially, residents went out of their way to make them welcome.

OFF ON A tremendous adventure with their five children and two cats are Betty and Frank Hoyt who flew away Thursday to make their home in Barcelona, Spain, "for a couple of years, at least." They will make stopover visits in Washington, D.C., and New York before enplaning for Spain. Once over there, they'll visit in Madrid and Lisbon, Portugal, before going on to Barcelona. They have no home arranged for yet but, through transmission of many letters, have learned they'll have no trouble getting nicely settled.

The reason for this big break with life, Stateside, is that Frank has a yen to write and paint (he's very talented at both, friends assure me) and he and Betty both just decided to make the break, see another part of the world, and do what they want to do. The children, Chris, Peter, Steve, Curtis and Cathy, ranging in that order, from ages 16 to 9, all have been studying Spanish and are set for their new school experiences in Espana.

Why take the cats? Betty said everyone thought that very funny. Just happens they like the furry rascals, wanted them along.

LOOKING LIKE mid-August instead of end of winter, Flo and Kenny Richmond returned Tuesday from a skiing trip to Mammoth with their three sons —all of them as tanned as surfers in the good old summertime.

All very adept on the slopes, they had a marvelous time, with snow conditions perfect.

WHILST DANCING with a gentleman who shall remain nameless (but who obviously was very agile on the dance floor), Marjory (Mrs. Bernie) Quinn broke two bones in her foot during the big fun and fund raiser (scholarships for LBCC and Cal State LB.) dinner dance at Petroleum Club given by Adrian Department of Ebell.

At last report she's mending without benefit of cast, fortunately. Actually, the gentleman is nameless because Marjory doesn't know just when the snaps occurred; wasn't aware of the extent of the damage until the next day.

A dab more about the party, four very merry cocktail parties preceded for their friends in the home of Virginia and Bob Pierce, Ginny and Ray Estes, Mary and Francis Pard and Connie and Pat De Rosa. Not a fracture to report during any of these, however. Lots of others gathered at the club for no host sips prior to dinner.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES immensely, despite the "unaccustomed" hustle and bustle of city life, are long time former residents of town, Allie and "Huffie" Huffman. They're re-visiting all their favorite old haunts (meaning places), and favorite people, too.

Houseguesting with Mary Jane and Bob Parke, they'll be here until a few days after Easter when they'll return to the quiet, quiet of their place in the High Sierras.

The Huffmans operate the Buckhorn Motel in Cnleville (altitude, 5300 feet) which is located just 30 miles north of Bridgeport and 80 miles south of Reno and is a favorite stopping off place for hunting and fishing types from here.

Allie was telling me they really have her on the run these days. Educators in Mono County discovered she has lifetime teaching credentials from UCLA and have pressed her into doing substitute teaching. The catch is—she's the ONLY substitute teacher in that entire, big county. Big as it is, it has only 80 elementary students and 40 high school students, but they're really scattered all around.

ASK ANY WOMAN. This takes feminine courage of the highest caliber. Deenie (Mrs. Chris) Conway had TWO large and separate parties at her home on Thursday.

The first, a brunch with a spring fan fare theme, was co-hostessed by Barbara Clark and Kay Nesbitt and took place from morning into afternoon. The second, given by Deenie a la solo hostess, was a shower for Pat Gillis, Shirley and Bill's daughter, who will wed Ron Bloom next month, and was an evening affair.

"One nice thing about it," said Mrs. C. busy in camera's eye, left below, with co-hostesses Barbara and Kay, "was that the only decoration changes I had to make was to switch the fan on the door for the morning party (attended by about 125 Assistance League co-horts) to wedding bells on it for the evening affair.

Pink roses and white tulips on the buffet and pink tulip arrangements on individual tables were perfect complement to both parties—fan fare or shower. Touche the planning!

Not a hitch — just a switch between parties.

Patches - - Unwitting Cat-astrophy C reator

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem with my cat, Patches. He is a beautiful cat and just loves everyone, but I'm beginning to believe he only "tolerates" us. I'm not sure who is at fault — Patches, our next-door neighbors or us.

Our neighbors love to fish, and several times a week they are cleaning fish in their back yard. As soon as Patches sees them drive in he leaves home and stays over there all day. They like Patches and give him all the fish he wants when they bring home a catch. Occasionally, he will favor us with a visit but he soon gets bored and goes back to the neighbors'. He even sleeps with their dog.

I can't keep him in all day and I won't pen him up. I like to play with Patches but Mother won't let us go to the neighbors' as much as Patches does. How can I keep him in my yard?

—LONESOME FOR PATCHES

DEAR LONESOME:

Golly, you do have a problem. I've heard cats are very independent and definitely pick their own masters and competing with the smell of fresh fish is practically impossible. If you can't give him fresh fish at home, I'm afraid he is going to spend most of his time next door. If the neighbor likes him, too—you have double competition!

"Part of a loaf is better than none," so I guess you'll have to be satisfied with a part-time pet. Even though he is your cat, you are going to have to share him with the "fishing" neighbors. If it is any consolation, at least Patches is happy!—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I heard some gossip about a friend of mine. I was terribly shocked and decided to write to the friend and tell her what I had heard.

Here is what she wrote back to me: "What you have heard is probably so. However, for the sake of the innocent child I won't confirm the gossip.

"Yes, she could be a child of whom you said. He has not contributed to the child's welfare at all. I have no thought of divorcing my husband and marrying him."

She said a bit more, but I have quoted the essential part. Now, I'd like very much to ask you to please give my friend some advice. She reads your column—and might profit from whatever you have to say.

—SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED:

I don't think your friend needs any advice. (She obviously did at one time, but that's water over the dam, now).

From your letter, it seems she is working out her problem in her own way.

I'd like to give you some advice, though. Transmitting gossip is a dangerous thing to do and many times costs a friend. I think you would have been wise to ignore the the gossip when it was told to you.

You've done no good by repeating the story — and you may do harm unless you let it die and refuse to discuss it from here on out.

—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Three cheers for you for your answer to "Right, I Think" who wouldn't visit her aunt on account of the way Auntie made over her animals.

I have three cats and a dog and am raising a little puppy for a friend who wants a big dog but cannot care for a puppy.

If my animals so much as sneeze they go right to the vet's. They are not "dumb brutes" as "Right" called them; they are smarter than lots of people, My animals have names and answer when the are called.

There is Bootsie, Peanuts, Tommy, Penny, the dog, and Sheba, the little pup. I wouldn't trade my animals for anything in the world!

—MRS. E. MANN

P.S. The birds who come to feast in my yard (I make sure they have a feast, too) are also my pets.

DEAR MRS. MANN:

Thank you for your letter. I received many, many comments on "Right's" attitude toward her aunt's pets. A lot of them said I was nuts for thinking a dog or a cat had every right in the world to be made over and babied, just as long as the owner got pleasure out of doing same.—M.M.

Paris in America—Tres Gai!

By Mary Ellis Carlton, I.P-T Fashion Editor

A LA PARIS . . . St. Laurent's swirl of pleats, slashed to reveal slim sheath banded in satin. Black-on-black motif is repeated in dropped belt with bow. Huge bow continues squared hat brim.

Paris fashions at American ready-to-wear prices . . .

That's the big excitement this week at May Co. stores, where fashion experts have taken advantage of that American style phenomenon—mass production—to bring Paris-inspired clothes to Californians.

To select this "Best of Paris" collection, the store sent its top buying and fashion experts to the French fashion capital in January.

They made the famous "gold chair circuit," visiting the glamor salons of Patou, Chanel, Capucci, Courreges, Givenchy, Balenciaga, Lanvin, Cardin, St. Laurent, Monsieur X.

From hundreds of tantalizing designs they chose a group of originals—costing $1,000 to $1,800 each! Reproductions, copied line for line, are available at prices from $70 to $195.

AT A PRESS SHOWING the past week, it was difficult to tell the Cardin originals from the Cardin copies. This designer's costumes featured his now-famous demure Quaker collar folded across a neckline that's anything but demure.

Also shown were St. Laurent's swirls of pleats, flared, gored, often slashed . . . Patou's angel wing sleeves to catch a roving eye . . . his exaggerated lapels wide open and revealing . . . Chanel's schoolgirl bows for the hair and Balenciaga's not-so-schoolgirl bows at the tummy.

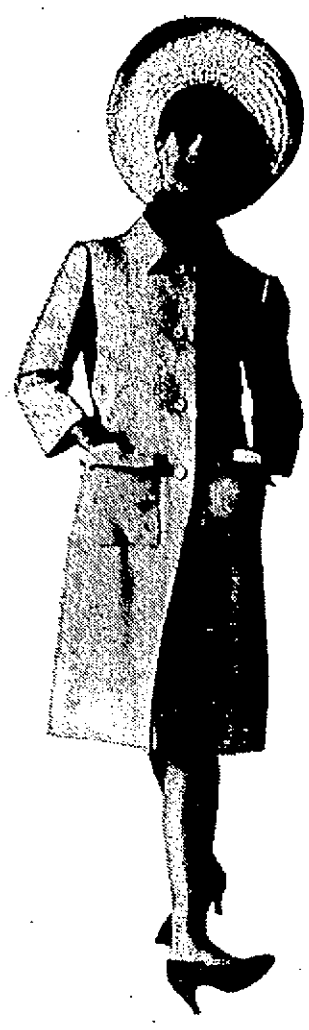

IN THE DISTILLATION of Paris, the essence of each line is the accessory.

Store buyers brought back a bower of flowers—gardenias and camellias, invariably worn just one at a time . . . a cloud of scarves, soft and silken—to tie, to fold, to flirt with . . . also a whole flight of beau-catcher bows.

About jewelry: There are piratical earrings (who but Paris would put two on one ear, none on the other?), sweet little frosted flowers on stickpins, bibs of beads that accentuate the lowest decolletage.

Hats, in many instances, dominate the costume. There are high Puritanical crowns, exaggerated sailors, intriguing square brims and poufs of silk and chiffon, bubbles and double bubbles. And everywhere, again: giant bows and scarves intricately knotted.

Many of the Paris-inspired fashions will be available in the Lakewood store, beginning Thursday.

'Breathless' Heads Bill at Center

"Breathless," a novel example of the French "new wave" film techniques, will be shown at Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., Saturday, April 4.

On the surface it is the story of a footloose French thug, concerned with evading the police, who forms a brief relationship with an American girl in Paris. But it is described by the Film Quarterly as a "subtly intellectual parody, with unified and witty improvisation—a mannerist fantasy and cinematic jazz—it is for the film sophisticate."

Dialogue will be in the original French, with English subtitles. A short subject, "Ancient Grecian Image," photographed by Claude Renoir, will complete the bill. The program will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m.

'Scotch on the Rocks' Is Bubbling

"Scotch on the Rocks," a rollicking, bubbling British comedy, will be shown at 3 and 8 p.m. Thursday at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. There is no admission charge.

Produced by John Grierson and directed by John Eldridge, the film features Ronald Squire, Raymond Huntley and Kathleen Ryan in leading roles.

The story concerns a group of stubborn islanders whose five automobile owners refuse to pay the British road tax. When a Parliamentary delegation, led by a pompous millionaire, is sent to quell the rebellion, a battle royal ensues.

Interspersed throughout are such British touches as an undertaker frustrated by the hardiness of the islanders, and an open air performance of "Macbeth" rudely interrupted by a gang of salmon poachers.

Al Bollington in Free Concert

Al Bollington will play a free organ concert Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Humphrey's Music Company, 135 E. Third St.

The musician played 2,000 programs for the British Broadcasting Company, had a weekly series on the Canadian Broadcasting Company and in a public poll was voted the most popular organist in England.

He was heard in Long Beach March 9 when he played a pre-show concert at the Festival of Fun and Fashion at Municipal Auditorium.

There is no admission charge but tickets should be picked up in advance or arranged for by telephone.

'Strike Up!'

The piano team Ferrante and Teicher, who have won nine gold awards for recordings in three years, will present their new program "Strike Up the Grands" at Los Angeles Philharmonic Auditorium April 8 at 8:30 p.m. This is the final concert of the season for Moss and Hayman attractions.

'Creatures' Ends

"Of Creatures 'N' Kids 'N' Dr. Seuss" Friday will end its 13-weeks run at Lytton Centter of the Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. Collector's Choice" will open April 1. Hours are Mondays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free.

To Dance in 'Coppelia' Ballet

The beautiful and entertaining ballet, "Coppelia," with its delightful story of a doll that comes to life, will be presented by Lakewood Philharmonic Association April 3 and 4.

Evening performances will begin at 8:15 p.m. in Lakewood High School Auditorium, 4400 Briercrest Ave. A special matinee is scheduled at 2:15 p.m. April 4.

Marcia Merritt (above) will dance the leading role of Swanhilda and Bill Tarpy will portray the male lead of Frantz.

TARPY WON a Ford Foundation scholarship which enabled him to study with the famous choreographer, George Balanchine. He has just returned from an extended tour of Russia with the Robert Joffrey Ballet Company.

Charles Pressey, coordinator of art resources at California State College at Long Beach, is cast as Dr. Coppelius. Other major roles will be danced by Dorothy Carroll, Julie Freeman, Anita Gordon, Reve Pincusoff, Paula Schossow and Sheryl Weaver.

VALERIE SILVER is director-choreographer for the production.

Tickets are on sale at Bixby Knolls Music Center, 4508 Atlantic Ave.; Valerie Silver Theater Arts Studio, 2740 E. Broadway; Rose's Hardware, 4132 Viking Way; Long Beach Dance Academy, 729 South St.; and Suzy's School of Dance, 6540 E. Spring St. Tickets also will be on sale at the box office.

Ludington Collection Spans History of Art

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"From the Ludington Collection" will be on display at Dickinson Art Center, UCLA, through April 12. This show reflects the felicitous combination of taste, an informed background and means.

Wright Ludington, who has built his Santa Barbara home around works of art from all over the world, ranging from the third millenium B. C. to the present, was born to parents who collected. He is, himself, a trained artist. His collecting began in the early 1920s. Two of his first acquisitions are Picasso's "Woman with a Turban 1923" and Braque's "Nude."

* * * *

THE COLLECTION does not follow any pre-conceived pattern. Primarily, the works themselves are exciting—the head of Gudea of 2200 B.C., the Braques, Picassos, the Morris Graves, the dynamic sculptures of Maillol, Zajac, Manzu, Lipton.

Secondly, is the excitement of seeing them together — a small contemporary sculpture finding its place among those of ancient Sumer, Egypt, China, India, Greece, and Rome. Throughout the exhibit there are sculptured hands: an alabaster one of Kephren of Egypt's fourth dynasty, with contemporaries by Rodin, Koenig, Moore, and Zadkine.

* * * *

IN ALL, there are 194 works in this exhibit. As a human being, one can rejoice in membership in a species which has produced such expressions. A great debt is owed to Ludington who provides in our time and place the vicarious participation for the public in this "voyage through a few facets of art history."

Durante to Debut in Round

Jimmy Durante will make his theater-in-the-round debut Saturday night when his "Jimmy Durante Show" opens a nine-day run at Melodyland Theater in Anaheim.

In May, the Orange County Performing Arts Foundation will offer three special attractions at Melodyland. Scheduled are Puccini's opera "Madame Butterfly," May 5, 7 and 9; Jack Linkletter's "Folk Festival," May 8; and Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" to be performed by the Los Angeles Festival Orchestra under the direction of Franz Waxman May 25.

Magnolia to Stage 'Taming of Shrew'

Robert Quarry and Pat Brown star in "Taming of the Shrew," Shakespeare's merry, rowdy comedy which opens Thursday at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Performances will continue Thursdays through Sundays for a four-week run. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursdays and Sundays, 8:30 p. m. Fridays and Saturdays.

QUARRY plays the role of Petruchio, bold suitor of Katharina. He made his Shakespearean debut in "As You Like It" with Katherine Hepburn in New York City and has acted with the Shakespearean companies of Maurice Evans and Margaret Webster. He is a graduate of Actors Studio in New York and Actors Lab in Los Angeles, has appeared in motion pictures and has done extensive television work.

Career Short but Exciting

Major and Minor Notes

The Vienna Choir Boys, whose concert delighted a capacity audience at Long Beach City College recently, have a unique and interesting background which might prove of interest to my readers.

There were 22 boys in the choir that appeared here and their ages ranged from 9 to 14 years. These boys have been trained, not only as singers, but as pupils of Vienna's world famous school, the "Hofmusikkappelle," which has been in existence for nearly 500 years. Three choirs are being trained at all times, two of which make tours all over the world. One choir must always be in Vienna for services at St. Stephen's Church and other musical activities. It is so planned that the youngsters are rotated so that every boy may have an opportunity to visit the different countries on tour before his voice changes.

* * * *

WHILE ON TOUR they are accompanied by their conductor, a teacher and a nurse. Twelve hours of sleep are required, if traveling schedules allow, and a nap after lunch is also a part of the routine. There is a short rehearsal before lunch and sight-seeing fills a few hours. The nurse cooks for the boys whenever possible as strange food sometimes upsets little stomachs.

These tours are a grand adventure for the young lads; meeting new people, hearing foreign languages, seeing wonderful sights and scenery and hearing the warm applause at their concerts. And they appreciate the rare privilege of being one of the famous Vienna Choir Boys.

* * * *

EACH YEAR thousands of boys are presented at the school by hopeful parents, but only 100 are accepted. It is a short career at best, as most boys voices change after 14 years. But even then, the boy whose voice has changed, does not become a "has been." The orgaization maintains another home in Vienna where their education is continued and their future planned. Naturally, many of the boys become professional musicians, others enter other professions. Recently at a reunion party of former choir boys, 37 attending held doctors degrees.

* * * *

IN THE AUGARTEN Palace near the center of Vienna it the Hofmusikkapelle School. A typical day's schedule runs like this: up at 6:15 a.m., wash, dress and a short morning prayer before breakfast. Classes are from 8 a.m. to noon. Lunch is followed by a 45 minute play period. Rehearsals and study fill the afternoon. Dinner is at 7 p.m. and bedtime, 8 o'clock.

The boys are trained to be responsible. They hang up their clothes neatly, polish their shoes daily and comb their hair without being told. When on tour their operetta costumes are packed neatly and their wigs, costumes and uniforms are treated with loving care.

Angelic as is their appearance on stage, they are "all boy" away from the concert hall, frisky and playful as boys should be. Their superb training and spontaneous, delightful performances have earned them the name of "Singing Ambassadors." Certainly they are spreading good will on their tours.

What's That? A Hat, Sir?

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

With the coming of Easter, femmes of all ages can expect the usual assortment of devastating comments from males regarding their new chapeaux. This may range from, "I didn't know they were wearing potted geraniums this year," to "Oh, so THAT'S where my hub cap went!"

If you're not quite resigned to this verbal abuse, you'll be interested in some info we've dug up that may make your guy eat crow—OR, more appropriately, his hat.

Fact is, ever since the first cave dweller donned a bit of fur or animal skin, men have worn some pretty fantastic headgear, as witness these facts gleaned from the Encyclopedia International:

In ancient Egypt, for example, men shaved their heads Yul Brynner-style and then sported the cutest wigs, tightly curled and dyed bright colors.

In the Middle Ages, a popular chapeaux for menfolk was the liripipe. This can best be described as a scarf that enclosed the neck and entire head, except for the face. Tails trailed down the back as far as the knees!

AND THEN there's the Renaissance. During that period he-men gaily sported silk or velvet berets adorned with gold embroidery, plumage and jewelry.

If your man pooh-poohs these historic examples and adamantly maintains it could never happen again, point out that your hat he laughs at today, he himself may be wearing tomorrow.

Not a chance, he claims. No woman can influence HIS headgear!

Well, it's happened before. All the noblemen in the day of Elizabeth I adopted the great beaver hat which she habitually wore—and it remained in fashion for several hundred years.

OF COURSE, you can talk your head off and he'll probably say your Easter bonnet is for the birds—you know, something like "It really would make a nice bird's nest."

And then after church, when you go to the beach, chances are he'll plop one of those fancy fun hats on his head . . .

You know, the kind with the tiny palm trees and the golf tees. (Tee-hee!)

Katie Davidson Wed in Garden Rite

In a garden wedding Saturday at the Ventura home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Craig, Katherine Lansing Davidson of Long Beach became the bride of John Lawrence Wiberg, Denver, Colo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Davidson, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Davidson. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Wiberg of Denver.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Craig, the bride wore a white taffeta gown fashioned along princess lines with lace and pearl appliques encrusting the front panel. Her illusion veil was caught to a crown of matching pearls and lace and her cascade bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis.

Susan Lee Davidson attended her sister as maid of honor and Jennifer Adams and Mrs. Craig Gladen were bridesmaids. They wore aquamarine shade gowns and carried yellow daffodils.

The bridegroom was served by his brother, Curtis Paul Wiberg, as best man. Ushers were Douglas Tamkin and Donald Vine.

IMMEDIATE family members and close friends witnessing the vow exchange were bidden to a luncheon reception following at the Craig home.

The newlyweds will be at home in Palo Alto following a honeymoon trip to Northern California.

Mrs. Wiberg was graduated from Wilson High School and Stanford University. Her husband did his under-graduate work at Wesleyan University in Connecticut and now is in his fourth year of medical school at Stanford University.

'TOMORROW'S TECHNIQUES TODAY'

New Method for School Lunches

REVOLUTIONARY developments in equipment, management techniques and automation are rapidly changing methods of school lunch preparation. These will be the subjects of California School Food Service Association's conference which opens today with sessions at Municipal Auditorium. Above, Frances Williams (left) of Long Beach shows Mrs. Richard Zwaschka of Bellflower equipment in Long Beach Unified School District's central kitchen at 27th Street and Pine Avenue. Miss Williams is general chairman of conference; Mrs. Zwaschka is in charge of local arrangements. Demonstrations will take theme, "Tomorrow's Techniques Today."

Frances Williams talks matter-of-factly about preparing 600 gallons of Italian spaghetti and meat sauce, 12,000 servings of apple crisp and 300 gallons of cole slaw—typical items on the elementary school lunch. If secondary schools also are having spaghetti, the quantity for the day goes up to 1,200 gallons.

The meat sauce is prepared in steam operated kettles that stir and mix automatically and have 40 to 100 gallons capacity. The apple crisp is baked in 375 pans, 10x16 inches.

If there's mixing to be done, ingredients are put in 140-quart electric mixers that have hydraulic lifts for bowls.

* * * *

MISS WILLIAMS, director of food services for Long Beach schools, says, "With increasing school enrollment and the trend toward making school cafeterias self-supporting, we constantly need faster, better equipment and we must keep up with the newest ideas."

It is for this purpose, the exchange of ideas with a view toward better school lunches, that members will attend the 11th annual conference of the California School Food Service Association which opens today with headquarters at Lafayette Hotel. Miss Williams is general chairman.

* * * *

THE ORGANIZATION, made up of school cafeteria supervisors, managers, and personnel throughout the state, will hold sessions through Tuesday at Municipal Auditorium.

Talks and demonstrations will be given by experts and commercial exhibits will show innovations in institutional cooking equipment and methods. Conference theme is "Tomorrow's Techniques Today."

Workshop topics will include "Short Cuts and Labor Savers," "Do It Yourself Psychology" and "Financial Management in the School Cafeteria."

* * * *

STATE PRESIDENT Maurine Chapman, supervisor of food services for Little Lake School District, will preside at the opening session when delegates will be welcomed by W. Odie Wright, superintendent of Long Beach Unified School District.

At the installation banquet which will close the conference Tuesday, Mrs. A'Dele Sturtevant of Redwood City will be inducted as state president.

Keep Your Guard Up

Somewhere there may be a land where finesses always work and suits never break badly, but until we find that never-never land, it behooves us to guard against unsuccessful finesses and bad breaks.

West makes his normal club opening and continues the suit. If South is at all careless, he will ruff that second club and go after trumps. The 4-1 break will make it impossible for him to pull all West's trumps without using all his own and when he loses the diamond finesse East will lead a third club and another contract will go down the drain.

Declarer will have been unlucky, but his bad luck will be due to his own carelessness. If South just stops to think at trick two he can guard against both the four-one trump break and the losing finesse. Furthermore, he can take those precautions at no risk at all.

South should note that his deuce of hearts is going to be a losing trick no matter how the play goes and he should simply discard it on the second club.

* * * *

WEST will continue clubs and South will ruff the third lead. Then he will go after trumps and should play them all, in order to pull West's last tooth.

Finally, South will lose the diamond finesse. East will be in the lead but he won't have any clubs left. He'll have to give South the remaining tricks.

WHY GROW OLD?

Make-Up Improves Appearance

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Make-up has a terrific influence on the way we look. Too much is aging and too little underplays beauty. Here are a few things to remember.

1. Rouge highlights or makes more prominent the area on which it is applied. Therefore the wide face or the one which is quite round or large looks slimmer if the rouge is worn close to the nose.

If the face is very long or thin, do just the opposite. Wear rouge on the outer portions of the face, away from the nose.

2. Dark powder subdues or makes less noticeable while light powder highlights and calls attention to the portion of the face to which it is applied. For this reason many experts advise dark powder on the sides of a nose which is too wide and light powder on the bridge of the nose. If it is too thin or too long, reverse the technique.

3. Do not apply rouge too low on the face. This is aging. Give your face a lift by placing it higher on the face.

4. Beware of powdering over wrinkles. Your make-up base should be very light. Otherwise base and powder will settle in the wrinkles and make them much more noticeable.

5. Dark eye shadow is not usually flattering to the older woman.

6. If you apply your mascara with a brush rather than rolling it on, be sure that the brush is not too wet. It should be just barely damp in order to avoid a beaded look.

* * * *

7. NEVER use a black eyebrow pencil except in combination with a brown one. It is too harsh when used alone, even if you are a brunette.

8. Be sure that your lips are dry and clean before using your lipstick. Begin the application at the center of the lips and work out to the corners. Blot with tissue. A light powdering will help keep the rouge from running into any little lines you may have above the upper lip. There is also a product designed to help camouflage these little lines. It is colorless and is used under your regular lipstick.

If you would like to have my leaflet about make-up, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 50 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Putnam's a Good Egg Cook

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

Anything that came out of that oven might amaze him — but apparently not surprise him. Or, perhaps, today's candidate for Chef of the Week, Attorney Leonard Putnam's expression could be one of hopeful anticipation.

Putnam was elected City Attorney by the Long Beach City Council in February of this year.

Born in Long Beach, Putnam attended St. Matthew's Elementary, Will Rogers Junior High, finishing at Wilson High School in 1944, just in time to join the U. S. Navy as radio operator, seaman first class.

Chef of the Week

After two years in the service, he entered USC for pre-law work, later transferred to UCLA as a political science major and was graduated magna cum laude from Southwestern Law School in Los Angeles in 1953.

* * * *

WHILE STILL in law school, he worked as an insurance investigator. For a year prior to joining the city attorney's staff, he was in private practice here. In 1955 he was appointed deputy city attorney for Long Beach, which position he held until his late appointment as city attorney.

Putnam's legal experience includes work on ordinances, drafting contracts, tax assessment matters, street opening and vacating, appellate practice and personal injury trials. He has appeared in federal court in bankruptcy, tax, admiralty and criminal, and as advisor to the Civil Service Court.

A member of the Barristers of Long Beach, he belongs to the American, the California and the Long Beach Bar Associations. He's also associated with the 100 Club, Boy Scouts of America and is a coach in the Catholic Boys Baseball League.

* * * *

PUTNAM has both an artistic sense, and that of a builder. He designs and builds model airplanes and miniature boats, complete with motors. He's an excellent swimmer, he bowls in the Mariposa League and likes to fish. His finesse at pinochle is said to be a bit dubious.

The Putnam family consists of wife, Lillian, daughter, Nancy, and two pups of questionable ancestry.

Our "Chef" loves to barbecue. Contends not too much can go wrong with a good barbecue sauce in the making. While not what one might call an organized cook, he's never in a state of uncertainty. He has patience, determination and is great at contriving and substituting should some ingredient be lacking in the larder. And . . . if the motor goes out—well, he'll turn by hand.

But, we'll expand no longer on his abilities at the barbecue pit. He's come up today with a recipe for Eggs Lillian. We're not sure whether it's "His" or "Hers."

EGGS LILLIAN

Combine 6 tablespoons ground ham, 2 tablespoons minced parsley and a little pepper. Butter 6 muffin tins and pat onto sides and bottom of each tin some of the ham-parsley mixture, reserving about ⅓ for topping.

Break an egg into each tin and top with cubes of cheddar cheese and remaining ham mixture. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 12 minutes or until eggs are set.

It's the first stocking that's shaped the way you're shaped from the tip of your toe to the top of your thigh. No need to pull your stockings too tight. No bagging and snagging. No popping stitches. Even the fluted welt adjusts itself to you. Only a stocking that fits this welt could be this sheer (a shadowy 14 denier) and still make sense. Extra protection: all-around runguards at top, toe, and heel. (Runs that start there get trapped there.) You own the original design. A pair, in fact. Do they look as good as they could? You'll never know till you've tried the first really faithful copy. Just Fabulous, 1.50.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

They nearly swallowed up a Spanish explorer and his company, they turned the Butterfield stage aside, but the Algodones Sand Mountains of Imperial Valley have succumbed to modern highway construction which pierces them to provide not only a rapid transportation route but a scenic diversion for winter visitors. The great dunes are soft and tawny, rippled and molded in strange designs. They cast shadows that are the delight of photographers. "Dune buggies," odd vehicles with bulging tires, traverse the sands to provide a relatively new sport. Kids ski there on old tires. These are some of the aspects of the Algodones, pictured on today's cover. For more about these shifting dunes, see Page 10.

In His Case, the Egg Came First

By Betty DeWeese

WHEN an ex-gold miner, bronco buster and expert on eggs takes up the theater —and when the theater takes up an ex-gold miner, bronco buster and expert on eggs — that's news.

No one in recent years has caused more of a stir from Maine to California than Harve Presnell, who knows all about a lot of things, but especially about Molly Brown.

Harve Presnell, who starred for more than two years as the colorful Leadville Johnny Brown in the original New York production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," makes an auspicious motion picture debut co-starred with Debbie Reynolds as Molly in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's motion picture version of the musical hit.

THE FILM contract climaxes an amazing career for the rugged, handsome, 6-foot 4-inch, 190-pound Presnell, who was born on a working ranch at Modesto on a 14th day of September. He claims the ranch turned out the greatest eggs in the world.

The versatile Presnell started singing opera as a child and at the age of 8 sang a Bach Cantata with a subsidiary of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. He became an all-around rodeo champion and bronc buster while in his teens; won a water skiing championship; excelled in football, track, basketball and swimming; and after graduation from Modesto Junior College enrolled as a special music student at the University of Southern California. During summers, he studied at the Music Academy of the West in Santa Barbara, and also did some gold mining.

While at USC, he was selected as a soloist for the Roger Wagner Chorale, and then, after singing the leading role in "David" at the Hollywood Bowl, received many offers for opera. He went to Paris for the European premiere of "David," remaining in Europe to sing more than 200 leading operatic roles.

PRESNELL was in Germany for further opera engagements when Meredith Willson telephoned him to return to New York to audition for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," writing several of the musical's hit songs especially for Presnell.

Producer Lawrence Weingarten, who had been searching for a new and exciting personality to play Johnny Brown in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," arranged the test, which immediately won Presnell a contract. Since Presnell signed at MGM, he has become one of the most-in-demand young singing stars in America. He recently co-starred with Betty Hutton for the opening of California's musical center, Melodyland, in "Annie Get Your Gun." MGM Records has placed him under contract in one of the top recording deals of the year and his first album, "Harve Presnell Sings —The World's Greatest Love Songs," will be released this year.

Harve Presnell makes film debut with Debbie Reynolds in MGM's "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." He played original New York stage role of Leadville Johnny Brown.

'Notorious, But Never Famous'

By Vynola F. Limerick

WHEN Lola Montez came to California in 1853, she had been on the stage for more than 10 years and had known the great and near great of Europe.

Her arrival in San Francisco created quite a stir because in addition to being a well known actress and dancer, Lola was noted for her dazzling beauty and daring, vivacious ways.

More than 100 years have passed since Lola Montez sailed through the Golden Gate. How much is fact and what is fiction of the thousands of words that have been written about her is hard to say but all narrators agree that there was never a dull moment when the lively Lola was around.

Maria Dolores Eliza Rosanna Gilbert was born in Limerick, Ireland—her birth date ranges from 1818 to 1824—of an Irish father and a Spanish-Moorish mother. She used Lola, diminutive for Dolores, most of her life.

ALL THROUGH her life, the dramatic Lola made up stories about her background, claiming to be the daughter of Lord Byron; vowing she was the child of a Spanish gypsy; her father was a native Prince of India — and other similar tales. One spiteful acquaintance topped her by saying she was born of a cockney washerwoman.

By the time Lola was 14, she was living in India where her father, Capt. Edward Gilbert, had been ordered for English army duty. When she discovered her mother, who didn't want to be bothered with her spirited child, was making secret plans to marry her off to 60-year-old Judge Lumley, rich and rheumatic, she eloped with a young lieutenant. The pair repented at leisure, and Lt. Thomas James, bored with his child bride, ran away with a fellow officer's wife.

Lola bade a tearless farewell to India and sailed for England. There she discarded domesticity and permanently adopted the name of Lola Montez to go on the stage. With castanets clicking, her debut was a success. But, according to all accounts, it was not due to any terpsichorean talent.

THE NEW TOAST of the town was undeniably a great beauty with violet blue eyes fringed with long lashes, a creamy white skin and raven hair. Lola also possessed a trim figure with small feet and shapely legs.

In no time at all the popular dancer was hobnobbing with kings, noblemen and top-flight writers and artists of the day. Through her friendship with the King of Bavaria, she became the Countess of Lansfield — later she acquired the title of Baroness of Rosenthal.

Soon, however, her personal affairs were in a tangled mess and the enchanting Lola packed her trunks with jewelry and other finery. She booked passage to America in search of new fields to conquer.

Her reception in eastern United States was luke warm, so she set sail for California.

WHEN SHE arrived on the West Coast, she again sought

Body of this merry little duck for Easter decoration is the shell of an egg.

The Eggshell and You

By Lorena Fleissig

FOR the party giver, eggs must do more than provide a nutritious meal. As soon as the contents are removed, the porcelain-like eggshell becomes chameleon-like in assuming almost any character the imagination, or the season, calls for.

Easter, eggs and ducklings are symbolic of spring and creation. Nothing could be simpler than conjuring up a fuzzy appearing, waddly baby duck with an eggshell as the base.

To prepare the egg, force a darning needle point into the shell near the pointed end of the egg. Lift off a piece of shell the size of a nickel. This is preferable to blowing out the contents. In this way the egg contents may emerge with the yolk unbroken. The shell is then rinsed out and dried.

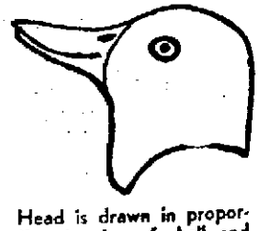

When the inside is thoroughly dry, cover the hole with a piece of thin white paper, or typing paper. Cut the paper circle only a little larger than the hole and paste carefully with white liquid glue. Press the patched place into the palm of the hand, gently, to seal it.

THE SHELL may be left brown or white as originally colored or it may be tinted, perhaps yellow, in several ways. Use water color or poster paints, cake coloring or a spray paint. Before painting or tinting, be sure the shell is grease-free of finger marks. The shell may be scoured lightly with very fine sandpaper.

In drawing the head for the duck, decide to enlarge or reduce it in proportion to the size of the eggshell. A plain white index card from a recipe file is good firm paper on which to draw the head which can be finished with ink or black laundry pencil.

The duckling in the picture

How Long Beach Has Halted Subsidence

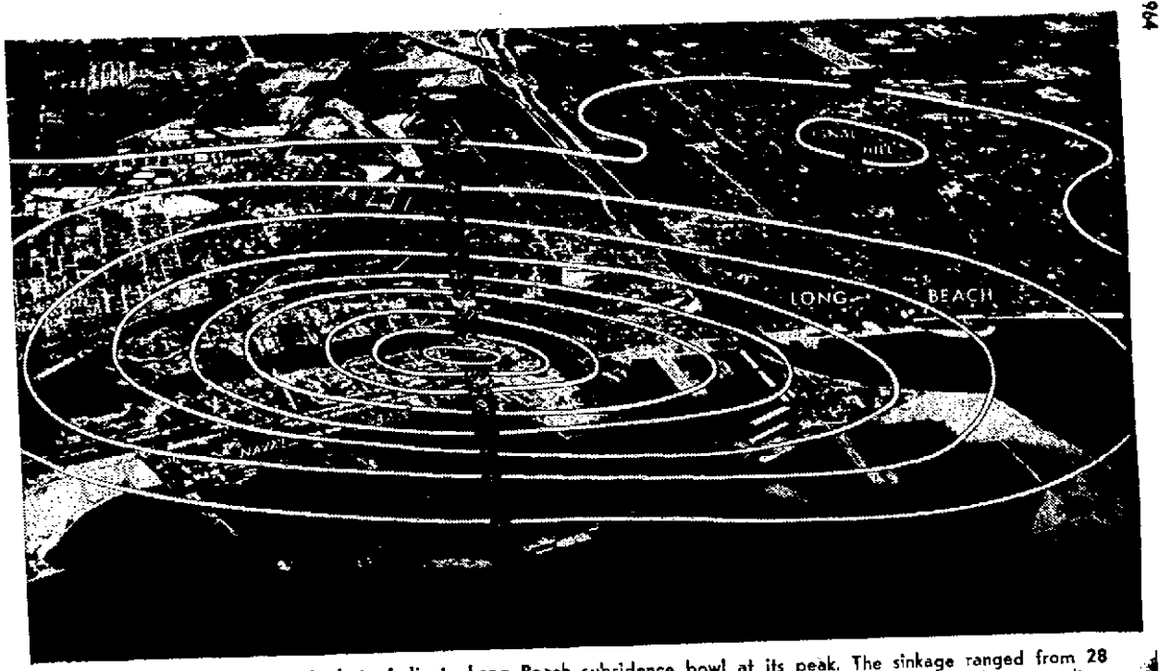

By Lou Jobst

LONG BEACH might have gone down in history as a Space Age Atlantis, but for one of the most audacious and remarkable engineering projects in modern times.

This project, begun in 1953 and technically called a water flood, has seen more than 33½ billion gallons or 815 million barrels of water poured into the underground to keep a 20-square-mile section of the city and harbor from sinking into the sea.

The massive water injection, costing $30 million to date, has not only completely halted subsidence, a term for the sinkage, but promises to earn additional millions of dollars of oil revenues in the near future.

Subsidence traces its origin back to the discovery of oil in the harbor tidelands in 1936.

Contour lines of this aerial photo indicate Long Beach subsidence bowl at its peak. The sinkage ranged from 28 feet near the Edison plant on Terminal Island to 1.5 feet near the Municipal Airport, as seen in the outer line.

THE COLLAPSE or sinking of the land caused by the removal of the gas and oil began very slowly and was virtually undetected until the end of World War II.

Then it picked up speed and by 1951-52 some areas were sinking into the sea at a rate of 30 inches a year and the center of the subsidence bowl, situated on Terminal Island, had dropped 28 feet. Some places in the sprawling downtown had slipped two to five feet. The outer edge of the bowl extended well past Signal Hill.

Local leaders searched for a method to meet this menace and decided to gamble on water flood, a technique that had been tried out in the Middle East oil fields, but not on such a vast scale or in such a complex situation.

Engineers were faced with the problem of getting the water to the right places at the right time in a field which is composed of six fault blocks and seven oil zones, that range from 2,000 to 6,000 feet below the surface of the earth.

ALSO NEEDED were the agreement and approval of about a dozen private oil companies and thousands of land owners with direct interests in the oil field.

These were obtained, a new technology was literally built from the ground up and the first water injection plant was put into operation on Pier A in 1953.

Subsequently, six other injection plants, servicing 223 injection wells, have been put into service and two more are on the drawing boards.

Salt water for the flood is obtained from several shallow source wells situated about 150 to 400 feet deep. This water is de-sanded and treated to inhibit bacterial corrosion.

THE GREATEST volumes of water are injected in the areas immediately surrounding the oil pools at pressures of up to 2,000 pounds per square inch.

Not only does the repressurization of the oil and gas chambers keep the land from sinking, but the injected water drives the oil ahead of it, upward and outward toward the petroleum wells, greatly stepping up the amount of oil recovered.

The daily flood was 5,000 barrels of water in 1953; 180,000 barrels in 1958 and is 525,000 barrels per day at present. During the next 25 years, engineers estimate, another 16 billion barrels of water will be injected into the field.

The water flood, these same experts say, will increase the productivity of the field, the second largest in the U. S., by 75 per cent.

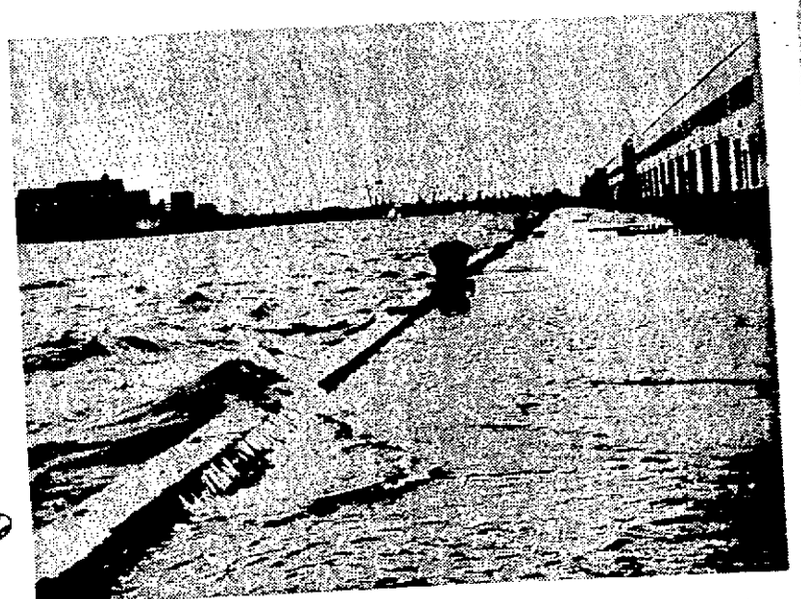

THEY ESTIMATE the flood, since 1953, has resulted in the recovery of an additional 95 million barrels of oil over what production would have been with traditional methods.

Water injection during the next quarter century will result in bringing the ultimate productivity of the entire tidelands field to 1.7 billion barrels of oil, 700 million barrels more than could be retrieved without water flood.

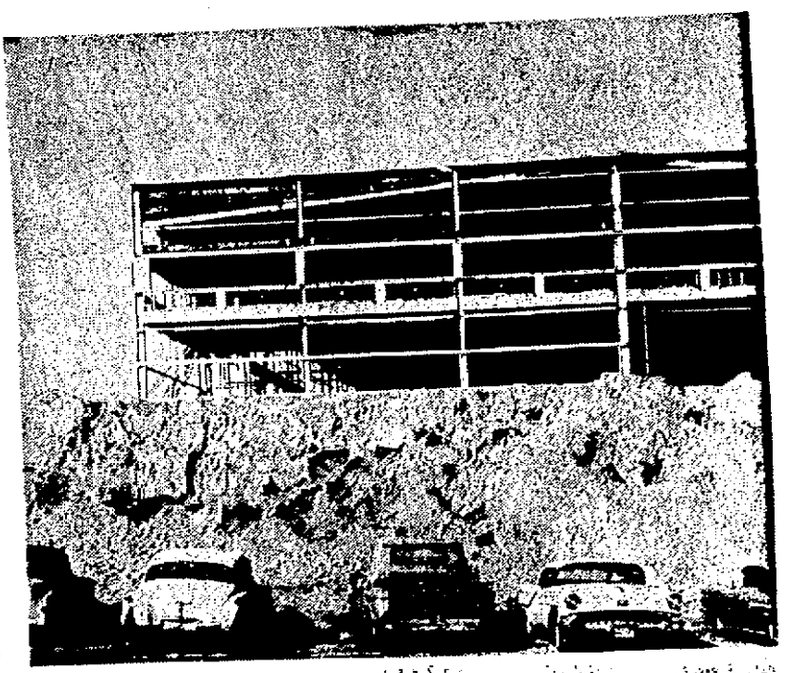

This means $1.6 billion in additional gross revenues.

The big accomplishment in any terms, however, has been the arresting of subsidence.

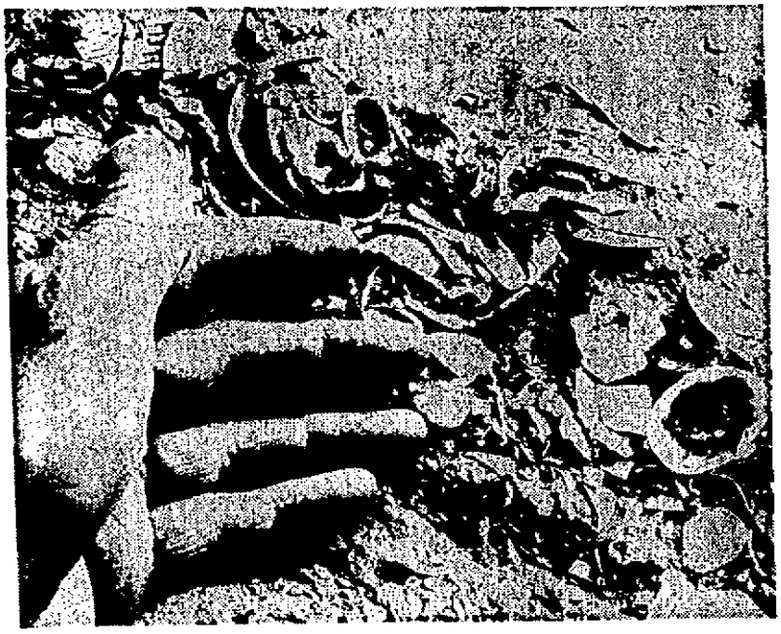

Not only has it been halted, but the land is rising in some locations.

Water pouring over northern edge of Pier A graphically illustrates extent of subsidence. The pier was awash several times before remedial work

Millions of dollars have been spent by the city in subsidence correction. One illustration is this huge fill of earth to restore the pre-sinkage level.

Digging through kitchen middens (term for Indian village refuse piles), like this layer of discarded shells, searchers unearth clues to history.

What was Southern California like before white man came?

'Pothunters' Dig Into Our History

By Frank Finch

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, a Johnny-come-lately among the world's major centers of civilization, is a land still searching for its past.

While libraries have been filled with the histories of the region under the Spanish and the Yankees, the pages covering the prewhite past are largely blank.

This shadowy, obscure and, until recently, neglected time—ending about 200 years ago—is being reconstructed in bits and pieces by a small, but industrious band of amateur archeologists and historians commonly known as "pothunters."

Working in concert with professionals, these weekend diggers have uncovered scores of aboriginal ruins during the past 10 years and have put together a pretty good picture of what life in the Southland was like before the advent of western civilization.

IT WAS A FAR different place!

There were no swaying palm trees or towering stands of eucalyptus, or citrus (all imported by the white man) or cultivated fields. What is today metropolitan Long Beach-Los Angeles was a vast, virtually treeless plain covered with mustard grass that grew 10 feet tall.

This great plain was rimmed on three sides by towering mountain ranges and on the fourth by the Pacific Ocean. Numerous streams and the beds of four great rivers meandered across it, flowing sluggishly from the foothills to the sea.

On the slopes of the foothills grew thick stands of oak, fir and pine, and in the river beds, slender alders and leafy willows.

HERE AND THERE in a seemingly random fashion, were situated the villages of the Gabrieleno Indians, semi-nomadic hunters who built small thatched huts, wore little clothing and worshipped a weird god called Chinigchinix.

A rather large Gabrieleno village, numbering possibly 1,500 huts, stood on the site of present-day Los Altos. Discovery of the village site was made in 1932 by workers building a shopping center. Another village stood on a bluff overlooking the Santa Ana River in what is today Costa Mesa. This site was uncovered about three years ago. Still another village was perched on the white limestone bluffs of Upper Newport Bay.

THESE AND MORE than a dozen other sites have been excavated in the past few years and have yielded tons of artifacts and a growing insight into the culture of these native Californians.

Kitchen middens, as the village refuse piles are called, reveal the Gabrieleno hunted deer and other small game with a bow and arrow, was a skilled fisherman and crude craftsman. He seemed to prefer to summer near the mountains where he gathered acorns for his native bread, and spend the winters at the beach where he subsisted largely on shellfish and other marine life.

No one is certain how numerous were the Gabrielenos, the last of the tribe died about a half-century ago, but they occupied all of Los Angeles and Orange Counties, the western sections of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties and several of the Channel Islands, including San Clemente and Santa Catalina.

THE OFFSHORE residents commuted to the mainland, where they traded cooking utensils made of soapstone and semi-precious stones, in outrigger canoes.

"They were probably the most earnest and sophisticated of the Indians of the region," claims one historian.

The Gabrieleno culture included burial (a universal mark of civilization and thoughtfulness among primitive man) and the worship of the feathered god, Chinigchinix.

The idol of Chinigchinix was commonly a collection of animal parts (lion claws, hawk beaks, deer horns, bird feathers) wrapped together in a coyote pelt and placed on a rude altar in a clearing. Upon the altar sacrifices of small game, usually birds, were made.

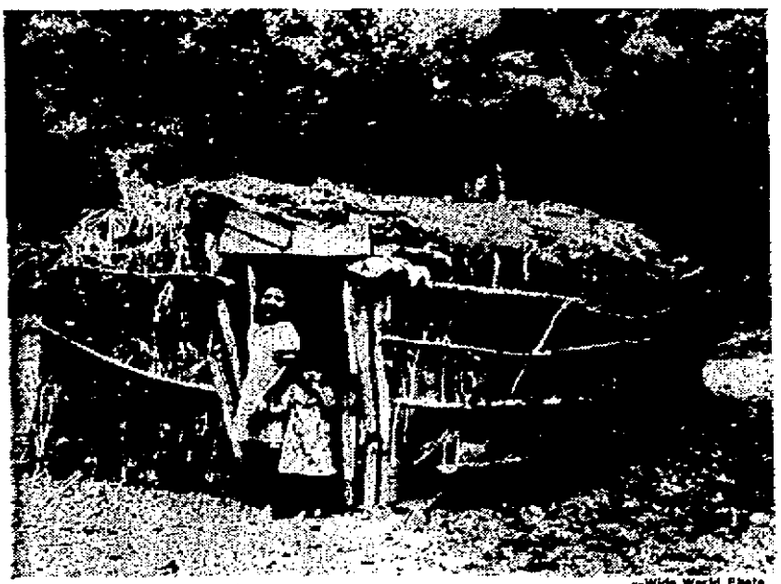

AMONG THE MORE curious customs of these people was the birth purification ceremony in which a mother and newly born infant were

It is believed that Gabrieleno Indians, who inhabited the coastal plain, built thatched huts, perhaps like this Arizona hogan, in which to live.

BEWARE THE 'MECHANIC'S GRIP,' AND KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN

Just How Friendly Is That Little Game?

By Robert Hazelleaf

MOST OF US have the idea that cheating at cards went out with Mississippi River boats, or with that glamorous age when wealthy suckers commuted between New York and Europe on fast, luxury liners. We picture the typical card sharp as a devilishly handsome bounder, decked out in frock coat and gold brocade vest, or at least a tuxedo. Naturally, the games were for high stakes and the debonair villain plied his trade with impunity—a romantic crook who stole from the rich and kept it, but never touched us small fry.

Dave Alexander, a 21-year-old Lakewood magician and card trick specialist, has other ideas.

"According to John Scarne, a well-known authority on cards and gambling," says Alexander, "there were 62 million decks of playing cards manufactured last year. Hundreds of thousands of decks were bought by specialty houses that exist only to doctor legitimate cards for cheating."

ALEXANDER drives the point home by reminding the reader that some nationally-circulated magazines run ads every month, calling attention to card novelties that are nothing more than marked decks, gadgets that permit cheating without detection, even trick eyeglasses that let a player read an entire pack from the back.

"You know who buys those gadgets?" Dave asks, then answers his own question. "Amateurs. The guy down the street who wants to win at poker, gin rummy, pinochle, even a complicated game like bridge. One company sells marked cards and red-tinted contact lenses for something like $160 a set. This is supposed to be a sure-fire guarantee of big winners. But there's a catch. Did you ever see a man with purple eyes? How long do you think he'd last in a game?"

The magician points out that, among professionals, the mail order "gaffs" would be pretty crude, immediately detected by any intelligent player.

He describes a Rube Goldberg device known as a "holdout" that works from up a player's sleeve. A spring mechanism retains cards for release at the flexing of a muscle, placing wanted cards in the hand, retrieving others. The package sells for something like $95.

"IMAGINE a man trying that in a really serious game," Alexander suggests. "Within five minutes, the others at the table would break the holdout and the arm that operated it."

If the statistics on trick cards and gadgetry are correct, it seems there's a lot of cheating going on in friendly card games with neighborhood and club groups. Just to plant a tiny seed of suspicion, maybe there's a good reason for one couple or person winning so consistently in the weekly penny-ante game.

But, if the tricks delivered in plain wrapper, COD, are next to useless, how does the cheating go on?

"All it takes is time and skill," says Alexander, who specializes in closeup magic at nightclub tables with an emphasis on card tricks. "A good card sharp can go into a game cold. By the time the deal gets to him in a five-man game, he has already crimped, nicked or fingernailed aces and kings. When he deals, he takes a peek (the "glimpse") at the top card, bottom, or both. If either is good, he'll wind up with one or both in his hand, simply by second or bottom dealing. A good man can deal the second or third card, or even the bottom, at will and not get caught."

IT BEGINS with the "mechanic's grip," a way of holding the pack that allows the whole hand to work when necessary. When that grip is used in a game, watch out! With it, cards can be dealt even from the middle of the deck.

Well, then, doesn't cutting the cards take care of cheats? To an extent. But a good mechanic can place the pack in its original order and make it look like an honest cut. Or he can crimp half the deck as he passes it for cutting. With that slight bend in the cards, he can find the spot again and work from there.

"You see," Dave explains, "in a big game, the cheater is usually a pretty good player. All he needs is a sure hand at the right time."

There's a rule, "Never play for money with strangers."

WITH THAT, too, there is a ploy. Suppose a "salesman" drops in on a client, or a "patient" to see a local doctor. After a couple of visits, conversation gets around to the Wednesday night, two-bit-limit card game, and why not drop around? The man is no longer a stranger, and is accepted by the group as a vouched-for friend.

"A good mechanic is a better sleight-of-hand expert than most of us magicians," Alexander declares. "We can work with a line of patter, use any distraction we like. But the card sharp must work close to his opponents who watch every move. Some are real artists with cards. They keep moving from one city to another to stay in business. If they're careful, they can work for years without detection."

A national magazine recently told of a mathematics professor who, with the help of a computer, has devised a system to win consistently at blackjack in the casinos of Nevada. He wins often enough to be blackballed wherever he tries to work.

"Old stuff," says young Dave. "Gamblers have been doing it for years, without computers, although electronics have simplified the mental work."

THE SYSTEM rests on a combination of photographic memory and knowledge of the game. First, the gambler must occupy the last seat to be dealt. Second, he must be able to memorize every card as it's played. Then, when the deck is about three-quarters dealt, he knows the remaining cards and makes his move. His $3 or $4 bet becomes a table limit of perhaps $200, and he knows almost for a certainty that he will win. With a large enough stake to handle an evening's play, the sharpie can leave the table with a substantial roll. It's no method for the faint of heart, or for those with poor memories.

"Remember," Dave says, "the big-time gambler doesn't try to win on every hand. He may work most of an evening setting himself up both psychologically and mechanically for his opponents. All he wants to do is make his score and leave some for next time. That way, he remains in business and above suspicion.

And what about the amateurs, those who patronize the gimmick mail order houses? According to Dave Alexander, they soon learn that using gadgetry calls for a dexterity they don't possess. The only out left for them is the marked cards at $2 to $5 a deck, but even they are far from foolproof.

A GOOD TEST for marked cards is simple. Modern pasteboards are as consistently and precisely printed as machinery and quality control can make them. Borders, designs, tiny details always appear at exactly the same spot on every card. Grip a deck and flip through the cards, design toward you, much as you did the childhood "movies" that came in cereal boxes. If there is anything amiss, it will stand out, regardless of back design. Details will seem to move or jump as cards are flipped.

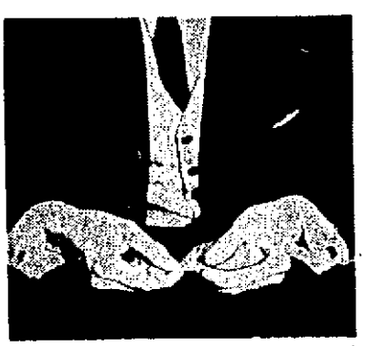

As a final word, beware the "mechanic's grip," keep your eyes open, and be sure you know the new fellow who just came in with Charley.

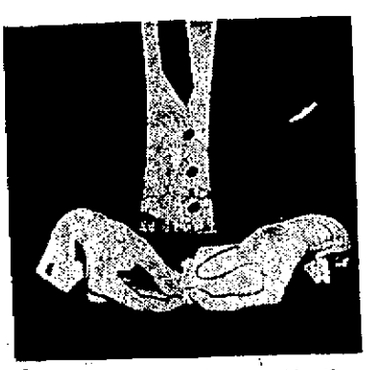

When a gamblin' man cuts cards like this, it is no cut; the deck is returned to its original sequence.

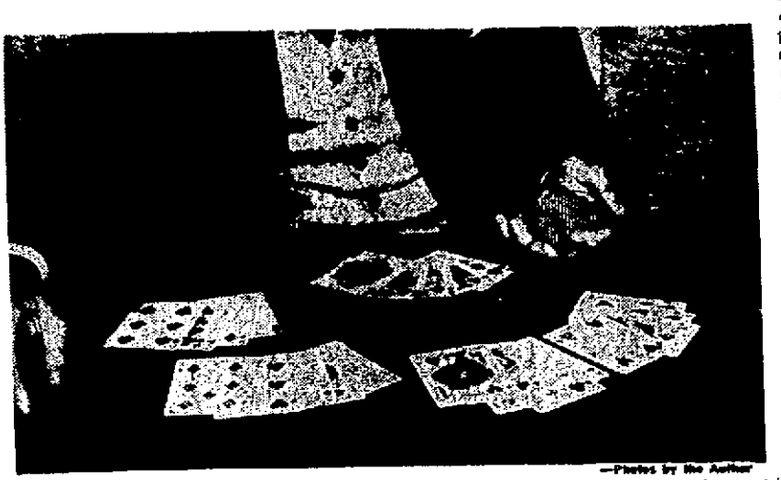

"Mechanics's grip" lets a clever and fast dealer work the second, third, bottom, even center cards.

Dave Alexander "second deals" a card which, without the camera, would seem to come off the top.

"Bottom deal" works smoothly if properly done. Deal is so fast a keen eye is needed to detect.

The Sands of the Algodones

By Alan McElwain

IN GREAT soft mounds tawny as a lion's hide, the Algodones Sand Mountains stretch for 45 miles along the Imperial Valley in Southern California.

The Spanish explorer Juan Bautista de Anza barely got out of them alive. The old Butterfield stage line couldn't get through and had to detour south through Mexico.

But today, thanks to modern highways, the Algodones are an exciting sightseeing experience for winter travelers.

This is an area that, aside from the sand mountains, is full of all sorts of interesting and unusual sights and experiences, according to the region's All-Year Club.

IMPERIAL VALLEY, beside the Mexican border at the extreme southeast corner of California, is a former desert sink, once the bottom of the Gulf of Baja California, and now mostly below the level of the Pacific Ocean 80 miles away.

The town of Calipatria, 184 feet below sea level, has its famous flag pole exactly that high, reputedly the tallest flag pole in the country, so its flag can wave at sea level.

Bottom of the sink is filled by Salton Sea, 235 feet below sea level, an orphaned ocean for warm winter fishing for the big sporty Corvina, swimming, boating and water skiing.

There's almost no rain, so they get water from what's reputed to be the biggest man-made river, the All-American Canal, 200 feet wide and 80 miles long, reaching to the Colorado River. There are more miles of irrigation canals than roadways in the valley.

HARVESTS are in winter. So are the harvest celebrations—Niland's Tomato Festival, Holtville's Carrot Carnival and the California Mid-Winter Fair at Imperial are held in February.

Along the eastern rim of this valley the Algodones Sand Mountains have humped up, even 90 feet high, always a frustrating block to transportation—until recently.

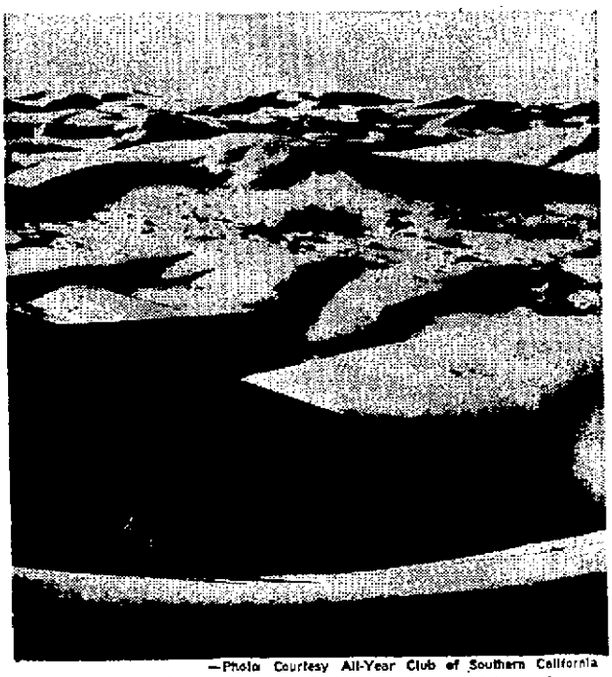

First there was the Old Plank Road, once the only way over the dunes, and even then you had to dip the right car wheels in the sand to let another auto pass. Remnants of the Old Plank Road are still there beside the modern freeway of Highway 80.

Newest of the ways across the dunes is the Glamis road eastward from the city of Brawley. It cuts through giant dunes and crosses fills 80 feet high in this boundless ocean of sand.

Up the very highest dune of the range, engineers ran a branch roadway with a paved observation platform on the top. The panorama is fantastic. Beyond the waves and mounds of sand, to the north and east are the bare rock Chocolate Mountains (they look like blobs of melting ice cream). To the east and southeast the flat tops of the Picacho and the Cargo Muchacho mountains with the Tumcho gold mine ghost town. Southward, the mountains of Mexico.

WHAT LOOKS like a squat short bug scurrying over the sand, up grade and down dip, becomes at closer view to be one of the queer "dune buggies," especially shortened autos with bulging tires. As the sport becomes more popular, platoons of these vehicles criss-cross the sands. Add to that the youngsters sand skiing on old rubber tires, and the dunes near the highway can become a mass of trails.

But not by tomorrow morning — the winds will have blown them out into smooth, soft tawny mounds again.

Molded by the winds of time, Algodones Sand Mountains provide interesting sightseeing for winter visitors.

Dirty, Maybe, But Stainless

By John Ronson

WILE Frenchmen carry gleaming new coins made of stainless steel, natives on Yap Island still use one of the oldest-known forms of money. Their "coinage" consists of huge round stones, one of which can be exchanged for ten thousand coconuts — or for one wife!

The U.S. five-cent coin, the nickel, is so-called because it is composed of an alloy of nickel and copper—but there was a time when nickels didn't contain even a gram of nickel! During World War II, our country needed all available nickel for its defense program; consequently, from Oct. 11, 1942, to Dec. 31, 1945, the composition of U.S. nickels was 35 per cent silver, 56 per cent copper and 9 per cent manganese.

Many coin collectors — or "numismatists" — had a silvery gleam in their eyes recently when it was announced that these nickels are now worth more than seven cents each! Due to the gradual rise in the price of silver since 1961 (it's currently selling for $1.293 an ounce), the amount of silver in each of these World War II nickels is worth two cents more than the face value on the coin.

SINCE SILVER is a "fiat" product or "wildcat commodity" (its value, like that of diamonds, can be overrated at any time and can change quite quickly), one might think that the making of coins is a profitless operation. But the fact is, the U.S. Mint is the only branch of our government which is a profit-making organization! The annual report of the director of the Mint for the fiscal year 1962 listed a profit of $67.4 million.

Most of this profit ($57.5 million) is called "seigniorage," the difference between the circulating value of a coin and the cost of the bullion and the minting. It is a holdover term from the Middle Ages when kings extracted taxes for coinage which they considered a service for which the barons, and later the bourgeois, must pay.

You probably never realized it, but the manufacturing cost of 1,000 pennies is only 72 cents. We make $100 worth of dimes for just 93 cents, 1,000 "nickel" nickels for $1.51, $250 worth of quarters for $2.05, and 1,000 50-cent pieces for $3.74.

CHANCES ARE, you may one day be carrying steel coins in your pocket or purse. The French are already doing it! On Jan. 1, 1963, La Monnaie—the French mint—introduced new one and five centime pieces made of stainless. These durable coins have the value on one side, and on the other "Republique Francaise" in script and a stylized stalk of wheat.

Actually, stainless steel coins have been around for some time, and steel has performed quite satisfactorily as a medium of exchange. The U.S. Mint struck stainless one colon and two colones coins for Costa Rica in 1954. Canada minted steel nickels in 1944-45, 1951-52, and 1953-54. Italy's stainless coins include the 1939-45 20-centesimo, 1939-44 50 centesimo, and 1939-43 one and two lira pieces. From 1940 to 1945, Hungary issued 2, 10 and 20 fillers made of steel.

Since stainless steel is the strongest, most durable and most wear resistant of all commercially used metals, it is claimed that coins made of this material will not tarnish, nor will they wear smooth or bend out of shape; they will last indefinitely.

STAINLESS steel is readily available and in good supply within our own country. It is much less expensive than silver, which would result in considerably lower minting costs and worthwhile savings. And a Costa Rican official has been quoted as saying that the stainless coins our Philadelphia mint made for his country have not only a pleasing metal quality, but also a superb capacity for fine design detail. The latter attribute can be traced to the great design-stamping advances made by the stainless steel flatware industry. Once very plain, stainless flatware can now be stamped with traditional patterns and enormously elaborate designs.

The rarest of all American coins is listed by the Chase Manhattan Bank Money Museum as the silver dollar of 1804. Only 15 were minted, and the last to appear on the coin market sold for $36,000.

An accidental discovery made by the French is really responsible for the metal our one-cent pieces are made of today. Lacking stainless steel, French coin makers of the late 18th Century were unable to solve the problem of producing pennies that would not tarnish. When the French were melting church bells for copper after the Revolution of 1789, they discovered that the bell metal (95 per cent copper, four per cent tin, and one per cent zinc) proved to be excellent "coinage bronze."

Our pennies today use the same percentages, and — though most people think one-cent pieces are made of copper — technically, they're made of bronze, which is what the alloy is called.

Appealing Bulb

One of the most appealing bulbs available in California is the summer-blooming Tigridiaor Mexican Shell Flower. The triangular blooms of this lovely flower are spotted in the center and are available in various colors, including shades of red, orange, yellow and white. Gardeners will still find the bulbs this month and should plant them in full sun, about two inches deep.

Plant plenty and leave them in the spot for years undisturbed. According to the California Association of Nurserymen, they will bloom many years without the need of replanting.

At dockside, poolside or just to light a garden, this miniature coastal lighthouse is a unique installation.

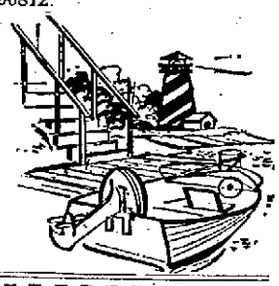

By Bill Meyerriecks

A LIGHTHOUSE that actually lights up the garden? That's the limit! Actually it's not, because Sketchbook's unique Lighthouse project has a lot of other interesting suggestions for its placement. It is a natural for boat owners with a dockside, or beside a home swimming pool. It can also be a front light for the summer bungalow by the lake or sea.

Building the lighthouse from the Sketchbook plan is not difficult. It stands just over four feet in height, slightly under two feet at the base. Its inner frame is made from ½ inch exterior plywood and its wrap-around shell is ⅛ inch tempered hardboard. Its construction is sturdy for outdoors.

There's a slight trick to fitting the hardboard shell that the plan explains in the basic construction details of the lighthouse.

The actual light installation is shown and explained in the plan, too. You can install a regular light for use outdoors, or put a revolving dome light to work. It is listed as optional in the S-152 plan, which may be obtained by sending 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magaine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90812.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have genealogy on HEPBURN. — Mrs. H., Garden Grove

H.: HEPBURN, famed now from the film actresses Katharine and Audrey Hepburn, had its basis in a now-vanished village in Buckinghamshire, England. "Hepe-burne," the source, had the poetic meaning "wild rose brook." The Hepburns became prominent in Scotland. Their coat-of-arms is a red shield decorated with a red rose, symbolic of the name meaning, placed on a silver chevron between two combatant red lions. The unusual Hepburn motto is "Keep tryst."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about AUTH—Mrs. H.B.; Long Beach.

H.B.: AUTH is German. This rarely seen surname evolved from the ancient German word "Uht" meaning "willow tree." The ancestors apparently resided in a glen filled with willows.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of EUSEBI?—E.E., R.E., Long Beach.

E.E., R.E.: EUSEBI is Basque, from northwest Spain. This name was used in honor of Eusebius, noted 3rd century Christian Bishop of Caesarea, whose name meant "devout and pious one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on DRURY.—W.D., Long Beach.

W.D.: DRURY is English. This family descended from John De Drury, the son of a Norman French nobleman who fought his way to power in England along with William the Conqueror in 1066. The Drurys held large estates in Suffolk, England, for centuries. Their coat-of-arms from the 1200s has a Tau cross between two gold stars on a green band across the top of a silver shield. Drury descendants lived in Massachusetts as early as 1651.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on CAJON. — M.F., Long Beach.

M.F.: CAJON is Spanish, defined as "box or chest." This surname was assumed by a forefather who was noted for his expert workmanship in making chests and other items of furniture. In Spanish America "cajon" means "box canyon," exemplified by Cajon Pass in Southern California.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain DODD. — E.D., Los Alamitos.

E.D.: DODD evolved from the 10th century Saxon English "Doda." This hero name [illegible] Records of 1066 list Brihtric, son of Doda, the primary ancestor. The Dodds have been land owners in Cheshire and Shropshire since the reign of King Henry II, 1154-1189. Their shield has a wide red band between two narrow wavy black stripes on a silver background. The Dodd motto "In copia cautus" means "wealth through caution." The first Dodds to settle in New England arrived in 1646.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information an BATTOLLA.—P.P., Bellflower.

P.P.: BATTOLLA is from Italy, a Christian religious name that combines Battista meaning "Baptized one," with the nickname ending "-olla." The complete name refers to "young baptized one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze DEDDEN.

—E. H., Lakewood.

E. H.: DEDDEN is German, an old provincial dialect surname. The source, Diet-en, meant "young man of the people," a description of a popular young man approved by his townsmen.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly explain the background of YANDELL.—C.W., R.Y., Long Beach; G.M., Wilmington.

C.W., R.Y., G.M.: YANDELL is an American form of the German surname Jandl. This cognomen began as an endearing family nickname, "Jan-dl" meaning "Johnny." The source name Jan is from Johann or John meaning "God is gracious."

DEAR MISS RULE: What it the background of CAPORUSCIO.—W.M., Anaheim.

W.M.: CAPORUSCIO is a dialectical Italian surname taken from "Capo-russo." This was a medieval physical descriptive terminology for "red headed one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on HARKINS.—R.H., Garden Grove.

R.H.: HARKINS had its inception in 12th century England where the root syllables were "Harri-kins" characterizing "Young Harry or Henry." Harry and Henry typify "ruler of a private estate."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze the Dutch name ANTEN.—T.A., Seal Beach.

T.A.: ANTEN had three Dutch and north German source words and meanings. It is primarily from the ancient Germanic given-name Ando with the inexplicable meaning "earth." Alternately, Anten is a nickname meaning "Spirit," and from Anti describing "sharp point," perhaps referring to a spearman's sharp-pointed weapon.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of GUANTE.—T.G., Wilmington.

T.G.: GUANTE is Spanish and means "glove." This surname had its start from a sign over the doorway of the [illegible] making shop

The Eggshell

has feet and wings of chenille stem bent to shape. Pipe stems may be used or even simply drawn webbed feet could be inked on the index card base, at each side of the shell.

IN FITTING the paper head to the shell, place it thrusting somewhat forward and mark the spot with a faint pencil line. If the neck curve does not fit snugly to the shell, trim it carefully until it does. Apply white liquid glue to the neck curve and also to the pencil line on the shell. Do not put together until after a few minutes elapse. When the glue is tacky, the head will remain firmly in place.

The shell is glued to a 3 inch square of index card or other stiff cardboard, with the patched hole down. A small pointed triangle of paper may be added as a tail.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Please repeat the explanation of why children so often tell lies. E. S.

A. Children fail to tell the truth for different reasons. One class of lies is due to a misunderstanding or misapprension by the child of what has happened to him or what has been said to him. He tells what he thinks is the truth, but it is not. The tense of verbs and the meaning of time differences may be the cause of other lies: the child may not know the difference between "I did" and "I will" and "I mean to." Another class of lies is due to confusion of the fancied with the real: a child may believe that his dreams were actual events. A fourth type of children's lies is deception as an adult understands deception: a conscious substitution of the untrue for the true is made. One reason the child tries to deceive is fear, another is to gain his own way without friction, a third, to attract attention. A fourth reason is the desire to preserve his self-respect or the respect of his associates: a child often lies to avoid ridicule.

Q. How did a comma once cost our Government a large sum of money? B. S.

A. This has happened at least twice. In the tariff act of June 6, 1872, the duty-free list was intended to include "fruit plants, tropical and semi-tropical, for the purpose of cultivation." The clerk who copied the bill for publication put the comma after the word fruit, making the phrase "fruit, plants tropical and semitropical." Before this error was corrected, about $1 million in duties was lost by free importation of oranges, lemons, bananas, etc. The other error, which cost about $2 million in taxes before it was corrected, resulted from the omission of a comma in the oleomargarine act passed in 1886.

Q. Is sassafras tea made from the tree's roots? R. E.

A. It may be made from pieces of whole root, or from bark stripped from the roots (not from the tree itself). The roots have a thick layer of soft, pink bark which can be pelled or stripped off. Root-bark usually brews a better-flavored tea than does the whole root.

Q. Are capers a type of pepper? C. K.

A. Capers are unexpanded flower buds of a tropical plant, preserved in vinegar. They are used as seasoning or garnish.

Food That Whets the Appetite

Casserole Cooking--It's Easy!

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

Casserole cookery is easy and elegant—as elegant as you wish to make it. The two casseroles pictured above, Veal Casserole Italiano and Company Crab Casseroles, certainly can delight the eyes as well as please appetites.

CANNED condensed soups and canned green beans rank among the mainstays of casserole cookery, an easy method of meal preparation. Tender blue lakes, pole beans grown especially for canning in the verdant, water-rich Pacific Northwest, provide full-bodied flavor in an array of casseroles. And today's wide range of selection in the realm of canned condensed soups eminently qualifies these food favorites for the versatile roles they play in enhancing casseroles.

Two cases in point are herewith pictured in "Elegant Casserole Duo."

"Veal Casserole Italiano" is influenced by the Italian cuisine so popular with many of us. The combination of veal (thinly sliced and pounded as for scaloppine), noodles, tomatoes, green beans and mushrooms in a condensed Cheddar cheese soup sauce perked up with lively seasonings is not only festive in appearance but mama mia! what flavor.

Seafood casseroles also have a tremendous following, and few could possibly excel "Company Crab Casseroles" in eye or taste appeal. They are a tempting concoction of crab meat, green beans, celery and zippy seasonings baked in frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup with a border of buttered bread crumbs and a topping of Parmesan cheese. Actually quite easy to prepare, they are of company stature.

Veal Casserole Italiano

1 lb veal for scaloppine
Flour
2 tablespoons butter
¼ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (11 oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 cups cooked noodles
1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans, drained

Dredge veal in flour. Melt butter in skillet; add veal and brown on one side. Turn meat and add mushrooms and garlic; brown, then remove veal. Stir soup, tomatoes, salt and oregano into mushroom mixture. Heat until just bubbly. Add noodles and beans. Turn into 8-inch square casserole along with veal. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes or until veal is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Company Crab Casseroles

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
1 can (10 oz.) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 can (7½ oz.) crab meat
¼ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons sherry wine
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon tarragon, crushed
¼ cup fine soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Drain beans, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Combine liquid and soup in saucepan; heat, stirring, until soup thaws. Rinse, drain and flake crab meat. Add to soup along with beans, celery, sherry, lemon juice and herbs. Stir to mix. Turn into 4 or 5 lightly buttered individual casseroles (or a 1-quart casserole). Toss bread crumbs in butter; sprinkle around edge of casseroles. Dust cheese over top. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 20 minutes. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Chicken Green Bean Bake

2 tablespoons shortening or salad oil
2 packages (1 lb. each) frozen chicken breasts, thawed, OR 1 frying chicken (2½ to 3 lbs.) cut up
1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon basil, crushed
2 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento

Heat shortening in skillet; brown chicken. Transfer to 2-quart casserole. Pour off drippings. drain beans, reserving ½ cup liquid. Blend liquid, soup and seasonings in skillet. Pour over chicken. Cover; bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 1 hour. Mix together beans, rice and pimiento. Spoon around chicken. Cover; bake 15 minutes more or until heated through. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Minimum Schooling

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: How many years of schooling are considered the minimum necessary for understanding and communicating satisfactorily in the modern working world?

ANSWER: Until recently, the standard set by the United States Office of Education was five years. Francis A. Gregory of the United States Labor Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training reports that the number of years is now eight.

However, the high school diploma—12 years of education—is rapidly becoming a universal qualification for employment.

QUESTION: Do our schools teach too much and yet not enough?

ANSWER: Contradictory as it may seem, that sometimes appears to be the case—particularly in the field of science, with which education has become preoccupied in recent years.

Alexander Calandra, professor of physics, Washington University, St. Louis, complains that in attempting to teach too much science, many schools today fail to teach basic science. A science teacher, trying to teach his students about cyclotrons, may neglect teaching them fundamental laws of physics.

This, says Calandra, is like trying to teach space-age arithmetic without preliminary instruction in addition and subtraction.

The best place to start an education is with the basic units of knowledge. The student must crawl before he walks, and toddle before he runs.

QUESTION: Is it too early for my eleventh grader to be taking any effective steps toward getting into college?

ANSWER: No. By the time a student gets to the eleventh grade, he should have a fairly good idea of the area of study in which he plans to concentrate his effort. In this year he should look at the college catalogues, get acquainted with the admission requirements, and familiarize himself with the various tests he may have to take.

'Chautauqua City by the Sea'

By Olive Breed

In this tree-shaded structure, a unique program of music, classes and lectures took place in 1884, and won Long Beach the unique title of "Chautauqua City by the Sea."

LONG BEACH in 1884 was christened "Chautauqua City by the Sea" because of a unique two-day program of music, classes and lectures with religious overtones during that summer. This distinctive meeting of "education, religion and recreation" came into being at Chautauqua Lake, New York, ten years earlier. Chautauqua is an obscure Indian name, roughly translated "Place of Council."

The program itself grew out of the frustration and ambition of John Huyl Vincent, a gifted 22-year-old with no money for college. He became pastor of a small Methodist church built in a grove beside a beautiful lake at Camptown, N.J., and dramatized the charm of the place by converting the grounds into a scale model of the Holy Land. He called the sheltering trees "God's own Temple," and there is where he held summer services, "in cool shade beside still water."

Within two years he had originated for himself and others a four-year reading course and a two-week training course for Sunday School teachers, and had 40 applicants signed up.

LEWIS MILLER, business man of Akron, Ohio, (later Thos. Edison's father-in-law), suggested the use of a camp meeting site, consisting of a central pavilion with surrounding living quarters, at Chautauqua Lake, N.Y., that Rev. Vincent and associates teach during the day. He would take his own vacation to supervise living arrangements for the students. After the day's work life would be made delightful with camp fires, open air concerts, group singing, and all the swimming and boating they wished. In keeping with the custom of that time, they were well chaperoned. Miller accomplished this at a cost of $6 each for two weeks.

This first summer school also walked the narrow paths of a simulated Holy Land which Vincent created there, a feature that is still a part of the Chautauqua grounds in 1964. In some manner the group and two leaders captured an intangible something that became known as the "Chautauqua Spirit," and this also became part of the whole movement. The two weeks at Chautauqua Lake became famous.

CAMP MEETINGS were numerous and, across the nation, were conducted in groves near a body of water. Vincent was deluged with applications for a like program but he could only give applicants his blessing. If they qualified as to standards and ethics, a local committee was organized to recruit lecturers, musicians, teachers, and others for periods varying from a few days to two months in many cases, and called it, "Going to Chautauqua." Ten years and 200 towns later the movement reached Long Beach for a two-day session. Now for the first time the shade trees were not beside still or calm waters, but the restless waves of the Pacific. Back across the continent, Long Beach was referred to as the "Chautauqua City by the Sea."

Long Beach Library treasures programs showing the growth of those "permanent" chautauqua sessions from year to year. Typical is the 6th Annual Chautauqua" of 1892, the purpose of which is stated on the front page of its 10-day program:

> "Our purpose is the moral, physical, intellectual and religious welfare of all."

The program listed Sunday School Normal Class, tabernacle entertainment, lectures, Round Table Vespers, a piano contest and classes in music, conchology, art, oratory, literature, cookery.

EXPENSES: Board $4 to $5.50 per week; cottages $3 per week or $10 per month; tent owners could live on $2 per week.

Patrons were politely asked to remove hats and bonnets, and not to hitch horses to young trees or the fence.

The 1895 tenth annual session covered 30 days; the 1900 session celebrated Antisaloon Day, as Long Beach voted by a large majority to banish its one saloon and be a temperance town.

These so-called "permanent chautauquas" are not to be confused with the circuit, or tent chautauquas which began in 1904 with 15 towns in the state of Iowa, and flourished for almost 30 years. They were as prevalent as baseball, with 12,000 towns covered by 1,400 circuits in 1925. It was estimated 35,000,000 people attended one or more programs during that year.

With 2,500 city-recruited programs traveling into the small, sometimes isolated towns, it was simply impossible to avoid colorful, humorous, tragic stories and encounters in every instance. The crew going into the town consisted of college men and girls who stayed during the entire week of the programs, and their impact was never negligible. One crew man grew up to be Milton Eisenhower.

J. H. Vincent became a famous bishop, and with Lewis Miller, continued as part of the Chautauqua Lake program, which grew every year; their 91st annual session of 1964 is preparing to care for a daily 60,000 or more, and Southern Californians may still go to Chautauqua there, though it would be well to start about March and write for reservations to Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua Lake, N.Y.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Marvel Drug Intrigues

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

AT LEAST 30 pharmaceutical manufacturers have shown interest in marketing the new marvel drug, dimethyl sulfoxide.

The new agent, also known as DMSO, is currently undergoing investigation at the University of Oregon Medical School. A preliminary report indicates that DMSO may be of value in the treatment of a number of conditions, including arthritis, the common cold, pain and infection.

Dr. Stanley W. Jacob, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Oregon, reports in Current Therapeutic Research that DMSO:

- Increases the anti-inflammatory effectiveness of cortisone.
- Reduces blister formation in second-degree burns.
- Prevents adhesions in experimental situations.
- Acts as a tranquilizer.
- Acts as a diuretic—that is, promotes excretion of excess body fluids.
- Relieves pain in headache, sinusitis and arthritis.
- Accelerates the effect of insulin in depressing sugar level.
- Inhibits the growth of certain bacteria — Escherichia coli, Staphylococcus aureus and Pseudomonas aeruginosa. Also appears to alter the sensitivity of resistant bacteria to antibiotics.

One of DMSO's main features is its ability to enhance the penetration of other drugs. The fact that it can carry other drugs with it and penetrate the body very rapidly may be of value in cancer therapy.

DMSO is produced from lignin, a wood constituent.

Dr. Jacob said it will not be made available to the general public for medicinal purposes until further research has been conducted.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS who complain a lot and then suddenly lose understanding and support from family members are potential suicide victims, a psychologist discloses.

Dr. John W. McKelligott of the Los Angeles VA Center calls such patients the "dissatisfied-dependent type." They do an "inordinate amount of complaining," he says. A study of 30 suicides shows that loss of understanding at home may provide the final push toward suicide.

THE TRANQUILIZING drug Proketazine may be helpful in treating the withdrawal phase of acute alcoholism.

Withdrawal symptoms cleared within three days in 55 percent of 96 patients. Improvement was marked or moderate in another 41 percent.

Proketazine, also known as carphenazine, is given by intramuscular injection or in tablet form.

Patients ate and slept well even during the acute withdrawal period, according to a report in the Journal of the Medical Association of Georgia.

A SOLUTION of a new compound called oxymetazoline is proving effective as a nasal decongestant.

Dr. C. G. Stringer of London, reporting in The Practitioner, said the compound benefited 30 of 31 patients and was effective for up to eight hours.

Ten patients who participated in a trial of the agent commented that it was superior to other compounds.

All-America Flowers Tops in Their Field

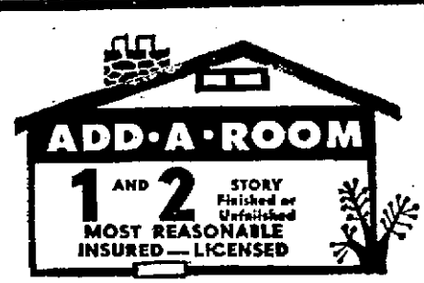

All-America flowers usually win that honor because they are absolutely tops in their field. Among annuals this year, two zinnias were elevated to AA rank and both are offered as seedlings by California Association of Nurserymen members this year. The variety Thumbelina, a wonderful dwarf with double and semi-double flowers about 1¼ inches across, is found in mixed colors.

These little plants grow only about six inches high and are wonderful for edging and massing. The variety Firecracker is a huge cactus type zinnia, found in red only as the name might suggest.

A Long Look Into the World's Seapower

GOSTA E. SANDSTROM

Hazards, follies, fortunes, disasters and triumphs of man's age-old desire to dig in the earth are chronicled by Sandstrom, himself an earth explorer, in "TUNNELS" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $6.95).

THREE MEN in the state mental hospital at Ypsilanti, Mich., a clerk, a farmer and an electrician believe they are Jesus Christ. "THE THREE CHRISTS OF YPSILANTI" (Knopf, $5.95) by social psychologist Milton Rokeach explores the causes behind the renunciation of their real identities.

Rokeach sought, over a period of two years, to find out if they would abandon their fixations if they lived together, were constantly face to face. He has made out this real-life story of the three totally lost men, not only what is surely a psychological study of major importance, but one digging deep to the foundations of personality.

The hospital was inadequately staffed; the three lost men seldom saw a doctor (once a year at best). "Whatever hopes we may have had of somehow being able to bring them back to reality were quickly dissipated, the loss of their ego boundaries . . . had become accentuated through years of neglect."

THAT INEXHAUSTIBLE gold mine, the Bible, has attracted yet another prospector, Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt. His "SEARCH OF THE SCRIPTURES" (Lippincott, $4) stakes out a claim to the medical aspects of the Good Book. Dr. Greenblatt uses as his mining tools the newest knowledge of scientific medicine.

The nuggets are many. He finds that "when most of the world considered disease a divine visitation or punishment, Moses recognized that some diseases were communicable, that they could be controlled by forethought, and that contact could be reduced by isolation or quarantine."

Jesus, says Dr. Greenblatt, "knew that we have come to realize only recently, that much of our illness comes from broken international relations, from guilt, and from the void where no love is. His earliest doctrine linked preaching with healing" . . . [illegible] typical of the better African writers; his novel "AMBIGUOUS ADVENTURE" (Walker and Company, $3.95) deals with the educated African's need for identity and a belief, and an intellectual's poignant search for them.

It is the story of Samba Diallo, chief of a tribe, educated in an Islamic school, in a French school in Senegal, and finally in a French university. It is the story of a man of integrity and his struggle against being changed into an image alien to his people. If for no other reason, it is worth reading for the understanding it gives of the mind of the cultured African, torn by ambivalence.

"EVEN though most of a man's thought is first rate, we ought not to assume that all of it is. More than that, no military thought, any more than policies and operations, ought to be exempt from the processes of scrutiny, analysis and discussion."

This concept underlies publication of "NAVAL REVIEW, 1964" edited by Frank Uhlig Jr., the U. S. Naval Institute's annual survey of world seapower, 416 pages, 326 photos, $10.

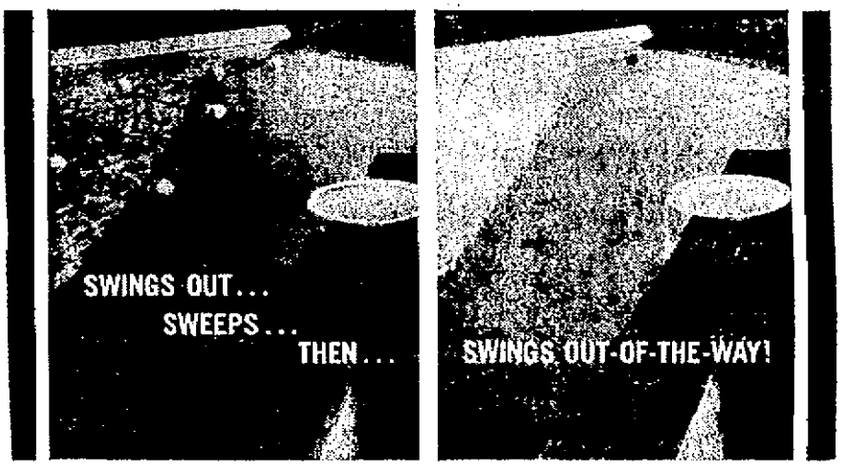

"Naval Review, 1964" gives its readers new critical analyses of developments that affect world seapower and U.S. defenses today and how they will affect them in the future. Essays range from "The Soviet Submarine Force" to "The Future of the Enlisted Man."

Useful appendices include a short survey of the professional backgrounds of recently-selected flag officers; a naval chronology from January 1962 through June 1963; a pictorial and statistical description of all U.S. combat ships built since World War II; the "10 best" naval photographs; and the U.S. defense program, 1964-1968.

WHEN RUSSELL KIRK says 'My country right or wrong," the first part of his two meanings. Kirk is the ablest spokesman of the somewhat right of center school of thought in the United States; not the "way-out-there and gone" right, but those who cluster around Barry Goldwater. And indeed, Russell Kirk's "CONFESSIONS OF A BOHEMIAN TORY" (Fleet, $4.50) has much to say about the Arizona senator; "his amiability, honesty and candor stand unchallenged," the writer assures. Were Goldwater elected President, says Kirk, "no Harry Hopkins will make up his mind and no Sherman Adams will keep the key to his office."

Kirk writes with admirable forthrightness and is a man of considerable style. The poets T. S. Eliot, Robert Graves and Roy Campbell were among his friends and companions; he sees in them staunch enemies of conformism. He waxes indignant over the banning of school prayers; he has much to say about the decline of religious influence, which of course he decries. The right is fortunate to have such an able spokesman.

Recipe of the Week

EGGS AND avocados are combined in a recipe that wins this week's prize of $5 for Mrs. Roman Gray, 129 Morningside St., Long Beach, 90805. The recipe:

Deviled Eggs-ocado

4 Hard-boiled eggs
2 tblsp. chopped sweet pickle
1 medium-size, ready-to-eat avocado
Sweet-pickle juice
Salt and pepper to taste (garlic salt may be used)

Peel eggs and chop finely, add chopped sweet pickle. Peel avocado and mash until smooth. Add enough sweet-pickle juice to make it the consistency of mayonnaise. Add to eggs and blend well. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes a delicious dip-mix, or spread for open-face sandwiches.

NOTE: When there was no mayonnaise in the house, Mrs. Gray found the avocado and pickle juice mixture a perfect substitute. A brand new flavor was born!

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Artifacts have shown these local Indians had a primitive technology. The men made weapons and tools from stone and bone and the women wove baskets from rushes and waterproofed them with tar which seeped upon the beaches from the subterranean petroleum deposits of the coastal oil fields.

In addition to a crude (and very small) bow and arrow, the Indians were armed with clubs, spears, slings and crude boomerangs. They were not a very pugnacious breed, however. War and murder were rare. They were easily docile by the Spanish and disappeared very rapidly thereafter.

Sovereign of the California Sky

California condors, like this feathered giant, may be winning their battle for survival against huge odds.

By Jan R. Young

WITH THE recent sighting of 11 young condors in a single flight, there is renewed hope that the California condor, symbol of a vanished era, may be on the increase.

Best estimates indicate that no more than 60 of these giant birds remain within their two remote sanctuaries in Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties in Southern California. Like the bison, they have been considered almost extinct until the recent report (mandatory of all Forest Service personnel) gave hope that the aloof, seldom-seen birds, the largest flying land bird in the world, finally may be winning their battle for survival against almost unbelievable odds.

These giant ancestors of the western vulture thrived in prehistoric times as proved by recovery of their fossil remains from the La Brea Tar Pits of Los Angeles.

But if these gargantuan birds could survive the tests of centuries, man proved to be their nemesis. During the gold rush, condor quills were a favorite receptacle for gold dust, while the birds' size made them a natural target for every trigger-happy miner and hunter. Due to their habit of frequently gorging themselves to the point of being unable to leave the ground, they were roped by cowboys for sport. Countless others were slaughtered by early settlers who mistakenly believed that the condors swooped from the sky to carry off their livestock.

A DAILY soaring flight of 200 miles is nothing for a condor but they still have difficulty in locating enough food to meet their minimum requirements. Scavengers rather than killers, they have been driven by civilization into these remote areas where they can still find game which has died of natural causes. Because of their 10-foot wingspread, they require wide open spaces to become airborne and cannot enter much of California's bushy, wooded areas where game is usually plentiful. Instead, they prefer rocky, craggy areas where they can step effortlessly off into space rather than make the laborious hopping, flapping, 40-foot run which is often necessary to get them off the ground.

In addition to falling prey to marksmen, scarcity of food, poisoned bait put out for coyotes and other hazards, the condors' own monogamous mating habits have contributed to their decline. A single, greenish-white egg is produced every second year, usually deposited on a rocky ledge or declivity without benefit or protection of a nest. If the parents are disturbed they are likely to abandon the egg or fledgling, which requires a minimum of seven months of constant parental care to reach airborne maturity.

THOUGH A JUST claimant to the title of the world's largest land bird, the California condor takes no beauty prizes. Relative of the vulture, the adult bird possesses a bare, orange-and-red head and neck, sooty black and brown plumage, with white under-wings. In the young birds there is no white underlining and the head and neck are a dusty gray. Weighing some 20 to 25 pounds, the California condor is lighter than his cousin, the Andean condor, but his superior wingspread makes him the larger bird. With his flaming red eyes and clumsy, turkey-like feet, the condor is a grotesque caricature when earthbound but once in the air, soaring on the currents and updrafts that are his birthright, he is unequalled in majesty.

In a final stand against extinction, 35,000 rugged, almost inaccessible acres of the Los Padres National Forest have been set aside as a federal sanctuary for the condor. Here, protected by law, it is hoped that California's sovereign of the skies may finally be winning his battle against the former natural enemy, man, who is now his friend.

Hawaii Comes to Desert Rodeo

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

ALOHA, PARDNER!

The salutation, strangely, sounds like a mixture of Hawaii and the Great American Southwest.

And that's exactly what it's meant to be. You'll hear the greeting everywhere at the 28th annual Palm Springs Desert Circus April 8-12 — an event honoring our 50th state, Hawaii.

The idea of using an individual state as the Circus theme was suggested several years ago, and has been carried out ever since.

At next month's event, Gov. John Burns of Hawaii will be grand marshal of a giant parade starting at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 11. There'll be other evidences of things Hawaiian. You're invited to wear an Hawaiian-theme hat while in Palm Springs. If you don't, you better wear some other kind of hat or face the prospect of being haled into Kangaroo Court to explain why.

THE CIRCUS program will come off something like this:

Wednesday, April 8: street dance at the Desert Inn.

Thursday, April 9: "Night on the Town" when pretty girl deputies — dressed in Western shorts, hats, boots and armed with shootin' irons—raid the various dining spots and night clubs selling immunity badges and giving summons to Kangaroo Court.

Evening: chuckwagon dinner-dance at the Ranch Club.

Friday, April 10: Kangaroo Court at the Desert Inn. (You're liable for a fine if you're not dressed in Western or Hawaiian togs if you don't have an immunity button).

Noon: Luncheon at the Riviera Hotel Convention Center and annual Hat Parade in which contestants vie for glamorous-prizes (two in each of these six classifications: zany hats, men's hats, most beautiful hats, Hawaiian-theme hats, Palm Springs hats, and commercial hats. Some winners will get a case of champagne!

Saturday, April 11: Chuckwagon breakfast followed by the big parade down Palm Canyon Drive at 10 a.m. Entries will include horses and riders (16 classifications), floats, marching bands, majorettes, sheriff posses, mounted police.

THE QUEEN of the Circus parade usually is a movie star, of whom you'll see plenty while at the desert resort. Past year's queens have included Anita Ekberg, Natalie Wood, Jayne Mansfield, Shirley Temple, Debbie Reynolds and Janet Leigh.

Since the Circus is one of Palm Springs' biggest annual events, local and national firms donate all kinds of products, funds and prizes.

IT'S SPRING, and this calls for weekend gadding. Here are some other events worth attending:

March 29: 2:30 p.m.: Easter parade of "best dressed" boats in the new Marina del Ray on Santa Monica Bay near Venice; Scores of gaily-togged boats, of all sizes, participating.

April 3-5: World's Lowest-Down Golf Tournament, the Fred Harvey Invitational, at Furnace Creek resort in Death Valley—280 feet below sea level.

April 4-5: El Cajon Rodeo. The real thing in rodeos, with a parade preceding each day's show.

Palm Springs Desert Circus visitors (April 8-12) will find the countryside abundant with life and beauty.

Area Sunrise Services

If you expect to be away from Long Beach next Easter weekend, but still in the Southland, you might like to attend one of these Sunrise Services:

Riverside: 53rd service atop Mt. Rubidoux.

La Jolla: Atop 800-foot Mt. Soledad, with panoramic view of La Jolla and the Pacific.

Yosemite Valley: Probably the latest in the U.S.A. because the sun must climb above the lofty granite walls before it can shine on Mirror Lake.

Hollywood Bowl: A mass of 75,000 Calla lilies provide the setting as trumpeters greet the dawn.

Palm Springs: At O'Donnell golf course, with many famous people in attendance.

San Diego area: Mt. Helix, Cabrillo National Monument overlooking San Diego Bay, at organ pavilion in Balboa Park, and at the Serra Cross erected from ruins of California's first mission.

Hemet: At famous Ramona Bowl.

Twentynine Palms: At the oasis, original spot where trailblazers found the 29 palm trees that gave the place its name.

Avalon: On Mt. Ada, with sun rising over the Pacific.

La Habra: In Memory Garden Memorial Park, Brea.

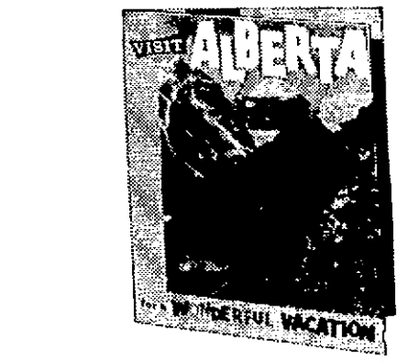

Spot to Visit

In Nuuanu Valley, one of Honolulu's oldest and most sedate residential sections, is a public botanical garden where visitors any time of year may see and photograph rare tropical plants in blossom.

It is Foster Park, generally called Foster Gardens. There in a greenhouse filled with orchids of all sizes and colors. Travelers discover floral beauties many of them have never seen, heard or dreamed of.

Originally, the park was the garden of an early botanist, Dr. William Hillenbrand. He imported many plants not native to the islands, and a number of trees. Today, the trees are of impressive size, and the collection of plants one of the finest in the Pacific.

The garden is open daily, without charge.

Pre-Inca Puzzle

Panagra Photo

Mysterious remnants of a pre-Inca civilization which may have flourished as long ago as 7,000 B.C. may be seen in an open air museum in La Paz, Bolivia. The monolith above was found at Tiahuanaco, site of this ancient settlement and one of South America's outstanding tourist attractions. Here, near Lake Titicaca about sixty miles from the Bolivian capital, tourists may still see the Gateway of the Sun and the Moon and the strange half-man half-bird statues that continue to baffle archaeologists and anthropologists.

Wandering Music

Visitors to Germany will learn that in an age of radio and television a large city like Hamburg still has a few street musicians wandering around —17 at last count. Some play accordians; there are seven barrel organists (two with monkeys); and trombone and trumpets are also popular street instruments. "Pankoken" bands, generally three or four musicians, are an old tradition in Hamburg. They wear band uniforms and roam through various sections of the city playing sentimental tunes, according to the German Tourist Office.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We planned to go to Europe this August but understand it is very crowded and hot at that time of year . . ."

RIGHT on both. Like Americans, the Europeans vacation in August. Half the restaurants in Paris will be closed — the French head for the beaches. Which also means you probably can't get rooms at the beach resorts.

The Germans and Scandinavians and British will have booked most of the Costa Brava in Spain. And you go limp in the Madrid heat. Rome is overloaded with Americans. And every Swiss watchmaker takes his vacation in August and heads for the Swiss lakes.

If you have reservations and stay in one place, you do fine. But if you are on the grand tour, it's like taking your vacation on the rush hour commute train. The big season doesn't slack off until mid-September.

"Could you give me some information on Spain where we expect to go in July. Should we take train or bus around the country? Guided tour or not? Costs?"

MY IDEA would be to get there in June. By July it gets hot from Madrid southward. Government offices close and everybody heads for beach or mountain.

Take the Spanish tour bus. Trains are not so good. I think the guided tour is good —particularly if it's your first time in Spain. Costs will be a delight. Spain is still inexpensive. I'd estimate $15 a day for two would cover everything.

Now, if you want to do this on your own: Car rentals are cheap in Spain. Use a Spanish car agency—ATESA is a good one. If you are not already using traveler's checks, buy Spanish checks. They're about one-third the cost.

Gasoline is about 90 cents a gallon. But your car won't use more than three a day. Cigarettes are cheaper in Spain than anywhere in Europe—about 35 cents for American brands in the government kiosks and the same on the open black market.

NORTH from Madrid is the cool country. Very few tourists and most of these will be French. The Atlantic coast is Galicia. And I'm high on the old Roman town of Pontevedra. Deep blue inlets with white beaches. Fishing towns. Good wines and seafood. Weather about 70 degrees.

Return to Madrid by driving south into Portugal. Turn toward the hills and Spain again at the old university town of Coimbra. Your best hotels will be government-owned, historic inns called paradors in Spain, pousadas in Portugal. Cost will be about $2 a day per person with three meals included.

"We want to take two weeks of our European trip to lie on a beach but would like to find an uncrowded area. Would that be possible on the Riviera?"

I surely doubt it. All that area—France, Spain or Italy —is popular and loaded.

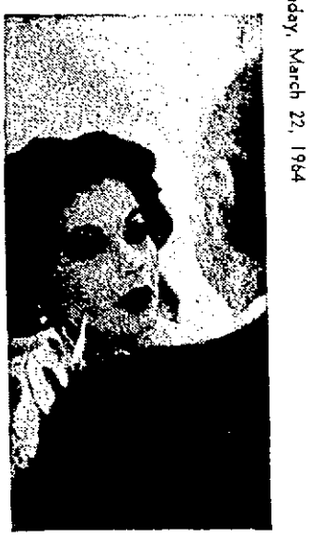

Friends of mine who've looked into the new areas (TWA public relations people) say the untouched areas now are in south Portugal and north Africa.

There are two new luxury hotels at Sagres, Portugal, where 100 miles of beach goes all the way to Spain. Prices are $5 to $6.50 a day with three meals included. Warm and sunny.

In Tunisia, he says, there are two excellent hotels in Hammamet. Orange groves along 12 miles of beach. At $3.50 a day with breakfast included. The TWA man is high on the island of Djerba (he calls it the Tahiti of the Mediterranean). First-class hotel Ulysses supposed to open this spring at $10.50 a day. Meanwhile the place has a second-class hotel at $3.

"Our vacations in the U. S. are always fishing vacations. (We have four boys.) But this year we would like to take a long trip out of the country . . ."

THE GREAT fishing country is New Zealand — and with that big a family there's an added advantage that it is not expensive living.

PET PARADE

Turtles Are Stirring

By Eleanor Avery Price

Zoren, Pomeranian dog, regards June Simpson's six tortoises with friendly interest as they dine on lettuce.

TORTOISES are like swallows in that they come out of their winter naps at the same time the swallows mysteriously return to San Juan Capistrano. So, if you have a tortoise tucked away in straw in the garage or in a small garden hideout, chances are it has begun to stretch and is hungry and thirsty.

Get out the canned peaches, the crisp lettuce. Chop an apple and pluck some clover. Also fill a shallow pan with water. Some tortoise fanciers believe the creature needs only moisture from juicy food, but tortoises I've known stick their heads under water and drink for several minutes. This "tanking up" usually gives them enough water for a week.

TORTOISES in captivity need regular doses of vitamins, some bone meal and cod liver oil. Also orange juice. Soft shells and very slow growth indicate diet deficiency.

Tortoises of any age make good pets. Adults need more room and enjoy an outdoor enclosure with sand and with shrubs for shade. Be certain the pet can't dig out. It can "run" freely in a well-fenced yard and if there is protection from pools.

A pet tortoise soon learns to recognize footsteps and often responds to a given name or to a food call.

IT IS ILLEGAL to pick up a desert tortoise, and none can be sold. So, unless you have a friend who will give you one, or a box turtle, you may want a tiny pet shop water turtle. All you'll need for it is a bowl or tank with water and a few rocks or a sloped bowl in which you can make a "coast" of firm gravel on one side. Air temperature should remain warmish. Hang a lightbulb over the bowl at night if necessary. When you change water, be sure the fresh supply is of the same temperature. Don't keep the terrarium in direct sunlight for long.

The water turtle can have commercial food, ground meat, insects, wee balls of fish, aquatic greens and leafy vegetables. An older turtle needs food only every other day.

For a treat, the pet likes to swim around in a big tub. And for your own pleasure, stage turtle races with a friend.

Should you purchase a turtle that is painted, carefully scrape off the paint, as the shell cannot grow. Use no strong paint removers on the pet.

Lola Montez

to take up her career as an actress and dancer. For awhile she packed the theaters but the press did not take kindly to the town's latest sensation. Editors and ministers took up the cry against her famous "Spider Dance" and her star began to falter.

The fiery Lola was given to using a riding whip on anyone who dared cross her. She cornered one editor in his office and lashed him thoroughly. But Patrick Hull of the San Francisco Whig took a more charitable view of Lola's performance and they were married, moved to Grass Valley to live in bucolic bliss until, one day, the idyll was shattered when Hull accidentally killed one of Lola's pet bears. Hull moved out.

Lola Montez spent her last days in New York, her fame and money gone. In the end, she was penniless and ill, and the once beautiful Countess of Lansfeld, also Baroness of Rosenthal, died on Jan. 17, 1861. She is buried in Greenwood Cemetery in New York and her epitaph reads:

Mrs. Eliza Gilbert

Died

January 17, 1861

Lola Montez is the one who said, "Notorious I have been —but never famous."

Bermuda Lawns Need Scalping Now

By Joe Littlefield

SOUTHLAND gardeners with lawns of St. Augustine or Bermuda (devil) grass may "turn Indian" at this time of year and scalp their lawns for improvement later on. Scalping in this case means to mow the grass almost to the soil line, eliminating the thatch of thickly matted growth which prevents water and lawn food from getting down to grass roots and which also develops dead runners and old leaves that won't decompose.

A couple of weeks later, fertilize the lawn with a turf fertilizer that contains all-organic base nitrogen, necessary minerals to combat alkali build up in the lawn soil, and an insecticide to control lawn moth worms or cutworms.

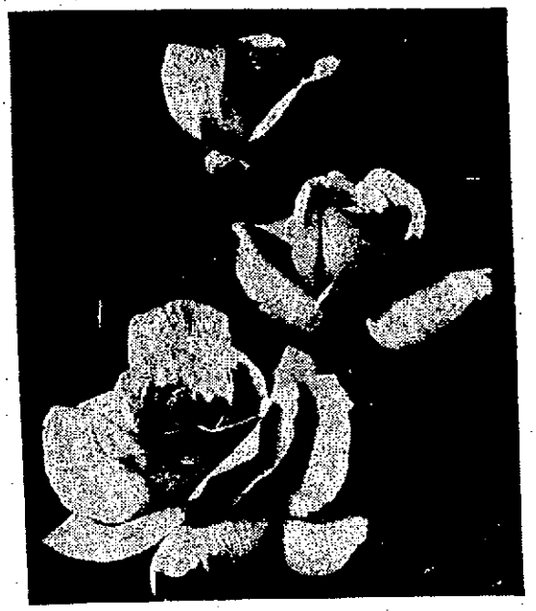

Shrubs with spreading, mounding branches help soften bleak looking corners, hide low porch foundations and present a neat planting look.

COTONEASTER microphylla with small foliage and low arching branches fits these specific landscape needs. These spreading shrubs serve also as bank covers, in rock gardens, or on rocky slopes. The rose colored cotoneaster with similar spreading growth habit, has slightly larger attractive gray foliage, and bright red berries. It is Cotoneaster conspicua decora, known as "necklace cotoneaster."

Two other shrubs that tolerate dry conditions are prostrate rosemary with blue flowers, and baccharis pilularis the "dwarf chaparral broom" with white flowers.

Both of them stand excessive heat, lots of cold, and grow quite well on minimum water.

ANY SHRUB grows much better if soil is prepared before it is set out. It's a good idea to dig the hole twice the size of the plant root ball. Mix one of the organic materials such as leaf mold, pre-moistened peat moss or a prepared planting material with the soil. Mix two parts of the organic material with two parts of soil into the plant hole and set out the plant. When planting, top of plant root ball must be level with surrounding garden soil before ring of soil is built up at edge of plant hole to contain the water for good root soakings.

Sturdy and Beautiful

DUET, a 1961 All-American Rose Selections winner, continues to win praise from those who view its beautiful, warm pink flowers. It has been most rewarding to gardeners in the coastal areas, proving to be mildew resistant and providing heavy foliaged, sturdy plants.

Lettuce at Best When Fresh Picked

Lettuce is never better than when picked fresh—which is true for most vegetables but particularly for those on the delicate side. Therefore it is an excellent time to plant.

You can grow the head type but for the home gardener who doesn't want to do anything but reap his harvest with a minimum of labor, try Romaine and the loose leaf kinds. They are very easy. Do put out bait to discourage snails and slugs, however, as they like lettuce, too.

Garden Clubs

Lakewood Garden Club will hear a talk by Gordon Baker Lloyd, garden expert and TV personality, on a new method of garden culture at a meeting Thursday in the Sierra Room at Mayfair Park, 5720 N. Clark Ave., Lakewood. A salad luncheon will be served at noon, preceding the lecture. The public is invited and $1 donation for the lecture and luncheon will be devoted to the club's scholarship fund. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. E. Owen, telephone 429-7054.

ORANGE COUNTY Rose Society members will hear Bert Slatter of Orange discuss "Mysteries of Plant Life and Plant Culture" at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sun Garden School, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. The public is invited and members and guests may bring plants or flower arrangements to the meeting. Refreshments and prizes will be provided, George F. Roy, program chairman, said. The society, holding only its fourth meeting, is nearing a membership of 100, he said.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Watch the dahlias you stored for aphids and spray them if needed.

Check your California Association of Nurserymen nursery for early spring flowering shrubs and trees and make your selection when the plants are in bloom. You can plant instantly, of course, as they will be available in containers.

As your flowering shrubs and trees come into bloom—you can shape them up to your desire and use the flowered branches as indoor decoration.

Separate the chrysanthemums by lifting and dividing the mother plants then replanting the divisions promptly. Naturally you can pick up additional plants at the nursery if needed.

You'll be amazed at how beautiful and green your lawn can be with a regular feeding and watering program. See your nurseryman for information on proper lawn care.

Dorothy Digs

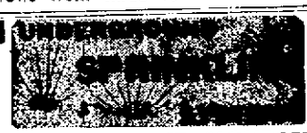

Now is the time of year when we begin to wonder about the lawn. The growing season is here and an early application of fertilizer is in order. If you have used a winter covering of steer manure it has surely done some good in conditioning the lawn but a heavier, longer lasting treatment should be started now.

Grasses vary considerable as concerns the amount and kinds of fertilizer required to keep them in the best of condition. Bermuda grass does not require feeding as often as some other types of mixed grass lawns or dichondra lawns.

One of the easiest and best ways to keep any lawn in the best of health is to feed a liquid fish fertilizer.

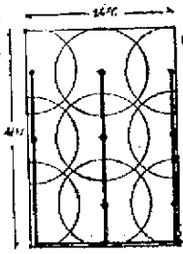

Big Max is a huge new pumpkin being introduced for 1964, and is shown with W. Atlee (Widge) Burpee IV, youthful member of the Burpee Seeds family. Big Max averages 100 pounds in weight and up to six feet in circumference under proper culture and good growing conditions, its developers claim. The yellow-orange flesh grows from three to four inches in thickness.

BOB BOYLE
Spaghetti or Salad

NINETY-NINE per cent of the finer restaurants in this area serve soup or salad with their dinners. Many include both soup and salad.

There is one restaurant in Long Beach, however, which gives its patrons a delectable continental alternative. Francois Manhattan, a very superior, very popular place at 1909 E. Fourth St., offers a side dish of spaghetti (or salad) for its third course. Many of its guests, skilled in selecting food contrasts which add extra enjoyment to a meal, prefer the spaghetti because they are a bit weary of the salad served at conventional restaurants. On the other hand, salad lovers wouldn't dare miss the Manhattan's tossed green salad with choice of dressing. Mixed at the table by efficient waiters or waitresses, that salad is a prime example of choice, chilled lettuce.

The Manhattan, owned by former Air Force pilot and veteran restaurateur Bob Boyle, has developed an international reputation for quality, thanks to the many perfect courses in its table d'hote dinner. The first course is a tray of clever and tasty continental appetizers. Then comes the soup, delivered in a steaming tureen which permits second helpings. Next is the spaghetti or salad, followed by the entree with potato or rice, assorted sourdough breads, beverage and dessert. The multitude of entrees, priced from $2.80 to $5.25, includes such masterpieces as veal Picatta, lobster thermidor, beef Stroganoff, crabmeat pancakes, roast duckling, turkey Marco Polo, stuffed mushrooms and frog legs.

Reservations are suggested for parties of six or more for the Manhattan's large special Easter dinner which will be served from 2 p.m. on, starting two hours earlier than usual on Sunday.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

BERT'S EYE VIEW

She Didn't Look the Teacher Type

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Marian Collier almost didn't show up for the interview.

She didn't think she looked like the type that could portray a school teacher.

"I'd been playing glamour girls, terribly sexy parts—ick!" she said.

But what did she have to lose by keeping the interview appointment? Time, that was all. She had some of that to spare.

Immediately after the interview, including reading for the role, Marian was told she had the part.

The producers of "Mr. Novak" were convinced that many real-life teachers were attractive. Being ugly and frumpy were not basic requirements.

* * * *

GLAMOUR-GIRL Marian, a little toned down, became Miss Scott, a home economics insructor.

"I was delighted," she said. "I had no idea it was a continuing role and I'm not sure they did either."

She did so well, however, that she has been in all but five of the NBC-TV Tuesday series' dramas. There are plans afoot to develop a little stronger TV romance between her and James Franciscus, litle star of the series.

She has received national recognition from professional education trade magazines.

* * * *

SHE HAS YET, however, to hear from any of her old school teachers in Washington High School in East Chicago, Ind.

"It wasn't that I was delinquent," said Marian. "I just talked too much.

"I had a regular chair in the dean of woman's office."

She regrets that "regular chair" attitude now and feels an "intense responsibility" in the portrayal of her schoolteacher role.

"Our behavior is important, particularly to the youngsters who watch our series," she said.

"I have more respect for school teachers now than I ever did."

* * * *

It's a respect that has come from meeting with them in conjunction with the series. It's a respect that has come from learning "school teachers are just as human as we are."

As for the role itself, Marian is still "delighted" she obtained the part.

"It's a whole new image for me," she said. "I never really knew what I wanted to do, but now I've found it.

"I can finally play a nice girl. It's like a miracle."

'Mister Ed' Goes West

MAE WEST AND 'MISTER ED' . . . That Ain't Hay

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Two of the entertainment world's most interesting characters—Mae West and "Mister Ed," the talking horse of television, are co-starring in a segment of the nag's series at 6:30 p.m. today (Sunday).

They're both blonds.

The 71-year-old Miss West appears mostly in stage shows these days. She rarely is on television.

During a discussion of her "Mister Ed" appearance, Mae played the hostess in her Hollywood apartment where she stays when in town. She also has a beach house in Santa Monica.

It was late afternoon, but Mae was wearing an ankle-length orange dressing gown and pale blue lace jacket as she sat in her living room.

"I never really stopped working," said the veteran glamor gal whose career goes back many years. "I'm either in a show or doing an act. I did this television show to satisfy my fans."

Mae says her fans are legion, consisting of at least three generations of grownups. Mae hopes to pick up a fourth, the kiddies who watch CBS-TV's talking Palomino.

"I'VE GOT TEEN-AGE FAN CLUBS," revealed Mae. "That comes from the time I appeared on the Academy Award show with Rock Hudson."

Youngsters would have trouble finding a Mae West show, not to mention getting parental permission to watch. So she feels a television appearance is the right thing to do for them.

"Arthur Lubin, producer of 'Mister Ed,' has been after me for a couple of years to do this show," Miss West said.

Others have had ideas for turning Mae into a regular television personality. She's listened but rejected all offers. Some consisted of Mae as hostess of panel shows. One person suggested Mae go on television with advice to the lovelorn.

"I don't think my public would like me in a panel show," she said. "They want me acting. I can't do too much talking."

Mae wiggled her shoulders to illustrate what she meant by silent action.

The blonde perennial suggested she might become a regular television star in the near future. It could be one of video's whackiest shows, one in which she plays a private eye.

Mae said it with a straight face.

Pan and Fan Mail

There can be too much of anything.

We are glad that March 17 is a thing of the past and that every TV program won't have a bunch of jerks in funny costumes jumping around and bursting their lungs with ballads (?) about dear old Eire.

There's a bit of Irish blood in our veins, but we never worked at it or tried to pan ourself off as a professional Irishman.

Next week, dear friends, Easter bunnies!

J. Paul Gleason, Long Beach

For shame on you, J. Paul. Shure and 'tis a small measure of an Irishman that you are indeed. Here's hoping all your Easter bunnies come packed in shamrock.

I understand that Elvis Presley's film "Love Me Tender" has been sold for TV release. I would be very grateful if you could verify this and, if so, tell me when it will be shown.

Sharon Fainbrough, Norwalk

"King Creole," a 1958 Paramount movie starring Elvis Presley, has been purchased by NBC-TV. No release date has yet been set. No television station, as best as I can determine at this point, has tendered payment for "Love Me Tender."

* * * *

I've got a crooked picture and I'd like to know when I could see a test pattern to get it straightened out.

Everett Robinson, Bellflower

Try channel 5 at 7:45 a. m. any day. Good luck.

U.S. Video Shows Become Major Export

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The stream of American television shows being shipped abroad has become a virtual torrent, making video exports a major item of international trade.

Hundreds of series—and single shows—both new and ancient are being shown from Japan to Uganda in breath-taking quantity.

Millions of dollars are involved. "Bonanza," for instance, is seen in 56 different countries. "Ben Casey" is being distributed in 57. "Perry Mason" in 48.

Every civilized country outside the Iron Curtain—and some uncivilized ones—beam American television shows.

Certain patterns have emerged that indicate foreign tastes in video entertainment vary tremendously from home-grown preferences. Situation comedies are the least popular exports while they top the ratings at home.

Variety shows and musicals also are taboo.

Distributors are experimenting with new sound tracks and laugh tracks, however, and "The Dick Van Dyke" and "I Love Lucy" shows are beginning to catch on around the world.

BUT THE BIG FAVORITES are "The Defenders," "Burke's Law," "Dr. Kildare," "The Greatest Show on Earth," "Gunsmoke, "Twilight Zone," "The Fugitive" and "Outer Limits."

Such oldtimers as "Medic," "87th Precinct," "National Velvet," "Panic" and "Victory at Sea" are still going strong.

Our biggest customers are Australia, Japan, the South American countries and Mexico. Australia buys more than 40 of our series, as does Japan. Not all of the shows are run on a weekly basis. A German station, for instance, beams only six "Perry Mason" shows a year.

Blase Paris runs only two American shows in prime time—and both are amazingly square for the city of lights—"Wanted, Dead or Alive," and "My Friend Flicka," neither of which were hits in the U.S.

Foreign countries rely almost entirely on American television to supplant local shows. But England is moving into the field now.

A trickle of British-made shows are flooding into this country, "The Saint," "Danger Man" and "Espionage."

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

SPECIAL

PETTICOAT JUNCTION — Beatlemania reaches the hinterlands, and Uncle Joe decides to cash in by getting Kate's three girls (plus "Dobie Gillis'" old girl, Sheila James) to don mop-like wigs and kookie outfits and give England's exports a run for their money as the Ladybugs. Comedian-actor-singer-dancer Donald O'Connor directed this Paul Henning-scripted segment at 9 p.m., ch. 2, with Jesse White guesting as a bigtime theatrical agent summoned to see the way-out femmes.

TELEPHONE HOUR — Singer-dancer Carol Lawrence is hostess for a musical color hour heralding the Easter season at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Met stars Regine Crespin and Franco Corelli join in arias from Verdi's "A Masked Ball," with the Robert Shaw Chorale offering devotional music of the season, composer-pianist Andre Previn playing popular tunes from films, ballet stars Rudolf Nureyev with a rare pas de deux and Miss Lawrence singing music of current Broadway musicals.

Portly Sebastian Hosts 'Suspense' with Port

SEBASTIAN CABOT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Columbia Broadcasting System gets its first summer replacement series on the air this week and the flowers aren't blooming yet.

You've got to hand it to 'em for such a quick start.

While most folks are shivering in their overcoats, CBS executives are looking ahead to the shirt-sleeve days of a humid and hot summer.

The web's offering for the balmy days is "Suspense" a dramatic anthology series that starts suspending us Wednesday (8:30 p.m., channel 2).

"Suspense" consists of 13 episodes of a series which never got on the air, plus 11 repeats of other dramatic shows.

Host for the weekly series will be that portly, bearded Englishman, Sebastian Cabot.

Cabot, during a hefty lunch, described his host's role, one which he should admirably perform.

* * * *

"I UNDERSTAND they've built a set for me, an elegant library with a fireplace and big chair," Cabot said. "I might walk around the set with a book or a glass of good port in my hand."

Sebastian's last television series was "Checkmate" in which he played a raconteur who appreciated good living. It is an image that he would like to take with him into the lucrative field of television commercials.

He already has done commercials for a wine company and a home appliance firm. Representatives of a food processing company and an insurance firm are interested in Sebastian as their television spokesman.

* * * *

"I WANT to do some of that voice-over commercial work on television," Cabot said. "If you get enough of those you can make $150,000 a year. For the amount of time you work, the remuneration is magnificent."

Commercial work can provide economic security for an actor who must depend on periodic work. More and more performers are turning to commercials.

"It takes the worry out of acting," Sebastian said. "Too often actors are bad in a role because they weren't suited for it and only took the part for the money."

A healthy bank account gives the actor an opportunity to turn up his nose at a turkey role or show. And there's nothing an actor likes better than to be well fed and able to choose his lot in life.

Unfortunately such performers often make the wrong choice—but at least it was made on a full stomach.

'Tarzan' Series

A series of one-hour "Tarzan" episodes especially made for television is planned by CBS for either the 1964-65 or 1965-66 season. Much location filming in Africa will be done.

High-Wire Human Pyramid in TV Collapse

BY JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last fall, while an NBC-TV camera was recording a rehearsal by the high-wire Wallenda troupe of its spectacular seven-man pyramid stunt, the wire snapped and the performers came tumbling down.

Fortunately, they were on the 12-foot-high rehearsal wire instead of at the usual performance height of 50 feet. There was no duplication of the tragic results of the 1962 Detriot fall when two performers were killed and a third permanently crippled. However, Gunther Wallenda suffered a brain concussion.

The day after the practice spill in Sarasota, Fla., training quarters, Karl Wallenda, leader of the troupe, congratulated NBC cameraman Robin Still, who was gathering material for the "Du Pont Show of the Week" telecast, "High Wire . . . the Great Wallendas" (airing 10 p.m. this Sunday on channel 4).

* * * *

"WE ARE both lucky men," Wallenda said. "You're lucky because you have a film of something that has happened only twice in 40 years. I'm lucky because I'm alive."

Wallenda had promised the producer of the video "biography" of the famous act that the seven-man pyramid would be performed during a scheduled engagement in Fort Worth, Texas. The network suggested that the stunt be dropped, but he refused.

"It was not that I was concerned about their television show," Wallenda explained. "I had to do the pyramid for my own sake. The Wallendas have been circus people for 300 years. My mother put me on the trapeze when I was five years old.

* * * *

"IF I admitted that I was was afraid to do the trick, everyone would know I had lost my nerve. My career would be over.

"I couldn't stand that. On the wire, I'm somebody important, people are watching me, cheering for me. Down here, on the ground, I'm a dishwasher or a ragpicker."

There was some disagreement among members of the troupe about carrying out the promise to do the pyramid.

"We had a meeting in my tent before we left Sarasota for the Fort Worth engagement," Wallenda said. "At first, almost all, even my brother, said I was crazy to attempt the pyramid again after it killed my son-in-law and crippled my son, Mario.

* * * *

ONLY my daughter, Carla, stood by me. One by one, we convinced the others that if they backed down, they would always wonder if they really had any guts."

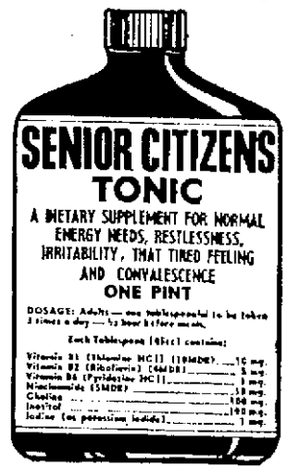

The troupe performed the pyramid 10 times in Fort Worth without incident, and Wallenda felt that the point of courage had been proven sufficiently. He announced on the final night that the Wallendas would never do the pyramid again.

"I know what I did may seem foolish," the acrobat said, "but there's a great deal of pride in circus people. It's what separates the act in the center ring from the poor fellow nobody watches.

KARL WALLENDA, injured in high-wire fall last October, awaits medical examination in hospital emergency room. His troupe is subject of a documentary special, "High Wire," at 10 p. m. today (Sunday), channel 4.

Jack 'Stoney Burke' Lord Sings Along Rodeo Trail

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jack Lord, who played a rodeo cowboy in television last season, is cleaning up this year in real rodeos as a singer.

While authentic cowboys collect a few bucks and uncounted broken bones, Lord picks up as much as $25,000 per appearance simply warbling a repertoire of popular songs. It pays him more than his old salary on the defunct "Stoney Burke" series. (The series, in repeat form, airs 8 p.m. Thursday, channel 13).

Brooklyn-born Lord doesn't like hitting the trail as much as he does acting, but the pay is so good he can't turn it down.

"When I was offered the opportunity to play a rodeo I almost refused because I didn't have an act," he said. "So I spent eight weeks taking voice lessons. I guess I could have done what other television stars do on personal appearances — just show up —but I didn't think that was fair to the people who pay to see me perform."

He rides in on a horse, waves to the crowd, then starts singing.

* * * *

LORD described some antics employed by other actors.

"Jim Arness of 'Gunsmoke' had a comic act in which he fought off a pack of midgets," he said. "Some of the others bring along a stunt man. They fake a fist fight with the star winning.

"One of the funniest is John Bromfield—he used to star in 'Sheriff of Cochise' and 'U.S. Marshall.' He'd chase another guy around the arena in a station wagon, pull him over to one side with a squeal of brakes and then pretend to shoot him with a shotgun.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Because of volume of mail received, PARADE cannot answer queries in connection with this column.

IF. If you had invested $1,000 five years ago in the common stock of Control Data, you'd have approximately $225,000 today. If you'd bought Xerox or Mattel, you'd have $130,000. These three issues have grown more in the past five years than any others listed on the N.Y. Stock Exchange.

BOMBARDED BACON. In New York today, bacon is on sale which keeps for two years at room temperature. The bacon has been bombarded by so-called clean gamma rays. These X rays destroy bacteria without harming the bacon. Soon on sale, processed by the same form of radiation: potatoes, clams, oysters.

SEARS MUTUAL FUND. Sears Roebuck, already in the savings and loan, travel and insurance businesses, plans shortly to enter mutual funds, will sell stock through 5,000 Allstate agents.

PILOT POOL. Within the next 20 years, approximately 65% of all airline pilots in this country will have reached the mandatory retirement age of 60. Where will tomorrow's pilots come from? The pool of ex-military pilots, those trained for duty in World War II and the Korean War, is practically dry. The shift to missiles has discouraged high school and college students from entering aviation. It may well be that by 1980 the airlines will have to recruit and train their own pilots.

FLORAL TISSUES. Decorating toilet and facial tissue with printed designs has become so successful that large paper corporations are now copying the style set in 1962 by Sanitary Paper of East Hartford, Conn., which first brought out "Doveprints." In fact, Sanitary has been so successful, it sold out to Swanee Paper Corp. Coming soon: monogrammed face and toilet tissue.

SEX FEAR. According to Dr. S. J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists, many mysterious illnesses which defy medical diagnosis are caused by a fear of sex. Writing in the British Journal of Medical Hypnotism, the doctor lists asthma, insomnia, blackouts, fainting spells and migraine headaches as "insurance policies against undesired or feared marital duties. Many married couples," Dr. Van Pelt declares, "prefer asthma to passion" and sleep in separate rooms to avoid the company of their mates. To support his belief, Dr. Van Pelt details the case of a young man who became asthmatic a few months after marriage. His attacks came on just as he and his wife retired for the night. To prevent disturbing his wife the young husband slept in a separate room. His wife thereupon developed insomnia worrying about their marriage. Presently, the husband, placed under hypnosis, was asked about the cause of his asthma attacks. "I was afraid," he confessed, "I would be no good at making love. I was afraid I would disappoint my wife. I was afraid she would despise me. I have always felt guilty about sex." After treatment under hypnosis, the young man lost his old fear, the asthma disappeared and the marriage was saved.

ITALIAN PEYTON PLACE. Lina Agostini, a 24-year-old Rome housewife, has been charged with obscenity and offending public morals by writing a novel, Giorgina. It describes the amorous adventures of a young Italian girl in postwar Italy. Written in the first person in basic, forthright language, the novel so shocked the author's school-teacher-husband that the couple has now separated. The Rome Public Prosecutor has seized hundreds of copies of Giorgina on grounds of obscenity, and Lina faces a 3-year jail sentence if found guilty. "All I wanted to do," says Lina, who took time off from housework to write the book, "was to earn a little extra money."

NEW ISSUES. The Securities and Exchange Commission in its Special Study of Securities Markets reveals that in the decade 1952-62, 1,050 companies whose stock had been sold to the public went broke with a loss of $100,000,000 in capital funds. Moral: investigate before investing, especially new companies.

BIRTH CONTROL. India is embarking on "the largest family planning program in its history." More than 9,000 clinics have been established to distribute contraceptives, and another 138 clinics have been established to provide free sterilization programs.

GLEASON IN MIAMI. Starting this fall, the Jackie Gleason TV Show will originate in Miami Beach. Gleason likes to play golf in Florida and reportedly threatened to quit TV unless he could do his weekly TV stint from the Miami Beach Auditorium. The network has agreed to the switch from New York, and Miami is spending $250,000 to install the latest TV facilities.

IN A NEVER-ENDING STRUGGLE, GOVERNMENT AGENTS RISK THEIR

undercover war against narcotics

MILLION-DOLLAR HAUL

ADDICT-INFORMER

N-MEN'S ARCH ENEMY

Several weeks ago, federal narcotics agents descended on an astounding prey, Salvador Pardo-Bolland, Mexican ambassador to Bolivia. They charged he and two cohorts had been smuggling heroin into the U.S. for the Mafia. More than $52 million in narcotics was seized.

The arrests, in New York and Montreal, culminated a lengthy investigation by U.S., Canadian and French police. Agents had tailed the ambassador for months and watched the world-wide operation unfold.

This was only one of the dangerous incidents in which the 280 unsung agents of the Narcotics Bureau are plunged every day. Shortly before that, after a 100-mph chase through Chicago, agent Gayle Ruhl hooked up in a blazing gun battle with Nolan Mack, a syndicate gunman, and shot him dead. And across the U.S. and around the world, these men continually risk their lives in a never-ending war against one of the most relentless conspiracies and greatest evils.

The Narcotics Bureau fights most of its campaigns from the inside, behind the enemy lines. It was the first law enforcement body to infiltrate the underworld's most closely guarded citadel, the Mafia, known to its members as La Cosa Nostra, or Our Thing. The bureau moved into the Mafia 20 years ago in a long battle against organized dope-smuggling.

How successful it has been is evident from the decrease in the narcotics trade. Significantly, although only 2 of every 100 government agents are N-men, they are responsible for 15 of every 100 convictions.

ALL IN THE LINE OF DUTY

As undercover men, narcotics agents learn to look like gangsters, talk like gangsters, think like gangsters. Sometimes they also die like gangsters—shot, knifed or strangled in some dark alley. They work across the world, for the traffic in illicit drugs knows no frontiers. The shadowy figures they trail may lead them into any city. And always death walks with them.

Last year alone, N-men engaged in seven running gun battles with drug smugglers: three in this country, four in Turkey. Agents have been run down by automobiles. One was thrown through a window. Some have died under torture. They face addicts who are wildly unpredictable, racketeers who will stop at nothing to defend their huge revenues. Often the men against them are equipped with speed boats, planes, radios—and, above all, cold cash to buy silence, to hire killers, to appear respectable.

Inside Cosa Nostra, one small slip can mean an N-man's death. For those who have taken the Mafia blood oath are the world's most sinister cutthroats. Their mood can switch in a moment, and they can kill without warning. Agent Wilson Shee, for example, had an appointment with an informer who had been furnishing him information for several months. Suddenly the squealer whipped out a gun and shot Shee to death, then killed himself.

LIVES TO INFILTRATE—AND DESTROY—THE MAFIA

Another agent, about to handcuff an addict in a top-floor room of a Harlem tenement, was suddenly grabbed and dragged through the window. The agent managed to clutch the railing of the fire escape and hang there as the addict plunged to his doom.

On a New York street, a gangster fired five times at an agent who was trying to arrest him. Two of the bullets slashed through the agent's raincoat. Before the N-man could return the fire, a woman strolled between them, wheeling a baby carriage. The agent holstered his gun, sprinted across the street and collared the man with his bare hands.

THEY NAB 'MR. BIG'

Narcotics officers have been responsible for the arrest and conviction of the Mafia's most notorious ringleaders. Prize of the bag: Vito Genovese, who, even in prison, is still regarded as Mister Big of the Cosa Nostra. Others put behind bars include such delegates to the infamous Apalachin crime conference as chunky, snarling Carmine Galente, who has a reputation in the underworld as a sadist; big, booming, 240-pound "Big John" Ormento, who had a weakness for flashy clothes, which he has unhappily exchanged for prison garb; and barrel-chested Vincent Mauro, a surly customer who is described in Narcotics Bureau files as a merciless and "vicious killer."

Not long ago, an agent called on Mauro in prison and tried to pump him for information. The mobster spurned a warning that he would be wise to co-operate. "You're the one who has to worry, not me!" he snarled at the agent. From underworld tipsters, the Narcotics Bureau later learned that Mauro's threat was no mere bluff. According to the Bureau, the Mafia lords in prison, alarmed over the demoralization of their mobs, had marked five agents for murder. Such a dramatic gesture was needed, they agreed, to show their defiance of the government and to impress rank-and-file mobsters.

Mafia leaders on the outside feared the scheme was too dangerous. "You kill five federal agents, and they won't be above framing all of us," was the reaction of one racket boss, as quoted by an informer. Genovese reportedly decided it would be enough to bump off one key agent. The last word was that the murder "contract" had been issued, but all five agents alerted by informers are on their guard.

PARADE can also reveal that it was George Gaffney, then chief of the New York Narcotics office and now Deputy Narcotics Commissioner, who persuaded squealer Joe Valachi to violate the code of omertà (secrecy or death) and take the witness stand against his colleagues in crime.

Valachi was no stranger to the N-men. He had directed a smuggling ring which brought heroin into this country in false trunk bottoms. Agents moved in on him in 1955, but his conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals. In 1959, however, they got enough evidence to send him away for 15 years. Another conviction in 1961 added 20 years.

But his book wasn't closed. Undercover men learned that the Cosa Nostra regarded Valachi as a weak link who couldn't stand confinement and might crack any time. They decided to eliminate him. Valachi heard the same whispers and tried desperately to contact Gaffney with an offer to talk. Soon Genovese, who shared a cell with Valachi, made the whispers formal. Valachi reported that he received the ceremonial Mafia "kiss of death" from Genovese, who, he said, handed out a "contract" to another Mafia inmate, the emaciated, cold-blooded Joe DiPalermo, to silence Valachi forever.

MURDER BY MISTAKE

From then on, Valachi lived in terror. It was in terror that he grabbed an iron pipe and killed convict John Saupp, whom he mistook for DiPalermo. It was only after this murder by mistake that Valachi, through his defense attorney, was able to contact Gaffney, and thus became the most important informer yet on the Mafia.

Success stories like the Valachi case make headlines, but similar successes—the result of relentless sleuthing and unsung heroism—are legion in the files of the Narcotics Bureau. And they are no accident. For N-men are picked not only for their razor-sharp wits and ice-cold nerve but also for their ability to mix in the underworld without suspicion. All the top narcotics officials have been undercover men. Only 10 years ago, Narcotics Commissioner Henry Giordano was posing as a racketeer to gain the confidence of the sinister Mallock brothers, John and George, who were smuggling dope into Canada and the U.S.

Working with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Giordano wormed his way into the Mallock mob. He played his part so convincingly that on one occasion the brothers told him they trusted him implicitly. His work led to their arrest, but they skipped bond and fled to Mexico. In 1953, George Mallock was rash enough to sneak back into New York to visit a favorite barmaid, was promptly nabbed, hustled back to Canada and sentenced to 21 years. John Mallock was tracked down in Mexico, pursued in a wild car chase, died when his car crashed into a truck.

In recent years, the Narcotics Bureau has branched out. N-men are at work all through the Mediterranean, the Middle East and Southeast Asia, where the pipelines start. Most of the time they pose as American gangsters, having patiently built up their background against checking.

The recent arrest of the Mexican ambassador had just such world-wide ramifications. It began with the arrest of Guatemala's former ambassador to Belgium, Mauricio Rosal, who was picked up with 250 pounds of heroin. On trips between Brussels and Guatemala City, Rosal arrived in New York with 180 pounds of luggage, departed with only 100. But because of diplomatic immunity, he couldn't be searched.

FROM THE EMBASSY TO THE PEN

Then Rosal made a slip. On one trip, instead of continuing to Guatemala City, he decided to return to Brussels. He was no longer technically in transit, thus lost his diplomatic immunity. He was quickly and quietly searched. His luggage was loaded with heroin, largest haul ever made in the U.S. Rosal confessed he had received $40,000 in courier fees. He is now in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Narcotics agents, living as they do in the shadow of sudden death, can ill afford to make a slip. But they admit ruefully that they pull their share of boners. One told PARADE how he finally won the confidence of a smuggler who agreed to sell him dope at a lonely rendezvous. The smuggler showed up without the goods, explained nervously that his car was known to the police and he might have been jumped. If the agent, whom he knew as an out-of-town racketeer, would trade cars, he would go and get the drugs.

For all the N-man knew, the smuggler was wise to him and had arranged a trap. But rather than blow the case, he handed over the keys of his car. Then he followed the smuggler and waited for him to go into an apartment. When the smuggler emerged with a parcel, the N-man made his arrest. It wasn't until they reached police headquarters and he got his keys back that he noticed a metal tag on the key ring inscribed: "Property of the Narcotics Bureau." If the smuggler had caught a glimpse of that tag, the agent might never have lived to tell the anecdote!

Some Bible Beliefs Have To Be Wrong!

When two Christians take different and conflicting meanings from the Bible, it is possible for both of them to be sincere.

But they can't both be RIGHT!

A small minority, for example, believes from their interpretation of a single verse of Revelation (7:4) that only 144,000 of the "elect" will inherit the kingdom of God. A greater number will live forever in an earthly paradise. The wicked will simply be annihilated.

This interpretation, of course, disagrees radically with the conviction of the majority of Christians that Christ opened the gates of heaven to the faithful. It also disagrees with the majority belief as to eternal reward or punishment.

Using the Bible as a book of prophecy, people have undertaken to predict the date of the second coming of Christ. Some contend that world events prove He is already invisibly here. These interpretations, of course, disagree with the words of our Lord, Who said of His second coming: "Of that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father only" (Mark 13:32). Nor can the majority of Christians believe, as a few do, that Christ took power in heaven only as recently as the last half century.

These are only a few examples of the conflicting interpretations of Holy Scripture which divide Christianity into hundreds of creeds and cults. While the sincerity of those holding contrary views is not questioned, the logic of their arguments must be considered by all who seek the truth.

Both obviously cannot be right when one says Christ is God and another respects Him merely as an enlightened teacher. If one believes in the Holy Trinity and another scoffs at this understanding, one or the other is wrong. Baptism can't be necessary, as many believe, and unnecessary as some others contend.

As Catholics see it, our Lord foresaw the confusion that would result from private interpretations of Holy Scripture. The Bible itself says: "No prophecy of scripture is made by private interpretation" (2 Pet. 1:20), and "As also in all His (Paul's) epistles . . . in which there are certain things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, to their own destruction" (2 Pet. 3:16).

Catholics believe that our Lord invested the Church with the sole authority to interpret His teachings. As a result, the worldwide unity of Catholics in the principles of their Faith contrasts sharply with the numerous divisions of opinion among other sincere Christians.

A VILLAGE BEGINS TO SMILE

VERSALLES, COLOMBIA.

One year ago, the boy on these pages looked out at PARADE readers solemn-eyed, sad and with an air of doom. Resident of this tiny village in Colombia, he suffered from parasitic intestinal disease, caused by Versalles' polluted water,.was underfed and tubercular, and looked forward—if he lived—to a life without joy or hope.

Today, as the top photo shows, the face is pudgier and the smile sparkles. And the little boy at last has hope.

The difference between those two pictures is the tall, blond North American at top—Dr. Richard P. Saunders. As reported in PARADE April 14, 1963, Saunders came to Versalles and, by quiet talk and friendly example, taught the villagers something they had not known before—how to work together. He inspired them to build a pipeline to carry pure water down from the top of the mountain. He gave them only $6 worth of tools they could not otherwise afford.

Saunders has gone into some 40 Colombian villages, and, without knowing Spanish, performed similar miracles. He advances little money, and his shoestring organization, Futures for Children, 5612 Parkston Rd., Washington 16, D.C., has no paid workers. The contributions of Saunders himself and other North Americans provide the modest funds.

Today, in fact, the organization is at a turning point. Inspired by their success so far, the people of Versalles are talking of new co-operative projects—a beekeeping industry, new schools, more health measures. But Dr. Saunders feels a trained, Spanish-speaking counselor should be on hand to assist. No money is available for one.

However, Saunders believes that the most important part of the battle of Versalles is won. "Practically all of the people are still malnourished," he says, "but now they are beginning to think for themselves, to plan for the future." To a small boy and a small town in Colombia, hope has come at last.

and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

GEORGIA BEAUTY
Cecilia Upton was able to trim down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of several highly respected educational institutions, leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute" — his XSXIM Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¼ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

MORNING STRETCH
for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

Handy blade: You'll find many uses for this adjustable razor blade knife (top right). A touch on the control button allows you to slide the blade out, lock it in place for opening packages, cutting twine, clipping newspapers and magazines. Another touch and the blade slides back and locks inside the case for safe carrying in pocket or purse. You can also expose entire blade edge in a special side channel for paint scraping, other uses. When blade dulls, slip in any new single-edge razor blade. Chrome case is 1½" x 2½". $1.50. Modern Systems, Dept. PP, Box 228, Alhambra, Calif.

Ice cube maker: This new appliance (lower right) for your kitchen, recreation room or patio makes up to 22 lb. of cubes a day, can store 140 cubes in a convenient bin. It connects to ¼-inch water line, needs no drain, works on 115-volt current, measures 14" x 24" x 14", can be recessed in a wall or used free-standing. Complete details: U-Line Corp., Dept. PP, 811 E. Vienna Ave., Milwaukee 12, Wis.

Kitchen aid: A new metal cleaner is designed specifically to solve the problem of removing grease from electric frypans, other aluminum cooking utensils. It's an easily applied liquid that softens encrusted grease so you can just brush it off or remove it readily with soap pad and water. 8-oz. can, good for up to 2 years' use. About $1.25 in stores. Sunbeam, Dept. PP, 5400 W. Roosevelt Rd., Chicago 50, Ill.

Antiquing your furniture: With a new kit you'll find it easy to produce an antiqued painted finish on any piece of furniture—without need to remove the old paint or varnish first even if it is marred, checked or fogged. You simply apply an off-white undercoater, brush on a coat of color glaze, wipe with cheesecloth to produce subtle shadings. The glaze dries to a soft satin sheen you can buff or wax. Glaze colors are pink, blue, olive, gold, red, antique white. $4.95 kit has enough material for one chest or two chairs, including undercoater, choice of glaze, brushes, cheesecloth, instructions. Martin-Senour, Dept. PP, 2500 S. Senour Ave., Chicago, Ill.

DOCTORS RECOMMEND:

1. Rest in bed
2. Drink plenty of fluids
3. Take aspirin to reduce fever and relieve pain

REPORTING on a Government-Financed Study of Five Leading Pain Relievers, an article in The Journal of The American Medical Association showed that Bayer Aspirin was unsurpassed by any of them for speed and strength of relief. The report also showed that Bayer Aspirin was as gentle to the stomach as any product tested, including the higher-priced buffered product. On the other hand, the two combination-of-ingredients products tested upset the stomach considerably more often.

In great variety—with high crowns, fabric flowers and small and large brims—they'll make their pretty appearance next Sunday along with the rest of the Easter finery. Some give the wearer a jaunty air, like the perky red ballbunt hat on today's cover; others, like those on this page, are romantic, pert and pretty versions of the brimmed hat. All are perfect complements to the new spring styles, which feature pleated and flaring skirts. Complete your costume with a pair of important earrings—it's the latest this spring.

DIET SCHOOL: NEWEST WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT

by FRED WARSHOFSKY

Lecturer talks to New York diet school students.

NEW YORK, N.Y.

Once a week, a band of roly-poly housewives, executives and career girls gathers in a classroom on the second floor of the City Health Department Center here to fight the battle of the bulge. And for the next hour, they get expert advice on the whys and wherefores, do's and don'ts of dieting, punctuated by a battery of plastic food models and colorful charts to make sure the lesson sinks in.

These student-patients are enrolled in diet school, a unique program to teach interested citizens the art of "obesity control." The results have been so good that classes now have a waiting list 2,000 portly people long, all eager for the solid facts about nutrition that are essential to successful dieting.

FATS AND FADS

Run by the New York City Health Department, the 10-week course shuns pills, ancient Chinese exercises and the sensational promises of the faddists to concentrate on one thing—common-sense eating. On the premise that there is such a thing as a balanced, varied diet in which calories are not all that count, the classes are open to those who are 20 to 30 pounds overweight—the "moderately obese," Dr. George Christakis, director of the Health Department's Bureau of Nutrition, calls them.

The classes are conducted by Mrs. Ruth Larsen, a Health Department nutritionist with 20 years of experience. "We teach good eating habits," Mrs. Larsen explains. "Most people have no real idea of what they are eating and only get the required nutrients through a haphazard combination of foods. Often the amounts they consume are in excess of their bodies' actual needs; the result is obesity."

Basic diet needs are unfolded to the students in 10 easy-to-digest lectures, calculated to chip away at long-established faulty eating habits. Sample menus and calorie charts are distributed, and students learn to avoid certain foods almost without thinking.

For example, Mrs. Larsen turns thumbs down on rich sauces, gravies, dressings and fats. But she gives the go-ahead to such low-calorie, high-nutrient vegetables as beans, mushrooms, parsley, spinach. And should between-meal hunger pangs become unmanageable, Mrs. Larsen cheerfully suggests green pepper or celery for nibbling.

However, dieters have to watch even their vegetable intake. Artichokes, beets, eggplant and squash, for example, are limited to one serving per day. Difficult as it may be to imagine even the most voracious dieter dreaming of a beet binge, these vegetables are higher in calories and lower in nutritive value.

Mrs. Larsen teaches her students not only what to eat, but how to prepare it. "Eat at least five fish meals weekly," she declares, raising high a tray of plastic fish. "Notice that the fish is not fried," she adds, as the class strains to detect signs of broiling.

NOT BY POUNDS ALONE

Meats, too, come in for scrutiny. They are divided into three groups: lean, medium lean and medium fat. Student-patients are limited to three meals a week in the medium-fat group—beef, lamb, pork—and Mrs. Larsen cautions them to "trim off all visible fat before eating."

The success of the school is measured not only by weight loss but also by the ability of the students to stay down. Of the class of 53 who attended the school when it began last April, 36 completed the course and 26 achieved maintenance.

But success in keeping weight down depends largely on motivation. An insurance man, the father of six, studied the actuarial tables and realized that as his weight ballooned, so did his premiums. "The premiums are based on how good a risk you are," he explained. "And with six kids, I decided to do everything I could to cut the odds." One woman, however, admitted to enrolling in the course so as to "look as glamorous as possible at my daughter's wedding." Her return from size 12 to size 20 and obesity is almost certain.

Student weighs in before class as Mrs. Larsen (l.) looks on. Results are charted, discussed.

She displays tray with plastic food models making up high- and low-calorie sample menus.

Students also learn to fit the new eating patterns into the framework of family meals. Self-analysis cards are kept with scrupulous accuracy. Each meal, as well as between-meal snacks, is recorded, and at the next meeting the cards are exposed to the class for discussion.

The benefit of these discussions is twofold. First, they give rise to competition between students for weight loss. But more important is the feeling of mutual striving and support derived from the discussions. Each overweight student finds out that he or she is not alone with the problem of obesity, that others tend to raid the icebox and take an extra helping of dessert. And this helps to supply the extra will power needed to endure what is for some people a drastic cut in the high-calorie foods they have been accustomed to eating.

Still, dieters are beset by temptation. The men, who usually eat lunch in restaurants, complain of the difficulty of maintaining a balanced diet. To solve this problem, one class session is devoted to selecting nutritious, low calorie foods from a typical restaurant menu.

For the women, the biggest problem lies in "tasting" while they are preparing meals for husbands and children. "It's awfully hard not to nibble when you are constantly surrounded by food," one dieting housewife says.

To counterbalance the tendency to nibble, housewives often resort to skipping breakfast. But it just doesn't work. "Skipping a meal usually results in stuffing at the next—and this leads to obesity," Mrs. Larsen explains. "The body simply cannot handle the excess."

One woman pasted a photo of herself when she was slim on the refrigerator door. Others confessed to reciting phrases learned in classes, such as "Ten seconds in the mouth, an hour in the stomach, a lifetime around the middle."

As for the future of the school, Dr. Christakis is hopeful. "Most of our patients have tried dieting in one form or another for years without success," he says. "Even if not all our patients achieve maintenance, they will at least have learned that there is such a thing as good nutrition."

TO PARIS WITH LOVE

And the school can point to one stunning success—a plump young social recluse who had resigned herself to becoming an old maid slimmed down to 116 pounds and returned recently to the school to announce her engagement. "We haven't decided whether to live in California or in France," she announced. "But I'm going to make sure to come back at least once a year for my maintenance checks."

The checks are the final phase of the curriculum. "Without them," states Mrs. Larsen, "many of our students would slide back into their old eating habits." Checks are made one month after the final class, then every three months for two years and finally once a year for three more years. The purpose is twofold: to provide scientific data to evaluate the program and to give the patients an opportunity to review their eating habits. Thus the weight they have lost and the knowledge they have gained remain a permanent part of their lives.

Newlyweds Suzanne Pleshette and Troy Donahue appear at Hollywood première. Suzanne, 26, married Donahue, teenagers' favorite, in Beverly Hills three months ago.

by ARNO JOHANSEN

SUZANNE PLESHETTE:

WHAT SHE WANTS, SHE GETS

In motion pictures today there are only four or five actresses who matter at the box office: Doris Day, Elizabeth Taylor, Ingrid Bergman, Audrey Hepburn and possibly Shirley MacLaine, all of whom demand and get a minimum of $500,000 per film.

The rest of the actresses mean relatively nothing.

The late Harry Cohn, tyrant chief of Columbia Pictures, once told me—and his opinion was typical of many studio heads: "Any dame with a pleasant face, a 36-inch bust and a fourth-grade education can hold down the average girl role in the average movie."

This was an exaggeration, of course, but as most people now realize, there is little correlation between screen stardom and acting talent. Rita Hayworth, Lana Turner, Kim Novak, Betty Grable, Jayne Mansfield and Sandra Dee are all cases in point. These are what the industry calls "personalities."

Once in a great while a young player hits Hollywood who has the characteristics of both a "personality" and an actress.

Such a young woman is Suzanne Pleshette, 26, who recently married the teenagers' heart throb, a 27-year-old "personality" who works in motion pictures under the name of Troy Donahue.

Suzanne has the drive, talent and intelligence to become a full-fledged screen star, providing she is cast in major films.

NOT EXCLUSIVE

Unfortunately, she is under contract to Warner Brothers, a studio which specializes in "popular-type movies." In the 37 years that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has been in existence, Warner Bros. has produced 2 Academy Award winning films for best production: The Life of Emile Zola in 1937 and Casablanca in 1943.

Fortunately for Suzanne, she is not under exclusive contract to Warners. She owes them two films a year but can do as much outside film and TV work as she likes. Her latest job, for example, is at 20th Century-Fox on a loanout starring opposite Glenn Ford in Fate Is the Hunter. This film is directed by Ralph Nelson, who directed Lilies of the Field, one of the best motion pictures of 1963.

A black-haired, green-eyed New Yorker, daughter of Eugene Pleshette, who used to manage the Paramount Theatre in Brooklyn, Suzanne wants desperately to become a movie star—"Not because I'm particularly ambitious, which is a dirty word when it's used in connection with a woman, but because today a movie star has only to make one picture a year to maintain her status.

"What I want," she continues, "now that I'm married, is to have enough time off to look after my husband and raise a family. If you're a big star, you can do that. If you're not, then they cast you in any kind of junk and you've got to work your tail off, hoping against hope that maybe somehow you'll hit it big.

"In Troy Donahue I think I've got the best husband in the world. Now if I can only become a big star, I'll have the best of two worlds. No girl can beat that."

Suzanne Pleshette boasts the acting ability to become a major star—she's had a lengthy apprenticeship: The High School of Performing Arts in New York, drama study at Syracuse University and the Neighborhood Playhouse, work in more than 200 television dramas, the starring role on Broadway in The Miracle Worker (succeeding Anne Bancroft)—but such background does not qualify her for stardom.

HAS SHE GOT IT?

What movie-goers demand in their screen goddesses is sex appeal. Does Suzanne Pleshette generate enough of that quality?

Her husband of two months, who at one time or another dated so many Hollywood sexpots that he was acknowledged the successor to the late Errol Flynn, says: "Suzanne is one of the most sexy girls I ever met, which is one of the reasons I married her. Whenever I kiss her, even now that we're married, those bells still ring." Donahue's viewpoint is, of course, biased, and what he finds in his wife is not necessarily transmitted on the screen. Several directors I've spoken to believe that Suzanne's appeal is primarily intellectual. "She's an outspoken girl with a good head on her shoulders," one told me. "She's got talent and brains," another explained.

Suzanne Pleshette plays scene with Glenn Ford in her latest film, Fate Is the Hunter.

"She's ambitious, domineering, clever, candid, industrious and hard-working," a third concedes, "but when it comes to sex appeal—lusty, tingling, stimulating sex appeal—that's not her forte. Maybe she'll become another Bette Davis—Bette is the only actress without sex appeal who ever made stardom—but somehow I doubt it. What I think Suzanne will develop into is another Anne Bancroft or Pat Neal or Geraldine Page. Primarily she's a stage actress."

A girl of strong opinions, Suzanne disagrees with the contention which holds her deficient in sex appeal.

"Just because I won't pose for leg art and that sort of thing," she says, "that doesn't mean I'm without sex appeal. I don't believe any girl should flaunt her womanness, if there is such a word. Besides, I don't want stardom if I have to get it on the basis of chest measurements. I refuse to believe that movie-goers don't admire talent, attractiveness, entertainment and subtle sex appeal."

Ralph Nelson, the actress' current director, declares: "Sex appeal is a very individual matter. I, for one, am convinced that Suzy has what it takes to become a great star, an enduring star. For me she has a smoldering sort of sex appeal, a sex appeal with great potential, the kind which teases the imagination. In addition, she has intelligence, basic honesty and a tremendous desire to work only at her best. Suzy will get what she wants in life because she's willing to work for it. She wants nothing for nothing."

SHE GOT HER MAN

The consensus of opinion in Hollywood concerning Suzy is that what she wants she gets.

"Almost three years ago," a rival actress points out, "Suzanne set her cap for Troy Donahue. At that time he was getting 4,000 fan letters a week. Every girl in town was throwing herself at his feet, and none of us thought Suzy would even get to first base with the guy. Today she's Mrs. Troy Donahue, and I'm still looking for a husband. Get my point?"

"Got it," I said. ■

How can you imitate them when no two are alike?

Talk about unique. Each Contac capsule contains over 600 tiny "time pills" *no two of which are the same! It took the makers of Contac 7 years and 35,000 man-hours to develop this unique principle of continuous action medication.

Today Contac is America's largest-selling cold medication. And it's no surprise that over 90 "Johnny-come-latelys" have tried to climb on the bandwagon. These imitators look like Contac. Some even have names that sound like Contac. But do they work like Contac? How can they! None of these imitators has the famous Contac tiny "time pills" with their exact, scientifically proven formula. These imitators may cost less, but Contac remains a better buy. Why? Because the more a cold capsule does for you the less it really costs. And nothing else does as much for your head cold congestion as the formula in the tiny "time pills" in Contac.

That's why it will always pay you to ask for Contac by name. At your pharmacy.

*By an exclusive process, the tiny "time pills" in each Contac capsule are given coatings of varying thicknesses to provide continuous action medication up to 12 hours.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield tried to hush up a Democratic family quarrel that exploded on the Senate floor. He pleaded with his colleagues not to wash the party's "dirty linen" in public.

Later, he tried to explain that the linen wasn't really dirty, not even slightly soiled. "It was just linen that should have been kept in the closet."

"Maybe," suggested an eavesdropping Republican, "it was just tattle-tale gray."

Mother of five, she turned to show business in the summer of 1955, "when the furnace, washing machine and car broke down, and the bills mounted." Phyllis was then living in California, writing copy for Kahn's department store in Oakland. When a friend told her that lots of money could be earned by making people laugh, she auditioned for a job at a club called the Purple Onion in San Francisco. She was so good the club booked her for 89 consecutive weeks. Ever since, she has been working steadily, appearing on all major TV shows, working the top night spots throughout the country, cutting records, "and picking up a spare buck wherever I can." Happily married for more than 20 years, Phyllis lives outside St. Louis, Mo., with her family when she isn't working, which is practically never. Much of her humor concerns the relationship between the average housewife and her husband. Herewith a few Killer-Diller samples.*

I love husband jokes. My husband's name is Fang, and I must have at least 40 million Fang jokes. Here are a few:

I'm giving him a watch for his birthday. I promised him one as soon as he learned to tell time.

I can tell Fang isn't afraid of work by the way he fights it!

He's been under a lot of pressure lately, though—three quilts and a blanket.

Fang is a wonderful cook. He serves food that melts in your mouth—it's frozen.

It's true, we fight. But we've never gone to bed mad. Of course, one year we were up for three months.

Once he tried to run out on me—but the police arrested him for leaving the scene of an accident!

Fang loves crowds. It's not that he's gregarious—he's a pickpocket.

Years ago, when he told me he was a confirmed bachelor, I said: "Keep your religion out of this."

Fang told me one day that he was going to school and study Karate. "That's something that you learn," he said, "so you can break furniture with your bare hands."

"Who needs to go to school for that?" I replied. "Just ask the kids!"

Actually, though, he said he wanted to study Karate in case he ever needed to defend my honor. I told him to mind his own business.

Fang has that lean look. Every time I look at him, he's leaning on something. He's semi-retired, you know. He looks for a job in his pajamas.

You wonder why Fang won't work? Well, he tells me that he doesn't believe a career and marriage will mix.

I love animal jokes, too. Did you hear the one about two elephants entering Noah's Ark? One said to the other: "On the other hand, Clyde, who else has ever asked us to take a boat trip?"

An Eskimo mother was sitting in the igloo and reading from a story book to her small son. "Little Jack Horner," she read, "sat in a corner."

"Mother," asked the kid, "what's a corner?"

Mrs. Smith is sitting at her kitchen table drinking coffee, reading the paper, wearing an old chenille robe, curlers in her hair and bedroom slippers, and the kitchen is a mess of dirty dishes.

Her husband arrives at the back door with his briefcase after a hard day's work, and she looks up in surprise and says: "Are you home already?"

President Acts Personally to Revive Parley

'REVIEW' OF ISSUES OFFERED PANAMA

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson made a personal move Saturday to try to get talks with Panama back on the track.

Johnson walked unannounced into a routine briefing being held by Press Secretary George A. Reedy and surprised reporters by reading a detailed statement of his attitude toward the Panama dispute. Johnson said:

"We are prepared to review every issue which now divides us, and every problem which the Panamanian government wishes to raise. We are prepared to do this at any time and any place."

Although Johnson described the statement as a reaffirmation of American policy, key phrases appeared to be sufficiently vague to leave ample room for maneuver in any settlement talks.

Initial Panamanian reaction was favorable.

Miguel Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, said he would have to study the Johnson statement but commented, "It's what we have been working for since January."

Johnson said he was sending his statement to Juan Bautista de Lavalle, chairman of the Council of the OAS who has been chosen to try to mediate the dispute. De Lavalle moved at once to set up a meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

After reading his statement, Johnson opened the floor to questions, launching what proved to be another impromptu news conference.

During the questioning, the President said that "obviously" restoration of formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Panama would have to precede any review of divisive problems.

The President had this to say in his statement about the machinery for such a review:

"As soon as he is invited by the government of Panama, our ambassador will be on his way. We shall also designate a special representative. He will arrive with full authority to discuss every difficulty. He will be charged with the responsibility of seeking a solution which recognizes the fair claims of Panama and protects the interest of all the American nations in the canal."

Johnson said the instructions to be carried by a special representative would "not prohibit any solution which is fair and subject to the appropriate constitutional processes of both our governments."

The President emphasized that his statement repeatedly referred to a "review" of problems that triggered bloody rioting in Panama nearly three months ago.

"I don't say discuss," he said, "because that is a sticky word. Some of them do not quite understand what it means."

Last Sunday evening, an OAS committee announced that the United States and Panama had agreed to resume diplomatic relations, then "discuss and negotiate" common problems. The Johnson administration disavowed the OAS announcement, which prompted some criticism of Johnson, notably in Latin America.

The President's latest statement on the knotty dispute obviously was designed to put new life into settlement talks in the

Hypo Needles in Rubbish Alarm Authorities Here

By WILLIAM JONES

Dumping of contaminated hypodermic syringes and needles and discarded drugs in trash cans in Long Beach is causing serious alarm among medical examiners.

In a special letter to all Long Beach doctors this week, City Health Officer Dr. L. D. Litwack warns that children innocently are using the medical refuse.

Dr. Litwack flatly said:

"Numerous complaints have been received recently by this department concerning children finding disposable syringes, needles and medicine and drug samples in trash cans of clinics, physicians' and dentists' offices and hospitals."

Litwack's own investigators last week made this startling discovery: More than 100 syringes and 40 bottles of unused drugs in trash barrels outside a Long Beach medical facility.

Dr. Litwack added:

"Careless disposal practices of these items may create a health-safety hazard to youngsters."

Health officials are so concerned over the trash-can problem that the State Board of Medical Examiners is enclosing a special warning to all doctors in the state this week with their license-renewal papers.

The message tells doctors that "disposal by physicians, dentists and hospitals of unused or partially used drugs, used syringes and other biological products creates a health problem when such refuse can be picked up by children and, possibly, drug addicts."

The warning asked all doctors to review their office procedure in disposing of the items.

The State Board said that the California Medical Association recommends destruction of the items, stressing disposal in a locked or in a tamper-proof refuse can, or prompt incineration.

As director of the Long Beach Health Department's environmental health division, L. G. Estes has put his 10 inspectors into the field to look into the problem.

Estes said that most doctors are toeing the line in disposal and that the "exceptions still have not become the rule in Long Beach."

Nevertheless, he warns, "the potential danger to one child is a case of one too many.

"We might make it inconvenient, hurt a lot of people, but—and what's the proverbial saying?—if it saves the life of one kid, it's worth all of that struggle."

Nikita, De Gaulle Invited to Record Thoughts on JFK

By BILL BROOM
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The voices of Nikita Khrushchev and Charles de Gaulle reflecting on what might have happened to the world had John F. Kennedy lived may be recorded for posterity.

The two leaders and 96 other foreign statesmen are being invited to grant tape-recorded interviews for the oral history archives of the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard, The Independent, Press-Telegram was informed Saturday.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's personal invitation to the world leaders requests them to record their impressions of the late President "with complete candor."

The words of those who respond may never be known to present generations. The interviewees are being offered the privilege of withholding all or any part of their reminiscences and setting conditions under which they may be used.

• • • •

OBJECT of the oral history project, in Robert Kennedy's words, is "to rescue and record material which would otherwise not be put down on paper and which would in consequence be forever lost to the future historian."

The library's invitation, over Robert F. Kennedy's signature, makes it clear that mere eulogies would be of little relative value to the library. It asks for personal impressions of the President, "his policies, his achievements, his mistakes, his failures, with complete candor."

In addition, the leaders are requested to give their estimates of the direction in which world affairs were moving at the time of President Kennedy's assassination and their opinions of what might have happened if he had lived.

The entire oral history

GROOM GLOOM

Like, Till Debt Do Us Part

The bride and groom were emerging Saturday afternoon from the First Christian Church in Bellflower when someone drove off in their car.

Quickly, a member of the wedding party called Lakewood sheriff's station. Two others gave chase.

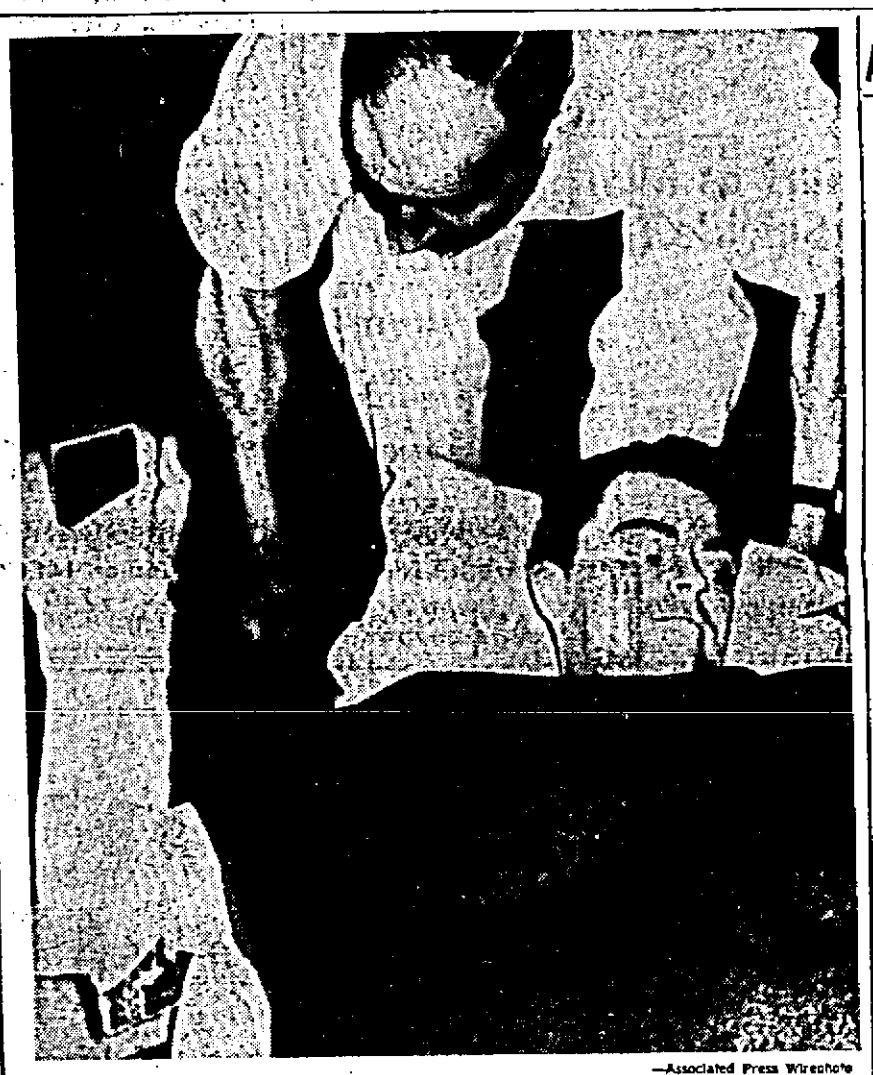

A sheriff's car and the newlyweds' friends caught the culprit five blocks from the church.

But he wouldn't surrender the car. He was, the driver explained, from the finance company and, wedding or not, he was repossessing the 1958 auto.

"I only owed $65 on it," said bridegroom William A. Russell, 20, of 9720 Flower St., Bellflower.

Russell offered partial payment, but the repossessor turned him down.

So the wedding party ended with guests transferring presents from Russell's—or the finance company's car—to the best man's.

FREEDOM LOOKS MIGHTY GOOD

First Lt. Harold W. Welch, one of three Air Force fliers shot down over East Germany, is taken into ambulance at Wiesbaden, West Germany, Saturday for transport to Air Force hospital at Wiesbaden-Erbenheim.

'Mom, Now Don't Faint,' Freed, Wounded Flier Phones Home

DETROIT (AP) — "Mom, now don't faint, it's only me," were the first words Mrs. Gerald Welch heard from her 24-year-old son, Harold, freed Saturday after 11 days in a Soviet military hospital in East Germany.

"It's wonderful they let him go," said Mrs. Welch, with her husband, Gerald, smiling his agreement. "It's been a terrible ordeal."

Their son, 1st Lt. Harold W. Welch, was one of the three U.S. fliers shot down over East Germany March 10. He was turned over to American military representatives Saturday at Magdeburg, East Germany.

Welch's father, a 62-year-old taxicab driver, said he and his wife talked with their son for two or three minutes in a transatlantic telephone call from a hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

"He just let us know he was all right," said Welch. "He said they were kind and courteous in East Ger-

PAYLOAD FOR B52

Superbombs Needed Now, Says LeMay

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay says there is a military requirement for hydrogen bombs as big as 100 megatons and that they can be delivered to target by present-day B52 bombers.

The views of the Air Force chief of staff — who still is battling to keep manned bombers in the Strategic Air Command along with the rival missiles—appeared Saturday in a 981-page transcript of testimony taken last summer in connection with Senate ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee, released the transcript (still heavily censored in many places).

It was being made public, he said, because it "gives an accurate and reasonably complete picture of the significant issues involved and of the views of the various witnesses." The document was in addition to previously published portions of testimony.

In his testimony, LeMay said the Air Force had "restated our military requirement for a high-yield weapon and recommended that we proceed immediately with the development of a high-yield bomb (50 to 100 megatons) to be compatible with the B52 aircraft."

He said such a bomb could be produced before the B52s were worn out and added they would be around until the early 1970s.

The questioning grew out of discussion of the Soviet announcement more than a year ago that Russia had a 100-megaton weapon. In her last series of tests, one shot was reported to have been of about 58-megaton yield.

LeMay and other officials testified that even without further atmospheric testing, the U.S. can make nuclear weapons of much higher yield than now in the arsenal. (Plane-delivered bombs now are believed to be of between 20 and 30 megatons, with two carried by a B52. Warheads for ICBMs presumably have yields ranging up to two or three megatons.)

The doctrine of the Defense Department has been that several smaller bombs and missiles have more military value than one big one.

Joan's in San Juan, S. America Next

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Housewife Joan Merriam Smith of Long Beach, landed in San Juan Saturday, completing her fourth—and first over water—leg on a planned round-the-world solo flight.

Mrs. Smith, 27, wife of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Marvin Smith, crossed over from Miami in 6 hours and 41 minutes. She is flying a twin-engine Piper Apache.

The 5-foot-2 blonde said she ran into thunderstorms shortly after leaving Miami International Airport, "but I was able to pick up tail winds about 150 miles out that helped my crossing time."

• • • •

SHE SAID she felt a bit lonely, particularly "after I passed the Caicos Islands. Then there was nothing but water."

In Hamilton, Bermuda, another American pilot and housewife, Mrs. Jerrie Mock, delayed her departure for the Azores on another hoped-for round-the-world solo flight. Mrs. Mock, 38, wife of a Columbus, Ohio, advertising man and mother of three, was expected to take off today. She is flying a single-engine Cessna 180. Each has denied she is racing to be the first woman to fly around the world alone.

• • • •

MRS. SMITH began her trip Tuesday in Oakland, Calif. She is scheduled for takeoff this morning for Paramaribo, Surinam (Dutch Guiana), and from there to Natal, Brazil. She will cross the Atlantic to Africa from Natal.

She said she is somewhat apprehensive about her South American flying. "All those swamps and rain forests bother me," she said.

She complained of radio reception trouble coming into San Juan and her set was replaced by another donated by San Juan's international air services management.

THE EASTER STORY

(Editor's Note—In 1849, famed Victorian novelist Charles Dickens wrote a special story—not for publication but particularly for his nine children. That story, in letter form, told the Easter story. Here it is, in condensed version, reprinted on this Palm Sunday.)

By CHARLES DICKENS
Distributed by United Press International

My Dear Children:

I am very anxious that you should know something about the history of Jesus Christ. For everybody ought to know about Him. No one ever lived who was so good, so kind, so gentle, and so sorry for all people who did wrong or were in any way ill or miserable, as He was.

That you may know what the people mean when they said "crucify Him!" I must tell you that in those times, which were very cruel times indeed, it was the custom to kill people who were sentenced to death by nailing them alive on a great wooden cross. It was the custom, too, to make them walk to the place of execution, carrying the crosspiece of wood to which their hands were to be afterward nailed, that their shame and suffering might be the greater.

Bearing His Cross upon His shoulder, like the commonest and most wicked criminal, Our Blessed Savior Jesus Christ, surrounded by the persecuting crowd, went out of Jerusalem to a place called in the Hebrew language Golgotha. They hammered cruel nails through His hands and feet and nailed Him on the cross, between two other crosses. Over His head, they fastened this writing: Jesus of Nazareth, the King of Jews. At about the sixth hour, a deep and terrible darkness came over all the land, and lasted until the ninth hour, when Jesus cried out with a loud voice:

"My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me!" The soldiers, hearing Him, dipped a sponge in some vinegar that was standing there and, fastening it to a long reed, put it to His mouth. When He had

L.A.C. Says: Looking Back Over a Generation

When the New Deal took over 31 years ago many changes were made in the government's controls over our economy and social lives Many of these changes were long past due. Today some of our greatest safeguards have resulted from laws enacted during that period. But we have sacrificed many civil liberties that were provided by the Bill of Rights and the people of this country. There are those today who insist on giving up certain of these rights but say it is fantastic that other civil rights are endangered. The Rumford Housing Act is an example of how property rights are taken away under the guise of civil rights.

Almost daily we read of such losses which a generation ago we would have said could never happen. But government has over these years steadily encouraged their loss. A recent NLRB decision approved a union action that called for fines and expulsion from the union—and the jobs—of three members. The members' crime was that they produced more products a day than the limit placed on the production by the union. The men had worked harder and more efficiently to earn premium pay for their work. They now have to hold down their production to conform to union rules.

Over these years the people have approved of many welfare programs because they believed they would be used to help those who are in need. They have seen their taxes steadily increased for this purpose. It would have seemed fantastic a generation ago that any public official would say these funds could be used for gambling by the recipient. But only last month the welfare director of New York City was asked if it was proper for welfare recipients to use their mony to buy tickets for off-track race horse betting. His reply was: "I do not believe in the double standard—if the wealthy can wager—the same right goes to those who are not wealthy."

If we look at the debacle of the farm program—controls over production and subsidizing of sales to Russia, we have a program the people would have thought fantastic a generation ago. But these and many other such programs are apathetically accepted today as normal. Each year some new interpretation of civil rights is announced—such as the ruling that prayers cannot be said in our schools.

Five market chains in the state have just lost a court battle with the state Director of Agriculture. The markets wanted to cut the price of milk by 2 cents a quart. But the state refused them permission and the court upheld its decision. Result is that millions of people who buy their milk in stores will pay this higher cost. The object is to protect the home delivery dairies from losing business from this competition. Few people ever expected this interpretation of the law when it was enacted.

Now there is the proposal that it will be illegal for individuals, who want to make more money to hold two jobs. It is said this causes unemployment. But records show that most of these "moonlighters" are in demand because they have skills or experience that is not available among the unemployed. School teachers often serve as recreation supervisors after their school hours. Accountants do work for others in their offtime period from regular jobs. These people are ambitious and willing to work. But now it is proposed that they would break the law by accepting other work.

These are some examples of how government has taken over the freedoms of private enterprise. It would have seemed fantastic that these would be the results of legislation taken many years ago. But laws are subject to changing interpretations by courts and bureaucrats. It is a reason why the people should look ahead to see what may happen to them under other so-called civil rights welfare laws.—L.A.C.

Doctors Warned on Peril of Trash to Youngsters

The health department inspector, who, like his men, carries a special Long Beach Police Department badge, said the drugs found by a Long Beach hospital last week were:

"On the painkiller-type level. Potentially, of course, they are dangerous to children.

"With extreme doses, they can kill!"

The blame for all this, experts say, is the office help in doctors' offices. Too often, they say, the doctor finds himself too busy and he delegates the authority of disposal to his office secretary or the janitor in the medical building.

When the day of rubbish collection comes around, the open cans of medical refuse are left in the alley, available to any curious youngster or drug addict.

This situation prompted the Long Beach Medical Society last week to warn its members that "disposable needles and syringes prevent transmission of infection . . . but they also have proved to be a boon to narcotics addicts."

Dr. Jack M. Lynn, editor of the society's newsletter, said that three narcotics offenders last year were caught with hypodermic syringes fished out of trash barrels.

Recently, more children have found unused drugs in alley trash barrels and have used the syringes as squirt guns, Dr. Litwack said.

The Long Beach Medical Society has warned:

"Every medical office is requested to establish a mandatory routine by which disposable syringes and needles shall be made unusable before their disposal."

HYPODERMIC NEEDLES and drugs found by Long Beach City health inspectors in trash barrels outside a local medical facility are destroyed. L. G. Estes, environmental health director, breaks off needle with pliers. Assisting him is Public health nurse Mary Ferdinand. Investigators found more than 400 needles and bottles with drugs at the one location.

Wife Fatally Hurt as Man Wrecks Car in Suicide Try

A 35-year-old Los Angeles woman died in St. Mary's Hospital Saturday after her husband went beserk and rammed their car into a palm tree on Long Beach's East 15th Street in an attempt to kill himself.

Mrs. Josephine Winans died as a result of critical injuries caused when her husband, William H., deliberately drove his car into a tree in the 400 block of East 13th, under the delusion that he "was being chased by Communists," officers said.

The couple's five-year-old daughter, Michelle, was listed in fair condition in St. Mary's.

Winans, officers said, ran from the wreckage containing his unconscious wife and child and rushed into a nearby house, grabbed a paring knife and plunged it into his throat, then shoved his arms through a kitchen window, cutting both wrists on jagged glass.

Described as a "large powerful man," Winans fought desperately with officers and ambulance attendants.

Court Order Bans L&N Rail Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad averted the threat of a strike by obtaining a court order Saturday night to keep four unions from walking off the job.

U.S. District Judge Henry Brooks issued a temporary restraining order four hours before the deadline announced for a walkout.

He set March 30 for a hearing in the case which involves a dispute over work rules.

The L&N's complaint centered on a single point. It claimed the unions agreed to national negotiations, which would involve all major rail lines at the same time, and then demanded to negotiate on a local basis.

The railroad said it never received direct notice from the unions that they intended to strike.

Governor's 2 Tax Bills Due Monday

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Brown's tax package, containing relief for 1,230,000 income taxpayers and simpler forms will be introduced Monday, the governor announced Saturday.

The package contains an income tax bill and a bank-corporation tax bill.

The income tax bill would cancel taxes outright for 120,000 state taxpayers with low earnings and reduce them for about 1,110,000, Brown said.

* * * *

THE SECOND bill would adjust taxes for banks and corporations.

Brown said the bills would "simplify reporting procedures for individuals and corporations."

The measures will be introduced by Sen. Virgil O'Sullivan, D-Williams, and Assemblyman Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland.

Brown said they would bring California law more into conformity with federal laws.

* * * *

THE PRINCIPAL way Brown would reduce and simplify income taxes would be in taking the standard deduction.

Currently, the deduction is 10 percent of gross income up to $500 for single persons and $1,000 for couples.

Under the new proposal, individuals would take a flat deduction of $500 and couples $1,000, no matter what their income.

* * * *

BROWN'S PROPOSAL also contains some new tax benefits for elderly persons, persons who move for job reasons, sickness, and persons with fluctuating incomes.

On the other hand, it would deny some present deductions such as motor vehicles charges, excise taxes and unemployment disability tax.

The measures would not affect 1963 taxes.

The Legislature already has one slightly different income tax bill before it, introduced by Petris early in the session and supported by Brown a year ago. No action has been taken on it.

BAL WEEK DOLL HOUSE

A group of girls from Upland High School, a small but pretty part of the 30,000 teenagers expected to crowd the Newport-Balboa area by today, lounge on the front porch of a Newport cottage they rented Saturday for Bal Week, the annual Easter vacation invasion of high school and college youngsters. The beaches were noticeably vacant Saturday due to overcast skies, but teenagers were sure Bal Week would brighten up any minute.

U.S. Won't Hand Over Cuba Pair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States rejected Saturday a Cuban request that two defectors who hijacked a military helicopter to Florida be returned against their will.

The only way army Capts. Guillermo Santos and Andres Izaguirre, both 20, can be forced to go home is through extradition proceedings instituted by Cuba in American courts, a State Department spokesman said.

But the United States agreed to turn over to Cuban authorities Sergio Roque, a 17-year-old crewman who wants to go home, and the body of Capt. Jose Arcadio Garcia, the pilot killed in the hijacking.

* * * *

CUBA PRESSED for the return of Santos and Izaguirre through the Czechoslovakian embassy, which handles Cuban affairs in Washington in the absence of U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations.

Czech counselor Jaroslav Zantovsky presented to William Bowdler, deputy coordinator for Cuban affairs, a Cuban note charging the two defectors with desertion, kidnaping, treason and murder.

State Department legal authorities said the desertion and treason charges are political and not grounds for extradition. As for the kidnaping and murder charges, authorities said it would be up to a judge to decide if they are politically related.

A-Blast That Shook Hawaii Was Only 500 Miles Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The megaton-size nuclear blast which startled Hawaiians and set off burglar alarms in Honolulu in 1962 was detonated only 500 miles from the city at an altitude of 250 miles.

This was reported officially in testimony given the Senate preparedness subcommitte by Atomic Energy Commission and military officials during hearings last summer on the nuclear test ban treaty. The testimony was published Saturday.

At the time of the 1962 test series in the Pacific, the Pentagon and AEC reported only that a device in the megaton range had been launched by a Thor missile from Johnston Island and was detonated at an altitude of more than 200 miles.

In the testimony made public Saturday, Col. Roy L. Clinton of the Pentagon's defense atomic support agency told the subcommittee the explosion occurred at a height of 400 kilometers and 800 kilometers from Honolulu. A kilometer is about .62 mile.

This shot, bearing the code name "Star Fish," was of 1.45-megaton yield — rather small as nuclear weapons go. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of energy released by conventional explosive.

GETS IT BACK

Ill Wind Blows His Paycheck Away

BOSTON (AP)—Festus Johnson was at work on the 26th floor of a building under construction when the foreman delivered his paycheck. A gust of wind tore the check from Johnson's hand and blew it out a window.

Johnson thought it landed several blocks away and went looking for it, without success.

A half hour later a gas station attendant showed up at the building—with the check. It landed right after Johnson gave up the search, he said.

Triplets Born in 11 Minutes to Oregonian

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A mother gave birth to three girls within 11 minutes Saturday.

She is Mrs. Billy Korn, 30, wife of a Portland mechanic.

Multnomah County Hospital officials said the triplets weighed six pounds, three ounces; five pounds, nine ounces; and four pounds, 14 ounces.

The Korns have three other children, 13, 12 and 10.

Envoy to Denmark May Go to Manila

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says William McCormick Blair Jr., retiring ambassador to Denmark, will be given another diplomatic assignment. But it declines to say whether he will be named envoy to the Philippines.

There have been reports that Blair, who is being succeeded in Denmark by Mrs. Katharine Elkus White of Red Bank, N.J., would get the Philippines post.

$56,000 for San Pedro Widow and Her Nephew

By JIM MELTON

David Shebane doesn't know it yet, but he and his aunt split a $56,00 Irish Hospital Sweepstake jackpot.

His aunt, Mrs. Helen Shehane of 1929 Cumbre Drive, San Pedro, has to pinch herself a couple more times to make sure it isn't a dream. Then she will get in touch with David, 21, who is working for the state Division of Forestry in the woods of Northern California.

A 17-1 horse named Purple Silk romped home second in the Grand National Steeplechase in England Saturday to make Mrs. Shebane and David's $3 ticket worth $56,000.

Right behind Purple Silk was a 40-1 shot called Peacetown, which made a Santa Ana ticket-holder, Mrs. Mary C. Briggs of 1002 N. Lyons St. $28,000 richer.

• • • •

MRS. SHEBANE, 56, a widow who works in the El Segundo offices of North American Aviation, has no definite plans for her windfall.

"But it will help out when I retire," she says.

She hopes to go to Ireland to collect the prize, and is promised within three weeks.

One thing she won't do with the money is keep it around the house. Four months ago, someone broke in while she was gone and stole radio, cameras and jewelry valued at $500. With that still in mind, she's taksince Tuesday she had a ing no chances.

Mrs. Shehane has known chance for the big money. She got a telegram telling her that her horse was in the big race.

But she didn't let her nephew know because she didn't want him to be too disappointed if Purple Silk failed to finish in the world's toughest horse race — a 4½-mile obstacle course.

David's share may make him a prosperous private. He's due to take his draft physical late this month. Now working for the forestry division near Garberville—about 65 miles south of Eureka — he lived with his aunt while attending classes at El Camino College.

MRS. BRIGGS sums up her reaction to winning $28,000 in one word: "Fantastic!"

It had been a long week for Mrs. Briggs, a 21-year-old housewife, who also was informed Tuesday of her chance to win as much as $140,000.

"We didn't dare think of it before we won."

The Briggs don't know what they'll use the extra money for. Husband John is an accountant.

MARY AND JOHN BRIGGS take another happy look at a telegram they pinned their hopes on for most of last week. It told them their Irish Sweepstake ticket might be among the big winners. Saturday, their horse came in second and won $28,000 for the young Santa Ana couple.

An early spring snowstorm, which left up to nine inches of snow on the Midwest, powdered into the East Saturday and forecasters posted heavy-snow warnings for the Northeast.

Five inches or more of snow was expected Saturday night in eastern Pennsylvania, southestern New York and portions of Connecticut.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for Rhode Island, Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire and Vermont.

Cochrane's Widow, Sons at Launching

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—The 440-foot guided-missile destroyer USS Cochrane was commissioned into Navy service Saturday in the presence of her namesake's widow and two naval-officer sons.

Named for Vice Adm. Edward Lull Cochrane, chief of the Bureau of Ships during World War II, the destroyer was built by the Puget Sound Bridge aand Dry Dock Co., of Seattle. Her keel was laid in July 1961 and she was launched for testing and evaluation a year later.

wake of Sunday's fiasco.

On other questions raised by newsmen, Johnson said:

—He does not see any signs that the resignation of his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, indicates that associates of the late President John F. Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy are anxious to leave the Johnson administration.

—The President "was not disturbed" by Salinger's resignation Thursday to seek the Democratic Senate nomination in California. Johnson said Salinger told him about his plans barely two hours before announcing them.

—Johnson talked to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Saturday morning about hijacking of a Cuban helicopter flown to Florida after two defecting Cubans killed the pilot. He declined to comment on the matter.

—Comment also was withheld on a Soviet decision to release an injured Air Force officer—one of three seized after their reconnaissance bomber was shot down inside East Germany.

In discussing his Panama statement, Johnson said at one point, "I want everyone to know our position and I think this helps."

Asked if it might help clear up any differences of interpretation that snarled earlier settlement attempts, Johnson said, "I would not speculate on that."

He said he is "well aware that the claims of the government of Panama, and of the majority of the Panamanian people, do not spring from malice or hatred of America."

many."

Mr. Welch said his son didn't give any details concerning the injuries he suffered when he bailed out of the RB66 reconnaissance bomber.

Mr. Welch quoted his son as saying, "They've got me strung up pretty good. I'm going in all directions."

It had been reported earlier that the flier had received arm and leg fractures and abrasions.

"He was kind of nervous," said Mr. Welch. "He said 'Hello Mom' and he was talking to me."

"I asked him if the Air Force told him to stay out of those trees," said the smiling Mr. Welch.

Welch said his son said nothing of his two companions in the plane, Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn., and the pilot, and Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia. The Soviet Union has not indicated what fate awaits the other two.

"We know what the other parents are going through," said the elder Welch. "The longer they are in there, the more they will have to go through."

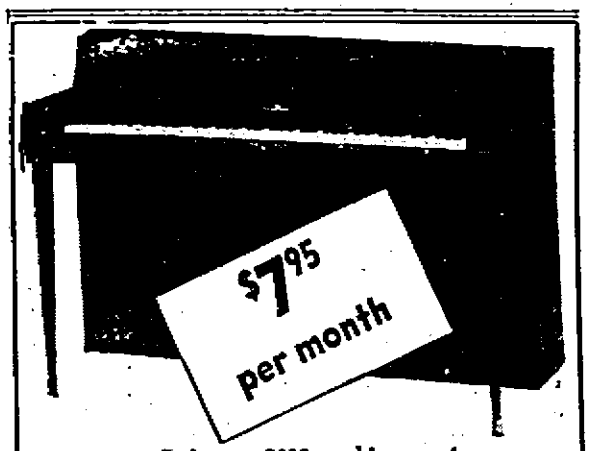

"We'll write to their parents," said the gray-haired Mrs. Welch.

Welch, who said he felt like singing like a canary when he first heard his son was safe, said he learned of the release early Saturday when newsmen called the family's modest brick home in northwest Detroit.

Welch, a short, dapper man who has owned his own cab since 1928, voiced hope that the other fliers also would be freed.

"Now if we could get news that the other boys are released," he said, "it would be good news for all of us."

"He told me to dress up and go to church tomorrow," said the flier's mother. "I wonder if he thought I had a new Easter outfit."

JOB OF THE Explosive Ordnance Demolition Unit is to locate and "pull the teeth" of explosives in or out of water. Members of the unit, under supervision of Chief Warrant Officer Harry Jones (in boat) are shown retreiving float device from practice mine.

Lose a Mine? Demolition Boys Here Will Bring It Back--but Not Alive

By BOB SANDERS

"If somebody drops something overboard and then decides he wants it back, he usually calls us."

This is how Chief Warrant Officer Harry Jones described part of the mission of his unit, the Explosive Ordnance Demolition Unit No. 1.

EOD's primary mission, as its name implies, is to locate and de-fuse mines and other explosives in and out of the water.

Jones is in charge of four enlisted men, all divers qualified for hardhat and SCUBA gear.

"We've brought up everything, lost tools, rifles and other equipment, even drowned bodies," Jones said.

Their main activity is recovering practice mines used by Pacific Mine Force minesweepers during training manuevers.

To do this they drop a bobber float in the water as they go over a mine a minesweeper has located.

Then a diver descends via a 130-foot line trailing down from the bobber. When he finds the mine he attaches a line and it's hauled up for use another day.

If a mine is alive they detonate it unless the Navy wants to study it first. In that case they defuse it and bring it to the surface.

All EOD men are qualified to disarm all types of weapons, including nuclear, according to Jones.

Other duties the EOD men perform are recovering aircraft that crash, surveying underwater damage from collisions and conducting a variety of specialized salvage operations.

"We also inspect bottoms," Jones added. "Ships' bottoms."

U.S. Asks New Pact for Grain

GENEVA (AP)—The United States is willing to bargain with other nations on American farm price supports in exchange for a treaty stabilizing world grain prices and guaranteeing access to foreign markets for American wheat.

This unprecedented proposal was made to members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) preparing the groundwork for the "Kennedy round" of talks on reducing trade barriers due to open here May 4. It was disclosed at a news conference Saturday by U.S. negotiator W. M. Blumenthal.

* * * *

GATT SOURCES said that so far there has been no hard and fast reaction to the American idea—presented Tuesday—because there has not been time for other governments to digest it. Blumenthal, however, described himself as "highly gratified" with the initial response.

The American plan has nothing to do with the U.N. conference on trade and development opening here Monday to consider problems of underdeveloped countries.

* * * *

ON THE CONTRARY, it is aimed at opening up the markets of industrialized areas such as Britain, Japan and the Common Market nations to sizable surpluses of American grains, especially wheat. It may, therefore, face tough sledding with the French, for example, who have grain surpluses of their own and are seeking to keep competing producers out of the Common Market.

Tenderloin Gives Away Dollars

As the patrons pay their checks, the management hands them gleaming dollars polished in the restaurant's silverware burnishing machine. Each dinner couple receives one dollar.

"People think we're crazy," says Rex Welch, owner of The Tenderloin, "but we're not. The Silver Dollar Nights are our way of thanking our guests for their fine patronage."

The Tenderloin, one of Southern California's most beautiful restaurants, features tender, flavorful prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled steaks and salads mixed at the table in huge bowls atop beds of ice.

State College's Faculty Groups Call for Probe of 'Interference'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Support of the faculty members of San Francisco State College who have petitioned the governor and the legislature for "a thorough public investigation of the administration of state colleges" came Saturday from the executive committee of the State Council of the Association of State College Professors.

Faculty members of San Francisco State contend state college trustees have developed a tendency to centralize control of the state colleges, to ignore local conditions and to ignore official faculty bodies like the academic senate.

* * * *

THE PROTESTERS say this condition has developed under Glen S. Dumke, chancellor of all the state colleges. They assert he centralized policy. San Francisco State has enrollment in excess of 15,000.

The eight-member executive committee headed by Prof. Ben Franklin of Chico State, president of the state council, met in San Francisco.

They said a major phase of the problem is that the trustees under Dumke are interfering in matters that are best handled at the local faculty level.

The resolution adopted by the council executive committee expressed support for the San Francisco State College professors and declared:

"The policies of the Association of State College Professors are generally in accord with the objectives expressed by our colleagues at San Francisco.

"We contend that the trustees must delegate considerably greater authority to the faculties in order to bring the California state colleges in line with practices and policies traditionally accepted by the governing boards of the major American colleges and universities.

* * * *

"WHAT IS happening at San Francisco will undoubtedly occur in other state colleges unless the trustees recognize that the faculty should have legislative power in matters of academic, educational and professional concern on the statewide, local college and departmental levels.

"This is the only appropriate way to resolve the controversial issues now erupting at San Francisco State College and becoming increasingly crucial in other state colleges."

Two Pancake Gluttons Visit Land of Bard

LONDON (UPI) — Two American pancake- eating champions flew into London Saturday night for a week's visit to England that will concentrate on Shakespearean culture.

They are pert Janet Lehrer, 18, of Middletown, N. Y., an English major and Shakespearean expert at Boston University, and six-foot-five inch John Danon Henry, Boston University tackle from Brooklyn.

The trip to England was their prize for winning a national pancake-eating contest. Between them they ate 367 pancakes in 30 minutes.

Poseur Ends Hoax, No Kin to Bormann

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) —A man claiming to be the brother of missing Nazi henchman Martin Bormann broke down minutes before a scheduled lie-detector test Saturday and said his real name was Richard Rolnik.

"I've been lying," the imposter said. "I only wanted to alert public opinion and to step up the prosecution of Nazi criminals who were responsible for the extermination of my whole family."

Rolnik turned himself in to police in Santos Friday and said he was Martin Bormann's younger brother, and that he had heard Martin was seen in Brazil's Mato Grosso state about 15 months ago.

The CARD PUNCH OPERATOR is a Data Processing Specialist. This is the pathway to professional growth for ambitious women from 17 years up—in the field of Business Automation. Most of our students who graduate from our intensive training as IBM Card Punch Operators are high school seniors, recent graduates and young business women seeking a more secure and satisfying career.

Evert Carroll, LL.B. Registrar Automation Institute

CARD PUNCHING is the "heart of business Automation." Card punching (sometimes called key punching) is the basic method of converting written information into punched holes. The card punch machine is a keyboard instrument which punches holes into sturdy, specially-treated cards. The holes and the patterns in which they are arranged, represent the facts vital to a business operation.

The use of the punched card is as unlimited as the number of business problems to be solved. For example: Punched cards serve the world of fashion by taking quick, accurate inventories. They speed the making of airline reservations—and serve as airplane tickets, too. They keep track of telephone calls. They register the amount of electricity used in a home—and many, many other uses as well!

When you enroll in Automation Institute's Card Punch Course you will be assigned an IBM Card Punch Machine for your exclusive use during classes.

Within a few weeks you will master the necessary techniques. Most important, you'll be taught the theories behind Card Punch practice, for your understanding of the "why's" as well as the "how's" which is essential to your professional growth and achievement for promotion.

You can qualify to train as a Card Punch Operator at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE . . .

*By successfully completing a personal interview in which your educational and work experience is evaluated.

*By passing an aptitude analysis.

Results of your analysis, which is given by appointment and is without obligation, will be discussed with you by your counselor immediately after completion.

No special mechanical or mathematical skills are needed. If you have the ability to think logically and accurately . . . and a desire to learn . . . you can be trained for success at AUTOMATION INSTITUTE.

Tuition is reasonable and deferred payment can be arranged. You may enroll in either morning, afternoon or evening courses. While the evening program takes a little longer, it enables you to hold a full or part time job while attending our AUTOMATION INSTITUTE.

Kids Log Mileage Off Roads

By PAUL WALLACE

When the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shook go to apply for driver's licenses, they will be able to claim an impressive total of 20 years of driving experience among them.

It will all be legal, too. State motor vehicle laws apply only to driving on public highways. And the Shook kids, whose parents are back country, four-wheel-drive enthusiasts, will have logged all their time off the roads.

• • • •

THE SHOOKS, who live at 5918 Faculty Ave., Lakewood and operate a jeep supply business at 6309 Paramount Blvd., Long Beach, taught their three youngsters to drive about a year ago.

At that time, Keith was 8, Clarence Jr. was 9 and Susan was 11. They learned to operate the family jeep and their father's doughnut-wheeled sand buggy, a vehicle designed for sports driving over the Southland's rolling dunes.

The big buggy, though, was quite a handful for the youngsters. So Shook built his offspring a compact-sized sand buggy of their own.

• • • •

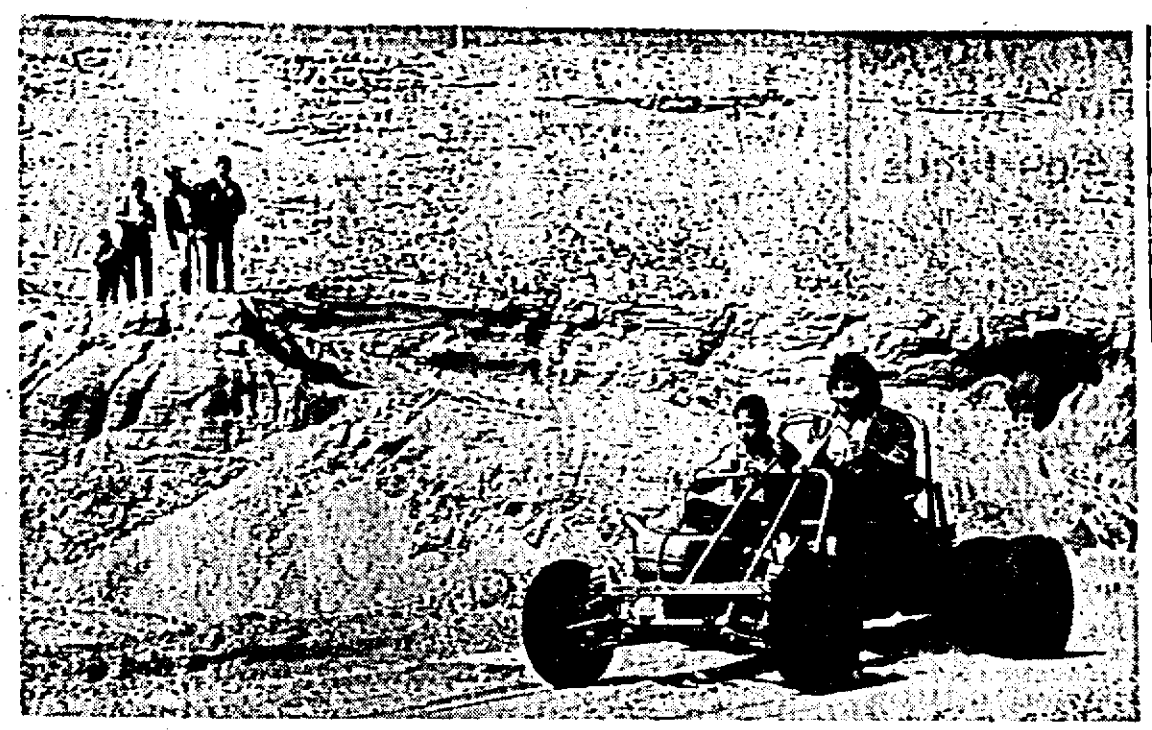

HE STARTED out with the engine, four-speed transmission and running gear of one of the smallest of the imported economy cars, the German motorcycle-engined NSU Prinz.

He mounted these components in a typical bodyless sand buggy frame and added dual wheels in the back. The result is a brisk and rugged little car that only weighs about 600 pounds.

• • • •

THE SHOOK kids haven't decided exactly whether the vehicle is a junior-sized automobile or a grown-up go kart. They don't care much, either.

But they do know that the buggy is huge fun to drive. And after the steep hill trails and sand bowls they hurl the car up and down, freeway driving should be a cinch.

France to Back Red China for Seat at Parley

GENEVA (AP) — France will support admission of Red China but not East Germany to the U.N. World Trade and Development Conference opening Monday, a French delegation spokesman said Saturday.

He said the French will make a sharp distinction between Red China and other Communist countries such as East Germany, North Korea and North Viet Nam.

The French view is that the Chinese representation is simply a matter of credentials; a decision whether Peking or Taipei should speak for China.

China — Nationalist China — has a seat in United Nations while the other countries do not, the spokesman pointed out.

Opinion here is that the French view on China will be rejected.

L.B. Officials Will Attend Ship Ritual

Two Long Beach officials will attend the launching of the destroyer escort named for the late Rep. Willis W. Bradley on Thursday in San Francisco.

Don P. Davis, civil service commissioner, and Toby Wick, administrative assistant to the city attorney, received invitations from the Bethlehem Steel Co. to witness the ceremony at which Mrs. Bradley will be the sponsor and Rep. Craig Hosmer will speak.

Davis was Bradley's campaign manager and Wick his field secretary during the former naval captain's term in Congress in 1947-48.

Anesthesiologists at Hand as Gourmets Gulp Bubbles

By CHARLES SUTTON

When the members and guests of the Beverly Hills Wine & Food Society arrived at Las Vegas' Flamingo Hotel last week, it was only too obvious to some of us in the group that we had come to the right place.

The Flamingo's marquee read:

"Welcome, 38th Congress of International Anesthesia Research Society."

Not that we needed any help in getting gassed, but it was nice to know we were in the company of experts.

• • • •

I BRING all this up by way of introducing the Beverly Hills group, as hail-fellow a gang of gourmets as you could wish to sit down at a table with.

The society, led by its host for the day, Art Linkletter, made an eight-hour excursion to Las Vegas the other day for one of its periodic adventures in dining and drinking. And I must say it was an altogether uplifting experience.

MITZI GAYNOR
"Dish of the Year"

• • • •

THAT MISS MITZI Gaynor happened to be opening at the hotel that same night was more than just a coincidince, since the fellows in the society were honoring her as "America's Dish of the Year."

After seeing Miss Gaynor on stage and off, I confess I'm in complete accord with the gang. She's a most delectable dish indeed—and a first-rate performer, to boot.

The other dish of the evening, by the way, was Boeuf a la Wellington, with sauce perigourdine (the fellows always go first class). This was accompanied by fresh asparagus hollandaise, tomato au gratin and pommes Parisienne.

Our repast further consisted of a seafood cocktail (supreme en glace, at that); green turtle soup, amontillado; hearts of palm, and Belgian endives.

Except for two overheard critizisms, the meal was considered a brilliant culinary success. The two critics insisted the chef must have taken leave of his senses when he prepared the broth. Too much amontillado, they asserted.

I was in no position to argue.

While all 50 of us enjoyed both the meal and the show, some of us found the champagne cocktail party preceding the meal the real highlight of the trip.

The bubbling refreshment at the praty — a superb wine of 1955 vintage, cuvee Dom Perignon — was served by two young ladies who never seemed to tire of supplying us with fresh glasses. Between sips, we gulped down

• • • •

THE CHOICE of evening's wines' I might add, was largely the responsibility of former USC All-American footballer Marshall Duffield, now handsomely gray-haired, if memory serves me correctly.

Mr. Duffield lives in Newport Beach and owns a car dealership in Long Beach, which led me to wonder how he ever became a member of the Beverly Hills Wine & Food Society.

I stopped wondering, though, when I savored some of his wine selections.

• • • •

WITH TWO OF his colleagues, Duffield chose the following wines and spirits for the evening:

Pouilly Fuisse, 1961, a delightful white wine; Puligny Montrachet, 1961, a white burgundy; Chateau Lofite-Rothschild, 1959, a bordeaux of exquisite bouquet; Romane Saint-Vivant, 1959, which I am unable to describe because I took the Rothschild over it; Mumm's champagne, and, finally, Martell's Cordon Bleu cognac.

The only thing I missed was a 50-cent cigar.

Other than that, I'm happy to report, the whole thing was a gasser from start to finish.

I know, because it finished me good for the next day.

CIA Viewed Doubtfully, Solon Finds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Frances P. Bolton, the top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, says the American people "do not trust" the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The Ohio lawmaker made the comment in previously-secret congressional testimony made public Saturday.

She strongly criticized the administration for allowing the CIA to issue a recent report contending there were great weaknesses in the Soviet economy and agriculture.

". . . I think it was unfortunate that the announcement was made by the CIA," she said. "This is because of the reactions I have had from home. People do not trust the CIA."

Mrs. Bolton, who was directing her remarks to Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, said:

"If the President had announced it, if you had announced it, if the secretary of state had announced it, it would have been an entirely different matter.

"It would have had an entirely different impact. I think it has had almost a bad impact. They do not believe it. I think that is terribly unfortunate."

Dickens Tells the Easter Story

received it, he said "It Is finished!" and—crying, "Father! into Thy hands, I commend my spirit!—He died.

The next day being the Sabbath, the Jews were anxious that the bodies should be taken down at once, and coming to Jesus and finding Him already dead, they only pierced His side with a spear. From the wound, there came out blood and water.

There was a good man named Joseph of Arimathea, a Jewish-city, who believed in Christ and going to Pilate privately (for fear of the Jews) begged that he might have the body. Pilate consenting, he and one Nicodemus rolled it in linen and spices and buried it in a new tomb or sepulcher, which had been cut out of a rock in a garden near to the place of crucifixion, and where no one had ever yet been buried. They then rolled a great stone to the mouth of the sepulcher, and left Mary Magadlene and the other Mary, sitting there, watching it.

The chief priests and pharisees, remembering that Jesus Christ had said to His disciples that he would rise from the grave on the third day after his death, went to Pilate and prayed that the sepulcher might be well taken care of until the day. Pilate agreeing to this, a guard of soldiers was set over it constantly, and the stone was sealed up besides. And so it remained until the third day. When that morning began to dawn, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, and some other women came to the sepulcher with some spices which they had prepared. As they were saying to each other, "How shall we roll away the stone?" the earth trembled and shook, and an angel, descending from Heaven, rolled it back and then sat resting on it.

Mary Magdalene ran to Peter and John who were coming towards the place and said, "They have taken away the Lord, and we know not where they have laid him!" They immediately ran to the tomb. When Peter came up, he went in, and saw the linen cloths lying in one place, and a napkin, that had been bound about the head, in another. John also went in, then, and saw the same things. They then went home, to tell the rest.

But Mary Magdalene remained outside the sepulcher, weeping. After a little time, she stooped down and looked in, and saw two angels, clothed in white, sitting where the body of Christ had lain. These said to her, "Woman, why weepest thou?" She answered, "Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him."

* * * *

AS SHE GAVE this answer, she turned round, and saw Jesus standing behind her, but did not then know him. "Woman," said he, "Why weepest thou? What seekest Thou?" She, supposing Him to be the gardener, replied, "Sir! If thou hast borne my Lord hence, tell me where thou hast laid Him, and I will take Him away."

Jesus pronounced her name "Mary!" Then she knew Him and starting, exclaimed, "Master!" "Touch me not," said Christ, "for I am not yet ascended to my Father; but go to my disciples and say unti them I ascend unto my Father and your Father, and to my God and to your God!"

Accordingly, Mary Magdalene went and told the disciples that she had seen Christ, and what He had said to her; and with them she found the other women whom she had left at the sepulcher when she had gone to call those two disciples, Peter and John.

These women told her and the rest that they had seen at the tomb two men in shining garments, at sight of whom they had been afraid and had bent down, but who had told them that the Lord was risen; and also that as they came to tell this, they had seen Christ, on the way, and had held him by the feet and worshipped Him. But these accounts seemed to the apostles at the time as idle tales, and they did not believe them. The soldiers of the guard, who went to the chief priests to tell them what they had seen, were silenced with large sums of money, and were told by them to say that the disciples had stolen the body away while they were asleep.

* * * *

BUT IT happened that on the same day, Simon and Cleopas—Simon one of the 12 apostles, and Cleopas one of the followers of Christ — were walking to a village called Emmaus, at some distance from Jerusalem, and were talking, by the way, upon the death and resurrection of Christ when they were joined by a stranger who explained the Scriptures to them and told them a great deal about God, so that they wondered at his knowledge.

As the night was fast coming on when they reached the village, they asked this stranger to stay with them, which he consented to do. When all three sat down to supper, he took some bread, and blessed it, and broke it, as Christ had done at the Last Supper. Looking on him in wonder, they found that his face was changed before them, and that it was Christ Himself; and as they looked on Him, He disappeared.

They instantly rose up and returned to Jerusalem, and finding the disciples sitting together, told them what they had seen. While they were speaking, Jesus suddenly stood in the midst of all the company and said, "Peace be unto ye!" Seeing that they were greatly frightened, He showed them His hands and feet, and invited them to touch him.

But Thomas, one of the 12 apostles, was not there at that time; and when the rest said to him afterwards, "We have seen the Lord," he answered: "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe!"

AT THAT moment, though the doors were all shut, Jesus again appeared, standing among them, and said, "Peace be unto you!" Then He said to Thomas, "Reach higher thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing." And Thomas answered and said to Him "My Lord and my God!" Then said Jesus, "Thomas because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed. Blessed are they that have not seen me, yet have believed."

After that time, Jesus Christ was seen by 500 of his followers at once, and He remained with others of them 40 days, teaching them, and instructing them to go forth into the world and preach His gospel and religion: not minding what wicked men might do to them. And conducting His disciples, at last, out of Jerusalem as far as Bethany, He blessed them, and ascended in a cloud to heaven, and took his place at the right hand of God. And while they gazed into the bright blue sky where He had vanished, two white-robed angels appeared among them, and told them that as they had seen Christ ascend to Heaven, so He would one day come no more, the apostles began to teach the people as he had commanded them. And through the power He had given them, they healed the sick, and gave sight to the blind, and speech to the dumb, and hearing to the deaf, as He had done. They took the name of Christians from our Savior, Christ.

Mother, Five Tots Burn to Death

UPLAND (UPI)—A 25-year-old mother and her five children burned to death in a fire that consumed their home early Saturday as the father watched helplessly, screaming, "My children, my children."

The father, Ruben Duran, 39, who leaped from a second story window bleeding from critical burns, failed in a desperate attempt to rescue his family and was restrained by police from dashing back into the 60-year-old wood frame structure that "went up like a matchbox."

Duran and a niece, Florence Solis, 14, who also escaped by jumping from the window, both suffered third-degree burns over 20 percent of their bodies. The dead, who were trapped on the second floor, are Sandra Duran, the mother, Ruben Jr., 8; Louisa, 6; Luis, 3; Douglas Bruce, 18 months, and Veronica, 5 months.

Washington Girl Is New Junior Miss

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Washington's 18-year-old Linda Felber was crowned America's 1964 Junior Miss Saturday night.

The radiant, green-eyed high school beauty from Colfax won over the judges with her talent presentation—a dramatic reading from George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

LINDA FELBER

STEPHANIE LEE

When her selection as the nation's ideal high school girl was announced, she flashed a brilliant smile and then burst into tears.

First runner-up was Ohio's Connie Lockwood, 18, of Jamestown, and second runner-up was 17-year-old Stephanie Lee of Los Alamitos, Calif.

Next was Hawaii's Evelyn Sugawa, 18-year-old beauty from Honolulu. Fourth runner-up was Rhode Island's Linda Cave, 17, of Warwick.

The new Junior Miss gets a $6,000 college scholarship, the first runner-up $4,000, second runner-up $2,000 and third and fourth $1,000 each.

Pierre's Nob Hill Headquarters Hums

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pierre Salinger began putting his delayed-action U.S. Senate campaign together Saturday from his hastily-rigged Nob Hill hotel room headquarters.

The recently-resigned White House press secretary filed entry papers Friday for California's Democratic Party primary June 2. He filed in his native San Francisco 1½ hours before the deadline and one day after resigning his White House post. A registered voter in Virginia, Salinger may be able to run but he won't be able to vote for himself. The legal question yet to be answered—Can anyone who isn't a voter in this state run for the Senate?

Barry Wants Dummy Missile Tests

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater wound up a whirlwind campaign tour of California Saturday by accusing Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara of wanting "to put his faith in a weapon (missiles) which has not been tested in combat conditions."

Before emplaning for Arizona shortly before 3 p.m., the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination charged McNamara with "dragging his feet on tests we could be making now . . . with dummy warheads." He told 800 persons at a Republican Party breakfast that Russia has the advantage over the United States because it has tested missiles and anti-missiles in "a nuclear environment"—using nuclear warheads while this country has not.

Rocky Wins Home-Front Budget Fight

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A possible obstacle to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's national political campaign was cleared Saturday night when the Republican-controlled state legislature passed his $2.9 billion compromise budget over bitter Democratic opposition. Legislative reluctance to pass Rockefeller's program forced him to curtail his presidential campaigning last week and return here for fear that defeats at home would blight his national stature.

Brandy, Wine Make Inroads on Whiskey

CHICAGO (UPI) — American drinkers seem to be passing up the good old fashioned shot of whisky for a more demure snifter of brandy or goblet of wine.

Commerce Clearing House said that 1963 whisky production dropped more than 30 million gallons from the previous year. Production of gin, vodka, brandy, rum, wine and beer increased sharply.

388 Asked to Give Impressions of JFK

project is a new concept in gathering and recording history. The extension of it to foreign leaders who dealt with the late President on matters of war and peace would make it truly remarkable.

• • • •

WHEN THE project was conceived some months ago, it was announced as a series of interviews with members of the Kennedy personal staff, his cabinet and his family. Since then, it steadily has been expanded. It is now planned to include interviews with 290 Americans and 98 foreigners. These will range from Kennedy's personal valet to Khrushchev, De Gaulle and others.

Will some of these officials be willing to trust the library with their innermost thoughts about the late President? The sponsors and Atty. Gen. Kennedy fervently hope so. Robert Kennedy is offering his personal assurance of absolute security. The invitation informs interviewers that no access to the tape recordings will be granted to anyone except under conditions they choose to lay down.

"The purpose is not for this generation but for posterity," the invitation states.

The use of tape-recorded interviews was developed at Columbia University relatively recently. Historians there interested Robert Kennedy in the method shortly after plans for the Kennedy Memorial Library were announced and he enthusiastically endorsed it.

In its early stages, the project is being supervised by the attorney general, McGeorge Bundy, Arthur Schlesinger and Richard Neustadt, with organization, selection of interviewers and other details under direction of Frederick S. Dutton, an assistant secretary of state. Later this year, it will be turned over to Harvard historians and archivists.

The method lends itself particularly to compiling a record of the late President Kennedy, who used the telephone as an instrument of government and shied away from documentation. The rationale behind the project is that documents by themselves do not reflect reality in any period of history and particularly in modern times.

Great care is being exercised in setting up the interviews. The project's managers are aware that a candid and complete record cannot be obtained unless there is total trust and rapport between the questioner and respondent.

A number of the interviewers occupied positions of rank and responsibility in the Kennedy administration, and thus are candidates for interviews themselves. As an example, Schlesinger, a presidential assistant at the White House, is conducting the interviews with Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. The attorney general will be interviewed by John Bartlow Martin, well-known author and former ambassador to the Dominican Republic.

With the list of interviewees now standing at 388, and some interviews running into a score of hours, the number of tapes to be stored, transcribed and indexed poses a gargantuan task. It is estimated that the Kennedy project will equal the world's present total collection of tape-recorded history.

Libyans Won't Let King Quit

CAIRO, Sunday (AP)—The Libyan radio reported early today that King Idris of Libya, 73, abdicated and then withdrew his abdication when the Libyan people demonstrated against it.

The radio, monitored in Cairo, said thousands of people demonstrated before the king's summer palace at Tobruk urging the king to keep his throne.

It said the king emerged from the palace and in a short speech told the demonstrators he was staying.

The radio quoted the monarch of the North African desert kingdom, where the United States has a giant air base, as saying:

"I decided to abdicate because of old age and inability to serve you properly. But, since you want me, I am staying and it is your duty to correct me if I fail you."

7 Military Men Die in Auto Crash

NEEDLES (UPI) — Seven servicemen were killed in a one-car accident Saturday night 50 miles south of here on U.S. 95.

The accident occurred a few miles south of the desert whistle stop of Vidal Junction not far from the Arizona border.

A California Highway Patrol officer in Barstow, said four of the victims were taken by ambulance to Parker, Ariz., and three were brought here.

Other details were not immediately available.

Compton Man Struck, Killed

A 71-year-old Compton man was killed Saturday night when he ran in front of a car. California Highway Patrolmen said Edgar R. Downs of 14928 Frailey Ave. was struck as he crossed the intersection of Compton Boulevard and Lime Avenue in Compton.

The driver of the car was not cited.

Pact Gives Reds Mideast Grasp

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday concluded a friendship treaty with the Yemen Arab Republic in a move that strengthened Moscow's foothold in the Middle East.

The two countries also signed several agreements on technical aid at ceremonies attended by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and Yemen's President Marshal Abdallah al Sallal.

Texts of the documents and a joint communique on Al Sallal's weeklong visit, which included talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, have not been published yet.

SOLONS HIT SECRECY

Assail Defense 'Fund-Hiding'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Complaints that defense and space officials may be secretly spending millions of dollars without knowledge of Congress and taxpayers has come from Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Gordon Allott, R-Colo.

They cited as evidence President Johnson's surprise announcement that a costly new military aircraft — the 2,000-mile-an-hour A11 — had been developed secretly.

"It was indeed a shock to me," Allott said of the presidential announcement, when asked about it by Scott in a report taped for use on Pennsylvania radio stations.

Allott is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which must pass upon details of the multibillion-dollar annual spending on both defense and space programs and projects.

Allott said that although he had followed all available details closely for more than four years, "not one word was said about" the speedy new aircraft until the President removed secrecy wraps.

* * * *

ALLOTT SAID development of the A11 "perhaps cost $50 or $100 million or maybe more" and this raises questions on how defense officials could "hide this much money" in their budget from Senators who are required to approve such spending.

The Colorado Senator said he since has learned "about four members" of the 27-Senator pursestring committee knew of the project, adding:

"But how can the rest of the committee be led to act upon a budget which hides so much money?"

Allott noted this development came during the same period that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Congress were sharply divided over development of a large future jet aircraft—the B70 or RS70—for the Air Force.

If Senate and House members had known about the A11 project, Scott said that results of the other dispute might have been different.

Scott said Congress was treated like "a little boy you feel something isn't good for him to have."

* * * *

AGREEING, ALLOTT said this raised questions as to how many other costly projects are being hidden.

"Take this business of spending billions of dollars every year to send somebody to the moon from Texas," Scott said, adding it was "quite possible we never will know how much is being spent."

He said his chance question last year revealed that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was spending $25 million on a scholarship and fellowship project.

"If you hadn't asked the question, the $25 million would still be secret, in other words?" Scott asked.

"That's correct," Allott replied. "It would have been entirely hidden."

Brady Heads City's Harbor Legal Branch

City Atty. Leonard Putnam has announced the appointment of Philip J. Brady, assistant city attorney and a veteran staff member, to head the harbor branch of the municipal law office.

The vacancy was created when former Asst. City Atty. John C. Spence Jr. resigned Feb. 6 to accept appointment as a municipal court judge.

Brady has been with the city attorney's office since 1948. Earlier he was the public defender and also served as a deputy city prosecutor. He received his law degree from Stanford University in 1939.

Noting that this week will mark the transition to a new oil development contract for the harbor tideland area, Putnam said he selected Brady because of the latter's "vast knowledge and background on gas and oil contracts."

Dep. City Atty. Leslie E. Still Jr., who has been assigned to the harbor branch since 1960, will continue in that capacity.

$112,000 Raised for Red Cross

A total of $112,000 has been collected toward the Long Beach Red Cross chapter's goal of $387,974 during the March fund campaign, it was reported at the group's second report breakfast.

Charles Long, chairman of the buildings division, was awarded a special prize—use of a limousine and driver for a day — for reporting the largest percentage of workers and collections the first week of the campaign.

Others honored for highest percentages were Dr. Michael Mayuga, Jack M. Billings, and Richard Wilson.

James A. Willingham, campaign chairman, announced the next report breakfast for April 3.

R. L. Grey, Red Cross field director at U.S. Navy Base, turned in $161 from the Marine barracks on the base, which he said represented a hundred percent Red Cross enrollment at the barracks.

Roland Bach, chapter manager, told the group this is his twentieth Red Cross campaign in Long Beach and that Red Cross services are needed more in 1964 than ever before.

CHARLES LONG is ushered into a limousine by Charles W. Greene, volunteer driver. The limousine is Long's for a day — his reward for his division showing in collections and workers on the job in the Red Cross fund drive.

Light May Beat Tooth Decay

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Powerful light beams from new devices called lasers may someday be able to glaze tooth enamel and make it resistant to decay, two dental research scientists said Saturday.

Dr. Ralph H. Stern and Dr. Reider F. Sognnaes of the University of California at Los Angeles told the International Association for Dental Research such light beams may also be used to repair existing cavities.

Lasers are devices for amplifying light and concentrating it in beams that are parallel instead of scattered as in ordinary light, with a resultant increase in energy delivered to a focal point.

The intense pinpoint heat of a laser beam, the doctors said, might be used both to drill out the cavity painlessly and then to fuse powdered porcelain into the hole. The result: a tooth-colored dental restoration.

Although laser pulses can be intensely hot, they last only a fraction of a second. Temperature changes in nerve tissue below the enamel, the researchers found, were significantly less than those caused by standard rotary drills.

Exemption Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Customs Commissioner Philip Nichols Jr. said that U. S. residents returning from the Virgin Islands stand to lose their special $200 exemption unless Congress renews it.

The $200 exemption is due to expire April 1. After then, residents returning from the Virgin Islands will be entitled only to the normal $100 exemption, Nichols said.

A bill to extend the $200 exemption to June 30, 1965, has been reported out of the House Ways & Means Committee but neither the House nor the Senate have acted on the measure.

Thrilling Concert Poorly Attended

By RACHEL MORTON

There should have been capacity audience in the Little Theater of California State College at Long Beach, Friday night, for two very fine artists gave an outstanding program.

The public may be excused for not attending as the college gave no publicity to the event, despite its being the only professional musical program put on during the year and despite the fact that it was a fund-raising project for the Vasquez Memorial Scholarship Fund.

But there are 15,000 students attending the college, a small fraction of whom easily could have filled the hall. Sometimes the idea of making Long Beach a cultural city becomes very discouraging.

The two artists were Eudice Shapiro, violinist, and Julien Musafia, pianist. They were heard in a choice sonata program for piano and violin in works by Schubert, Bach, Chopin and Franck. Two finer musicians would be hard to find. Each is an artist in his own right and each is a virtuoso performer.

But two great soloists do not always combine happily in ensemble playing. This was where these players excelled. They approached the music with musical affinity; they sought out the beauty of the music in a mutual interplay rather than trying to outdo one another. Both were acutely sensitive to the music and both were master musicians. Thus we had a concert of near perfection.

The music of the Sonata in A Major by Cesar Franck for violin and piano was so beautiful and the playing so amalgamated that one forgot technique. There was, of course, marvelous technique displayed throughout the program. Miss Shapiro's big tone, lucsious quality, facile fingering and unhurried sureness showed a master craftsmanship.

A tour de force was her magnificent playing of Sonata in B Minor for unaccompanied violin, by Bach. That performance alone placed her in the front rank of women violinists. The audience was quick to discern her wonderful talent and recalled her with bravos.

Under Julien Musafia's fingers, the piano speaks—sometimes intimately and tenderly, sometimes vehemently in massive tone—always with poetry.

The Sonata in B-Flat Minor by Chopin gave ample scope to display Musafia's pianistic virtuosity. In the beautiful meditative Grave Movement, he delved deeply with a keen sensitivity; the Scherzo was exciting under his fleet fingers. In the Funeral March, the slow lugubrious music grew in dramatic portent to a powerful climax and subsided in a plaintive little song, which Musafia kept delicately under his touch, but in a strict tempo.

The cortege moved steadily forward with increasing volume of tone, with crisp trills and a thrilling crescendo. His flying fingers in the Finale made music like the whirr of many birds in fast flight. It was a stirring performance attested to by the many recalls from the audience.

The program opened with a very fine performance of Schubert's Sonatina No. 3 for violin and piano with its familiar melody heard in the song, "Aus dem Wasser zu singen." Here the interplay between the two artists made for very fine ensemble playing. Miss Shapiro drew gorgeous viola-like quality froh her priceless Guarnerius violin and Musafia matched it with the rich sonority of his own tone. The audience was enthusiastically aware of a priviliged evening of music with two superlative artists.

CAMPAIGNERS BUSY

Youths Sing, Somersault for El Dorado Park East

Young entertainers attracted crowds as campaigners for the development of El Dorado Park East talked up their project and distributed literature in the parking lot of the Big A Store, 5500 Cherry Ave., Saturday afternoon.

Led by Mrs. Helen Hicks, 3508 Knoxville Ave., the campaigners urged that the undeveloped area be preserved as a "green island" in a rapidly growing metropolitan district. El Dorado Park East, a 512-acre tract, was purchased by the City of Long Beach in 1955 for approximately $1,700,000 but has not been developed because further funds have not been allocated.

The entertainment Saturday featured vocal, instrumental and acrobatic acts by young people. Mrs. Hicks said similar programs in behalf of the park will be held frequently at various locations.

Talent-Hunt Competition to Continue

Youthful performers will vie Tuesday at Hughes Junior High School for further competition in the Exchange Club's 19th annual search for talent, Michael Cullen, president of the sponsoring North Long Beach Exchange Club, has announced.

Two winners from two age divisions will be selected Tuesday, and they will advance to the district competition scheduled in the Armed Services YMCA on April 16.

Four district winners will compete in the state finals in Palm Springs in June, Cullen said.

• • • •

PURPOSE of the annual program is to encourage development of talents and abilities of youth of California. There are six categories of competition: individual vocal, group vocal, individual instrumental, group instrumental, individual dance and group dancing.

Contestants are divided into two divisions, those 13 and under, and the 14-to-19 group.

Cullen will serve as master of ceremonies at Tuesday's program which will get under way at 7 p.m.

Rough Ice Halts North Pole Ski, Sled Expedition

OTTAWA (AP)—Rough ice has forced Norwegian adventurer Bjorn Staib and his comrades to return to their expedition base near Alert for sled repairs after launching an attempt to trek to the North Pole.

Officials here said a radio message had been received from Alert, most northerly Canadian settlement at the tip of Ellesmere Island, about 500 miles from the pole.

The 11-man group left Thursday for an effort to traverse the pole on skis.

State College OKd for Army Student Nurses

$962.5 Million Asked to Fight Poverty

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

President Johnson handed Congress his far-ranging anti-poverty program last week. It carried a "total victory" label, a $962.5 million price tag, and is aimed at opening the doors of prosperity to the nation's have nots.

Some Republicans branded it a warm-over of current projects and pictured it as making a "czar" of Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver who will manage it. A House subcommittee opened immediate hearings.

• • • •

THE PRESIDENT conceded that poverty is too deeply rooted in city and rural areas to be wiped out overnight. But he said his blueprint, which already is covered in his budget, would provide new opportunity for millions, especially under-privileged youths.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz scoffed at GOP claims that he and other cabinet officials now directing some programs would be reduced to "servant and master" status under Shriver. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said the plan would help millions of young men who can't meet military service draft standards.

The President also greased the ways for the annual congressional fight over foreign aid. He asked for $3.4 billion for a "no waste, no retreat" program and pledged he would try to put more recipient nations on a self-supporting basis. The total includes $1 billion in military assistance.

It was the smallest request since foreign aid was born in 1948, but initial reaction in Congress was that it would be cut anyway. Johnson warned that meat axe cuts could do irrevocable harm to the war against communism. He added that aid had been ended to 17 nations and that 14 others were approaching that status.

A surprise changing of the guard took place at the White House. Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, 38, resigned to run for California's Democratic senatorial nomination June 2. He was succeeded by George E. Reedy, 46-year-old veteran assistant to Johnson.

• • • •

ALSO quitting to accompany Salinger to his native San Francisco was Associate Press Secretary Andrew Hatcher, first Negro ever named to the White House press staff and influential in California politics.

Salinger, a key member of the once strong Kennedy team, will face two formidable opponents, one of them Sen. Clair Engle who recently underwent brain surgery and is fighting for his political life.

The White House announced that U.S. aid to strategic South Viet Nam will be increased in an effort to win the war against Communist North Viet Nam guerrillas who are backed by Red China. The decision was made after the President and his National Security Council were briefed by McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who recently toured the area.

The White House admitted setbacks in the so-called gateway to Asia and is now staking its hopes on a new South Viet Nam pledge to use stepped up aid—possibly as much as $50 million — to clear the Red-infested Mekong Delta. There are 15,500 U.S. "military advisers" in Viet Nam, and 119 Americans have died in combat.

• • • •

AT THE Geneva disarmament conference the U.S. offered to destroy $1 billion worth of B47 bombers if Russia would scrap a comparable number of TU16s. Soviet negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin countered that "a bomber bonfire" would not represent real disarmament.

The President pledged to the Organization of American States (OAS) that the United States would use its full power to resist the intrusion of communism into this hemisphere. The occasion was the third anniversary of the Alliance for Progress, which has been slowed by lack of Latin American self-help programs.

At the same time the United States reaffirmed its opposition to Latin American dictatorships and military coups, but reserved the right to deal with each case as it arises. This is the same yardstick recently applied to Communist nations by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

• • • •

AMERICA'S newest ballistic missile, the 400-mile range Pershing, will be deployed with U.S. Army forces in West Germany next month. The Pershing is a "shoot and scoot" weapon with a mighty nuclear punch.

The President told a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Washington, D.C., that the party must campaign this year on a national unity platform offering "a better deal" for everyone. He will seek closer ties with labor this week in two major appearances in Atlantic City and Washington. Last week he helped the Irish in New York celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Reports persisted that Secretary of State Rusk is finding his job too arduous and intends to resign. He issued a denial and said he considered Johnson "a great man."

The United States warned Moscow that Soviet-American relations would be jeopardized unless the Russians immediately released three U.S. Air Force officers shot down in East Germany after they strayed off course. Russia has accused them of espionage.

The Federal Trade Commission opened hearings on whether the tobacco industry should be forced to label cigarettes as health hazards. The American Medical Association (AMA) was among those opposed. This drew a charge from Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N. J., that the AMA had made a deal with tobacco state congressmen in return for their votes against the President's medical-care-for-the-aged program. The AMA said the accusation was "ridiculous."

The Army announced that heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay had failed to qualify for the draft when given physical and mental tests. It said it was satisfied that Clay "put forth his best efforts."

FOREIGN PRESS VIEWS

London Sees Ruby's Trial as a 'Mockery of the Law'

By United Press International

The Jack Ruby trial drew criticism last week from European newspapers speculating that he might know more than has been told so far.

The London Daily Mail said, "The big 'D' stands for Dallas, but not dignity."

"The British people have watched with fascinated interest the progress of this affair, from the assassination to the conviction of the killer's killer," it said.

"They have been shocked by the absence of decorum in the courthouse. The whole frenzied scene looked, from this distance, like a mockery of the law."

The London Daily Telegraph said, "as with most big American trials, its interest for outsiders was mainly in the spectacle of an unfamiliar, often bizarre, legal system in action."

The Austrian Neue Tagezeitung said:

"The surprisingly quick agreement of the jurors — the more surprising since unanimity is a legal pre-requisite—is apt to cause distrust and discomfort all over the world . . .

"The last word has not yet been said. Ruby is still alive, but the fact that he is facing execution might prompt him to make statements which he had suppressed so far . . . if no such sensation occurs, however, and if the good friend of the Dallas police is electrocuted, (the late President) Kennedy's assassination will go down in history as an unsolved puzzle."

The Austrian Arbeiterzeitung said, "All we can do is hope that he will become another (executed convict Caryl) Chessman, a political Chessman, not only because capital punishment as such is problematical, but also because it is still conceivable that Ruby knows much more than had been discussed in the Dallas trial."

The East German Communist Party newspaper Neues Deutschland said, "The real loser in the trial was not Ruby. It is American justice. That was condemned to ridicule."

The West German newspaper Wiesbadener Tageblatt said President Johnson, in his television interview on his first 100 days in office, showed himself "to be precisely the thoughtful . . . man to Americans have given their confidence with a popularity rating of 75 percent. This confidence is again, as it was under Eisenhower, the essential element in the relations between president and people."

Around the world in Tokyo, the newspaper Sankei commented on French President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Mexico. It said Mexico's attitude towards Cuba resembles Japan's attitude towards Red China:

"Mexico is not subservient, even to the United States, and it is an admirably independent nation. Yet the country appears to feel something unsatisfied with its neighbor, the United States. The latter is a strong anti-Communist nation. Although the U.S. is seeking a line of peaceful coexistence with the Soviet Union, it is not such a country as to admit communism. The United States is violently hostile to Cuba, which it looks on as a bridgehead of communism. Mexico is not a Communist country. However, it refrains from regarding Cuba as an enemy as mercilessly as the United States. Such a mental attitude is in harmony with the Japanese. The Japanese cannot grin and regard the Chinese Communists as an enemy even though they are told to do so."

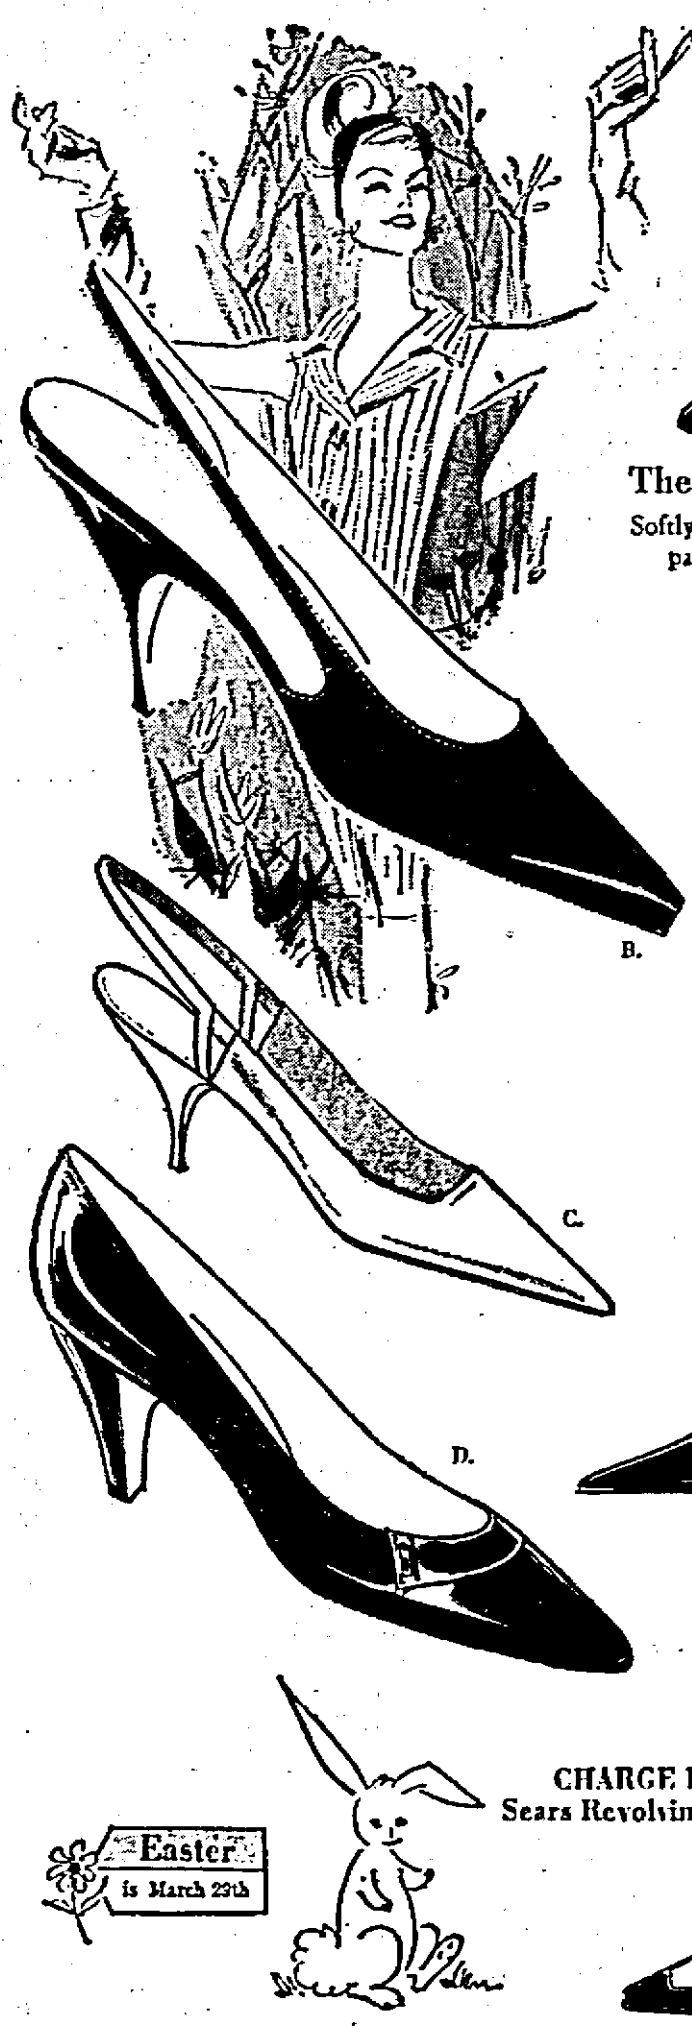

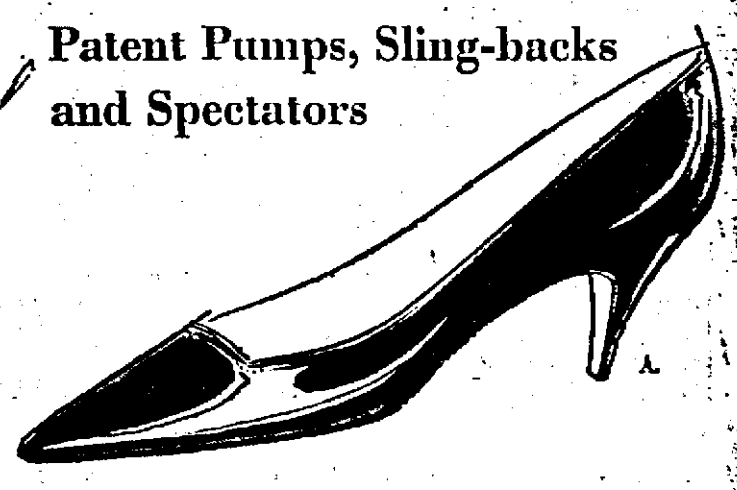

The Japan Times, commenting on Johnson's foreign aid program, said the worst kinds of foreign aid are military aid, and aid given with "no strings attached."

Trustee Loses Battle of Teaching Counselors

By KEN KNIGHT

As a member of the Huntington Beach Union High School District Board of Trustees, Joseph Ribal finds himself in the position of being unable to aggressively fight to establish a policy in which he believes.

A proposal by the 32-year-old Seal Beach resident that school principals and counselors should teach one 50-minute class a day has fallen flat for lack of support by each of the four other board members.

"I kinda feel like Gen. Lee at Appamattox," Ribal, a psychology instructor at El Camino College, explained. "My troops have all gone."

* * * *

THE PROBLEM faced by Ribal is that he feels by pushing too hard for the principal-counselor instruction program he will render himself ineffective as a board member by repeatedly incurring the wrath of other board members.

"There are too many other things that need to be done besides the establishing of school assignments for school administrators and counselors," Ribal said.

"But it is my feeling that principals, counselors and activity directors in the Huntington Beach Union High School District should teach one class a day.

* * * *

"THE TENDENCY in schools these days is to turn every one into a specialist and, as a result, everyone has less and less knowledge about what is going on. Educators, many years out of the classrooms, lose sight of the actual problems.

"Principals and administrators have to be aware of the problems in the classrooms to plan the school curriculum."

Ribal's proposal has received only hostility from school counselors and an even colder reception from his fellow board members.

They have asserted that the use of administration personnel would detract them from jobs of planning and that the district is currently facing a growth problem.

* * * *

THE USE of counselors would cheapen the counseling program and the district is concerned about drop-outs and guidance, the members further contend.

"In other school districts, counselors teach as part of their duties and a teacher can often be of help to students in counseling," claimed Ribal, who was a student counselor at Long Beach State College.

Eighteen counselors, three principals, three assistant principals and two activity directors would be affected in the Huntington Beach district, which has three high schools and 6,000 students.

* * * *

"RATHER THAN have so many counselors on full-time status, I would rather see each school have a qualified school psychologist and a teacher guidance program," Ribal stated.

The freshman board member believes one reason his proposal was turned down was that it required the trustees to recommend a policy.

"I didn't expect support from the school administration, as the usual proceedure is for the board to approve suggestions made by the district superintendent," Ribal said.

* * * *

WHEN RIBAL made his proposal, he was told by Board Chairman E. A. Hartsook to submit a detailed study of the plan to the trustees but that he (Hartsook) felt it would be a waste of time for the administration staff to have to compile such a survey.

Generally it is the school board that asks for the study and the staff that prepares it, Ribal contended.

A teacher for 10 years with

JOSEPH RIBAL
"Not a Windmill"

a Ph.D. from the University of Southern California, Ribal is not discouraged but rather at a loss for a sense of direction.

"It's a good program and I believe in it but I'll wait before pushing it anymore.

"Something like this needs community support. I have received a lot of mail supporting the idea and maybe more support will come—but it's hard for me to play the part of a windmill."

Pay-as-You-Go Urged for Park

By GEORGE WEEKS

A proposal for pay-as-you-go financing of the development of El Dorado Park East is under study by the City Park Commission.

Annual budget appropriations for piecemeal improvements were recommended last week by the El Dorado Park Improvement Committee of the Community Welfare Council.

Mrs. Renee Simon, committee chairman, urged an initial appropriation in the 1964-65 budget of $250,000 for grading and installation of water lines — first steps toward woodland development.

Approximately that amount will be available, she said, from the sale of park land to the state for access roads to the San Gabriel River Freeway in the vicinity of Pioneer Boulevard.

City officials reported later that negotiations indicate an actual price of around $186,000.

Park commissioners delayed action on the pay-as-you-go plan until their April 1 meeting. Their authority is limited to recommending policy to the City Council.

The only alternatives to pay-as-you-go financing are substantial aid from other public agencies or a municipal bond issue.

Los Angeles County is expected to turn down such a request. The County Park and Recreation Commission has advised the Board of Supervisors against such a grant, according to Milton B. Arthur, commission chairman.

Arthur noted that funds available for developing the county's own park system are far short of needs.

As for a bond issue, the City Council so far has indicated no interest in submitting a ballot proposition for the park improvement.

* * * *

IN AN APPEARANCE before city park commissioners, Arthur recommended the establishment of a trust fund to consist of private donations to pay for trees in the park.

Pledges of thousands of trees have already been offered, he said. The trust fund would enable the city to control the planting operation.

Arthur also proposed a survey to determine the exact acreage remaining for development after the allotment of various parcels for the Naval Hospital, the tree farm, a gas holder and other purposes. Current estimates range from 422 to 509 acres.

One small change in the El Dorado Park East development plan has been approved by three city commissions—Park, Planning and Recreation. It will be referred to the City Council.

The commissions advocate moving the site of a proposed archery range from the original location north of Wardlow Road to one north of Spring Street.

Carl Bartlett, district supervisor in the Recreation Department, said the new site is more accessible to all utility installations and thus will cost less to develop.

Long Beach target archers have been without a public range since their facility in Heartwell Park was converted to other uses 18 months ago.

State's Health Officers Meet in Long Beach

ORIAN LANDRETH . . . Helped Shaped Modern Football

'Father O'Landreth' Hangs Up His Whistle

By ROBERT WILCOX

In 1928 referee Orian Landreth lost a close friend. His "goof" cost a high school football team the city championship. The losing coach never forgave him.

In 1935 he lost a traveling companion. His wife, watching him escorted by police out of a steaming Corvallis arena, decided she could no longer stand the strain.

In 1948 he earned a bitterly sarcastic nickname. The practicing Methodist gave Notre Dame a last-second football victory over USC. He still receives letters addressed to "Father O'Landreth."

In 1956, leg-weary and "dean of Pacific Coast officials" after 32 years, Landreth decided to quit. He went out in a blaze of typical glory.

* * * *

UCLA KICKED OFF to USC before a packed and bitter Coliseum crowd, Jon Arnett in a twisting, turning run went 90 yards for a touchdown amid the delirium of half of the spectators.

Unnoticed was Landreth's indignant red handkerchief on the 40-yard line. USC, he declared in an almost unheard of kickoff ruling, had been offside. "I tried to warn them twice," he claimed.

Landreth, always mild-mannered and almost oblivious to the clamor, calmly went home and waited for the pictures to confirm his decision. But first he disconnected his telephone for two months.

In all, Landreth officiated at more than 300 major high school, college and professional football games, including three Rose Bowls and a Cotton Bowl. One year he traveled 26,000 miles.

* * * *

WHILE PACIFIC COAST sports' "Mr. Neutral" moonlighted in a striped shirt on weekends, he was coaching Long Beach Poly to its greatest football heights.

Later, quietly but still with grave impartiality, he was meting out discipline and giving advice as head of student activities at the General Adult Division of Long Beach City College.

The associate dean is retiring this June at 60 after a quarter-century at City College and 37 years with the Long Beach Unified School District.

When Landreth landed at Poly in 1926, he was 22, the school was 15, and its familiar Greek columns wouldn't be earthquaked to dust for another seven years.

The young coach didn't figure to stay long. The one-time champion pig raiser already had deserted his Quaker minister father's Kansas wheat farm on the grounds that it meant "routine labor."

He'd wanted to be a doctor but shifted to education and sports. Since college he'd quit two other coaching jobs in as many years.

* * * *

BUT HE'D LEARNED his football well under Knute Rockne, Howard Jones and Bob Zuppke as a post-graduate at three universities. He'd started officiating in 1922 to find out more. And he had a long memory.

On his very first play as an end for Friends University in Wichita, he was ground into the turf on an 87-yard touchdown run.

"The coach had a substitute warming up but decided to give me another chance," recalls Landreth. "I remembered that in all my years of coaching."

Landreth went on to make all-state and also starred in tennis and basketball. Working his way through school, he graduated from Friends in 1923 and later studied at Northwestern, Illinois and USC.

At Poly, Landreth was a radical in the Stone Age of football. He won his first Bee football championship on a carefully hoarded "flea flicker" play—triple reverse, lateral and forward pass. He liked to throw on first down "or whenever the other team wasn't expecting it."

* * * *

IN 1929 HE was advanced to the varsity where his teams, in nine years, won five league titles and four CIF championships. One year they enlarged the all-coast high school football team to 12 men to include an alternate Poly fullback. Poly already had the other 11 positions.

The Landreth-vintage Poly greats are legion—all-American Norm Franklin, Oregon State; Bob Fuhrer, Bob Berryman and Sax Elliott, USC; Bob Carlton, UC; Wayne Rapp and Cecil Story of the then-mighty Chicago; Louis Wilcox, San Francisco State.

Coach Landreth could snap at a referee with the best of them. Once one of his backs, also captain, confusedly called back his own 55-yard touchdown run by taking a 5-yard penalty.

"You victimized my boy!" Landreth shouted at the official. The Poly back was even angrier. He went 60 yards for a touchdown on the next play.

* * * *

LANDRETH QUIT POLY in 1938 for an abortive one-year season on leave as head football coach at Arizona University. He returned in 1939 to City College as a physical education instructor, was made dean of men the following year.

On returning from three years in the Navy in 1945, he was advanced to assistant dean of activities and promoted to associate dean in 1948.

As a member of the national rules committee, Landreth helped shape modern football. One of his more notable achievements was the 2-point conversion.

He has continued to use his influence toward a uniform set of football rules for the high school, college and professional sport. "There are 155 differences," he points out.

* * * *

LANDRETH, who married his wife, Frances in 1925, saw his rigid impartiality meet its sternest test in his own family.

When he first moved to Long Beach City College, he attended a Poly-Wilson football game with the couple's only daughter, Nancy, a Poly student.

"Why don't you root for Poly?" a disgusted Nancy asked its most illustrious—but significantly silent—coach. "I'm neutral now," piously answered Landreth.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

AT a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored forum on the state lottery issue, several speakers lambasted the idea and none defended it. Yet local and statewide opinion polls showed strong majorities of the populace in favor.

Apparently a state lottery is one of those things which nobody wants but the people.

THIS small voice in the wilderness again suggests that there is a lot of loose and, it seems to me, erroneous use of the word "hate" in current controversial parlance.

Some people have seized upon the word as something devastating to hurl at just about anybody who disagrees with them. Calling the opposition a "hater" or a "hate group" is supposed to summarily dispose of any question of merit in its position.

Some attacks on "haters" are so venemous that they themselves sound like an exemplification of hatred.

SOME of the luster seems to have left the flamboyant San Francisco attorney named Melvin Belli.

The reason: He couldn't accept defeat gracefully.

It may be a hard thing to do, but every person who engages in any kind of a contest would do well to train himself for it. Including politicians who battle for votes.

The after-a-licking blow-off may be a genuinely human thing to do but it just doesn't set very well with other humans.

Of course, if you don't give a damn what others think, let 'er go. But most people do, later on if not at the moment. It's smart to recognize that and keep the brakes adjusted for that painful moment to temptation.

THE seeming ease with which fires get to and consume luxurious houses intrigues one of my readers. He can't understand why people with that much to spend on a house ($100,000 or more) couldn't lay out a little more for special fire protection, especially if the house is located in an area that makes it vulnerable.

Some time ago this observer visited a man who had a house on a canyon-side on Palomar Mountain. Asked if he wasn't afraid of fires in surrounding brushlands, the owner showed the visitor how he had run small water pipes up the sides and over the roof of his house.

In case of fire a simple twist of a value sent water streaming over the house and prevented fires from starting from those wind-blown embers.

The correspondent poses an interesting question. Possibly one answer is that the owners of those houses that have burned in recent fires just never thought it could happen to them.

ANOTHER chapter, and a happy one, has been added to the story of the news vendor across from our office and his dog which was accused of biting somebody. (I've never heard exactly who was bitten).

The dog spent several days in quarantine. It was kept at the home of June Jarvis, 5715 Walnut Ave., who happens to be a former humane officer. After passing several days of observation, the pooch has been returned to his owner and the street corner stand.

According to my reports, Mrs. Jarvis found the dog B.B. to have a sweet disposition. It didn't appear to be anti-social in any way and isn't regarded as likely to bite anybody.

The saga of B.B. turned out to be quite something. It's not often one little dog could stir up so much public interest. There's a significance in that which I think we must rate as encouraging and good.

PROFESSOR CITES MAIN REASONS FOR DIVORCE:

Immaturity, Poor Training

Chapman College professor, Dr. Bernard J. Oliver of Orange believes the country's high divorce rate is the result of the improper raising of children and the pairing of persons too immature for marriage.

"The nationwide average is that one out of every four marriages will fail. In 1962 46 per cent of the marriages in California failed and the number is much too high," the 45-year-old sociologist and clinical psychologist said.

"A large percentage of the population is too immature when marrying and are not ready for the problems and sacrifice that come with marriage," Dr. Oliver explained.

"Many people marry, hoping to solve their own personal problems of perhaps loneliness or wanting to be accepted and they are not able to cope with the resulting situation."

Marriage is a constant period of adjustment to different situations and it takes a minimum of five years to find out what marriage is all about, believes Dr. Oliver, who has been married 20 years.

A successful marriage is one where the partners have developed the ability to appreciate the other's problems and worry more about the other mate than themselves, according to the professor.

"Ours is a child centered culture. We do not give the children any responsibility until they grow older and then we load them up with duties and responsibilities while still keeping them tied to our apron strings.

"In Japan, for instance, children are given duties and responsibilities at an early age and then as they grow older, they are treated more as adults and regarded as such."

Two solutions are offered by Dr. Oliver, a licensed marriage counselor, for better marriages.

"Stricter discipline of children by parents, making them more aware of life's problems, and a requirement that a couple must be married at least three years before they can get a divorce."

Moonlighting

ARE THE NATION'S moonlighters impeding the war against poverty?

Moonlighters are people who hold two jobs—either because they have unusual energy and ambition or because they need the extra income.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 3.9 million Americans hold a second job. The moonlighting rate is almost as high as the nation's rate of unemployment.

Superficial reasoning suggests that if moonlighting were eliminated, unemployment would vanish.

The AFL-CIO doesn't go that far, but it considers moonlighting a serious factor in the national unemployment picture. "Moonlighting is bad," says the big labor organization, "and we try to discourage it."

The criticism of moonlighting has the same weakness as the recent federal proposal to create new jobs by forcing industry to pay double time for overtime. It assumes that the presently unemployed workers would be qualified to do the jobs now being done by others.

Actually, most of the nation's unemployed workers lack jobs because they are not trained for the work available—the work which falls to the moonlighters or which requires the expenditure of overtime.

The federal program of retraining unemployed workers to qualify for the job market remains the most realistic plan yet offered in the "war against poverty."

Economic improvement comes from creating new opportunities, not from robbing the ambitious of their right to earn extra income.

It's What's Up Front That Counts

Draft Nonsense

THE NONSENSE AND unfairness that occur in the nation's draft program are illustrated by the case of heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

The Army reports that Clay failed his aptitude tests and therefore is not qualified for induction.

Ridiculous.

We haven't the slightest idea how well Clay does his math problems or whether he knows how to fit the blocks together. But obviously he is mentally resourceful and physically capable.

Aptitude tests are designed to show what a man is most likely to succeed at. Clay's test showed something. If it didn't—if he scored a complete blank—then the Army should use its good sense and assume that a man capable of talking and fighting his way into the heavyweight championship and a million dollars might be qualified to serve in some capacity in the armed services. At the very least, he has muscles for digging a ditch.

Other youngsters are being called to do their part. Why not Cassius?

So much for objective reasoning of the matter. Speaking from a purely personal prejudice (involving not skin color but mouth size), it would be rather refreshing to think of Cassius standing there in ranks with his lips closed just listening to the Sergeant.

Behan's Excess

GIFTED PLAYWRIGHT Brendan Behan is dead at 41, victim of too much liquor.

Some people do it to themselves with food, some with tobacco. Behan's excess was drink.

It's foolish to suppose that he didn't know what excessive drinking of liquor would do, or that his life would have been saved if a government official had ordered a skull and crossbones painted on all whiskey bottles.

Human beings are well aware of their immoderations and of the consequences of those immoderations.

This is a problem that is not solved by putting a label on a package or dictating how an advertisement must be written.

It goes deeper, into the human personality and the power of will—sometimes so weak in the greatest intellects.

Barbadoes Assembly Debate Sounds Like U.S. Congress

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Drew Pearson today continues his report on the prospects of democracy or communism in the trouble-torn Caribbean.)

BRIDGETOWN, Barbadoes—Except for the color of the skin, democracy in some parts of the Caribbean is about the same as democracy in Wasington.

I sat in the House of the Assembly, or parliament, of the British Barbadoes. Its 24 members gathered around a circular table, microphones in front of them, all Negro except for the clerk. Facing them sat the Speaker in black robes and very large wig. The day was warm, most of the spectators were in shirt sleeves, but the speaker held to the British tradition of wig and gown.

PEARSON

Electric fans turned lazily overhead. The high-gabled assembly hall with mahogany beams and stained-glass windows featuring the monarchs of England resembled the House of Commons in London. But the debate was more like the House of Representatives in Washington.

An appropriation bill was under discussion, specifically the entertainment allowance for the Governor General of Barbadoes. Premier Errol Barrow proposed that it be increased from $7,200 to $9,600. The Congressman H. R. Gross (R-Ia.) of the Barbadoes, Frank Walcott, laid down the newspaper he had been reading more carefully than he followed the parliament debate, and rose to speak.

What he said sounded like the congressional debate over the annual personal fund of the President of the United States.

"It looks as if government house was a place for scotch, not rum," protested Assemblyman Walcott. "I do not believe in this nonsense."

He spoke at some length, sat down and resumed reading his newspaper. Premier Errol Barrow then moved passage of the increased entertainment allowance for the governor. It passed unanimously.

Afterward the premier told me: "Everyone used to gripe about the Governor's salary. Now they gripe gripe about his entertainment allowance."

Premier Barrow is a quiet-spoken Negro, educated in the Virgin Islands, who spent seven years in the Air Force and has given the Barbadoes one of the best governments in the West Indies. He believes that the way to hold off communism is by education, jobs, digging sewers, bringing water to villages and improving garbage disposal.

"When we took over," he said, "we found a great deal of unemployment. We had to start public works which would both put people to work and bring us permanent improvements. Have you seen our new hospital?" he asked.

I had not, but later drove by to find that it merited the Premier's pride.

"We are inclined to think more of constitutional law than economic development," Mr. Barrow explained. "Right now we are passing a series of constitutional amendments to change our relations with London."

"How long will it take?" I asked.

"We shall get them done this afternoon," was the confident reply.

In the United States constitutional reform would require years.

I also talked with Cameron Tudor, the Minister of Education, educated at Oxford and a man who has helped push literacy in Barbadoes' predominantly Negro population up to 97 per cent.

Barbadoes is one of the better-governed islands in the Caribbean stepping-stones and is not likely soon to go Communist. On the other extreme, like British Guiana, is St. Vincent, whose Premier "Chief Minister" is the rootin'-tootin' haranguer Ebenezer Joshua, a member of the same political party as pro-Communist Premier Cheddi Jagan of Guiana, namely the People's Progressive Party.

Premier Joshua is now under investigation by a rebel commission of his own government for putting his wife on the payroll as a cabinet minister without portfolio and for allegedly dipping into the treasury for $240,000 for a controversial road program. He declares that regardless of this investigation he intends to hold office until 1966.

• • • •

CHIEF DANGER in these little island governments is that they are long on nationalism, short on unity. For four years, from 1958 to 1962, they were members of the West Indian Federation, but it fell apart, according to Premier Barrow, because: "It was built from the top instead of from the bottom."

Dallas Needs No Vindication in Oswald Death, Ruby Trial

(Editor's Note: Bill Hunter, a member of the Independent, Press-Telegram news staff, is a native and long-time resident of Dallas. He returned to Dallas on assignment to cover the events immediately following the assassination of President Kennedy and later to cover the Ruby trial. We asked him to compare the city's true nature, as he sees it, with the widely-expressed opinions of outsiders in recent months. His report follows.)

ON MARCH 14, 1964, a jury of eight men and four women sentenced Jack Ruby to die in the electric chair for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald.

That jury did not vindicate Dallas—the Texas city in which the verdict was returned, Oswald was killed, and President Kennedy was assassinated.

Dallas does not need vindication.

Dallas did not slay President Kennedy—Lee Harvey Oswald assertedly did. Dallas did not kill Oswald—Jack Ruby assuredly did that. And Dallas did not sentence Ruby to die—12 persons did that.

Those 12 heard and saw the evidence and the testimony and, if they vindicated anything, they vindicated the system of justice of a nation.

Their system of justice is stern and often unforgiving. But as often it is tempered with mercy. This jury did not elect to show mercy to Jack Ruby.

• • • •

WHEN DALLAS—and Texas—were young and struggling from Reconstruction wreckage, one man's life was as important as another's. The fastest draw of a pistol could mean one man dead. But if the survivor had not taken unfair advantage, he was seldom brought to trial. Their differences had ended with the firing of the fatal shot.

Still heard around Texas courts is the saying, "If you get in a heated argument with someone and have to sneeze, for God's sake don't make a fast grab for your handkerchief in your hip pocket."

Texas justice stands behind a man's property, his family and, to a certain extent, his good name. The founders of Texas placed this justice in the hands of the juries. Justice in Dallas is justice as provided by the American system.

Fingers from around the world have been pointed at Dallas accusing the city of harboring "ultras" who wanted President Kennedy dead, a police department whose men wore 10-gallon hats to cover pin-size heads, and a shamed citizenry that wanted to clean the slate by executing Ruby.

What—or who—is Dallas?

Dallas is a man who has bought the most expensive silverware and puts it on the table when guests arrive. But he is not exactly certain of which fork to use and he really doesn't give a damn. He's comfortable as long as the peas stay on the tines.

Dallas is a city that leads the state in murders but has very few unsolved ones on its books. And a man can walk the Dallas streets without constant fear of death at every corner as there is in New York or Chicago.

Dallas is wealth, the finest cuisine, the best shows—yet the streets are virtually empty at midnight because tomorrow is a working day.

Dallas has risen, in 107 years, from a single log cabin on a ford of the Trinity River to the youngest, cleanest metropolis in the nation; and if that statement is not true, it is at least the most talked about. And it has prospered without an abundance of natural resources.

That feat alone should convince critics the city is not filled with men wearing 10-gallon hats over pea-sized brains.

• • • •

DIVERSIFICATION has been the key to Dallas's success—in climate, in wealth, in politics, in religion. Predominantly Dallas is the South and Southwest with an increasing strain of the North.

Dallas wants to do what is right and proper as long as the social restrictions don't interfere with a man's right to greet a friend publicly as "Joe, you ————" without being ostracized.

"Independent" has always been a fitting term to describe someone from Dallas.

Dallas is filled with Independents—from their point of view—or "Muleheads" from their opponents'.

But never has there been a Boss Tweed or Tammany Hall in Dallas to silence those independents. "The last time I looked we still lived in a nation of free speech and ideas," said a Dallas man trying to explain his beliefs to a group of visiting newsmen at the Jack Ruby trial.

These independents went Republican long before the Eisenhower tide engulfed the state. They elected Republican Congressman Bruce Alger in the early 1950s, and they voted for McKinley over Bryan in 1896. Their hard work and support also aided immensely the election of N.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.).

• • • •

ONE HUNDRED years ago, Dallas was a small spot on a very wide plain. It was marked by the river that twisted and branched into three forks and a long cabin that even then gave an imposing skyline.

The railroads came, the cattle came, the oil came, the banks came, the money came, the people came and Dallas grew and grew. It is still growing. The river is still there, but now it is being dredged into a canal that will make Dallas a seaport—and the nearest salt water is 200 miles away.

Dallas has the growing pains of New York, the financial problems of Boston and the assumed sophistication of San Francisco.

Unfortunately, 100 years has not given Dallas time to absorb all those pains. Dallas wears tuxedos and evening gowns but is more comfortable in blue jeans and sweaters.

Innocent People Hurt by Rumor

EDITOR:

I appreciated your editorial concerning rumors being circulated that Jack Ruby is an epileptic, that he possibly shot Oswald during a violent seizure. Epileptics suffered for many years under the mistaken belief by the general public that they are likely to become violent or at least extremely upset.

I had hoped that as a result of the National Epilepties League's protest, these stories would be dropped. However, Ruby's defense attorneys continued to pursue this line.

Innocent people should not undergo renewed and undeserved persecution. I do believe the Warren Commission should make public the facts about Ruby and not allow them to lie hidden under charges that he shot Oswald during a seizure for whatever excuse, whether in the name of national security of for political reasons.

Congressmen Act Like Little Boys

EDITOR:

GOP solons rap secret U.S. outlay. It has only been a few weeks since I heard Barry Goldwater say there had not been anything in the way of improvement on our jets for defense purposes since 1957. Had he known about the A-11, the Russians would have had it before we got it off the blueprint.

We have several congressmen who should be treated like little boys. For instance, those who think they should have a $10,000 raise, and out of the other side of their mouths cry about government spending. Truth is these guys don't care anything about government spending.

Sees Our Policy Adding to Evil

EDITOR:

In regard to the recent editorial in the Press-Telegram concerning the proposed state lottery: It is hard to accept the fact that a man holds a position that either influences or attempts to influence public opinion who apparently fosters such a negative philosophy towards life that he would advocate more evil be added to already existing evil. Future Cloudy on Oil, Education Issues

Independent, Press-Telegram Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The capitol is swarming with so many would-be oil and education experts that the future is cloudy on both issues.

Some Sacramento quarters are betting that the waters have been so muddied on both issues that there may be no 1964 decision on new policies for either tidelands oil or education.

M'CAULEY

The Assembly - Senate Joint Tidelands Committee has recommended a compromise plan for solving the controversy between Long Beach and the state over control of the offshore tidelands and how the public profits are to be spent.

But though the 10-to-2 committee decision was endorsed by the top leadership in both houses of the legislature, the complex tidelands controversy still is several hurdles away from being voted into law.

The reasonably-fair compromise plan of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh is likely to have smooth sailing in the Assembly. But some Senate extremists, however, may try to revamp the Unruh bill into a drastic shoreline-grab measure.

Sen. Virgil O'Sullivan, D-Williams, and some powerful interests still are trying to head off any compromise in O'Sullivan's all-or-nothing-for-the-state policy.

Though O'Sullivan professes to be representing the public interest, he has adopted a position which only could force the tidelands controversy into litigation and block development of the $3.5 billion East Wilmington Field off the eastern shoreline of Long Beach.

One puzzler: the real motive of O'Sullivan. One possibility is that he hopes to prod the city and state into an impasse or a prolonged court battle. His present obstructionist policies are calculated to do that.

A prolonged state-city row over the tidelands—if it delayed further oil development—would work to the advantage of importers of cheap foreign oil. Hurt would be both state and city taxpayers.

Some Long Beach tidelands critics have decorated the bill hopper like a Christmas tree with give-away money bills aimed at the tidelands.

Regardless of the moral or legal position of Long Beach, these tidelands give-away bills serve to confuse the issue. They also may help lure some lawmakers and geographical areas into teaming up in support of fund-grab bills.

Thus far, separate tidelands bill have proposed parceling out oil revenues from the tidelands off Long Beach for education, state harbors, marinas throughout the state and school districts in areas in which state park lands are off the tax rolls.

Both Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick and C. George Deukmejian of Long Beach have been approached by a number of lawmakers who say they can support a tidelands settlement with the provision that their favored project be cut in for some of the revenue.

The tidelands-pork-barrel approach of Long Beach foes has been an effective device for rallying some support for a raid on the present shoreline trust fund.

Many lawmakers still are hoping that any additional state aid to education can be tied to reforms and school district mergers. Though educationists firmly are resisting mandatory mergers.

One bill would authorize counties to allocate horse-racing revenue to public school districts. Another would slash all non-education new programs in Sacramento, and earmark the savings for education.

Bills for higher cigarette and sales taxes also have been proposed — obviously drawn up to provide more funds for education.

Gov. Brown, California Teachers Assn. and other sources also have introduced their own proposals. The issue is so confused and the pressures are so conflicting that anything could happen at the 1964 session.

And sometimes when anything can happen the result in the legislative process is this: nothing happens.

'To the Rear, Advance!'

DAVID LAWRENCE

Politicians Shun Real 'War on Poverty'

WASHINGTON — Nobody here has started the real "war on poverty." The politicians are afraid to do it. So, instead, there is a big fanfare about how the federal government, by spending money for better schools and for training students or by eliminating "discrimination" in employment and by other welfare measures, can eventually increase the incomes of the unfortunate individuals who are earning less than $3,000 a year.

LAWRENCE

But, as is always the case with those theorists in our midst who never see the economic forest for the realistic trees, the biggest way to cure much of today's "poverty" is overlooked. The remedy is to be found in opening the doors of job opportunity in business.

* * * *

THE MOST important thing needed to encourage economic growth today is the removal of the barriers against business expansion. This ranges all the way from the need for a reduction of tariff and quota walls imposed overseas to a recognition of the trials and travails of the American free-enterprise system at home which is no longer free.

For the simple truth is that wage scales imposed arbitrarily and across the boards by national labor unions—irrespective of the competitive position of the different businesses within a given industry—have done more than any other single factor on the American scene in recent years to create unemployment, stimulate automation, and throw conscientious people, even those with adequate education, out of work.

It will do little good in the long run to multiply the number of government agencies, increase the handouts, and foster the "welfare state" concept. American businessmen are spending a lot of money to make products they can sell both here and abroad. The desire to expand is deep-sated, but the incentives are diminishing as the government itself —a partisan of labor monopoly and still dependent on demagoguery to get votes —uses such catch phrases as "the war on poverty" to gain favor.

It would be as logical to declare war on laziness, incompetence and inefficiency —as if anything government could do would overcome these handicaps—in an atmosphere in which the government is supposed nowadays to owe every man a living or put him on relief.

Nor is a preachment of the doctrine of self-reliance likely to solve all the problems of unemployment. There must be a drive to increase the number of jobs. For the real problem today is what is best described as "job creation."

Almost unnoticed by the general public, the government just two years ago, with the approval of Congress, put into effect certain credits on taxes for depreciation and thus encouraged investment in new plant and equipment. The amount sacrificed by the government in taxes was relatively little, but the present business upturn is in no small part due to the opportunities opened up by this phase of the tax law which was passed in 1962 and improved in 1964.

* * * *

PERHAPS the biggest factor in unemployment is the geographical dilemma. A big company, for example, employing many thousands of people suddenly fails to get a renewal of a government contract because a particular item is no longer needed. The workers have bought their own houses, and their roots are imbedded in their home communities. To get new employment, they must, of course, move away, and it's expensive to gamble on the place to which to take a family.

The President's program submitted to Congress provides for some relief in this direction for the coal miners of the Appalachian region whose work opportunities have been diminished through no fault of their own or of their employers.

Undoubtedly, there are many Negroes in the South who would like to go north. Certainly many of them could get jobs as domestics which pay from $2,000 to $3,000 a year. When two in a family work, this would be doubled. These jobs go begging today. Many families well able to pay for domestic help have been compelled to give up their houses and live in apartments because they can't get such help.

Somewhere in the country there are plenty of men and women who would jump at the chance of getting jobs in the cities, and they have adequate education — but they are far away geographically. A war to overcome geographical barriers would help in "the war on poverty."

BILL SUMNER

Villains Are Winning; Could They Really Be Good Guys?

WASHINGTON—While tuning the TV dial about the other evening seeking seeking various interpretations of what had happened in the New Hampshire primary, the decision was made to watch a commentator with a beard. He not only had a beard, but a long, thick, dirty looking beard. He had long dirty looking hair and was naked from the waist up. A pretty formidable looking sight, too; a monsterous belly and arms, coupled with a mean expression.

SUMNER

You can see Huntley or Brinkley any old night.

"That bum's got a yellow streak a yard wide," he roared into the microphone. "I'l break him in half."

Or Cronkite. You can see Cronkite almost any evening, earphones on, speaking of the significance of things.

"Why don't you tell the people how good I am," he yelled at a fellow who was holding the microphone, grabbing it from him. We were saved from witnessing violence only by an advertisement for used cars.

Well, that was a wrestler, and things being what they were in New Hampshire a research project was begun into the present state of the art. It has changed, it can be stated here with some authority. It is more violent, and the good guys always lose.

It used to be that the villain spent the first 10 minutes beating up the hero pretty badly, the hero staggering under tremendous blows and dirty tricks the referee never could see. Then the hero would return blow for blow and it was time for the bad guy to stagger and—this is something the good guy never had done—plead. It would then become nip and tuck for a few minutes, the conclusion of which found the hero with his arm stretched high in victory.

* * * *

NOW, THE bad guy is just as bad as he can be. Worse. He is a gloating, mean, shouting sort of fellow. The villain outfit these days is long hair, sometimes a beard, jaws you can see grinding and a pot belly. He is likely to wear blue jeans into the ring, or long tights.

The good guy looks like he always did. More clean cut, a straightforward, noble look in his eye. He will as a rule, however, look somewhat more stupid than the villain, and that is why he always loses.

Some explanations have been offered for the new fortune of the villains. There is the new realism which holds that the pure of heart don't necessarily win, that a good bad guy can beat a good good guy any time.

I like to think, however, that the villains, once having been good guys in the ring (before they gained so much weight) remain good guys at heart, and that they know the truth about the new crop of good guys, that they are really bad. Appearance is not everything, you know. A god-like look can disguise a black heart. A greasy, hairy bum can be a saint. The wrestling promoters are, in their wisdom, seeking to drive that message home and are to be honored for it.

FREDERIC W. COLLINS

Poor Out of Sight as We Whizzed By

WASHINGTON—There are several things about the war on poverty which nag at the mind as the big offensive is prepared.

One is a sense that the public has not yet been fully informed as to the magnitude of the problem. Another is why it persisted so long unnoticed.

Mr. Johnson's message dealt, perhaps because the length and form demanded it, in what might be called round fractions and generalities. "One-fifth of our people" have not shared in the general abundance.

Ample detail was provided in a special section of the Jan. 20 report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The upper limit of poverty, for government purposes, is a family of four with money income of less than $3,000 a year. There are 9.3 million such families. They have more than 30 million people in them. There are another five million people living by themselves on less than $2,000.

The CEA summarized some of the details. Even the summaries were hard to cram into a news story. Here is an attempt at a summary of the summary:

Six or seven million of the poor are non-white. Nearly half of all non-whites live in poverty. The heads of over five-and-a-half million poor families have only grade school education. One-third of all poor families are headed by someone over 65. More than half the poor live in cities. One-sixth live on farms. One-third live in the country, but not as farmers.

Over 40 per cent of all farm families are poor. More than 80 per cent of non-white farmers are poor. Less than half of the poor are in the South. But in the South, the chance of being poor is about twice as good as elsewhere.

One quarter of poor families are headed by a woman. Nearly half of all families headed by a woman are poor. Some families have several jinxes. A family headed by a young non-white woman who never reached the eighth grade is poor 91 out of 100 times. If she is white, the chances are still 85 out of 100.

There are several reasons always given why we didn't notice what was going on. What they boil down to is that the poor are out of sight, in slums, in mountain pockets, on remote dead farms, making little if any noise, and we went whizzing by them.

SAD BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD

Mothers' Teacher Retiring

By MARGARET McKEAN

It's been a custom during the past 20 years for parents to seek out Beatrice Woodbridge to help them raise their children.

When the current school semester ends, so will Mrs. Woodbridge's help. She reached the age of 65 on March 19, and hundreds of her adult students gathered for a most unhappy birthday party.

Her enforced retirement will bring to an end an era of parent-education which has touched the lives of almost 5,000 children, all between the ages of 2 and 5.

Her title with the Los Angeles City School District is "Institutional Supervisor in Adult-Education, Banning High School Program." But her role in the lives of parents and children has been mother confessor, teacher and confidante. She imparts guidance and counseling daily from the Marine Avenue Center, Wilmington, and evenings by telephone from her home in Rolling Hills.

The regard in which she's held prompted the party in Wilmington, attended by mothers from Palos Verdes, Eagle Rock, Huntington Park, South Gate, Los Angeles, La Mirada, in addition to all the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor cities.

BEATRICE WOODBRIDGE
Forced to Quit

She then explained what originally prompted her career in child guidance and parent education. A math major from the University of Washington, she married Frederick Woodbridge, who, for 26 years, was chairman of the accounting department of USC's school of business administration.

When they became parents in 1940, "My inefficiency frightened me and I scurried back to school and got my master's degree from USC in child development. It was wicked to waste what I'd learned so I went to work for the city school district. It's been a gratifying career and my retirement is not welcome, it's enforced," she remarked ruefully.

Just as unhappy over the mandatory retire-at-65 ruling are the mothers whom she's taught to "understand yourself first, then understand your child."

She's dispensed full rations of her education and experience at the Marine Avenue Center where mothers bring their children at 9:45 each day. From then until 2:15 p.m. the children play, lunch and nap while the mothers observe, learn and listen to what Beatrice Woodbridge tells them.

"We discuss facing our own emotions, nutrition, problems in child-rearing such as fibbing or hostilities. Parents make much of toilet-training. I remind them that when he needs them, all children will develop the socialamenities. Parents worry about thumb-sucking, and I say let the child have his thumb."

There's a waiting list of mothers who want and need her kind of advice. They are unconvinced that because she's 65, she no longer has the answers.

Weed-Cutters Busy

L P-T Los Angeles Bureau

County crews this week start clearing weeds from vacant lots in unincorporated territory and 27 contract cities, at the property owners' expense, to prevent fires.

Nearly 50,000 lots were posted in February with notices directing their owners to destroy weeds and brush and clear away rubbish to eliminate fire hazards.

In the local area, the order applied to lots in Lakewood, Artesia, Bellflower, Dairy Valley, La Mirada, Norwalk, Paramount, Palos Verdes Estates, Rolling Hills and Rolling Hills Estates and Pico Rivera.

Although the City of Palos Verdes Estates has its own fire department, it contracts with the county for weed abatement.

Only a half dozen property owners appeared Thursday before county supervisors at a protest hearing on the annual week-abatement order.

If a property owner does not choose to clear the weeds on his lot, the county does the work under contract and bills the owner. Average cost for clearing a 50x150-foot lot which has no trees is from $12 to $15, a County Fire Department spokesman said.

Any property owner who wishes to clear his own lot, should send a postcard to the County Fire Department, P.O. Box 3009, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, 54, promising to take such action before June 1. He should include the legal description of the property.

County crews clear about 20,000 parcels each year. Many of the others are cleared by their owners and some are improved by construction of homes or business, a department spokesman explained.

Grant Fan

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Suzanne Pleshette is a Cary Grant fan. She recently met her idol for the first time and Cary told her he would like to work with her—"if only I were ten years younger."

Replied Suzanne: "When I go home tonight and start thinking about how close I came to working with you, I'll age ten years."

CITIES HUDDLE WITH NAVY

Links Buffer Sought at Jet Base

A new golf course in the Los Alamitos-Cypress area will have a jet runway as its "19th hole" if current negotiations between the Navy and Orange County cities work out.

The cities of Cypress, Los Alamitos and Garden Grove propose a golf course bordering the main landing strip of the Los Alamitos Air Station. The course would serve as a buffer zone between burgeoning housing developments in the area and the airfield's noise-and-crash hazard.

Officials from the communities suggest that a golf course would (1) bring revenue to the sponsoring community, (2) create beauty in the area, and (3) comply with the Navy's request for a "green belt" for safety around the eastern border of the air station.

The Navy seeks a recreational barrier around its perimeter to prevent close housing development, which it contends would result in agitation to close the station because of the thunder of jet engines and the danger of crashes.

Cypress officials have expressed interest in developing a golf course on the southeasterly border of the air station.

Because of funding problems, Cypress representatives have discussed the possibility of a federal grant toward establishment of the 18-hole golf course.

Federal officials late Saturday told The Independent-Press-Telegram that government loans for such developments are allowed for up to 20 percent of the price of acreage in what they termed "open land."

The whole problem stems from plans by developers to build multifamily dwellings near the main jet runway.

Capt. William Tanner Jr., air station commander, has offered to give the county or neighboring communities land near the runways to establish a recreational buffer zone. Under another official proposal, the Navy would acquire privately-owned land near the runways in exchange for air station land some distance from the runways and therefore more suitable for residential development. Then the air station would lease the newly-acquired land near the runways to the adjoining municipality for development as a park or golf course.

Another meeting between the Navy and officials of the cities is expected in the near future to hammer out final details, according to James Smith, Los Alamitos city administrator.

RAGUSA, Italy (UPI) — Gugielmo Jozzia, a student, was killed in an auto accident Saturday while driving to Bologna University to present his thesis for a degree in medicine. The title of the thesis was "A Case of Violent Death."

Ex-Teacher to Appeal Denial of Credentials

A former Long Beach and Garden Grove teacher has won the right to appeal the state's denial of teaching credentials because of past membership in the Communist party.

Sam Wellbaum, 40, had filed suit to compel the State Board of Education to issue new credentials to him. At issue was whether the suit was filed within the time provided by law, and Superior Court Judge Macklin Fleming ruled Friday in Los Angeles that it was.

Wellbaum admitted in his petition that from 1946 to 1953 he was a member of the Communist Party, but denied he committed perjury in 1956 when he signed a loyalty oath.

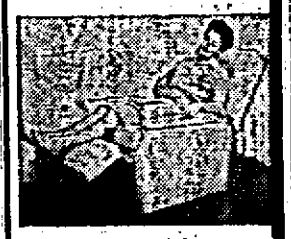

In 1952, the Long Beach Board of Education refused to rehire Wellbaum, then a probationary speech teacher at Jordan High School. A controversy developed when the board refused to give a reason for its action.

His dismissal from the faculty of Garden Grove's Rancho Alamitos High School in 1961 because of the former Communist affiliation sparked another controversy.

Center Plan OK'd

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Brown said Saturday the state had approved a preliminary proposal to build an $897,000 center for the mentally retarded in San Francisco.

STAN . . . still quite a man.

SETS HIGH EXAMPLE

Musial's Goal: Fit U.S. Adults

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Good healthy sweat rolled down the face of the new director of the nation's physical fitness program. Stan Musial was practicing what he preaches.

Up . . . down . . . Up . . . down . . . kick left . . . kick right . . . spin left . . . spin right . . .

After 30 minutes of this exercise, Musial and the St. Louis Cardinals trouped to the clubhouse at Al Lang Field to change their shirts.

In a few minutes Stan came out, cradling a bat in one arm. Hatless, he sat on a bench in the warm sun, watching batting practice and talking about his recent appointment by President Johnson.

He has been on the job a little more than a month and still is feeling his way. However, he does not regard this new post as a purely honorary position.

"The health and well being of our country is so important," Musial said. "It can't be over-estimated. If a person is physically fit, he or she is mentally alert.

"We have a full time staff of 14 in Washington. I expect to go there every month and stay as long as I am needed. However, I do expect to make the first road trip with the Cardinals helping Manager Johnny Keane wherever I can.

"But my retirement as a player is final."

Does Musial have any new projects in mind?

"Yes," he said. "We have been basically concentrating on the youngsters. I would like to get into other areas involving adults and a wide recreation program outside of school activities.

"Calisthenics are fine but they are not the entire basis of physical fitness. Exercise is only one phase. Games and other means of recreation are important, too."

UCLA in 98-83 Win Over Duke

—Associated Press Wirephoto

DON'T WORRY, COACH, WE'LL WIN IT ! UCLA basketball coach John Wooden (center) seems a bit more frantic than his star, Walt Hazzard (right) during tense moments of Saturday night's 98-83 win over Duke for NCAA championship.

Coaches Laud Bruin Stars as 'Fantastic'

'Quickness Key Factor'--Wooden

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Both winning coach John Wooden and loser Vic Bubas were in harmony signing the "fantastic" and "tremendous" praises of guard Gail Goodrich and substitute Kenny Washington in the wake of UCLA's 98-83 NCAA championship victory over Duke Saturday night.

Wooden, who celebrated his daughter Nan's 30th birthday with UCLA's 30th victory without defeat in the championship game, said this year's Bruin team was "the quickest but not the fastest" he had ever coached, and pointed out that quickness was the key factor in UCLA's success.

Bubas said his Duke team lost its poise when UCLA's zone press "upset our tempo and forced us into mistakes" in the first half after the Atlantic Coast Conference champion had forged a slight lead.

• • • •

THE DUKE coach described Goodrich's first-half play as "fantastic" and Washington's come-through from off the bench as "tremendous."

"In fact, their (UCLA's) passing and shooting was fantastic," Bubas said. "I want to congratulate a tremendous team.

"I knew they had speed and I knew they had a good zone press, but until you see it on the court, you just can't realize how great it is."

Wooden said Washington's performance made him a poor prophet.

"At the end of his freshman year last year, I questioned whether he would be any help to us. But his play when we had to have it was tremendous," Wooden said of his star sophomore who scored 26 points, led the team in rebounding with 12 and generally sparked the Bruins' second half play.

Goodrich, a junior guard, scored 27 points, most of them in the first half.

Wooden said he felt UCLA had to play Duke "with pressure from end to end" of the court.

• • • •

UCLA'S all-America Walt Hazzard, who fouled out with 6:14 left for the first time in his career, also came in for some of Wooden's praise.

"Hazzard has gotten the publicity and he deserved it," the UCLA coach said.

"But the type of press we put on can't have a weak link anywhere," he added, in reference to UCLA's over-all team play.

Wooden laughed when asked if he thought he would find himself in this same situation next year.

"I doubt it, but we will have a good team. We've got three starters (Goodrich, Keith Erickson and Washington) returning."

115-104 LOSS

Hawks' Surge Trips Lakers in NBA Playoff

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks came on with a strong finish in the closing minutes Saturday night to defat the Lakers, 115-104, in the opener of the National Basketball Association Western Division playoffs.

The Hawks went into the fourth period trailing by one point and when Dick Barnett added a basket, Los Angeles led 89-86.

TV (9) Tonight at 6

The Lakers were leading 93-92 when Don Nelson fouled out and St. Louis immediately took over the lead to stay on a basket by Chico Vaughn.

• • • •

JERRY WEST, who scored 35 points for Los Angeles, hit a free throw which put the Lakers one point behind, 97-96.

St. Louis added three successive baskets to take a seven-point lead, 103-96, until West connected for three points and Elgin Baylor added a basket to cut the Hawks' lead, 103-101.

Richie Guerin's free throw made it 104-101 but West scored for the Lakers who got possession of the ball until Wilkens stole it under the Los Angeles basket, tossed to Cliff Hagan who put St. Louis ahead 106-103.

From there on, West was able to score only a free throw while the Hawks sank a total of nine points for the victory.

The Hawks took a nine-point 32-23 first-period lead and Baylor's basket at the buzzer put Los Angeles ahead, 58-57, at halftime.

Baylor with 30 and Barnett with 15 points were the other Los Angeles players in double figures.

Hagan was high for St. Louis at 27 and four others hit in double figures—Zelmo Beaty with 23, Bob Pettit 21, Wilkens 19, and Guerin 14.

The second game of the best three-out-of-five playoffs also will be played here tonight. The third game switches to Los Angeles Wednesday and the fourth, if necessary, at Los Angeles Saturday.

Perfect Year for Bruins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — UCLA's blistering fast Bruins, directed by all-America Walt Hazzard, ripped into Duke with a devastating attack that beat the Blue Devils, 98-83, Saturday night and brought the Bruins the NCAA basketball championship.

The overwhelming victory before 10,864 howling fans in Municipal Auditorium and a national television audience capped a perfect season for the unbeaten Bruins, who gained their first national championship with their 30th straight victory.

UCLA's total of 98 points was a record in NCAA title play, compared with the 92 by LaSalle in 1954.

Bill Buntin led Michigan to a 100-90 victory over Kansas State for third place.

• • • •

THE BRUINS, shortest team in the final field with no starter over 6-foot-5, built their biggest victory on a blazing fast break, Hazzard's ball-handling and an aggressive press defense that had the Blue Devils bothered and bewildered.

The key to the victory was a string of 16 straight points reeled off in a span of three minutes, 51 seconds midway through the first half. That lifted the Bruins from a 30-29 deficit to a 43-30 advantage and for all intents and purposes the game was over.

The tall Blue Devils, the Atlantic Coast Conference champions, didn't get closer than 10 points again.

• • • •

THE BRUINS had heroes galore. Gail Goodrich, Hazzard's back court running mate; Ken Washington, a 6-3 jumping jack who came off the UCLA bench with a 26-point effort, and Jack Hirsch were among them.

Hazzard, however, was the main figure, directing the attack and producing assists by the handsful before he fouled out with 6:14 remaining.

Hirsch made two key steals

Blades Blast Seals, 7-2, Meet Denver in Playoffs

By AL LARSON

"It was pretty much a reversal of form. We did almost what they did to us up there," coach Alf Pike said after his Blades had lashed San Francisco, 7-2, Saturday night to clinch third place in the Western Hockey League.

A crowd of 8,590 watched L.A. close out its regular-season play by bombing the Seals for the seventh time in eight encounters on its home ice as well as run its season margin to 11-4-1.

Now that the Blades have their first 70 games out of the way, they can start thinking about the playoffs which open Wednesday night. L.A. travels to meet WHL-champion Denver in a best-of-seven series.

• • • •

SATURDAY'S victory, which pushed the Blades unbeaten streak at home to eight, was worth $3,360—or $150 per man. The fourth-place Seals received $1,509.

L.A. finished the regular campaign with 31 wins, 31 losses and 8 ties for 70 points. The Seals wound up three points back with a 32-35-3 mark.

San Francisco's defending Lester Patrick Cup playoff champs drew Portland in their first-round series, the winners of the semifinal go-rounds then meet in the finals.

When the Blades scored four goals in the opening period, it helped take the sting out of last Wednesday's 7-4 loss when the Seals scored five times in the first 10 minutes.

Six different Blades scored—something of a reversal in itself. L.A. came into its 70th match with the lowest number of goals scored in the league. Willie O'Ree led the way with two, while Howie Young, Marc Boileau, Leo LaBine, Norm Johnson and Marc Dufour pumped in solo goals.

Pike said "we've now got to convince the boys that they can win at Denver. We've only beaten them once there. Since we'll be playing Wednesday and Saturday at Denver U., I hope we can get in some practice Tuesday. This will be the first time we've played in that rink."

Pike also commented "Jack (Norris) lost his own shutout when he let Haley's (Len) shot get by him. After that, we just relaxed and didn't play too well."

Young, who saw his first action at left wing, said "it's kinda' fun going forward instead of always going backwards." The Blades' defenseman moved up to a front-line spot in the second period. "I wanted him in shape for the playoffs," said Pike. "Remember, he hasn't been on skates all week with that bad back."

The tenor of the match was set in the first minute of play when Con Madigan and Seal defenseman Larry McNabb got involved in a bitter tug-of-war. McNabb drew a double roughing penalty (4 minutes) while Madigan was socked two minutes—all of this with only 50 seconds elapsed.

A minute later, Frank Arnett was sent to the pokey for 12 minutes, which included a 10-minute misconduct violation.

By the time the fireworks had ended, a total of 33 minutes in penalties had been assessed against both teams in the first period of play. This was in contrast to Wednesday when the game was 29 minutes along before the first infraction was whistled.

L.A. came back in the middle session with two goals to forge ahead 6-0, and Boileau's shot at 6:33 in the final period made it 7-0.

Haley ruined Norris' shutout with 6:24 to go. Charley Burns connected at 17:58 to cap the scoring.

The Blades swept Star of the Night honors, with Young, O'Ree and Dufour as top votegetters.

Johnson was honored as L.A.'s most valuable player for the season. The veteran center also won the top offensive player award while Madigan was named best defensive player.

WBA SEEKING TO UNSEAT CASSIUS

MIAMI (UPI)—The Miami Herald quoted World Boxing Association president Ed Lassman Saturday night as saying that the WBA Executive Committee is being asked to vacate the world's heavyweight title of Cassius Clay.

In its Sunday edition, the Herald quoted Lassman as saying that he expected the committee to approve the request. He said he expected action to be taken within a week.

• • • •

LASSMAN, of Miami Beach, was quoted in the newspaper as giving two reasons for the action. First because Clay signed a contract with Intercontinental Promotions, in which Sonny Liston has an interest, to promote his future fights before he met Liston for the world heavyweight crown.

The second reason, Lassman was quoted as saying, was because "Clay's conduct has been unbecoming a champion and he is setting a very poor example for American youth."

Pay-TV Hornet's Nest

In composing a column recently on the merits of pay-television, this corner stirred another hornet's nest.

The clients seemed to be against it by a 2-1 margin, but they offered some quite legitimate arguments, as evidenced by this letter from Larry L. Gerner, 15725 Delcombre Ave., Paramount.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

"As I am quite interested in the aspects of pay-TV, your column was quite interesting, even though limited. I was glad to see a comment on the theater-backed 'Citizens Committee for Free TV,' an organization that has been amusing me greatly for the past few weeks. Your comment, 'Tonight: Championship fight $20 in the theater. Next time: $2 at home. So, what's wrong with pay-TV?' didn't quite complete the issue. I have been told there will be an initial installation fee and then a further monthly charge of $7. Whether or not this is so, no one seems willing to tell. Since many of my friends are interested, and since you are usually willing to show both sides on an issue we would appreciate it if you would fill us in on this matter and give us your opinion of whether or not the few really big events of the year justify paying this monthly fee."

Two other parties, who wished to remain anonymous, voiced these opinions:

"You talk very foolish when you say we should have pay-TV. How many could afford it? TV is all the enjoyment some bedridden folks have and many others enjoy it now that would not be able to afford it. It's OK for people like you to talk, but you are well and able to work. But do you ever consider how many who can just get by?"

And . . .

"How do you think older people can afford pay-TV? Sure you say there will be free TV, but for how long? If it once starts, soon it will all be pay. I work at the Naval Shipyard and you'd be surprised how many baseball fans there say they won't pay for any TV."

That's the way it went, through bundles of letters.

AS A RESULT, we again went to Bob MacLeod, former Dartmouth all-America who is a Subscription TeleVision (STV) official, for answers.

"Hank, you'll catch a lot of flack on a variety of subjects," began MacLeod. "The theater owners have a partyline that is a beauty!

"The senior citizens' complaint is part of it—shutins and hospital patients, too.

"For openers—this entire argument is founded upon the premise that STV will replace 'commercial' TV.

"This is the BIG LIE that is behind the campaign of FEAR that the theater boys are waging. Our function will be to add three new channels to existing television receivers.

"If senior citizens wanted to see the Clay-Liston fight, husband-wife attendance would have cost $20 in L.A. area theaters, plus the costs of getting there and other expenses of an evening out. If one senior citizen 'next time' has STV, he can invite a living room full of friends and all can watch for $2. Is this bad?"

"Regarding hospitals, we will announce a program of installation and service that will knock this argument into the fourth row, center bleachers! As to shutins, they still have everything they're now receiving PLUS the chance to get sports events, operas, ballets, concerts and OTHER attractions they couldn't possible attend personally.

"The big deal is the unprincipled FEAR technique that theater owners are using to intimidate the uninformed.

"Now the cost. Our charter subscribers fee will be $5. There will be no weekly charge for 52 weeks—a full year's trial. If at the end of this period the subscriber isn't happy, he calls and says 'get lost!'

"We don't think this will happen. We believe we can serve and satisfy our customers and reserve the right at the end of a full year of service to ask for $1 a week for maintenance and a schedule of bonus attractions that will be shown as a subscriber service.

"There will be NO commercials on Subscription TeleVision—ever!"

NATURALLY, I can't crystal ball into the future and predict what eventually will happen after pay-TV gets underway. I would be against pay-TV if I believed it would kill most of the free television we now view.

But I still sincerely think that pay-TV will offer us many top programs, sports and otherwise, that are not now being channelled into the living room.

In answer to Mr. Gerner, at this time I believe pay-TV is justified.

Most important, nobody is forcing anyone to subscribe to pay-TV.

Remember this, too: With no commercials on pay-TV, you can bet your life that the advertisers will do their utmost to maintain the present free television caliber. I'll leave it to your opinion whether THAT'S good or bad!

SHRUGS OFF '63 SLUMP

Thomas Has Eye on Ball, Angel Comeback in 1964

By ROSS NEWHAN
L. P-T Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS—As any Little Leaguer will tell you, the most important fundamental of the game may be summarized in six short words:

Keep your eye on the ball.

It's not that Lee Thomas took his eye off the ball last season; it's just that he couldn't see it.

This peripheral problem caused Thomas' batting average to dip 70 points from its robust .290 of 1962, found his home run total of 26 dwindling to nine and his runs-batted-in mark of 104 shrinking to 55.

The Angels plunged from third to ninth and reporters still have nerve enough to ask manager Bill Rigney, "Why?"

"I wasn't picking that ball up until it was almost on top of me, "revealed Thomas Saturday after San Francisco had defeated the Angels, 10-1. "You can't be a great hitter unless you see the ball from the moment it leaves the pitcher's hand. This is what made Williams and Musial outstanding hitters.

"It got so that I was concentrating so hard on the pitcher's hand that I was virtually hypnotized after he had thrown it. The next thing I knew the umpire was yelling 'strike three.'

"There was nothing wrong with my swing, I was just swinging late and everything. I was even popping the inside pitch, which is my money pitch, to leftfield. I struck out as if it was going out of style. At least 20 times I went for a bad pitch with two strikes simply because I didn't see it properly."

* * * *

THERE WAS nothing wrong with Thomas's eyes, although at times during the season-long slump the fiery 28-year old thought there might be something radically wrong with his mind.

"It was strictly a matter of bad habits," explained Thomas, who is hitting the ball with 1962 authority this spring and reading Joe Cronin's signature on the ball as soon as it leaves the pitcher's hand.

"Now, I'm seeing the ball and the result is I'm attacking it," said Thomas, who will be called on to fill the offensive slack created by Leon Wagner's dismissal. "I'm not worried about anything but the ball. If I follow the pitch my swing will take care of itself."

Thomas admits that his red-hot temper has often led to trouble with the umpires, but it played no part in keeping him mired in the slump.

"Everyone should have a little temper," said Thomas with a little wink. "Most of the good players occasionally show their emotions. I'd rather get mad on the field than pout on the bench."

Thomas estimated that a repeat of the 1962 performance would have brought him a $35,000 contract. However, he is most gratified to have received a repeat of his $24,000 pact.

"This club has always treated me good, and I feel I let everyone from the general manager to the bat boy down last year. Still, I didn't spend the winter moping. I always want to remember how it was, but my memory won't be such that it will affect my play this year.

"I realize I'm a key player on this club and I realize what my failure to get the 50 extra hits and 50 extra RBI last season means to the team.

"I have no goals, only to play 162 games. I'd like to repeat my 1962 performance, and I feel I'm capable. That year it wouldn't have taken much more for me to hit .300. I still feel I can hit .300."

Thomas will patrol the outfield on a full-time basis this season and had "no doubts" about his ability to do the job. "I have as good an arm as there is on the club," said Thomas. "I'm partial to first base, but the outfield is certainly more relaxing."

Having seen Lee Thomas throw a golf club through a screen fence and wrap one around a tree limb, and having seen Lee Thomas sit in a clubhouse splintering a bat, it is comforting to know that there will not be a little more relaxation in his life.

ANGEL ANGLES: The rampaging Giants made it eight exhibition wins in a row before an overflow crowd of 4,103, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower . . . Jesse Marshall, allowing only one hit in five innings, was the winning pitcher. The loss went to Dean Chance, who was touched for 10 hits and seven runs in five frames . . . San Francisco continues to lead the Cactus League with a record of 12-1 while the Angels have dropped below the .500 mark at 6-7 . . . Leading the Giant attack were rookie outfielders Jesus Alou and Arte Engel . . . Alou, younger brother of baseball's Felipe and Matty, had five hits in six trips, for three runs and batted in another . . . Engel went two-for-four with two runs scored and three runs batted in. He connected for the game's only home run, a two-run shot off Angel rookie Lee Manuelite in the fourth . . . Another big swinger for the Giants was veteran Harvey Kuenn, with three-for-five, including two doubles . . . The Angels collected their only run in the ninth on singles by Charlie Dees, Jay Johnstone and Tom Satriano.

Yogi a Serious, Dignified Pilot

By GEORGE LEDERER
L. P-T Staff Writer

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla.—Contrary to popular belief, Yogi Berra does not read comic books, pass out exploding cigars or tie tin cans to a cat's tail.

The new manager of the Yankees still enjoys a gag but, in general, Lawrence Peter Berra is as serious and dignified as a Madison Ave. executive. What's more, he wears a flannel suit, the only difference being the distinguished and distinguishable pin stripes of the perennial American League champions.

Berra acts every bit the part of a manager. He has acquired the unshakable confidence of his predecessor, Ralph Houk, not to mention the cigar.

"I gave up cigarettes for lent," Berra explained, "but I don't smoke many of these things. I hate 'em, but they ease that craving for the butts." He laughed and added, "Maybe they make me look more like a manager."

* * * *

THERE WAS little managing involved Saturday when the Yankees punctured the invincible armor Sandy Koufax carried in the World Series. The Yankees, their October lineup intact, won the fifth game, 5-3, after a delay of five months.

Koufax allowed his first runs and walks of the spring and Roger Maris hit his first home run.

Berra took considerable ribbing.

"Would you like a World Series rematch with the Dodgers?"

The question was obvious, as was the answer.

"Let's take first things first," said Berra.

But the presence of Mantle, Maris, Howard, Kubek, Tresh and Richardson would make Milton Berle a confident manager. Berra revels in the role.

"This is fun," said Berra. "Of course, I may change my mind during the season."

Few doubt that Berra will have to change his thinking.

"He's going to do all right," said Joe DiMaggio, who still wears the familiar No. 5 as a Yankee batting instructor in the spring. "I learned long ago never to sell Yogi short.

"I remember the first time I paid any attention to him. He joined us late in 1946 and I was never aware of him until I saw this peculair-looking creature waddling to the plate for his first swing in batting practice.

"One swing and—boom! He hit the first pitch into the seats. That's when I began to pay attention to him and I haven't stopped since."

DIS AND DATA—Koufax allowed five runs, three earned, on seven hits and trailed 5-0 after two innings . . . Al Downing, loser in the second game of the World Series, held the Dodgers to two singles and first answered only in five innings . . . SPRING ROUNDUP

Colts Explode--With Some Help

By Associated Press

The normally weak-hitting Houston Colts rapped out 19 hits and walloped the Minnesota Twins' B team, 17-1, Saturday with the help of four errors by rookie outfielder Jeff Talbott.

In other exhibition action, Boston trounced Cleveland, 10-1, as Red Sox ace Bill Monbouquette went seven innings, the St. Louis Cards edged Kansas City, 3-2; Philadelphia beat Washington, 4-0; the New York Mets whipped the Chicago White Sox, 8-1; Milwaukee beat the Minnesota A team, 9-8, in 12 innings and Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati, 6-5, in 14 innings.

The Colts had their biggest outbreak of the spring against the Twins, while Talbott's four errors in right field let in six Houston runs. He dropped two fly balls and let two base hits get through him.

Catcher Bob Tillman drove in four runs with a homer and a double for the Red Sox. Relief ace Dick Radatz finished up after Monbouquette became the first Red Sox pitcher to go seven innings.

Lew Burdette went five innings for the Cards and gave up solo homers to Gino Cimoli and Jim Gentile.

Jim Bunning and Ryne Duren combined on a two-hitter for the Phils. Bunning went the first six against the Senators and gave up both hits, singles. Duren allowed only two walks in the last three innings.

* * * *

THREE METS, Ron Hunt, Rob Taylor and Frank Thomas, had three hits each as the Mets rose up against the White Sox.

The Braves got the winning run home in the 12th inning on a sacrifice fly by rookie infielder Lee Bales. They battled back from a 6-0 deficit to give the Twins their second defeat of the day.

Montreal Has NHL Lead; Title Deciders Today

Compiled From Wire Reports

The Montreal Canadiens, driving for their sixth National Hockey League championship in seven years, took over first place in the next-to-the-last game of the season Saturday night with a 5-1 victory over the Boston Bruins.

The Canadiens, who play at New York in their final game today, hold a one-point edge, 83-82, over the Chicago Black Hawks, who finish their regular season at Boston.

The Toronto Maple Leafs clinched a third-place finish as they scored twice in the third period for a 5-3 win over the Detroit Wings in a game in which 23 penalties were called.

After Montreal's Billy Hicke and Boston's Jerry Toppazzini traded first period goals, the Canadiens took charge. Andre Boudrais' first NHL goal, on a power play, broke the tie at 3:40 of the middle session and then Dave Balon and Jean Beliveau scored inside of a minute and three seconds late in the period.

Boudrais, playing in his third game, assisted on the Canadiens, fifth goal scored by John Ferguson midway through the third period.

Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge, in a tight battle with Chicago's Glenn Hall and Toronto's Johnny Bower for the Vezina Trophy, stopped the Bruins after Topppazzini's goal and it tied for the goalie trophy with Hall. Each has allowed 166 goals in 69 games.

Baseball in Pay Boom

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The cost of putting a big league baseball team on the field has gone up considerably during the past 25 years.

And the players' salaries have had a lot to do with it.

Thirty-three or 6.6 per cent of the major leaguers will earn $40,000 or more this season.

Twenty-five years ago, Joe DiMaggio's salary with the New York Yankees was $25,000 and Terry Moore of the St. Louis Cardinals, another star center fielder, was getting $12,000.

The 1964 salary derby is topped by two other center fielders, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks. Mays will get $105,000 and Mantle $100,000.

Milwaukee will pay veteran pitcher Warren Spahn $85,000 while Don Drysdale will collect $71,000 and Sandy Koufax $70,000 for pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Roger Maris of the Yankees, who hit 61 homers in 1961, took a $7,500 salary cut this year. But he's still well up there with a $65,000 contract.

Whitey Ford, the Yanks' star southpaw, moved up into the $62,000 class after accepting the added burden of a pitching coach.

Elston Howard, the Yank catcher and the American League's most valuable player last season, was boosted to $60,000. This put him in the same bracket as Milwaukee's Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews and Detroit's Al Kaline.

Outfielder Rocky Colavito of Kansas City took a $4,000 cut to $50,000. Others who signed at the same figure were Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, Frank Robinson of Cincinnati, Maury Wills of the Dodgers, Orlando Cepeda of the Giants and Dick Groat and Ken Boyer of St. Louis.

The Yanks have the most players earning $40,000 or more. They have six. The Dodgers are next with five.

Man to Man

WYNN DORIS

By JERRY WYNN

"Watch the game, dear." The words are nudged into my ribs by my wife.

"What game?" I reply hazily.

You see, it's not that I have anything against Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and the boys when I attend games of the Lakers. I prefer Doris Day.

America's sweetheart with her smile and sparkle and song, Doris will be seated front-row center as usual when the Lakers clash with the St. Louis Hawks in NBA playoff games at the L.A. Sports Arena Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Are you proud to be known as the Lakers' No. 1 fan, Doris?

"I didn't know that I was considered the No. 1 fan, but if I am—yes, I'm very proud and happy. I'm also delighted to see that attendance has increased at the games this season. I feel that we should support our team, and I only wish that more people knew how great basketball really is."

Who is your favorite player on the Lakers?

"This is very difficult to answer. I can only say that each man, as an individual, contributes something great in his own way.

"I think Elgin Baylor is a brilliant athlete. He seems to do everything right and so effortlessly. Jerry West is on a par with Baylor. I feel that Dick Barnett is not only a great athlete, he brings humor to the game as well. Rudy LaRusso is a scrapper. All I can say is I'm very happy when he is in there.

"Jimmy Krebs is playing wonderful basketball now, and I've always felt that Frank Selvy contributes so much to the team. This season, I feel that Jim King has brought so much spirit to the team. Then we have Ellis, Wiley, Reed and Nelson, who also have been so necessary to the Lakers.

"I know you asked me to mention a favorite player, but it's impossible. I think of the Lakers as a team, and that's what makes them so great."

Who is your favorite coach?

"Fred Schaus has done a fantastic job coaching our beloved Lakers. I marvel at his poise during the games. I know that he has the admiration and respect of all Laker fans. I'd like also to mention Chick Hearn. He's not only a very nice person, but a truly great and inspired announcer."

Have you found any "leading man" types among the players?

"Actually I haven't thought about it. That would be my husband's job, anyway."

Do you feel sorry for the officials when they are booed by the fans?

"Are you kidding? I'm the one who boos the loudest! It's nothing personal, however. They're all nice guys."

Have you participated in sports?

"There's nothing I like better in this world. I played basketball and baseball in school. Since coming to California, I'm playing tennis and volleyball and I water ski and swim almost daily. My next project is snow skiing. Actually, I think my husband would rather wait until I retire. You can understand why!"

Which do you read first, the sports or society pages of a newspaper?

"I didn't know there was a society page."

Have you thought of a fight song for the Lakers?

"I'm not a songwriter, but I think we should have one for next season."

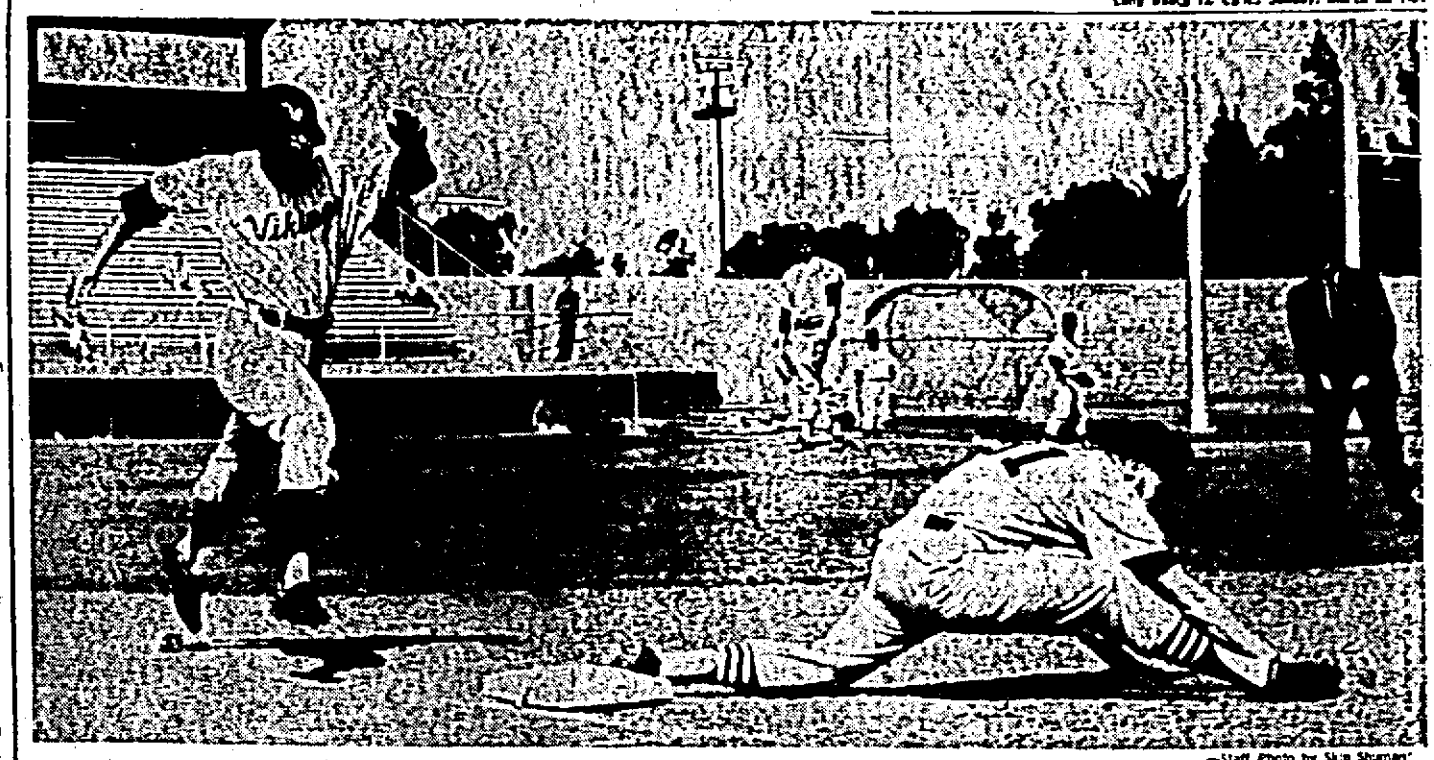

Do you ever get tired of signing autographs for kids during the games?

"Actually, I don't because it is handled very nicely. They only approach me during the rest periods, and, of course, that isn't a bother at all. I'm delighted that they want my autograph!"

The Lakers finished in third place. Will they rise back to the heights in the playoffs?

"That's a negative question because they haven't really fallen. You can't win them all, and regardless of what spot they finish, they're still the greatest!"

And so is Doris Day.

LBCC's Rich Lawrence is out by step as El Camino completes double play Saturday

Vikes Hammer 2 Wins

By GARY RAUSCH

The Long Beach City College Vikings are no more. They're now the Kardiac Kids and Bart Hammer is their leader.

Hammer, the muscular third baseman from Milli-kan High, shot the Vikings into a first-place tie in the Metropolitan Conference standings Saturday with game-deciding hits in LBCC's 1-0 and 3-2 victories over El Camino.

A small, frozen Blair Field crowd saw Bart hammer out a sharp single to left with two down in the ninth inning that drove in Chuck Williamson for the opening win.

In the nightcap William-son got his third hit of the game with one out. Don Keel walked and was forced at second, sending Williamson to third.

So in the identical situation as the first game, Hammer went to right field with the second of Don Coil's servings for a single with Williamson again tallying the decider.

Long Beach has now won nine of 11 games. Two have been by two-run cushions and five others by a single run, causing some pulsating moments for coach Bill Hatch and Viking followers.

All the credit can't go to Hammer, however, as Jim Parks notched his third win on a nifty two-hitter and Mike Linck ran his record to 2-1, scattering seven hits and fanning eight.

Bradley NIT Champion for 3rd Time

Lobos No Match for Torrid Braves

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bradley's bumptious Braves beat New Mexico at its own defensive game in the first half and then poured it on in the final 20 minutes to win the National Invitation Basketball Tournament for a record-equalling third time, 86-54, Saturday in a runaway title game.

A crowd of 15,137 at Madison Square Garden and a national television audience watched Bradley blank New Mexico from the floor for almost 10 minutes in the first half.

During that period, from the 10:15 mark until 19:40 when Dick Ellis finally broke the ice for the Lobos with a basket, the Braves from Peoria, Ill., spurted to a 33-22 lead.

• • • •

NEW MEXICO, which led the nation in defense during the regular season, limiting its opposition to 55 points per game, was hurt early when Ira (The Large) Harge, the Lobos' leading rebounder, picked up two personal fouls in the first 90 seconds and was taken out of the game at the eight-minute mark when he drew his third infraction.

In the next six minutes, while the 6-8 Harge sat idly on the bench, Bradley went on a 12-2 tear to open a 27-17 lead. The Braves never looked back thereafter.

State Spikemen Trounce Diablos

By JOHN DIXON

Long Beach State's Goliaths of college-division track and field presented indisputable evidence that they can compete on a major-school level by crushing Los Angeles State, 97-47, Saturday on the 49er field.

Jack Rose's stalwarts established five meet records, set two best-of-the-year marks and produced a host of individual seasonal bests while scoring their third successive dual meet rout.

The 49ers showed so much that L.A. State's learned coach, Jim Crakes, with tongue in cheek called it "a moral victory—we held them under 100 points."

The major achievements were chalked up by old-timer Dee Andrews and newcomer George Frenn.

Andrews breezed through the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in 37.6, top time in the nation this year.

The solidly-constructed senior seems a cinch to better his 1963 peak of 36.5, which ranked second in the U.S. and remains the fastest time ever run by a junior.

It wasn't a one-event day for the former Poly High and Long Beach City College record cracker, though.

Andrews also won the long jump (23-5½) and high hurdles (15.0) and was second in the triple jump (43-¼). He took only a single try in the jump events, and his 120 hurdles win was a repeat of an earlier victory in 14.4. The re-run was held because starter Chet Prosser's recall gun jammed.

• • • •

DEE COMMENTED, "It was a good day; I'm getting in shape. The 330 felt good, but I let up and know I can run faster."

Frenn, like Andrews an Olympic team candidate, threw the hammer 196-7, well beyond his own school record of 186-0, and the longest sail in the U.S. this season.

He also had a winning discus toss of 155-9½, five feet better than his former 1964 pinnacle.

Other 49er meet record breakers were Ralph Lee, 1:53.0 880; Darryl Taylor, 4:15.0 mile; John Rambo, 6-6 high jump, and Kent Parson, 14-2¼ pole vault. Dave Shirley equalled the 440 record of 48.4.

Bill Pace of Los Angeles, formerly of L.B. City College, set a shotput record of 53-2½.

Bielefeld whiffed 14 batters in going the route for the fourth time. Perry spun a four-hitter for his first victory.

Big Don Anderson continued his hot hitting with 5-for-8, running his season average to .509—28-for-55.

Long Beach made five hits go a long way in the opener, then exploded for 14 safeties in the nightcap as the 49ers collected eight runs in the final three innings.

Rick Bryson slugged a two-run homer in the fifth to give LBSC a 3-2 margin, then his single brought home another pair in the sixth. Barry Wallace tripled home two in the seventh.

LBSC now boasts an 11-4 record.

WEST COAST TRACK ROUNDUP

Poynter Hero in Development Meet

(Compiled from Wire Services)

Santa Clara Valley Youth Village sprinter Bobby Poynter, bucking a 30-mile wind, turned in a sprint double Saturday.

But Poynter's much-heralded duel with Oregon's Harry Jerome failed to materialize in an Olympic development meet at Sacramento State.

Jerome stayed home with the flu as Poynter won the 100 in 9.7 and the 220 in 21.6. Jerome is co-holder of the world 100-meter record.

Former Oregon star Keith Forman bypassed the steeplechase to take an easy win the half mile in 1:52.7.

Stanford rolled to an 80-65 track and field victory over Fresno State at Fresno's wind-whipped Ratcliff Stadium.

Fresno's 440-yard relay team of Marvin Bryan, Charles Craig, Sid Nikolas and Darel Newman scampered to a 40.6 clocking for the only meet record and one of the nation's speediest times.

Oregon State opened its track and field season with an 82-63 victory over California at Corvallis.

California took all but a single point in the high jump, broad jump and javelin but the Staters took 10 firsts to Cal's seven and showed good all around depth.

Best efforts of the day were 170-6½ in the discus by Oregon State's Lou Fasano and 56-2½ by State's Lahsen Samsam, a foreign student from Morocco.

UCLA sprinters outran competition in the longer events to take a non-league triangular track meet from the University of California at Santa Barbara and Cal Poly at San Louis Obispo.

Bruin victories in the 880-yard relay, mile run, two-mile run and mile relay, plus a first in the discus event, sewed up the meet for UCLA with 73 points to Cal Poly's 59 and Santa Barbara's 48.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Southern California, defending national track champions, captured first places in 10 of 17 events Saturday night while winning a triangular meet with Arizona State University and the University of Arizona.

Sports Is Battleground of Pay TV

The fantastic package TV deals received by the two pro football leagues recently were more than just bidding contests among the networks to gain prime attraction.

It was the first broadside in a major battle developing between free TV and subscription television.

The plains of the sports world is where this battle is being first fought . . . for subscription television's biggest appeal in the beginning will be sports.

Here in California, for instance, it will be the Dodger and Giant games, but later would include those of the Angels, Rams, Blades, Lakers, etc., in Southern California as well as national headline events.

The networks, meanwhile, are striving to keep the major sports events for themselves. The ratings show that sports events are among the most successful show on TV.

FOR INSTANCE, SOME OF THE highest rated shows in television history has been a Sunday game of the World Series, seen in 20,260,000 homes across the country, and several football attractions.

Football generally is the favorite sport of TV viewers. After the World Series (Sunday) on the list of most popular televised sporting events come eight gridiron games before the Kentucky Derby breaks into the No. 10 spot.

The Rose Bowl, for instance, is seen annually in over 16 million homes; the NFL title game by around 14 million; the NFL's Thanksgiving Day game, 12 million; the NFL Runnerup Bowl, 12 million, the Sugar Bowl, 10 million, and so on.

The mathematics are staggering when you begin to think of these events on pay television. Or any event, for that matter.

AT THE TIME OF CBS' amazing $28.2 million bid to telecast National Football League games for the next two years, there seemed to be little hope that the network would be able to break even on the deal since commercial time before had sold as high as $65,000 a minute for regular games and $100,000 for the championship playoff.

However, it appeared that the network was willing to take a loss for the prestige of showing the NFL games and also to help ward off the arrival of pay TV.

But free television has scored a big victory in its first move against the pay TV forces. A trade paper has revealed that CBS already has sold all of its time on the NFL telecasts for '64 at rates which indicate a gross of $40 million for the two years . . . a sum that would produce a net profit of around $5 million for the network.

NBC's $35 million deal with the AFL to telecast its games for five years beginning in 1965 was another victory for free TV.

HOWEVER, IT HASN'T AS YET stemmed the tide towards pay TV, which is set to get under way in California by July with subscription telecasts of the Dodger games in an initial area in Santa Monica and the Giant games in San Francisco.

Each area will be equipped with about 10,000 sets by that time. The telephone strike delayed installation. It is estimated it will take about five years to fully install equipment in most homes in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Meanwhile, foes of subscription television appear to have won their battle to put the question before the state's voters as to whether they want to pay for their television.

A measure to repeal a law rushed through the '63 Legislature permitting pay TV through a telephone hookup with home sets will be on the ballot Nov. 3.

THERE IS NO DOUBT BUT what pay TV will be attractive to many people due to the promise of first-run motion pictures, theatrical productions and a greater selection of sports events.

But it also means a greater expenditure to the individual . . . and an even greater battle for the scarce entertainment dollar.

It has been estimated that the entertainment cost of pay TV to the average family will multiply to as much as $1,000 a year.

It is not difficult to see where a family would spend that much or more on pay TV. That's an average of $20 a week.

In one small, but successful pay TV operation in Hartford, Conn., some 5,000 homes are serviced and the average cost a year for movies, sports and specials—limited at this time—is around $120.

At first, the programs offered in Southern California over the limited setup will cost a family about $150 if it watched most of the major attractions . . . plus $10 for installation and $1 a week more for maintenance.

WHILE PAY TV WOULD HURT free television, theaters and the smaller sports attractions . . . it would be a gold mine for the sports promoters whose events are telecast.

Walter O'Malley and Horace Stoneham moved the Dodgers and Giants West in 1958 because of the vast money potential in California . . . made even greater by the prospect of pay TV.

Foremost among the six principal stockholders of Subscription Television, Inc., of course, are the Dodgers and Giants.

Thus, Dodger Stadium and Candlestick Park will become the most expensive television studios in history . . . if the public wants to pay for its TV instead of getting it for free!

Casper Nabs Lead With 67 in Doral Golf

Nicklaus Drops Back to 3rd Spot

MIAMI (AP)—Plump Billy Casper shot a five-under-par 67 on a wet course and in gusty winds Saturday to surge from seventh place to the lead in the third round of the $50,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Casper's 54-hole score of 207, nine under par for the 7,028-yard course, dislodged Jack Nicklaus, Rex Baxter and Bob Shave who had shared the top spot.

CASPER

Baxter took an even par 72 and dropped a stroke behind Casper at 208. Jack Rule, riding a 68 up the ladder, went into a three-way deadlock for third place with Nicklaus and Shave, who settled for 73s.

For the bulk of the field, scores ran higher than Friday when Nicklaus, Baxter and Butch Baird broke the course record with 66s.

Saturday play was delayed for almost an hour at midday by a drenching rain.

• • • •

CASPER SHOT eight birdies and three bogeys during a strong, but erratic round.

The 32-year-old Casper, winner of the Doral inaugural two years ago, launched his round by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt following a sharp recovery when his tee shot landed behind a tree. He also birdied the second with a six-foot putt.

Victory in the Doral would bring Casper a $7,500 prize, by far the biggest he has managed this year. Although he has won 21 titles on the tour, including the 1959 U.S. Open, his game has produced only $2,612 this year.

Sam Snead and Joe Lopez, an unemployed club pro from Miami, wound up the third round in a tie for sixth at 210 after rounds of 73 and 72, respectively. Both are 51.

Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, who with Nicklaus have made up "The Big Three," were far behind.

National AAU Cage Play at Denver Today

DENVER, Colo. (Special) — Long Beach's Opinion Research basketball team takes a big step up in competition today when play opens in the National AAU tournament.

The Southern California champions meet Say-On Stores of Ogden, Utah, in the tournament's second game at 11 a.m. (PST).

Ogden has a lineup of Troy Collier, 6-8 center for Utah State's NCAA regional semi-finalists at Corvallis, Ore., last weekend; Terry Tebbs, the 5-9 flash from Brigham Young; Jim Lyons, 6-3 sharpshooter who earned Little all-America honors at Weber State; Art Crump from Idaho State and Ted Smith of Utah State.

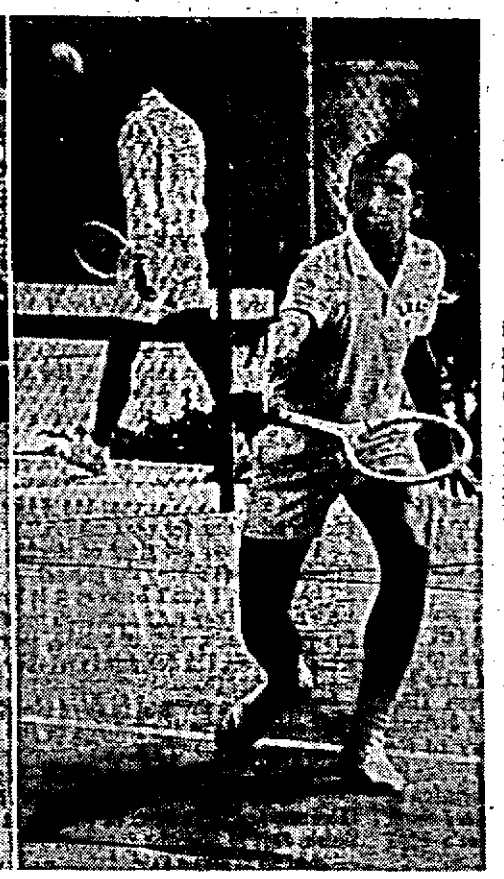

In an exhibition tuneup last week Ogden outgunned a team featuring 6-10½ AAU veteran Terry Rand, 131-107, and Lyons scored 39 points.

If Opinion Research gets by that awesome obstacle, it runs right into the top-seeded Phillips Oilers at 6 p.m. (PST) Monday night—unless, of course, the defending champions are upset by the St. Louis All-Stars in the first round.

The Goodyear Wingfoots of Akron, Ohio, are seeded second, the Service Jets third and the Lincoln Liberty Lifers of Lubbock, Tex., fourth.

First round pairing (all times Pacific Standard): 2:30 p.m.—Goodyear Wingfoots, Akron, O., vs. Carlos Peters Business College, Wash.; 11 a.m.—Opinion Research, Long Beach, Calif., vs. San Jose Morvics, Ogden, Utah; 12:30 p.m.—Federal Oil Line Insurance, Seattle, vs. Marion-Key, Brownston, Ind.; 2 p.m.—Service Jets vs. Hetherington-Moore, Norman, Okla.; 4:30 p.m.—Phillips 66, Bartlesville, Okla., vs. St. Louis All-Stars; 6 p.m.—San Francisco AC vs. Capitol Federal Sayings, Denver; 7:30 p.m.—Jamaco Saints vs. Tennessee State U.; 9 p.m.—Lincoln Liberty Lifers vs. Al Maroone's Ford.

RACQUET WIN FOR 49ER

Ken Stuart of Long Beach State College (left) returns to John Cheney of San Diego State (right) on way to 6-4, 6-8, 6-4 victory in consolation finals of LBSC's Spring Tennis Classic Saturday.

Peps in Classic Victory

By BOB MARTIN

Powerful Pepperdine goes into the record books as winner of Long Beach State College's first Spring Tennis Classic.

The Waves edged out Redlands, 5-4, Saturday in the finals of the two-day tournament which featured six strong net teams from three conferences.

Keith Nielson of Long Beach, Gene Waters of Bellflower and Bob Kerbo of Lakewood are members of the six-man championship team. Also representing the Waves were Lafayette Allen, a Negro star from Los Angeles who plays No. 1; Bob Lansdorp, a Dutch native now of San Diego, No. 2; and George Bentley from British Columbia.

The host LBSC team whipped San Diego State, 7-2, in a battle of first-round losers for the consolation trophy.

Los Angeles State, the reigning NCAA college division national champion and seeded No. 1 in the meet, was eliminated in Saturday morning's semifinals by Redlands, 5-4. The Diablos won the top three singles matches and the No. 5 singles, but Redlands took the other two singles and all three doubles.

• • • •

THE OUTCOME of the championship finals between Pepperdine and Redlands also rested on the doubles matches, as the two teams broke even in singles. Pepperdine won the first and third to clinch the title, and Waters-Nielsen, playing No. 2 doubles, defaulted after splitting the first two sets of their match.

Some extremely long and hard-fought matches featured the day's play. Waters was involved in the longest set as he beat Bill Carroll of UC Santa Barbara, 18-16, 8-6, in a morning semifinal contest. In the same team match, Lansdorp edged out Don Gaynor of UCSB, 10-12, 7-5, 9-7.

Tournament director Dan Campbell, the LBSC coach, plans to make the meet an annual affair. Results:

U.S. Skiers Continue to Sparkle

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP)—Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., successfully defended a skiing title for the second time in two days Saturday, posting the best time of any U.S. entrant in the giant slalom event at the National Alpine Championships.

Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., won first place in the men's competition.

Miss Saubert actually was beaten by Pia Riva of Italy, who is not eligible for the national title because she is not a United States citizen.

• • • •

U.S. OLYMPIANS again took most of the top places, but did not quite repeat Friday's near-shutout.

Bud Werner, last year's national giant slalom champion, lost his title to Kidd, but his third place run in 1:54.0, along with a third in the downhill, put him in a good position for a shot at the combined championship if his time is fast in today's slalom.

Ferraris 1-2-3 at Sebring Amid Flaming Pileups

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—A new hot Ferrari racing team of Mike Parkes of England and Umberto Maglioli of Italy won the Sebring 12-hour Grand Prix of Endurance Saturday.

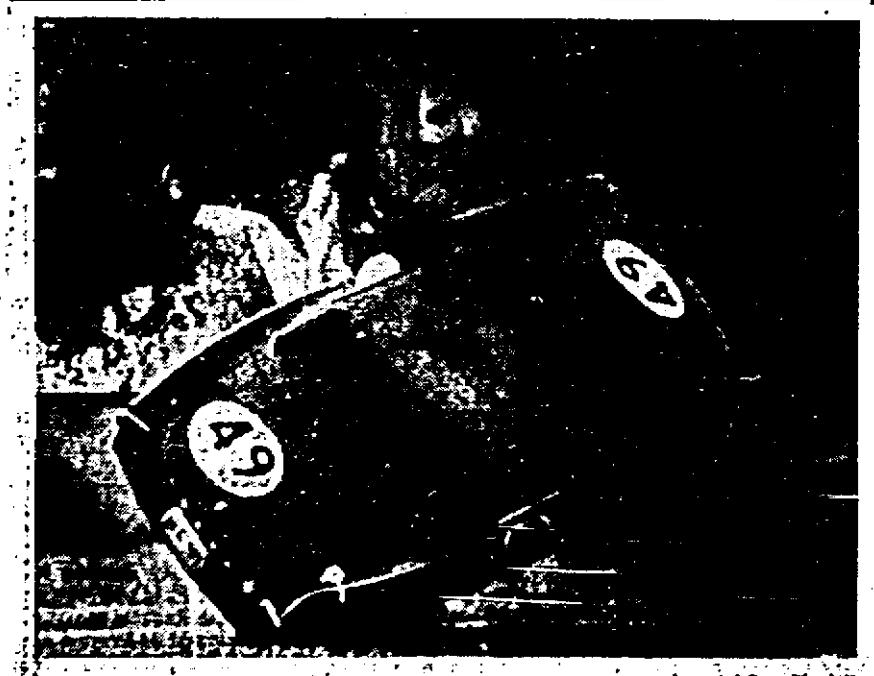

They unofficially drove a record distance despite a flaming collision of two other cars less than an hour before the end which brought out the yellow caution flag.

Ferraris finished in the first three places. All three were 12-cylinder prototype cars. Ford Cobra's production models were the next three unofficially even though one of the Cobras was in the spectacular wreck.

The average speed of the winner was about 92 miles per hour, bettering the old record of 90.7 m.p.h.

The first 12 finishers:

1. Ferrari 3-liter prototype, Mike Parkes-Umberto Maglioli, (91.364 miles per hour).
2. Ferrari 4-liter prototype, Lodovico Scarfiotti-Nino Vaccarella, (one lap behind).
3. Ferrari 4-liter prototype, John Surtees-Lorenzo Bandini, (two laps behind).
4. Cobra Coupe, GT, Bob Holbert-Dave McDonald, (five laps behind).
5. Cobra GT, Lee Spencer-Bob Bondurant, (9 laps behind).
6. Cobra GT, Jo Schlesser-Phil Hill, (11 laps behind).
7. Ferrari Berlinetta GT, David Piper-Pedro Rodriguez, (13 laps behind).
8. Cobra GTK, Harold Keck-Robert Scott, (16 laps behind).
9. Porsche 904 prototype, Briggs Cunningham-Lake Underwood, (19 laps behind).
10. Ferrari 250 GT, Don Wester-Bruce Jennings, (24 laps behind).
11. Porsche-Abarth, Carrera, Chuck Cassel-Don Sesser, (25 laps behind).
12. Ferrari Berlinetta GT, Pete Grossman-Richard Thompson, (28 laps behind).

ANCHORS RELAY, RUNS 13.7 AND 18.5

McCullough Sizzles, Gives Poly Tie for Spike Title

By DOUG IVES

Sensational Earl McCullough blazed 13.7 and 18.5 in the hurdles and ran a sizzling anchor leg in the relay that earned Poly High a share of the title with Muir in the 43rd Southern Counties track and field meet at Westminster Saturday.

Although the 13.7 highs equalled a national record and the 18.5 lows tied the meet standard, neither will go in the record book due to 5.8 and 6-1-mph winds. The allowable limit is 4.4.

McCullough did earn plenty of self-satisfaction, however, as he roared from five yards behind to score a four-foot win in the 880 relay that gave Poly 42 points, equal that of favored Muir.

The Poly swifty also was named co-athlete of the meet with Paul Wilson, the Warren pole vaulter who shattered the only meet mark with a 14-7¾ effort. He missed thrice at 15-2.

Poly's points were compiled by McCullough (10), Manuel Murrell (9), Al Nichols (5), Larry Freeman (5), the relay team (5), Ron Wilson (3), Ron Sommer (2), Rick Anderson (1), Tom Halpin (1) and John Hubbell (1).

Murrell was the most surprising performer. He won the long jump on his last effort at 23-4½ and was runner-up in the lows at 19.2—nearly a full second better than his previous best.

Freeman was a winner in the high jump at 6-4¾, just missing 6-6¾. Nichols, with less than a week of workouts, won a half-mile heat by a nose in 1:58.9. Compton's Devonne Smith was a graceful victor in the other trial in 1:55.7 — three-tenths off a meet mark.

• • • •

IT WAS a banner day for Long Beach as 18 spikers (nine from Poly) scored points. Millikan miler Charles Webb turned in a dandy 4:22.3 for a second-place finish.

Ram soph Mike Kuhn ran a 49.7 quarter, Lakewood got a 54-5½ shotput heave from Harold Olmstead and a 22-10½ long jump from Bob Hanrahan and Wilson's Bob Deeds ran third in a 9.9 century. A muscle pulled kept him from the 220 after a 21.2 heat victory.

Other L.B. pointmakers were Wilson pole vaulter Larry Laufenberg and miler Hartzell Alpizar, Jordan quarter-miler Jim Buck and Millikan half-miler Ralph Spicer. Millikan tied for fourth behind Compton and Chaffey with 10 points.

Muir was led by Tim Kearnin, who did 61-8½ in the shot, miler Rex Whittle, who clocked 4.18.8, and sprinter Harold Busby, who won the 220 in 21.1 and ran second in the 100 in 9.7.

Crespi's Steve Caminiti was a double winner in the small schools' hurdles with 41.1 and 18.8 times. The 41.1—run with 4.1-mph wind—was good enough to tie a meet record.

MET REFUGEE CRAIG MEETS CASEY AGAIN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Casey Stengel ambled across Al Lang Field to a smattering of applause. Even the bifocal set could recognize the old boy with No. 37 on his back.

A knot of St. Louis Cardinals, deep in conversation about the dinner menu, the weather and the No. 2 dog at Derby Lane, broke up to salute the "perfessor." Stengel stepped back and threw up both hands in mock surprise at seeing Roger Craig in the camp of the enemy.

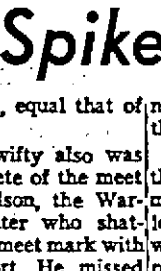

"How were things in Mexico?" Craig asked.

"Not bad but the infield was torn up with three teams using it," said Stengel. "My men would field grounders like this (he gave an imitation of a man trying to catch a ball while shying away at a 90-degree angle).

Stengel was asked why he didn't have a top relief man.

"I told you fellows Craig oughta been on relief. If the Cardinals get in trouble, he'll be a two-way man over there.

"Relief pitcher? When I came here I never had a starting pitcher."

Recommendations for Hunting Dates

California hunters need not expect any major changes in the hunting dates and regulations this year. The Department of Fish and Game already has filed its recommendations with the Fish and Game Commission, which will have a public hearing (the first of three) at Sacramento April 3.

There is a slight foulup on the inland deer season. The coastal or early deer season would be from Aug. 1 through Sept. 20. The inland season would be from Sept. 19 through Nov. 3, with the exception of Modoc, Lassen, eastern Shasta and Siskiyou Counties, where the season would be from Sept. 21 through Oct. 13.

That area became involved in a legislative hassle at Sacramento last year and Pauline Davis, chairwoman of the Assembly's Fish and Game Committee moved successfully to take control of those countries from the Fish and Game Commission.

That means that hunters may have only three weekends in that particular area and they must not kill any deer that doesn't have three points or more. So much for the deer. Let's look at some of the other seasons.

Coastal archery deer, July 11 through 26. Inland archery deer, Aug. 19 through Sept. 13, and in the Pauline Davis-controlled area, Aug. 13 through Sept. 15.

PHEASANT SEASON, MOVED BACK last year to aid the rice harvests, which were late, again will be later this year, Nov. 21 through Dec. 6, with the usual bag limit of two per day and 10 for the season. In eastern Riverside and Imperial Counties the season would run from Nov. 21 through Dec. 20, with the same bag limit.

Bear, Sept. 19 through Jan. 3, with a limit of two. Archery season, Aug. 29 through Sept. 13, except in the northeast where it would be Aug. 31 through Sept. 15.

Quail, Oct. 31-Jan. 3, but with a close of Dec. 13 in the northeast and a bag and possession limit of 10. A special mountain quail season would run from Sept. 26 through Oct. 30, with a limt of six.

Chukar, Oct. 31-Jan. 3, except closing Dec. 13 in northeast, with a limit of four birds.

Sage, Sierra and ruffed grouse, Sept. 1 and 2 in Inyo, Mono, Modoc and Lassen Counties, with a limit of two birds for the two days. Central state Sierra and ruffed grouse season, Sept. 26 through Oct. 4.

Tree Squirrels, Oct. 31-Jan. 3 except closing Dec. 13 in northeast, bag and possession limit of two.

Cottontails, Sept. 1 through Jan. 3, bag and possession limit of five per day.

DOVE AND MIGRATORY waterfowl seasons and regulations can not be set until the U.S. Department of the Interior announces a framework for the states. The Fish and Game Commission then can set California dates. That occurs usually in August after commissioners of adjoining states meet with our own group.

However, Sept. 1-30 is most likely to be the dove season. Those have been the dates for years.

While we are on the subject of hunting, I might add that Fred Kindel, Catalina Island's game manager, has extended the boat and wild boar season through April 15. Reservations and information may be obtained by calling Betty Lee at HE 5-7662, or in the evenings, TE 0-0681.

Also, on the subject, it is well to remind all youngsters that nobody under 18 years of age can obtain a hunting license unless he has successfully completed the California Hunter Safety Training Course.

Prior to this year, the age was 16, but the Legislature raised the age at its last session. The law goes into effect July 1, 1964. If a boy has a previous hunting license, he may obtain the 1964-65 license without taking the course. Information on the courses may be obtained from any office of the Department of Fish and Game.

An Easter sunrise service for boaters is scheduled at the Long Beach Navy Landing (foot of Magnolia Avenue) at 6:30 a.m. next Sunday and Chaplain Malcolm Carpenter, of the U.S. Naval Base, is hoping that hundreds of boaters will turn out for the event.

This is the third year that Chaplain Carpenter has undertaken this service, and he will have plenty of assistants to show boaters where to moor or anchor their craft. There will be special Easter music. The entire service will last an hour.

Chaplain Carpenter says that even though all boats can't squeeze into the landing area, those outside will be in calm water and can hear the service over loud speakers.

San Diego Yacht Club is hosting a hearing sponsored by the California Boating Council, Inc., next Tuesday night at 2803 Talbot St., San Diego. The CBC is holding such hearings throughout the state to find out the wishes of boaters and to prepare data for possible future legislation.

The CDC expects to have an agenda concerning conflicts in local and state regulations, needs for launching facilities special fees being charged boaters at every inland waterway, boat taxation, and how the boater who pays the tab wants his money spent. The public is welcome.

L.B. Soccer Club to Renew Action Today

The Long Beach Soccer Club, after resting last Sunday, will continue Pacific Soccer League play today when it meets the Los Angeles Italia S.C. at Pan-American Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

The club has dropped to seventh in league play but will enter the Southern California Municipal Federation Cup Tournament May 3.

Indy Cars in Phoenix Go Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A preview of this year's Indianapolis 500-rear engine racers against conventional roadsters—is scheduled today at the new Phoenix International Raceway.

Two and perhaps three American-made rear engine machines, patterned after the English Lotus Ford that Scotland's Jimmy Clark drove to second place at Indianapolis last Memorial Day, will participate in a 100-mile race.

One of the cars will be driven by Indianapolis veteran Len Sutton.

Ready to push the new cars in conventional roadsters will be 500 winners A. J. Foyt, Rodger Ward and Parnelli Jones.

San Pedro Girl, 18, Wins National Ski

ALPINE MEADOWS (UPI) — Cathy Allen, 18-year-old San Pedro skier, Saturday won the girls slalom at the National Junior Ski Championships.

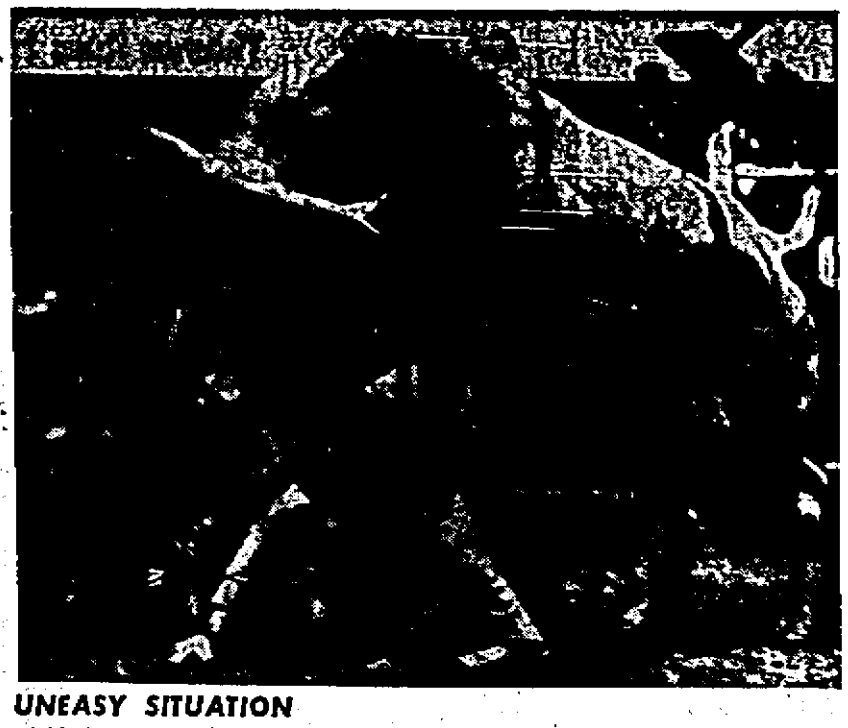

Miss Allen's first run was 51.9 seconds and her second 49.9 for a total of 1:01.8. It was windy with snow flurries limiting visibility on the 1,500 foot course.

UNEASY SITUATION

This is the kind of action cowboys will try to avoid when rodeo comes to town April 2-5. Quite obviously, the bull is in command in this situation.

RODEO AT L.B. ARENA

Bulls Back in Town April 2-5

By AL LARSON

The bulls, which made a habit of flattening the cowboys here last year, will be back to improve on their record April 2-5 at the second renewal of the Pacific Indoor Rodeo at the Long Beach Arena.

The top bucking stock from four livestock strings will wage duels with the best rodeo hands in the land during five performances. Night go-rounds are scheduled Thursday, Friday and Saturday while matinees are billed Saturday and Sunday.

Such ornery critters as Hurricane Hank, Little Booger and O.K. Red helped run up a 34-18 advantage over the professional riders here last year.

Defending all-around champion Dean Oliver, Harry Charters, the biggest man in the business at 6-6, 265 and currently the season's leading money winner, Marty Wood and Bill Kornell are just a few of the touring cowboys who will check into Long Beach.

Team roping will be added to the competitive events this year, plus clown acts and entertainment features.

Tickets are on sale at the L.B. Arena box office and all Liberty and Mutual agencies. Opening night tickets are being offered only at Unimart stores. A special family matinee has been set for Saturday with children under 13 admitted for half price.

Canadians Rich But Cautious

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gulfstream Park is holding a $77,040.60 twin double ticket for three Canadians, who apparently are giving a good look at their rights under Uncle Sam's tax laws before cashing it.

Gulfstream's mutuels manager, Jay Matthews, said Saturday he still had the winning ticket locked in a vault at the race track.

Matthews said he had received no indication when the Canadians would collect their winnings.

When track officials notified the Canadians Friday that they, as aliens, would have to fill out a form and accept deduction of 30 per cent of the winnings, the visitors balked.

Ex-GI Realizes Dream, Horse Wins Irish Sweeps

AINTREE, England (AP)—A young American soldier serving with the Army Transportation Corps here during World War II became so fascinated with the Grand National Steeplechase course that he vowed he would enter a horse in the race one day—and win it.

The dream came true Saturday for Ron Woodard of Indianapolis, co-owner of Team Spirit, who scored a thrilling half-length victory in the 123rd running of the classic.

"I bought Team Spirit for 4,000 pounds—$11,200—," Woodard recalled as he helped celebrate the first triumph by an American-owned horse since 1938.

"I was stationed at Aintree during the war. I made up my mind that one day I'd win the National. Never thought I would. But it happened."

Woodard is co-owner of the new Grand National champion with Jack Goodman of Tucson, Ariz., and Gamble North of Chicago. It was the 12-year-old gelding's sixth try in the event.

Team Spirit was an 18-1 betting shot in the field of 33 starters.

GUN BOW COASTS TO EASY FLORIDA WIN

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Gedney Farm's Gun Bow, holding some of his front running speed in reserve, withstood the furious stretch charge of Admiral Vic Saturday to win the $116,600 Gulfstream Park Handicap.

The California champion, rated just right by Jockey Bill Shoemaker, finished the mile and one-quarter in sloppy mud by a decreasing one and one-quarter length.

Gulfstream stewards disqualified Admiral Vic and moved the little black horse to third behind Garwol for interference in the stretch.

• • • • •

GUN BOW RAN the mile and one-quarter in 2:01.4 to pick up his fourth stakes victory of the year. The victory was worth $76,000 and ran Gun Bow's total earnings to $258,097.

Gun Bow was the favorite of the crowd of 20,103 and paid $3.60, $3.20 and $2.60. Garwol was worth $28.60 for place and $11.40 for show while Admiral Vic returned $3.60.

By ERNIE MASON

Returning to the scene of some of his greatest triumphs, classy veteran Irvin Paul outgamed familiar tormentor Mr. Budlong in a spectacular stretch duel to win the $7,500 Pomona Pace before a thrilled crowd of 16,117 at Santa Anita Saturday.

Irvin Paul, Western Harness' "horse of the meeting" at the Arcadia oval last spring, courageously held off the fiercely determined closing bid of Mr. Budlong by a neck to win in 2:00 2/5 and hang up the fastest mile in the nation this year.

Irvin Paul, the 4-5 choice, paid $3.60, $3 and $2.60, Mr. Budlong returned $4.20 and $2.60 and Rusty Range paid $3.

Ahoy, making his first start since last October, sped to an easy five-length victory in the 55th running of the $27,950 Paumonok Handicap at Aqueduct.

Oil Group Seeks to End Price Wars

BY HARRY W. SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Mid-Continent Independent Refiners Association thinks and hopes it has found a way to end costly gasoline price wars.

So does Chairman James Roosevelt, D-Calif., of a House small business subcommittee whose verbal assaults on marketing practices of major producers fills volumes.

Mid-Continent has petitioned the Federal Trade Commission to call an industry conference and devise a code of fair competitive practices covering such abuses as price discrimination, unfair differentials, and discounts.

It said the issue "is one of survival" for the independent refiner and thousands of filling station operators.

* * * *

BEFORE THE plan can get off the ground the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division and the business-policing FTC would have to give it their stamp of approval. And to be a success it would need the active cooperation of all types of marketers. These would include the big integrated companies which, in contrast to many independents, can weather a fierce price war and still show a handsome profit.

Mid-Continent is made up of 13 independent refiners in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Colorado. Price wars are currently raging in such Mid-Continent markets as Kansas City, St. Louis, Wichita, Des Moines, Dallas and Fort Worth. In calling attention to this, Roosevelt told the House that "over a billion dollars a year is being spent by suppliers to subsidize price wars by making up part of the dealers' losses."

The proposed rule would have no force of laws, it would merely set up guideposts. There already are statutes, including the Robinson-Patman Discrimination Act, to deal with unfair practices. But the rule would add up to an industry code which, theoretically, would enable the FTC to single out and prosecute violators under the existing laws.

* * * *

ROOSEVELT, who for years has been making legislative threats against dual marketing and other alleged abuses, regarding the petition as so important that he urged the entire industry to back it.

The question now is whether the case-burdened FTC will give ear to Mid-Continent's plea. A spokesman told UPI "there is no way of guessing" what it will do or when. Roosevelt said the Justice Department should be present at any industry conference to protect the public's interest. In the light of past experience, the industry has been wary of government-Sponsored plans not approved by the department.

The FTC itself conceived the trade rule idea as a way to put specific industries on notice against unethical practices. The theory behind this is that rather than risk prosecution, the companies covered would walk the straight and narrow.

* * * *

DONALD C. O'HARA, general counsel of the National Petroleum Refiners Association, noted that FTC rules to date never dealt with pricing questions. He suggested, therefore, that if it attempted to enforce such a rule "it would be blazing a new trail and the proceedings, including the court reviews, might take many years."

Mid-Continent's proposal would be interpretive of the Robinson-Patman Act, which has thrown courts into confusion in trying to spell out its scope. Congress also has got in the act but has produced no remedy.

Roosevelt told the House that the rule could lead to fair competition if observed generally. He said there is clear evidence that some large integrated companies are subsidizing price wars and this are inviting divorcement or divestiture legislation.

He said that unless competition is preserved, "the independent sector of the industry will not survive. In a word, this industry is sick. A cure must be found. It must be found now."

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy got some supercharged shots in the arm this week.

The diagnosis was that business is fine and likely to get better.

General Motors Corp. injected new strength into the business bloodstream with announcement that it will invest $2 billion in new plant and equipment in 1964 and 1965. In addition, it will spend $600 million on tooling for new models in each year.

The February increase in nonfarm jobs was the largest rise in nearly two years.

The steel industry reported production and shipments at a booming rate.

THE MORGAN Guaranty Trust Co. of New York had these observations:

"The economy, which during much of its convalescence from a mild 1960 chill fretted and fussed like the most nervous hypochondriac, now is acting like a patient finally convinced that he is solidly on the mend. Confidence in the business outlook is stronger than at any time in the past four years.

"The medicine that has made the difference appears to be a compound of several ingredients — among them tax reduction; good news from the retail counters, factory order desks and corporate board rooms, and the elixer of persistently rising stock prices."

General Motors made plain that it is expecting a business boom when chairman Frederic G. Donner announced the record capital spending program at a plant dedication at Fremont, Calif.

* * * *

"THESE PLANNED plant expenditures may be said to be a measure of the confidence of General Motors in the future — its own future in the automobile industry — the economic future of our country," Donner said.

GM estimated the new facilities will provide 50,000 new jobs in the next two years.

The No. 1 automaker is aiming at an industry sales mark of 10 million passenger cars by 1970.

Lynn Townsend, president of Chrysler Corp., has predicted that sales this year will total a record 8 million, compared with 7.7 million in 1963.

The industry turned out its 2 millionth car of the calendar year this week. Passenger car production for the week totaled an estimated 165,500 units, compared with 164,448 last week and 155,688 a year ago.

* * * *

SALES HELD to their booming pace with dealers delivering 194,625 cars in the first 10 days of March, up 19 per cent from a year earlier.

The increase in jobs last month made a heartening dent in the persistent unemployment problem.

The nonfarm payroll rose 80,000 from January to 56.9 million, compared with the usual seasonal drop of 200,000. The increase was concentrated most heavily in construction and factory employment.

The steel industry boom, still picking up steam, is rivaling the pace of the peak years of the mid-1950s.

Production was running at an annual rate of 120 million tons, which would be 10 per cent ahead of the 1963 total of 109-million in 1962 and would top the 117-million record of 1955.

* * * *

SHIPMENTS of finished steel were headed for a shade less than 20 million tons in the first quarter.

Thomas E. Patton, chairman and president of Republic Steel Corp., said he expected the company's shipments in the second quarter would be at least 10 per cent greater than in the first quarter.

Steel production last week racked up its 10th gain in 11 weeks, totaling 2,315,000 tons, up 3,000 from the previous week.

National Steel Corp. announced it will build "the steel mill of the future," combining three new processes controlled by automation, at Weirton, W. Va. U.S. Steel Corp. said steelmaking processes now in the experimental stage may combine to bring about a new era in production and service.

The Federal Reserve Board reported industrial production in February showed its biggest advance since October and posted a record for the fifth straight month. Its index rose to 127.6 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Housing starts dipped below the January level but were substantially higher than in February 1963. Starts were at an annual rate of 1,643,000 units against 1,729,000 in January and 1,380,000 a year earlier.

Four Bellflower High School girls will compete for the title of queen of the Bellflower National Record Relays, scheduled for Saturday in the school's stadium.

Contestants are Carol Feldardo, senior; Pam Westby, junior; Nancy Heaton, sophomore, and Denice Perkins, freshman.

DURHAM, England (UPI)— Police Saturday described Peter Greenfield's escape from Durham Prison as a case of cold feet. Eleven minutes after he broke out, Greenfield was found shivering ankle deep in a nearby river.

9 Players in AFL Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets and the Denver Broncos Saturday swapped a total of nine players—perhaps the biggest trade numerically in the history of the American Football League.

The Jets gave up their leading scorer of last year, placekicker Dick Guesman, and four other players in exchange for middle linebacker Ed (Wahoo) McDaniel and three players.

In addition to Guesman, the Jets sent to the Broncos defensive end Ed Cooke, offensive guard Sid Fournet, defensive tackle Charley Janerette and outside linebacker Jim Price. In addition to McDaniel, the Broncos sent to the Jets defensive tackle Gordy Holz, tight end Gene Prebola, and defensive back Bob Zeman.

GOODRICH, a 20-year-old junior, started it on a fast-break layup, and was the big scoring gun, producing eight points in the spree. Hazzard had one key steal and a big assist. Goodrich finished it off with a couple of free throws after the Hazzard steal for a 13-point lead and the Bruins had it in their pocket.

Their pressing, harassing defense forced the Blue Devils into countless mistakes and loss of the ball, and served as the perfect complement to UCLA's running game.

Big Bill Buntin, playing without scoring twin Cazzie Russell, scored 33 points to lead Michigan to a 100-90 victory over Kansas State and third place in the tournament.

300 OARSMEN COMPET

L.B. Regatta Next Week

More than 300 oarsmen from 17 rowing groups will see action in the sixth annual Long Beach Regatta in Marine Stadium Saturday.

More than half the participants will be crewmen in the racing shells of seven universities and colleges, and the remainder will come from rowing clubs, Navy ships, high schools and scout groups.

The 19-race card gets going at 1 p.m.

Most attention probably will be on the college "eights," and the feature is the varsity 2000-meter race between USC, Loyola, Oregon State, San Diego State, Iona College of New York and Long Beach State.

The March 28 event, the traditional opener for West Coast crew competition, takes on added interest in an Olympic year, especially for the Long Beach boat.

The 49ers, under coach Bill Lockyer, are reputed to have their "best ever" crew, and could become a serious contender for the right to represent the U.S.

New Theory Sees Growth of Continents

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The earth's great continents are constantly growing.

That, at least, is the theory of Dr. Robert S. Dietz, an oceanographer of the Commerce Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Dietz proposed his theory, the survey said today, to explain the continental slopes, the cliff-like ramparts of the world's land masses.

The continents rise some three miles from the ocean floor. Their edges are steeper than they would be, Dietz believes, if they were formed by sediment and rubble shed from the land.

They also must be young, geologically speaking, or they would have been worn down with time.

• • • •

AS DIETZ SEES IT, the continents are like huge relatively flat icebergs floating on the mantle. The mantle, comprising 80 per cent of the earth's volume, is the deep and dense rock layer underlying the comparatively thin and light crust.

According to Dietz, sea floor sediment from time to time thrusts against the continental blocks. The great mass of material thus compressed assumes accordion-like folds which become cemented to the continental edges to form a zone of new rock growth.

Dietz believes this process accounts for the continental slopes off California and around much of the Pacific Ocean. He believes these slopes were born only about 150 million years ago when dinosaurs dominated the earth.

The Atlantic slopes are similarly young. They, however, are basically cliffs rising from a great rift in the sea bottom which formed when the new world and the old world split asunder.

• • • •

THE CONTINENTS, Dietz believes, have been slowly drifting apart during the millions of years since the original split. Many scientists consider the theory of continental drift to be "outrageous." They do not believe the continents can move horizontally through the mantle in which they are rooted.

But, Dietz says, it is the mantle itself which moves, and the continents are carried passively along like icebergs in a sea current.

Drift on a subcontinental scale is going on now in California. The part of California on one side of a long rift in that state moves about two inches a year relative to the other part, according to Dietz.

• • • •

THEIR STEEPNESS and youthful ruggedness convince him that the continental slopes could not have been original or even very early features of the 4.6-billion-year-old earth. So they cannot have been caused "by some primeval catastrophe such as the moon being pulled out of the Pacific or great meteorites blasting out the ocean basins."

Dietz also ruled out later catastrophes. Life has been for some three billion years.

"The evolutionary spectrum of life," said Dietz, "would have been markedly affected or even entirely snuffed out by catastropes on the scale needed to create the magnificent continental slopes."

Cuba Prisoners Beaten If They Shoo Away Flies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If you shoo a fly in a Cuban concentration camp, you get swatted, a refugee said today.

Alejandro Aguero, one of 54 exiles who arrived in five small boats yesterday from Cuba, said he served 10 days in such a camp.

Flies were thick there because of lack of sanitary facilities, and they would get in our food and on our person," Aguero said. "But we were supposed to let them bite us. Part of our punishment, I guess. If we shooed them, guards would hit us with sticks."

Aguero, a 25-year-old student, said he was sent to the camp for not attending classes.

U.S. Using New Yardstick on Buying Power

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government is now using a more precise yardstick to measure the buying power of the dollar spent by the average American worker and his family. Although it is too early to tell how accurate a gauge it will be, the first measurement indicated that price changes in 1963 eroded the $10 bill by 15 cents.

The first edition of the so-called streamlined Consumer Price Index also showed that almost everything a family buys, except meats and electricity, cost more last year.

Labor Department experts claim the new index will provide a more accurate reflection of price changes than the old one, which is to be abandoned in June.

The monthly computation is a vitally important one. It has a tremendous impact on labor-management wage contract negotiations, federal estimates of national economic growth, and public psychology about inflation.

• • • •

WAGES OF 2 million workers are directly tied to changes in the index under escalator clauses that provide raises when prices go up by a certain amount or pay cuts if the index falls sharply (which rarely happens). Union demands for wage increases for millions of additional workers are usually based in part on upward movements of the index. Auto workers got pay boosts totaling $1.20 for a 40-hour week in 1963 because of escalator clauses.

The annual increase in consumer prices is used by the President's Council of Economic Advisers to arrive at its "deflated" estimate for the gross national product, a central tool in economic analysis.

Sizable monthly advances in living costs as measured by the index also have had an impact on congressional discussion of inflationary dangers and public concern over value of the dollar.

That is why so much discussion of inflationary dangers and public concern over value of the dollar.

That is why so much discussion has been generated by the Labor Department's recent revision of the methods used for computing one of the government's most vital statistics.

• • • •

THE NEW INDEX—Like the one it replaced—uses the average price level in 1957-59 as a base period and measures price changes since then.

It rose to 107.7 in 1963 on the Labor Department scale. In shopper terms, this meant it cost $10.77 to buy the same goods and services that were sold for $10 during the 1957-59 span.

Although the base period remained the same, almost every other ingredient of the index was altered during a five-year $5 million modernizing program based on a 1960-61 survey of American buying habits.

The aim was to find how the average city wage earner spent his income and then measure the price changes in items found in a typical market basket of goods and services.

The number of items priced was raised from 325 to 400. Some items were dropped and many more added to reflect consumer habits of the 1960's—window air conditioners, airplane fares, parking fees, garbage disposal units, phonograph records.

• • • •

CITIES IN ALASKA and Hawaii were added in a reshuffling of the areas where price samples are made on the basis of the 1960 census. Stores in suburbs also were included for the first time.

Finally, less weight was placed on food purchases and greater stress on services, like housing and medical care, in computing the revised index.

The first version of the new CPI showed a slight increase—one-tenth of 1 per cent to a record-high level—while the old index was unchanged.

Government experts said, however, that this did not mean the new index would rise in the future by a greater amount or more rapidly than the old yardstick.

THAT DENNIS GIRL

New Toast of Bw'y

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The reigning belle of Broadway is a taffy-tressed, moist-eyed miss from Nebraska who dotes on stray cats and dogs, walks shoeless whenever possible and talks a quaint blue streak.

Of her sudden spotlight adultation, Sandy Dennis herself remarks:

"It's sort of a matter of luck in many ways and I think you come to a point where these things — you're ready for them and you're lucky enough to get them, that's all."

* * *

THE REASON for all the admiration that has been cascading upon the 26-year-old blonde (5-foot-5 and 124 pounds) is "Any Wednesday," a romantic trifle that sneaked unheralded into the Music Box Theater a few weeks ago and turned out to be the season's sleeper-hit sensation.

Some reviews were virtual love letters.

Miss Dennis portrays a barefoot lass kept in a love nest by a big-wheel executive who mixes romance with tax deductibility. The place is full of balloons and Miss Dennis seems less an object of passion than cuddly innocence.

A good part of the Dennis performance consists of throwing lines away with a disregard for context or ending a scene with an adder-like, irrelevant flick of her tongue.

"That's my own idea," she asserts, "but I don't really know what it is, and I guess it's just my way of playing it."

* * *

MISS DENNIS pays attention to what critics say about her — "especially a bad review if it's intelligent."

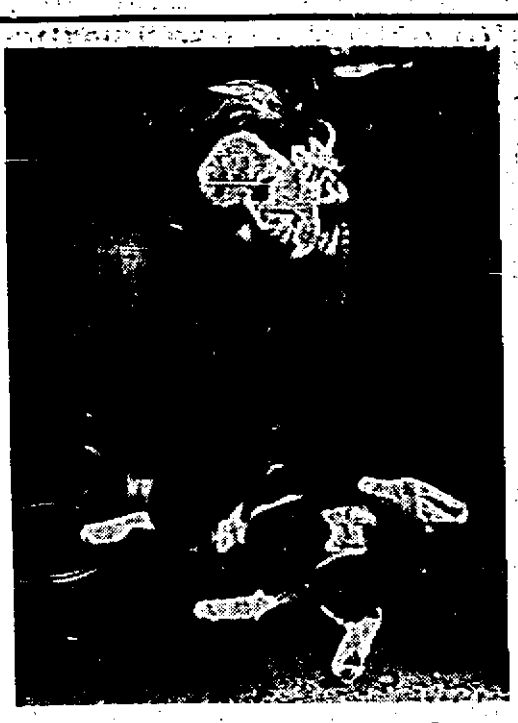

A Broadway associate attempts to explain the strange mixture of evident vulnerability and success in a highly competitive, tough craft.

"Sandy is a mixture of naivete and a core of toughness," the friend commented. "And the naivete isn't phony — it's the real thing."

AS SHE TALKS and sometimes listens, Sandy frequently cups slender fingers across her face, across a set of the biggest pearl-white teeth you ever saw.

Some years back the family invested a small fortune in orthodonistry, but last summer on her first whirl to Hollywood, Sandy was dismayed to find that the film makers wanted to cap her teeth and pad her bosom. She's appeared once only in a feature picture and just four times on television.

SANDY DENNIS... a Reason to Purr

"I'd like to stay in the theater all my life," she says. "Theater is something I can do. The demands are enormous, but you can do it for a year and then you can relax."

Book on Kennedy Is Best Seller

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Four Days," the United Press International-American Heritage memorial book on the late President Kennedy, was listed Saturday as the nation's number-one nonfiction best seller by the New York Times.

The book occupied the second position on the New York Herald Tribune's list of nonfiction best sellers.

The bookstore edition of "Four Days" is being handled by Simon & Schuster, which has distributed more than 300,000 copies throughout the United States.

New Ambassador

MOSCOW (UPI) — Phillipe Baudet, France's new ambassador to the Soviet Union, presented his credentials Saturday at the Kremlin.

Barbara Loden, Plodder, Success After 13 Years

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Barbara Loden pattered in out of the rain into a French restaurant on the West Side . . . shook the water out of her hair . . . and still nobody recognized her as the brilliant actress who plays the Marilyn Monroe part in Arthur Miller's "After the Fall."

"You're not wearing your blonde wig," I said . . . Now she was a mousy looking brunette.

"No, but this is a wig, too," she said, shyly. "I didn't want to meet you without a nice coif. I didn't want you to think I'm too bad-looking."

LODEN

Such humility is rare today, especially in successes like Barbara Loden. I'd known her close to a dozen years . . . back when she was "Candy" Loden, chorus girl at the Copacabana, and comedienne with Ernie Kovacs' TV show and one of his "Nairobi Trio."

Barbara says she's a plodder. Her husband, Larry Joachim, has spoken of "Life With Plodder."

"I've never been pushy, but I guess by plodding, I've been pushing, pushing, pushing," she said.

* * * *

SHE CAME from Asheville, N. C., at 17. She's 30 now, so it took 13 years for people to start flinging hats into the air over her.

"I never knew Marilyn Monroe," she told me. "But she was always struggling to gain acceptance and be somebody, just as I was.

"I came to New York with very little money. I felt the necessity of exhibiting myself. Everybody was doing it. I got a job modeling brassieres but I never really did it. I mostly sealed envelopes. The boss asked me to be his girl friend to the tune of $250 a week.

"I refused. Later, after I'd become an actress, he said, 'I'm glad to see my opinion of you was justified.' Some men think they can buy anything. On another job I had, one of the assistants said, 'Look, honey, the boss likes you, if you want to stay on here . . .'"

* * * *

BARBARA assumes that Marilyn Monroe had the same problems.

"A lot of people look down on this kind of girl and think she's stupid," Barbara said. "Anybody who thinks this girl is stupid has no heart."

When Elia Kazan — who'd put her in a movie, "Wild River" — and Arthur Miller asked her to portray "Maggie" in the Miller play, Barbara was fascinated because it gave her a chance to express something about people who look down on the Marilyn Monroes.

"Miller has kept saying that Maggie isn't really Marilyn," I said. "Why, then, is Maggie a blonde with all the MM trappings?"

"She had to be a blonde, that's classic . . . Jean Harlow, Betty Grable, Lana Turner," Barbara said.

As an actress, all she wants to do is practice, practice, plod, plod, plod. Sure, she could go to Hollywood now.

But unless you want to make money, what does Hollywood have for you?"

* * * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Allan Drake insists that he had terrible luck in school: "Not only were my marks bad, but I sat on the side of the room that used the wrong toothpaste."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Jackie Mason claims Richard Nixon isn't worried about getting the nomination: "All he wants is the presidency."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A toastmaster is a man who eats a meal he doesn't want so he can get up and tell a lot of stories he doesn't remember to people who've already heard them." — George Jessel.

EARL'S PEARLS: Two types of people will tell you there are better places to be than where you are — real estate salesmen and preachers.

Barbara Streisand has these lyrics in a "Funny Girl" song, describing her marriage to handsome Sydney Chaplain. "To tell the truth it hurt my pride, the groom was prettier than the bride." That's Earl, brother.

California's Big Drink

Icy waters of the Feather River, tumbling from diversion tunnel (right) near the rising 735-foot-high wall of Oroville Dam (background), will one day slake the arid Southland's thirst in the biggest water supply program of mankind's history.

By BILL DUNCAN

Melting snow in the High Sierra will trickle one day through water taps in the Long Beach area.

This man-made miracle of getting water from California's frozen reservoir in the High Sierra—some 700 miles away—to Long Beach is expected by 1972 when Feather River water is brought through the world's largest aqueducts to the Castaic Reservoir at the northern tip of Los Angles County.

From this reservoir, the Metropolitan Water District will guide the water through a distribution system into pipes in Long Beach and other cities in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

THE FEATHER RIVER, Anglicized from its original Spanish name "Rio de las Plumas," is fed by melting snows draining into the upper tributaries in the High Sierra. Its waters are sometimes rampant and destructive—and now flow uselessly into the ocean.

Not for long. Man has envisioned an engineering feat to capture the river's vast supply of "liquid gold" and, in a mammoth project which staggers the imagination, bring the water to arid Southern California.

The plan is called the State Water Project. It begins at Oroville, a historic village of California's gold rush era, situated on the slopes of Sierran foothills eight miles northeast of the Feather River's headwaters.

It will end eventually in Riverside County—having traversed almost the length and breadth of the state.

WHY SUCH AN ENORMOUS PROJECT? Because 70 per cent of California's water supply originates in the northern one-third of the state while 77 percent of the water needs is within the southern two-thirds.

The state long has sought a solution to this problem. In fact, the initial concept of getting northern water to the southern part of the state was proposed first in 1933. Voters authorized bonds, but the depression years were not favorable for their sale. The state project died, but the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation did develop the state's Central Valley project, constructing the Shasta, Trinity and Folsom dams and an aqueduct to deliver water as far south as Kern County.

No water was transported south of the Tehachapi Mountains—a natural barrier impeding water transportation. However, the federal project did prove that water transportation fom plentiful areas to arid areas was feasible.

YEARS LATER IT became apparent that northern water would have to be brought south over the Tehachapi Mountains. Southern California was experiencing a 20-year drought, broken only twice by any real amount of rainfall. At times the humidity in the Southland was less than 1 percent—as dry as could be measured and drier than the Sahara Desert and Death Valley, two world famous dry spots.

In 1957, after years of research, the Department of Water Resources proposed a plan to capture the full runoff of streams in northern California and to convey this water via the Feather and Sacramento rivers across the Delta. The state agency also proposed construction of an aqueduct system to carry the water to Southern California. Pumps would boost the water over the mountains.

The State Legislature adopted the plan in 1959 and approved the Burns-Powell Act (named after its authors) authorizing a method of financing.

California voters in November 1960 approved a $1.75 billion bond issue to finance construction. The bonds have been sold and the project is deep in construction stages.

Financial experts predict the cost of the project will be repaid through revenues forthcoming from the sale of water and power and reimbursement from the federal government for flood control and conservation projects the water plan will provide.

The water will reach the Southland no later than 1972, according to the current timetable.

The principal storage facility for the water will be the gigantic Oroville Dam and Reservoir under construction on the Feather River five miles east of the town or Oroville.

THE $121 MILLION CONTRACT for the dam construction was the largest civilian contract ever awarded in the United States. When completed in 1968, the dam will be 735 feet high, making it the highest in the United States. It will be more than one mile long at its crest. The reservoir will have a capacity of 3.5 million acre feet of water.

An acre foot of water is that measurement which is a foot of water uniformly spread over an acre of land and is equivalent to 325,872 gallons. For example, 1,100 acre-feet of water a year is approximately equal to a million gallons a day.

(The MWD has contracted for 1,500,000 acre-feet annually for Los Angeles and Orange counties.)

The dam itself will have an underground power plant in its left abutment and a downstream complex at Thermalito capable of producing 700 megawatts of power.

HERE IS HOW Feather River Water will reach the Southland in 1972:

Water from the Oroville Reservoir will flow down the Feather River into the Sacramento River and then to the Delta Lands, at the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers east of Suisun Bay. The Delta Lands, called America's Holland, is where the first stages of the 444-mile long California Aqueduct will begin.

Here the water will start its climb uphill. To raise the water from the Delta floor, at sea level, to the foot of the Tehachapis will take four large pumping stations. The aqueduct—aided by the pump lifts—will shuttle the water along the west side of San Joaquin Valley to a point south of Bakersfield. The lift to the foot of the mountain is an elevation of 2,000 feet.

The Delta pumping plant is under construction and should be operating by 1967.

ONCE THE WATER has reached the Tehachapi Mountains a pumping plant will lift the water to an elevation of 3,165 feet. The water will travel 11 miles through the mountain in a concrete-lined aqueduct, a series of horseshoe tunnels and siphons until it reaches the south portal of the mountain.

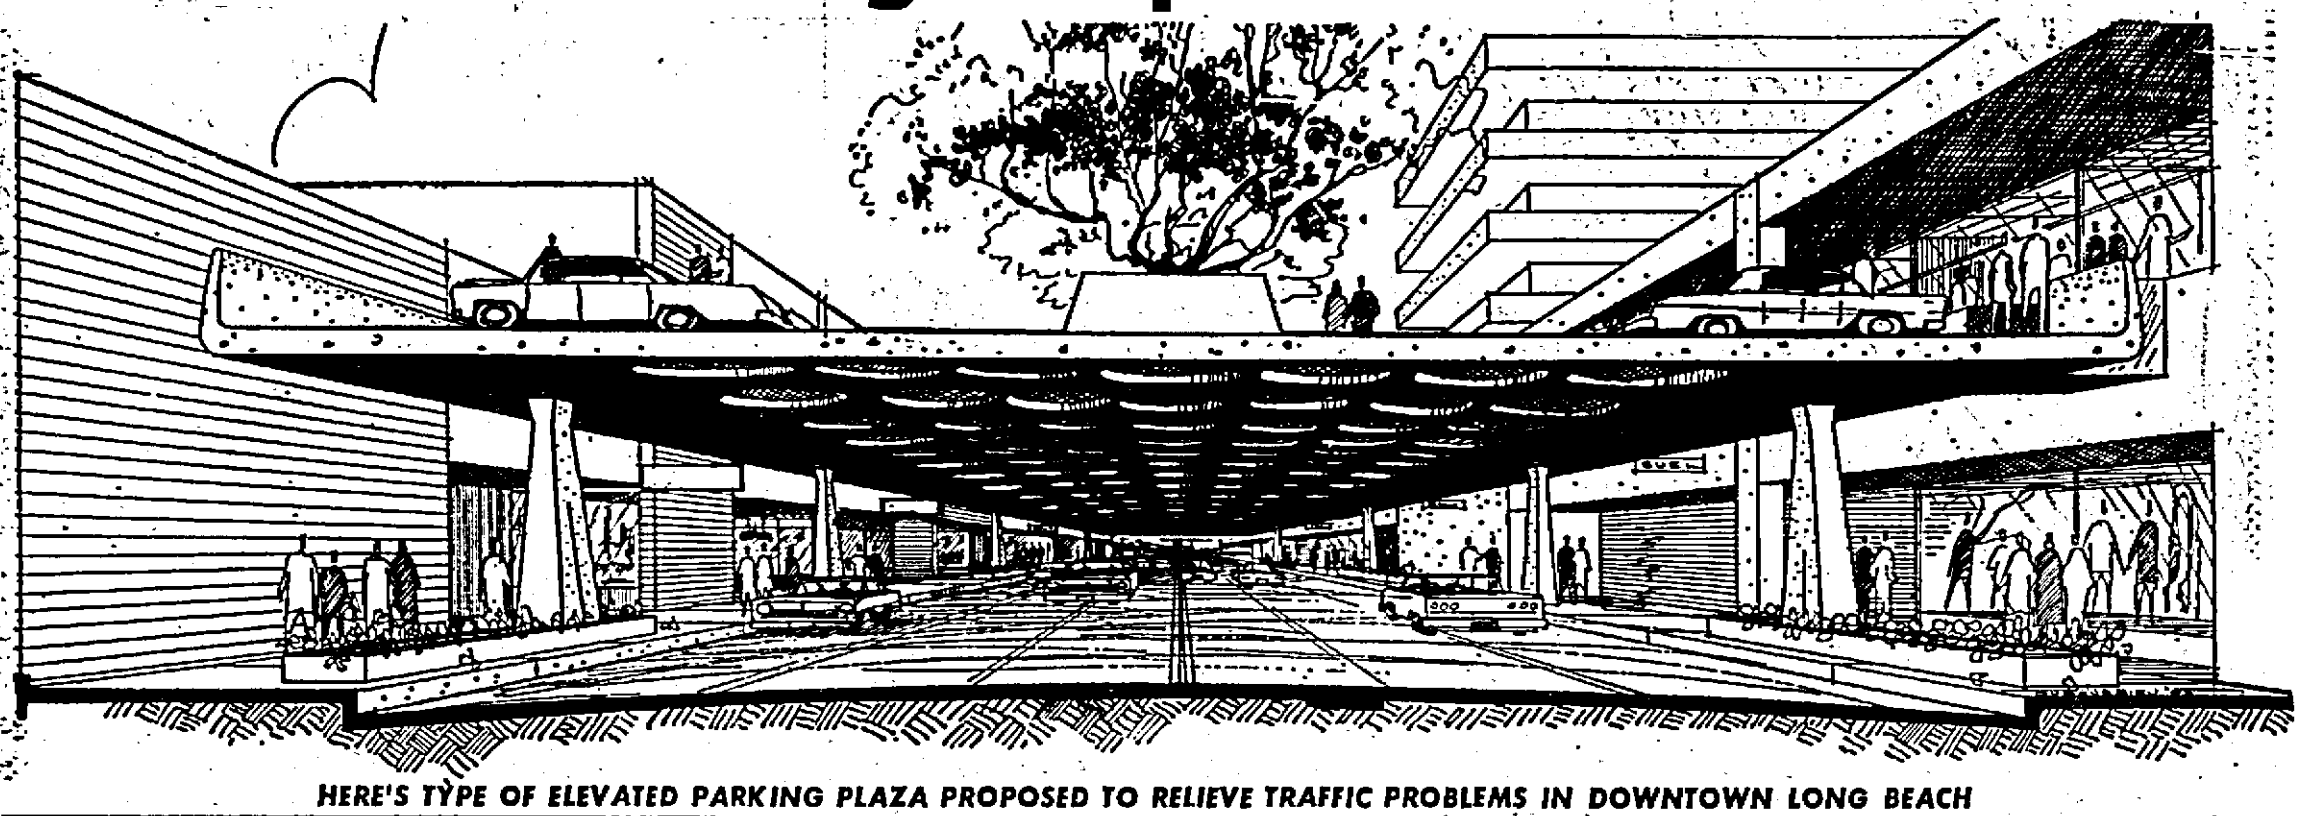

At this point the water will have reached Southern California. It will divide here into east and west branches—part going to Los Angeles County and part traveling farther southeast to Riverside County.

The west branch will bring the water to earthfill structure

Plaza Project Urged for East-West Streets

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A striking plan to build elevated plaza parking on east-west streets in the downtown area is proposed by a Long Beach architect, Laurence Farrant, who has designed parking structures and parking plans for many cities, both in the United States and abroad.

Farrant declares the elevated plaza plan would make walking and shopping a pleasure, with plenty of parking spaces.

The plazas would be above east-west streets with the interconnecting ramps and sidewalks above the north-south streets. Immediate access to the above-street areas would be by conveniently located escalators and stairs.

• • • •

AFTER PARKING a car on the upper level, a shopper could walk directly into the second floor of a department store from a ramp. There would be no waiting for stoplights.

Under his proposal, most of the plaza would be 60 feet wide and would project just over the curb lines, leaving 10 feet from the store building face to the plaza, which, he says, would be adequate for daylight and natural ventilation.

Structural glass would cover circular openings in the plaza floor to provide daylight on the street level.

• • • •

"MY PLAN has three distinct advantages," declares Farrant. "The Mid-Town Plaza (suggested name) would give an identity to the downtown area. It would provide 5,000 more parking spaces which would mean 50,000 more shoppers could be accommodated each day; and with adequate parking above the street, curb parking no longer would be necessary and traffic could flow unimpaired.

"It has been shown in cities that creation of a mall in the downtown area has revived business. Under my plan you have a mall, parking space and improved flow of traffic."

• • • •

FARRANT proposed a 36 block area from Pacific Avenue, on the west, Atlantic Avenue on the east, Seventh Street on the north and First Street on the south.

The architect estimates the project would cost $7,500,000 and since it would provide 5,000 parking spaces, the cost would be $1,500 per space. This is far lower, he adds, than most subterranean parking facilities. Total cost would be $150 per front foot of the property.

To stimulate downtown business, Farrant suggests the parking should be free to the shopper, with the cost underwritten by property owners and businessmen.

• • • •

"THE AMORTIZED cost would be about $10 per year per front or about 3 cents every time a car parked," he said.

A native of Australia, Farrant came to the United States from England where he was educated at the School of Building and the University of London. For 26 years he has been actively engaged in the building industry and has received numerous awards both abroad and in this country for new techniques in the building field.

He has prepared parking plans for such cities as Salt Lake City, Rochester, Miami and Riverside. During his three years in Long Beach he has engineered more than 100 apartment buildings.

Farrant is chairman of the American Institute of Architects legislative committee.

Feather River Water to Be Southland Boon

Castaic Dam which will create a reservoir with a capacity of 100,000 acre-feet of water. The reservoir will have a water surface of 1,260 acres and a shoreline of 23 miles.

• • • •

FROM ITS JUNCTION with the east branch to Castaic Reservoir the aqueduct will consist of 15 miles of tunnels and siphons, one pumping plant and three power plants. The one pumping station, near Fairmont, will lift the water about 270 feet to an elevation of 3,225 feet. From this point the water will flow southward through Portal Ridge and along Elizabeth Canyon.

The east branch will extend 116 miles from the junction of the two branches until it reaches Perris Reservoir in Riverside County. Along the way the water will travel through 79 miles of canal, 33 miles of siphon, four miles of tunnel and through one pumping plant and two power plants.

• • • •

AT PEARLBLOSSOM, a pumping plant will lift the water 535 feet to an elevation of 3,470 feet. From the pumping plant the aqueduct will cross the Mojave River by siphon and will discharge into the Cedar Springs Reservoir at the north base of the San Bernardino Mountains.

About 200,000 acre-feet of water will be impounded at Cedar Springs Reservoir. The water will continue in an underground pipe to the Perris Reservoir, located in a wide valley surrounded by the Bernasconi Hills of Riverside County, where 100,000 acre-feet of the water will be stored.

The Feather River water thusly will have reached Southern California.

CHAMBER CHIEF APPLIES SYMBOL
Harry Krusz, executive vice president, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, fixes anniversary symbol on REA Express truck as W. L. Bostic, REA general agent in Long Beach, stands by.

L.B. Joins in Noting 125th Anniversary of REA Express Co.

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

W. L. Bostic, general agent of the Long Beach REA Express offices at 3976 Cherry Ave., has announced that his company now is celebrating its 125th anniversary.

All vehicles operating from the local offices, as well as internationally, will carry Anniversary Year symbols, Bostic said.

Joining in the observance by attaching one of the symbols to an REA truck recently was Harry Krusz, local Chamber of Commerce chief, who offered 'birthday' congratulations to the company.

* * * *

IT WAS on March 4, 1839, that a frail young man named William F. Harnden inaugurated the first regular express service between Boston and New York City.

Harnden, employed by the Boston & Worcester Railroad, noted the lack of facilities for transport of valuables, papers and packages; and he conceived the idea of regular 'express' service. Hence, the firm of Harnden & Co. was formed.

At first, his traffic was small enough to be carried by carpetbag. At one time, wheelbarrows were used.

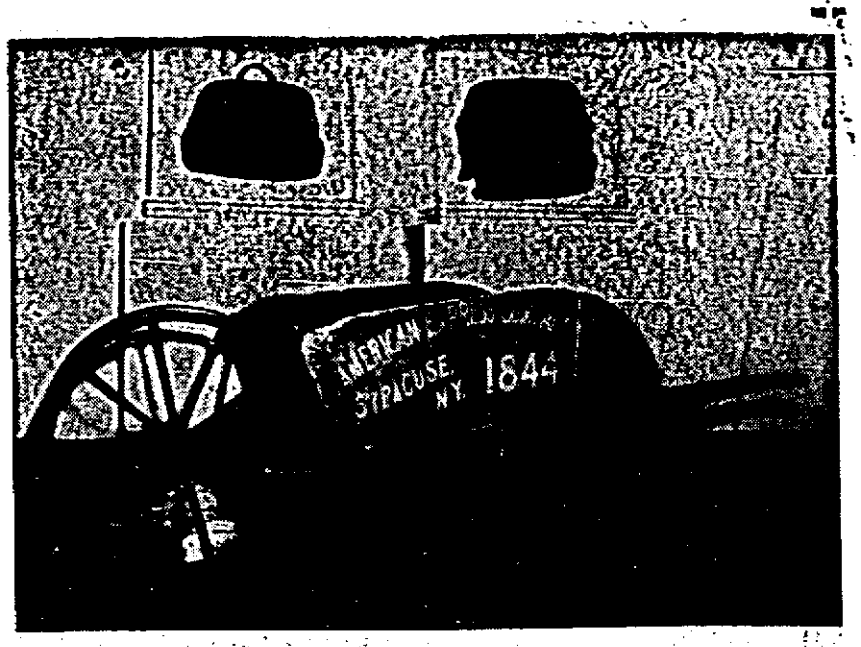

* * * *

EVENTUALLY, Harnden arranged with the railroad to use a small box-like express car, pulled right behind the locomotive — and to this day express cars run at the head-end of trains.

Other companies were formed, such as Adams Express, American Express and Wells Fargo.

REA Express, formerly was known as Railroad Express Agency, now has more than 30,000 fulltime employes.

There has been an express office in Long Beach since the earliest days of railroading here, according to Bostic.

HOW THEY USED TO DO IT
In early days of express business, carpetbags such as at top of this photo were used. Even wheelbarrows had their day.

Features of the one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes include Westinghouse all-electric kitchens with built-in range, oven and dishwasher, ample cabinet and counterspace, a breakfast "island," and one of the two story homes contains a pantry.

"Prestige Homes are priced from $21,200 with low FHA terms, conventional financing and Cal-Vet financing all available for the convenience of buyers, who received grant deeds to their home and lot," Mytinger emphasized.

Six furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the Long Beach area: Drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., turn right to Edinger Ave., then right to Springdale, then left a short distance to Prestige Homes.

New Springdale South Unit of Homes Will Be Available Soon

The new unit of Springdale South Homes in Huntington Beach is expected to be unveiled soon as sales on the remaining residences of the current Pacifica Series approach the concluding mark, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

He adds that even at this early stage considerable interest is being shown on the new unit by prospective homebuyers as construction work proceeds rapidly on the new unit.

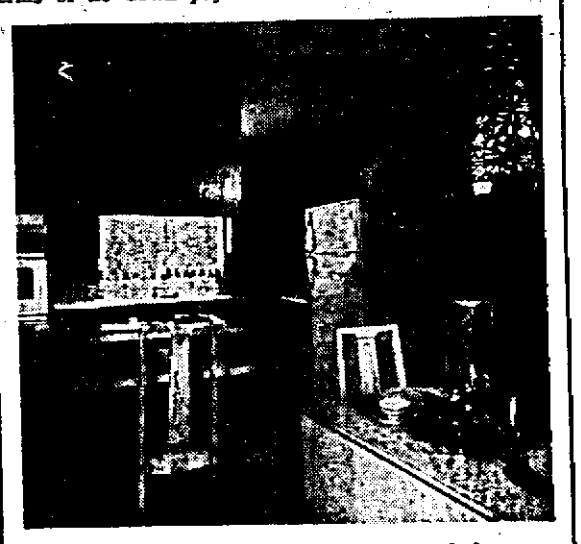

As is previous developments, Bram expects the upcoming unit to experience rapid sales on the basis of the extra value that is built into each Sunkist Plaza Home and which results from the firm's mass buying power.

* * * *

THIS ENABLES not only to build more dollar value into each home, Bram notes, but to sell the homes with a minimum outlay of cash.

Springdale South, whose models are at the corner of Bolsa Ave. and Edwards St. in Huntington Beach, features an array of four three and four bedroom plans with a variety of exterior designs. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment and only $100 costs to move in.

To reach the development, go west on Bolsa to Edwards and models.

This appealing dining and kitchen area is in one of the new Springdale South Homes offered by Sunkist Plaza Builders in Huntington Beach. Only $100 in cash is needed by a qualified buyer.

Customized Homes in Showcase Unit

A SHOWCASE UNIT 2 HOME

Showcase homes, unit 2, a residential development by builder William Krueger, are ideally located close to the new Douglas plant, near schools and shopping centers, and just minutes to the Southland's finest beaches. Here is one model.

Showcase Homes, a customized residential development by builder William Krueger in the city of Westminster located on Hazard just east of Hwy. 30, is creating much favorable comment from families who need larger homes, states Frank McFarland.

Buyer acceptance of these two-story homes is based on the fact that the lower level has approximately 1,500 square feet of functional living area and is in itself a complete home of three bedrooms, two baths, and family/dining room. The upstairs features the unique growing room which can be used as a spacious one room family activity center or can be finished with five or six bedrooms and three baths. All types of financing are available, according to McFarland.

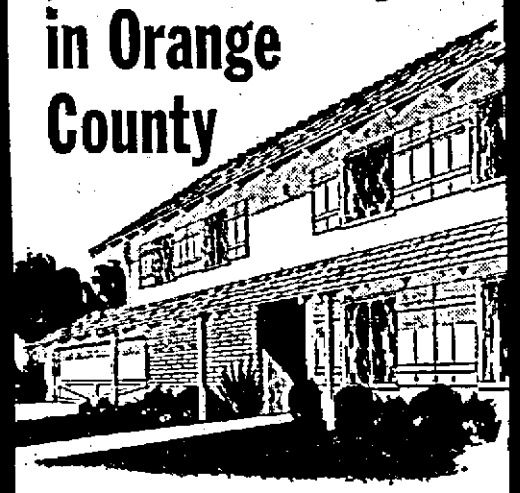

• • • •

THE TWO-STORY homes start at $22,750. and the buyer receives free a completely fenced rear yard and the front yard is landscaped. Showcase Homes are near schools, shopping centers, and close to the new Douglas plant and driving distance to the Southland's finest beaches.

Regal Homes New Unit Is Half Sold

The second unit of Regal Homes is nearly 50% sold, states Tom Sims, builder of the Buena Park subdivision. Last week, Sims reported nearly $200,000 worth of homes were sold.

The excellent location of Regal Homes is one of the most important reasons for the popularity, Sims added. Located on Orangethorpe between Valley View and Knott Ave. in Buena Park, Regal Homes are short driving distances from Long Beach, the industrial areas of Fullerton, Anaheim and East Los Angeles.

REGAL HOMES are three and four bedrooms, family room and two baths. They are priced from $22,900 and have been designed to provide many of the homes with unusually large "king-size" lots for pools, gardens, etc.

Offered by Tom Sims, builder, in Buena Park, Regal Homes provide a variety of stylings priced from $22,900. Here is one of the models.

Sunkist Plaza's Homes Appealing

Public enthusiasm after preview showing of the new Treasure Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach continues high as evidenced by the number of homeseekers to the development and sales are expected to follow in the footsteps of the recently sold out Buccaneer Series.

This was the prophecy of Sy Bram, executive director of the Sunkist Plaza Builders, the firm that built and developed the residential subdivision.

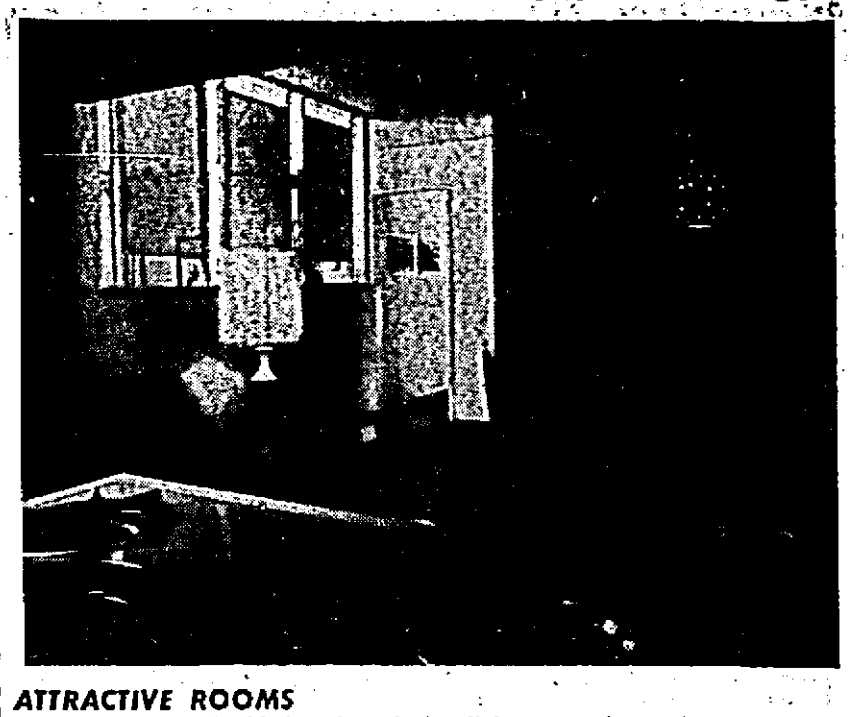

The use of quality materials and workmanship coupled with the inclusion of many extras not usually found in homes of this price range are expected to be the leading factors in the sales in much the same way that they helped the previous unit sell out in record time.

• • • •

THE EXTRA VALUE built into the homes has propelled the Sunkist Plaza firm into the upper echelon of the homebuilding industry. They have built thousands of quality residences in various locations of the Southland.

Ande due to this voluminous operation, the firm has acquired a mass purchasing power that enables it to make the residences available with a minimum of outlay. An example is the fact that the homes sell for no down payment—only total costs of $150. All are priced from $19,750.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; turn right to Bolsa; then right to Springdale and left (south) on Springdale and follow the signs to the furnished models.

Scottsdale Town Houses Offer Varied Recreation Programs

GARAGES AT REAR

Shown is one of two-story residential buildings at Scottsdale. This shows how Scottsdale Town House buildings all face landscaped malls. Garages are behind, with access from rear drives.

"Swimming, Little League baseball, dancing and tennis for the younger set, dancing, informal parties and pot-luck dinners for the grown-ups are the most popular leisure time pursuits in recreational communities."

This was the statement from Neil Murdoch, activities director of Scottsdale Town Houses near Long Beach, who used a majority of residents in his new family development as a barometer.

Along with arts and crafts and football, the activities above were listed most frequently in a survey taken at Scottsdale, Ray Watt's residential-recreational community where more than 500 of 600 single-family residences have been sold in six months.

One hundred seventy-seven families, representing residents in the development's first-built section, responded to the survey, said Murdoch.

Scottsdale Town Houses are on Avalon Blvd., just south of the San Diego Freeway.

Tidelands Oil to Be Forum Topic

"The Status of the Tidelands Oil Situation" will be discussed at the Long Beach Community Forum Wednesday by local city officials.

Making the presentation will be Ray Kealer, city councilman, and Leonard Putnam, new city attorney.

Sponsored weekly by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Forum is held in the Crown Cafeteria, First Street and Alamitos Avenue, beginning at 7:15 a.m.

Lake Park Location Attracts

Proximity to major centers of employment, commercial, educational and recreation centers gives Lake Park, the $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, an appeal rarely found in new residential developments, reports sales manager Don Hermanson.

"Location always is a major factor in the success of a new community," Hermanson said, "and if a man can buy a home close to his place of work, plus all of the other amenities, he will do so."

Lake Park has not only the widest selection of two-story homes available in Orange County but also the lowest priced two-story models and is now selling in its fourth unit, he added.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story homes, Hermanson noted.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co., an affiliate of Larwin Group Companies, one of the nation's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to the model homes just east of Moody.

Great Ocean Vista From Harbor View

Busy, bustling Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors are but five minutes from one of the more oustanding home values available in Southern Los Angeles County. Harbor View Estates, located just two minutes from the Harbor Freeway, is above the noise and traffic of the city, on a hill looking eastward to the basins of the sister harbors of Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Both small boat sailors who want to take their boats out in the winter and ocean-racing big boat men find this location unequalled in convenience to the many facilities of the Small Craft Harbor of Los Angeles Harbor.

* * * *

"MANY WEEKENDS there are ocean sailing races that start and finish right there in the basin," reports sales director Joe Garibay. "Every other year there is the Trans Pacific Yacht Race which finishes in Hawaii . . . and starts right here in full view of a spectator fleet of thousands. I don't know of a comparable community that offers such an attraction."

Harbor View Estates is a Ray Watt development of one- and two-level, three- and four-bedroom homes priced from $22,950. Drive to the end of the Harbor Freeway to Gaffey, north one block to Capitol and left to the models.

Trade-in Plan for New Home

A special trade-in plan at Suburbia Heights now makes it possible for buyers to move into a new home without waiting until their present one is sold, according to Norm Williams, director of sales for the Harry Trancredi Co., developers of the Buena Park project.

Priced from $33,950, each two-story home includes four or five bedrooms, three bathrooms.

Suburbia Heigths can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the Beach Blvd. exit. Travel northbound to Luitwieler Ave., turn north on Luitwieler.

Family-Ready Home Appeals

new-home headaches, and comparatively low selling price are the three factors credited with the rapid sales pace maintained at the 250-home Fountainhead development in Fountain Valley.

Lowell Evans, president of Evans Building Co., decided that the homes at Fountainhead were going to offer more than any other new homes and would be built to eliminate as many new-home headaches as possible.

* * * *

"THE OUTLAY of money and hard work involved in laying carpets, hanging drapes, planting lawns and building fences were making more and more people decide that they would rather buy an older home," Evans said. "That's why all the homes at Fountainhead are 'family-ready' . . . which means simply that they are ready to move into and enjoy."

Family-ready features at Fountainhead include fences, lawns, landscaping, sprinklers, carpeting, drapes, dishwasher, built-in TV antenna, and a complete built-in G.E. kitchen.

Prices start at $20,950.

The homes are located on Cannery and Warner in Fountain Valley.

Owners of Stardust Homes Help With Sale to Others

IN BELFONTAINE SERIES
Belfontaine Series of Stardust Homes in Fountain Valley offer all-electric kitchens with dinette and include colored built-ins, ceramic tile counters, hardwood cabinets and inlaid vinyl floors.

"My best salesmen are my satisfied home buyers," says Robert H. Grant, builder-developer of Stardust Homes.

Results of a recent company survey showed that nearly 50 per cent of Stardust Home sales were to people who had been advised and directed to the models by former customers.

"Having satisfied owners of a Stardust Home recommend them to their friends and acquaintances is undoubtedly the best tribute that any builder could ask for," says Grant. "It has always been a fundamental policy of our organization to provide quality construction of medium priced homes with warranty and service after sale."

• • • •

GRANT HAS demonstrated his versatility in the real estate development field by building more than 5,000 new homes in Southern California during the past 10 years. His most recent development is the Belfontaine Series of Stardust Homes in Fountain Valley. The project may be reached via Beach Blvd. to Garfield Ave. (from the Santa Ana Freeway) then east one-half mile to furnished models where a children's playground is provided.

Location, of course, is this prestige community's biggest drawing card since it is only two miles from Huntington Beach, enjoying sea breezes that provide ideal temperature and clear days all-year round.

• • • •

STARDUST HOMES are built on large lots, a minimum 72 feet wide, with concrete driveways. The homes are hardwood floors over raised foundations on solid concrete piers. Copper plumbing is featured throughout.

Baths have a marble top pullman and glass-enclosed showers. Kitchens with dinette are all-electric with colored built-ins. The cabinets are hardwood, floor is inlaid vinyl, and kitchen counters are ceramic tile. Bedrooms contain double wardrobe closets with cedar floors. Additional features include landscaping, fencing, sprinklers and garages with special boat doors.

Home prices start from $23,600 with either low $650 down, 30-year bank financing or FHA and VA financing.

Luxury Rental Unit Development Sold

Sale of one of the ultra-modern apartment houses now under construction here was announced by Ted C. Bradshaw, sales manager of the C. Robert Langslet Co., well known local building firm.

Known as "Fairway Park, the 45-unit, three-story structure is being erected at Broadway and Wisconsin Ave. It will feature a large swimming pool, a 9-hole putting green, large recreation for all units.

Buyer of the development was the Executive Investment Group of Garden Grove, Bradshaw said, and the price was in excess of $600,000.

• • • •

THE GROUP is headed by Fritz L. Krauth, Garden Grove CPA who for many years was captain of the Long Beach Flying Wheels, national champion wheelchair basketball team. Krauth recently purchased and completed a 36 deluxe unit apartment at 910 Freeman Ave., bought from Langslet. Both projects are rentals.

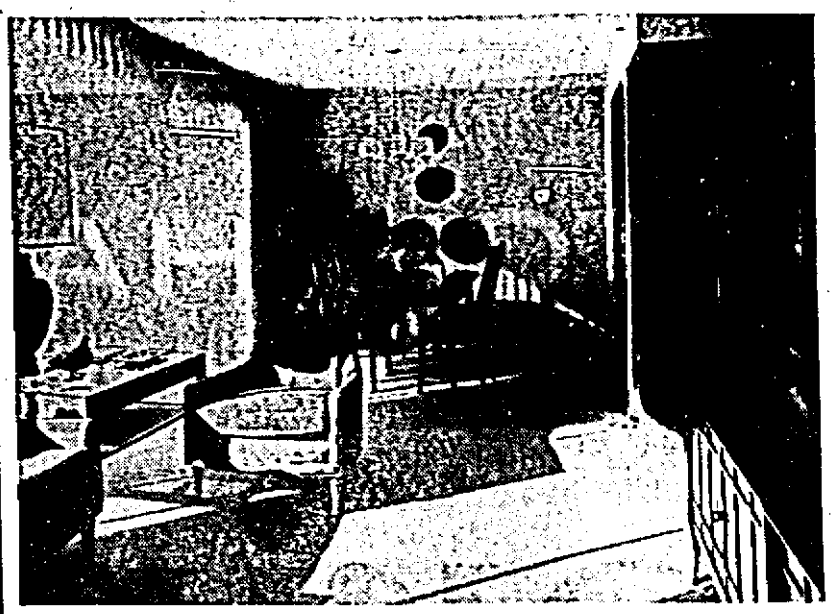

Paul Noble, designer for Fairway Plaza, said the three-story structure will be soundproofed, will have an elevator, extensive landscaping, large wood-paneled lobby with a graceful water fountain.

There will be 31 two-bedroom apartments with two baths, a large three-bedroom suite and 1 one-bedroom unit. All apartments will have huge closets, pullman baths, all-electric built-ins, wall-to-wall carpeting, draperies and theromostatically controlled radiant heat.

Easter Charade!...

Brothers and Bonnets

A hat's not just something you pull down around your ears. Any girl — even a little girl — knows that. A bonnet, particularly an Easter bonnet, has to flatter — be very pretty. When Mrs. John A. James of Lakewood Village took daughter, Julie, 6, and son, Ricky, 4, shopping for Pacific Coast Club's Easter parade (see story, left) — Julie, just like a woman, took her time. But, as you can see, Rickey had time for everything . . .

Members of the John A. James family—like millions of families across the nation—are busy this week whipping wardrobes into shape for next Sunday's Easter parade.

The Jameses—with their three scrubbed, well-dressed youngsters in tow—will be among holiday celebrants at Pacific Coast Club's annual brunch (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and Easter parade (1:30 p.m.).

Member families will parade their Easter finery to vie for three special prizes. On the fun side, special entertainment will be provided by the area's delightful and happy clown, Bob "Bon-Bon" Bonney.

The event is a benefit for the Cerritos Pool for the Handicapped.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, MAR. 22, 1964 SECTION W

1. ALL THE SUITS suited him fine in boys' department at Buffums'. One with bright plaid jacket, another with red jacket over black and white striped vest were "just swell." So Ricky, with mom's help, made snap decision. That done, he looked around for Julie. There she was STILL trying on hats. "Girls!"

2. "HMM! WONDER HOW this goes," muses Julie, now trying on 20th bonnet. In background: Ricky, one bored brother, ponders his reflection, also the foibles of females. Then, an idea! Quick as you can pull a rabbit out of a hat, he was in one—a frilly girl-type bonnet with bows.

3. HATS CAN GO TO YOUR HEAD, in fact they're kinda fun, decides Ricky. Moving in closer, he views himself in straw sailor with big brim and streamers—likes the look. Julie isn't so sure about pink flowered number, her 39th try-on. "Does it make my face look too round?" she asks.

4. HOPING OVER TO ladies hats, Ricky tries a big one for size. Enter the saleswoman: "Cute," says she. Soon, Ricky attracts a crowd of amused on-lookers. Meanwhile, Julie sits nearby, lost in lonely—and feminine—indecision. Hat No. 43, she finds, is a lot like first one. "But, does it fit better, maybe?"

5. "GO HOME?" MOANS RICKY! "Why? This is fun!" Julie, who's just discarded hat 44, hasn't heart to try more. She wants to come back—without brother, please. Ricky puzzled, wonders why. He thought girls liked to buy hats. He'd take this one, "Wow, it'd make a swell Easter basket!"

Families Enjoy Being 'Taped' Together

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

THEY DON'T read letters, they spin 'em at the home of Jack and Alyne Dillon. Literally getting the latest word from family members far away is Jack, supervisor of senior citizens activities for the Long Beach Recreation Dept., seen below, in his favorite position whenever a new "letter" arrives.

In favorite position after visit from mailman.

The Dillons daughter and son-in-law, Jaclyn Sue and Capt. Robert L. Brown, sent them the tape recorder as a gift when they were Army-stationed in Germany. Although closer, now that Bob is serving with the Central Intelligence Agency in Falls Church, Va., the localites still know their grandchildren, Bobby and Robin Lynn, better by their voices than by their faces.

They send tapes back and forth across country—then erase them, re-record and off goes another long, satisfying message. The gift of a tape recorder to someone dear, but not close, if you catch my meaning, isn't a bad idea.

RUNNING AFOUL of The Law is getting to be a monotonous habit for law-abiding Ruth Grisham. A supervisor for student teachers at Cal State LB, on a part time basis, she has had seven tickets in one, two, three (through seven) order. The tickets were received on campus parking lots. First time she hadn't had time to attach her just received new parking sticker. Another time she took husband, Jack's, car (naturally sans sticker), and the others, I gathered, were written like lightning while she just "parked a minute" (sometimes in the wrong places) to make dash in and dash out trips to buildings.

TRAVELING, not as swiftly as March winds have been blowing, but with the steady roll of a big ship are Gertrude (Mrs. Will) Winston and Adele (Mrs. Herman) Lane. They flew to San Francisco and debarked Saturday on the S.S. Cleveland for Japan.

They'll leave the ship at Yokohama, and will spend a month touring. They'll meet Adele's daughter and son-in-law, Frances and Major "Bus" (Stewart) Bachtelle, USAF, in Tokyo. The Bachtelle's will fly over to rendezvous from duty in Guam. Then, all together, they'll return to Guam where Gertrude and Adele will spend 10 days before flying home in mid-May.

"DID YOU HAVE a good time," was an innocuous question, but I asked it anyway and the answer was, as expected, enthusiastically affirmative from Caye Elliott. She and "Scrub" just returned from a flying trip to Mexico City and Acapulco to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

Marvelous weather and they met such wonderfully hospitable people. Caye said that in Mexico City especially, residents went out of their way to make them welcome.

OFF ON A tremendous adventure with their five children and two cats are Betty and Frank Hoyt who flew away Thursday to make their home in Barcelona, Spain, "for a couple of years, at least." They will make stopover visits in Washington, D.C., and New York before enplaning for Spain. Once over there, they'll visit in Madrid and Lisbon, Portugal, before going on to Barcelona. They have no home arranged for yet but, through transmission of many letters, have learned they'll have no trouble getting nicely settled.

The reason for this big break with life, Stateside, is that Frank has a yen to write and paint (he's very talented at both, friends assure me) and he and Betty both just decided to make the break, see another part of the world, and do what they want to do. The children, Chris, Peter, Steve, Curtis and Cathy, ranging in that order, from ages 16 to 9, all have been studying Spanish and are set for their new school experiences in Espana.

Why take the cats? Betty said everyone thought that very funny. Just happens they like the furry rascals, wanted them along.

LOOKING LIKE mid-August instead of end of winter, Flo and Kenny Richmond returned Tuesday from a skiing trip to Mammoth with their three sons—all of them as tanned as surfers in the good old summertime.

All very adept on the slopes, they had a marvelous time, with snow conditions perfect.

WHILST DANCING with a gentleman who shall remain nameless (but who obviously was very agile on the dance floor), Marjory (Mrs. Bernie) Quinn broke two bones in her foot during the big fun and fund raiser (scholarships for LBCC and Cal State LB.) dinner dance at Petroleum Club given by Adrian Department of Ebell.

At last report she's mending without benefit of cast, fortunately. Actually, the gentleman is nameless because Marjory doesn't know just when the snaps occurred; wasn't aware of the extent of the damage until the next day.

A dab more about the party, four very merry cocktail parties preceded for their friends in the home of Virginia and Bob Pierce, Ginny and Ray Estes, Mary and Francis Pard and Connie and Pat De Rosa. Not a fracture to report during any of these, however. Lots of others gathered at the club for no host sips prior to dinner.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES immensely, despite the "unaccustomed" hustle and bustle of city life, are long time former residents of town, Allie and "Huffie" Huffman. They're re-visiting all their favorite old haunts (meaning places), and favorite people, too.

Houseguesting with Mary Jane and Bob Parke, they'll be here until a few days after Easter when they'll return to the quiet, quiet of their place in the High Sierras.

The Huffmans operate the Buckhorn Motel in Coleville (altitude, 5300 feet) which is located just 30 miles north of Bridgeport and 80 miles south of Reno and is a favorite stopping off place for hunting and fishing types from here.

Allie was telling me they really have her on the run these days. Educators in Mono County discovered she has lifetime teaching credentials from UCLA and have pressed her into doing substitute teaching. The catch is—she's the ONLY substitute teacher in that entire, big county. Big as it is, it has only 80 elementary students and 40 high school students, but they're really scattered all around.

ASK ANY WOMAN. This takes feminine courage of the highest caliber. Deenie (Mrs. Chris) Conway had TWO large and separate parties at her home on Thursday.

The first, a brunch with a spring fan fare theme, was co-hostessed by Barbara Clark and Kay Nesbitt and took place from morning into afternoon. The second, given by Deenie a la solo hostess, was a shower for Pat Gillis, Shirley and Bill's daughter, who will wed Ron Bloom next month, and was an evening affair.

"One nice thing about it," said Mrs. C. busy in camera's eye, left below, with co-hostesses Barbara and Kay, "was that the only decoration changes I had to make was to switch the fan on the door for the morning party (attended by about 125 Assistance League co-horts) to wedding bells on it for the evening affair.

Pink roses and white tulips on the buffet and pink tulip arrangements on individual tables were perfect complement to both parties—fan fare or shower. Touche the planning!

Not a hitch — just a switch between parties.

Patches - - Unwitting Cat-astrophy C reator

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem with my cat, Patches. He is a beautiful cat and just loves everyone, but I'm beginning to believe he only "tolerates" us. I'm not sure who is at fault—Patches, our next-door neighbors or us.

Our neighbors love to fish, and several times a week they are cleaning fish in their back yard. As soon as Patches sees them drive in he leaves home and stays over there all day. They like Patches and give him all the fish he wants when they bring home a catch. Occasionally, he will favor us with a visit but he soon gets bored and goes back to the neighbors'. He even sleeps with their dog.

I can't keep him in all day and I won't pen him up. I like to play with Patches but Mother won't let us go to the neighbors' as much as Patches does. How can I keep him in my yard?

—LONESOME FOR PATCHES

DEAR LONESOME:

Golly, you do have a problem. I've heard cats are very independent and definitely pick their own masters and competing with the smell of fresh fish is practically impossible. If you can't give him fresh fish at home, I'm afraid he is going to spend most of his time next door. If the neighbor likes him, too—you have double competition!

"Part of a loaf is better than none," so I guess you'll have to be satisfied with a part-time pet. Even though he is your cat, you are going to have to share him with the "fishing" neighbors. If it is any consolation, at least Patches is happy!—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I heard some gossip about a friend of mine. I was terribly shocked and decided to write to the friend and tell her what I had heard.

Here is what she wrote back to me: "What you have heard is probably so. However, for the sake of the innocent child I won't confirm the gossip.

"Yes, she could be a child of whom you said. He has not contributed to the child's welfare at all. I have no thought of divorcing my husband and marrying him."

She said a bit more, but I have quoted the essential part. Now, I'd like very much to ask you to please give my friend some advice. She reads your column—and might profit from whatever you have to say.

—SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED:

I don't think your friend needs any advice. (She obviously did at one time, but that's water over the dam, now).

From your letter, it seems she is working out her problem in her own way.

I'd like to give you some advice, though. Transmitting gossip is a dangerous thing to do and many times costs a friend. I think you would have been wise to ignore the the gossip when it was told to you.

You've done no good by repeating the story—and you may do harm unless you let it die and refuse to discuss it from here on out.

—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Three cheers for you for your answer to "Right, I Think" who wouldn't visit her aunt on account of the way Auntie made over her animals.

I have three cats and a dog and am raising a little puppy for a friend who wants a big dog but cannot care for a puppy.

If my animals so much as sneeze they go right to the vet's. They are not "dumb brutes" as "Right" called them; they are smarter than lots of people. My animals have names and answer when the are called.

There is Bootsie, Peanuts, Tommy, Penny, the dog, and Sheba, the little pup. I wouldn't trade my animals for anything in the world!

—MRS. E. MANN

P.S. The birds who come to feast in my yard (I make sure they have a feast, too) are also my pets.

DEAR MRS. MANN:

Thank you for your letter. I received many, many comments on "Right's" attitude toward her aunt's pets. A lot of them said I was nuts for thinking a dog or a cat had every right in the world to be made over and babied, just as long as the owner got pleasure out of doing same.—M.M.

Paris in America—Tres Gai!

By Mary Ellis Carlton, I.P-T Fashion Editor

A LA PARIS . . . St. Laurent's swirl of pleats, slashed to reveal slim sheath banded in satin. Black-on-black motif is repeated in dropped belt with bow. Huge bow continues squared hat brim.

Paris fashions at American ready-to-wear prices . . .

That's the big excitement this week at May Co. stores, where fashion experts have taken advantage of that American style phenomenon—mass production—to bring Paris-inspired clothes to Californians.

To select this "Best of Paris" collection, the store sent its top buying and fashion experts to the French fashion capital in January.

They made the famous "gold chair circuit," visiting the glamor salons of Patou, Chanel, Capucci, Courreges, Givenchy, Balenciaga, Lanvin, Cardin, St. Laurent, Monsieur X

From hundreds of tantalizing designs they chose a group of originals—costing $1,000 to $1,800 each! Reproductions, copied line for line, are available at prices from $70 to $195.

AT A PRESS SHOWING the past week, it was difficult to tell the Cardin originals from the Cardin copies. This designer's costumes featured his now-famous demure Quaker collar folded across a neckline that's anything but demure.

Also shown were St. Laurent's swirls of pleats, flared, gored, often slashed . . . Patou's angel wing sleeves to catch a roving eye . . . his exaggerated lapels wide open and revealing . . . Chanel's schoolgirl bows for the hair and Balenciaga's not-so-schoolgirl bows at the tummy.

IN THE DISTILLATION of Paris, the essence of each line is the accessory.

Store buyers brought back a bower of flowers—gardenias and camellias, invariably worn just one at a time . . . a cloud of scarves, soft and silken—to tie, to fold, to flirt with . . . also a whole flight of beau-catcher bows.

About jewelry: There are piratical earrings (who but Paris would put two on one ear, none on the other?), sweet little frosted flowers on stickpins, bibs of beads that accentuate the lowest decolletage.

Hats, in many instances, dominate the costume. There are high Puritanical crowns, exaggerated sailors, intriguing square brims and poufs of silk and chiffon, bubbles and double bubbles. And everywhere, again: giant bows and scarves intricately knotted.

Many of the Paris-inspired fashions will be available in the Lakewood store, beginning Thursday.

'Breathless' Heads Bill at Center

"Breathless," a novel example of the French "new wave" film techniques, will be shown at Long Beach Jewish Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., Saturday, April 4.

On the surface it is the story of a footloose French thug, concerned with evading the police, who forms a brief relationship with an American girl in Paris. But it is described by the Film Quarterly as a "subtly intellectual parody, with unified and witty improvisation—a mannerist fantasy and cinematic jazz—it is for the film sophisticate."

Dialogue will be in the original French, with English subtitles. A short subject, "Ancient Grecian Image," photographed by Claude Renoir, will complete the bill. The program will begin promptly at 8:30 p.m.

'Scotch on the Rocks' Is Bubbling

"Scotch on the Rocks," a rollicking, bubbling British comedy, will be shown at 3 and 8 p.m. Thursday at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. There is no admission charge.

Produced by John Grierson and directed by John Eldridge, the film features Ronald Squire, Raymond Huntley and Kathleen Ryan in leading roles.

The story concerns a group of stubborn islanders whose five automobile owners refuse to pay the British road tax. When a Parliamentary delegation, led by a pompous millionaire, is sent to quell the rebellion, a battle royal ensues.

Interspersed throughout are such British touches as an undertaker frustrated by the hardiness of the islanders, and an open air performance of "Macbeth" rudely interrupted by a gang of salmon poachers.

Al Bollington in Free Concert

Al Bollington will play a free organ concert Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Humphrey's Music Company, 135 E. Third St.

The musician played 2,000 programs for the British Broadcasting Company, had a weekly series on the Canadian Broadcasting Company and in a public poll was voted the most popular organist in England.

He was heard in Long Beach March 9 when he played a pre-show concert at the Festival of Fun and Fashion at Municipal Auditorium.

There is no admission charge but tickets should be picked up in advance or arranged for by telephone.

'Strike Up!'

The piano team Ferrante and Teicher, who have won nine gold awards for recordings in three years, will present their new program "Strike Up the Grands" at Los Angeles Philharmonic Auditorium April 8 at 8:30 p.m. This is the final concert of the season for Moss and Hayman attractions.

'Creatures' Ends

"Of Creatures 'N' Kids 'N' Dr. Seuss" Friday will end its 13-weeks run at Lytton Centter of the Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. Collector's Choice" will open April 1. Hours are Mondays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Fridays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free.

To Dance in 'Coppelia' Ballet

The beautiful and entertaining ballet, "Coppelia," with its delightful story of a doll that comes to life, will be presented by Lakewood Philharmonic Association April 3 and 4.

Evening performances will begin at 8:15 p.m. in Lakewood High School Auditorium, 4400 Briercrest Ave. A special matinee is scheduled at 2:15 p.m. April 4.

Marcia Merritt (above) will dance the leading role of Swanhilda and Bill Tarpy will portray the male lead of Frantz.

TARPY WON a Ford Foundation scholarship which enabled him to study with the famous choreographer, George Balanchine. He has just returned from an extended tour of Russia with the Robert Joffrey Ballet Company.

Charles Pressey, coordinator of art resources at California State College at Long Beach, is cast as Dr. Coppelius. Other major roles will be danced by Dorothy Carroll, Julie Freeman, Anita Gordon, Reve Pincusoff, Paula Schossow and Sheryl Weaver.

VALERIE SILVER is director-choreographer for the production.

Tickets are on sale at Bixby Knolls Music Center, 4508 Atlantic Ave.; Valerie Silver Theater Arts Studio, 2740 E. Broadway; Rose's Hardware, 4132 Viking Way; Long Beach Dance Academy, 729 South St.; and Suzy's School of Dance, 6540 E. Spring St. Tickets also will be on sale at the box office.

Ludington Collection Spans History of Art

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"From the Ludington Collection" will be on display at Dickinson Art Center, UCLA, through April 12. This show reflects the felicitous combination of taste, an informed background and means.

Wright Ludington, who has built his Santa Barbara home around works of art from all over the world, ranging from the third millenium B. C. to the present, was born to parents who collected. He is, himself, a trained artist. His collecting began in the early 1920s. Two of his first acquisitions are Picasso's "Woman with a Turban 1923" and Braque's "Nude."

• • • •

THE COLLECTION does not follow any pre-conceived pattern. Primarily, the works themselves are exciting—the head of Gudea of 2200 B.C., the Braques, Picassos, the Morris Graves, the dynamic sculptures of Maillol, Zajac, Manzu, Lipton.

Secondly, is the excitement of seeing them together — a small contemporary sculpture finding its place among those of ancient Sumer, Egypt, China, India, Greece, and Rome. Throughout the exhibit there are sculptured hands: an alabaster one of Kephren of Egypt's fourth dynasty, with contemporaries by Rodin, Koenig, Moore, and Zadkine.

• • • •

IN ALL, there are 194 works in this exhibit. As a human being, one can rejoice in membership in a species which has produced such expressions. A great debt is owed to Ludington who provides in our time and place the vicarious participation for the public in this "voyage through a few facets of art history."

Durante to Debut in Round

Jimmy Durante will make his theater-in-the-round debut Saturday night when his "Jimmy Durante Show" opens a nine-day run at Melodyland Theater in Anaheim.

In May, the Orange County Performing Arts Foundation will offer three special attractions at Melodyland. Scheduled are Puccini's opera "Madame Butterfly," May 5, 7 and 9; Jack Linkletter's "Folk Festival," May 8; and Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" to be performed by the Los Angeles Festival Orchestra under the direction of Franz Waxman May 25.

Magnolia to Stage 'Taming of Shrew'

Robert Quarry and Pat Brown star in 'Taming of the Shrew," Shakespeare's merry, rowdy comedy which opens Thursday at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Performances will continue Thursdays through Sundays for a four-week run. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursdays and Sundays, 8:30 p. m. Fridays and Saturdays.

• • •

QUARRY plays the role of Petruchio, bold suitor of Katharina. He made his Shakespearean debut in "As You Like It" with Katherine Hepburn in New York City and has acted with the Shakespearean companies of Maurice Evans and Margaret Webster. He is a graduate of Actors Studio in New York and Actors Lab in Los Angeles, has appeared in motion pictures and has done extensive television work.

Robert Quarry

Career Short but Exciting

Major and Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON
L.B.-P-T Music Critic

The Vienna Choir Boys, whose concert delighted a capacity audience at Long Beach City College recently, have a unique and interesting background which might prove of interest to my readers.

There were 22 boys in the choir that appeared here and their ages ranged from 9 to 14 years. These boys have been trained, not only as singers, but as pupils of Vienna's world famous school, the "Hofmusikkappelle," which has been in existence for nearly 500 years. Three choirs are being trained at all times, two of which make tours all over the world. One choir must always be in Vienna for services at St. Stephen's Church and other musical activities. It is so planned that the youngsters are rotated so that every boy may have an opportunity to visit the different countries on tour before his voice changes.

* * * *

WHILE ON TOUR they are accompanied by their conductor, a teacher and a nurse. Twelve hours of sleep are required, if traveling schedules allow, and a nap after lunch is also a part of the routine. There is a short rehearsal before lunch and sight-seeing fills a few hours. The nurse cooks for the boys whenever possible as strange food sometimes upsets little stomachs.

These tours are a grand adventure for the young lads; meeting new people, hearing foreign languages, seeing wonderful sights and scenery and hearing the warm applause at their concerts. And they appreciate the rare privilege of being one of the famous Vienna Choir Boys.

* * * *

EACH YEAR thousands of boys are presented at the school by hopeful parents, but only 100 are accepted. It is a short career at best, as most boys voices change after 14 years. But even then, the boy whose voice has changed, does not become a "has been." The organization maintains another home in Vienna where their education is continued and their future planned. Naturally, many of the boys become professional musicians, others enter other professions. Recently at a reunion party of former choir boys, 37 attending held doctors degrees.

* * * *

IN THE AUGARTEN Palace near the center of Vienna it the Hofmusikkapelle School. A typical day's schedule runs like this: up at 6:15 a.m., wash, dress and a short morning prayer before breakfast. Classes are from 8 a.m. to noon. Lunch is followed by a 45 minute play period. Rehearsals and study fill the afternoon. Dinner is at 7 p.m. and bedtime, 8 o'clock.

The boys are trained to be responsible. They hang up their clothes neatly, polish their shoes daily and comb their hair without being told. When on tour their operetta costumes are packed neatly and their wigs, costumes and uniforms are treated with loving care.

Angelic as is their appearance on stage, they are "all boy" away from the concert hall, frisky and playful as boys should be. Their superb training and spontaneous, delightful performances have earned them the name of "Singing Ambassadors." Certainly they are spreading good will on their tours.

What's That? A Hat, Sir?

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

With the coming of Easter, femmes of all ages can expect the usual assortment of devastating comments from males regarding their new chapeaux. This may range from, "I didn't know they were wearing potted geraniums this year," to "Oh, so THAT'S where my hub cap went!"

If you're not quite resigned to this verbal abuse, you'll be interested in some info we've dug up that may make your guy eat crow—OR, more appropriately, his hat.

Fact is, ever since the first cave dweller donned a bit of fur or animal skin, men have worn some pretty fantastic headgear, as witness these facts gleaned from the Encyclopedia International:

In ancient Egypt, for example, men shaved their heads Yul Brynner-style and then sported the cutest wigs, tightly curled and dyed bright colors.

In the Middle Ages, a popular chapeaux for menfolk was the liripipe. This can best be described as a scarf that enclosed the neck and entire head, except for the face. Tails trailed down the back as far as the knees!

AND THEN there's the Renaissance. During that period he-men gaily sported silk or velvet berets adorned with gold embroidery, plumage and jewelry.

If your man pooh-poohs these historic examples and adamantly maintains it could never happen again, point out that your hat he laughs at today, he himself may be wearing tomorrow.

Not a chance, he claims. No woman can influence HIS headgear!

Well, it's happened before. All the noblemen in the day of Elizabeth I adopted the great beaver hat which she habitually wore—and it remained in fashion for several hundred years.

OF COURSE, you can talk your head off and he'll probably say your Easter bonnet is for the birds—you know, something like "It really would make a nice bird's nest."

And then after church, when you go to the beach, chances are he'll plop one of those fancy fun hats on his head . . .

You know, the kind with the tiny palm trees and the golf tees. (Tee-hee!)

Katie Davidson Wed in Garden Rite

In a garden wedding Saturday at the Ventura home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Craig, Katherine Lansing Davidson of Long Beach became the bride of John Lawrence Wiberg, Denver, Colo.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Davidson, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Davidson. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. John Theodore Wiberg of Denver.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Craig, the bride wore a white taffeta gown fashioned along princess lines with lace and pearl appliques encrusting the front panel. Her illusion veil was caught to a crown of matching pearls and lace and her cascade bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis.

Susan Lee Davidson attended her sister as maid of honor and Jennifer Adams and Mrs. Craig Gladen were bridesmaids. They wore aquamarine shade gowns and carried yellow daffodils.

The bridegroom was served by his brother, Curtis Paul Wiberg, as best man. Ushers were Douglas Tamkin and Donald Vine.

• • • •

IMMEDIATE family members and close friends witnessing the vow exchange were bidden to a luncheon reception following at the Craig home.

The newlyweds will be at home in Palo Alto following a honeymoon trip to Northern California.

Mrs. Wiberg was graduated from Wilson High School and Stanford University. Her husband did his under-graduate work at Wesleyan University in Connecticut and now is in his fourth year of medical school at Stanford University.

'TOMORROW'S TECHNIQUES TODAY'

New Method for School Lunches

REVOLUTIONARY developments in equipment, management techniques and automation are rapidly changing methods of school lunch preparation. These will be the subjects of California School Food Service Association's conference which opens today with sessions at Municipal Auditorium. Above, Frances Williams (left) of Long Beach shows Mrs. Richard Zwaschka of Bellflower equipment in Long Beach Unified School District's central kitchen at 27th Street and Pine Avenue. Miss Williams is general chairman of conference; Mrs. Zwaschka is in charge of local arrangements. Demonstrations will take theme, "Tomorrow's Techniques Today."

Frances Williams talks matter-of-factly about preparing 600 gallons of Italian spaghetti and meat sauce, 12,000 servings of apple crisp and 300 gallons of cole slaw—typical items on the elementary school lunch. If secondary schools also are having spaghetti, the quantity for the day goes up to 1,200 gallons.

The meat sauce is prepared in steam operated kettles that stir and mix automatically and have 40 to 100 gallons capacity. The apple crisp is baked in 375 pans, 10x16 inches.

If there's mixing to be done, ingredients are put in 140-quart electric mixers that have hydraulic lifts for bowls.

• • • •

MISS WILLIAMS, director of food services for Long Beach schools, says, "With increasing school enrollment and the trend toward making school cafeterias self-supporting, we constantly need faster, better equipment and we must keep up with the newest ideas."

It is for this purpose, the exchange of ideas with a view toward better school lunches, that members will attend the 11th annual conference of the California School Food Service Association which opens today with headquarters at Lafayette Hotel. Miss Williams is general chairman.

• • • • •

THE ORGANIZATION, made up of school cafeteria supervisors, managers, and personnel throughout the state, will hold sessions through Tuesday at Municipal Auditorium.

Talks and demonstrations will be given by experts and commercial exhibits will show innovations in institutional cooking equipment and methods. Conference theme is "Tomorrow's Techniques Today."

Workshop topics will include "Short Cuts and Labor Savers," "Do It Yourself Psychology" and "Financial Management in the School Cafeteria."

• • • •

STATE PRESIDENT Maurine Chapman, supervisor of food services for Little Lake School District, will preside at the opening session when delegates will be welcomed by W. Odie Wright, superintendent of Long Beach Unified School District.

At the installation banquet which will close the conference Tuesday, Mrs. A'Dele Sturtevant of Redwood City will be inducted as state president.

Keep Your Guard Up

Somewhere there may be a land where finesses always work and suits never break badly, but until we find that never-never land, it behooves us to guard against unsuccessful finesses and bad breaks.

West makes his normal club opening and continues the suit. If South is at all careless, he will ruff that second club and go after trumps. The 4-1 break will make it impossible for him to pull all West's trumps without using all his own and when he loses the diamond finesse East will lead a third club and another contract will go down the drain.

Declarer will have been unlucky, but his bad luck will be due to his own carelessness. If South just stops to think at trick two he can guard against both the four-one trump break and the losing finesse. Furthermore, he can take those precautions at no risk at all.

South should note that his deuce of hearts is going to be a losing trick no matter how the play goes and he should simply discard it on the second club.

• • • •

WEST will continue clubs and South will ruff the third lead. Then he will go after trumps and should play them all, in order to pull West's last tooth.

Finally, South will lose the diamond finesse. East will be in the lead but he won't have any clubs left. He'll have to give South the remaining tricks.

WHY GROW OLD?

Make-Up Improves Appearance

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Make-up has a terrific influence on the way we look. Too much is aging and too little underplays beauty. Here are a few things to remember.

1. Rouge highlights or makes more prominent the area on which it is applied. Therefore the wide face or the one which is quite round or large looks slimmer if the rouge is worn close to the nose.

If the face is very long or thin, do just the opposite. Wear rouge on the outer portions of the face, away from the nose.

2. Dark powder subdues or makes less noticeable while light powder highlights and calls attention to the portion of the face to which it is applied. For this reason many experts advise dark powder on the sides of a nose which is too wide and light powder on the bridge of the nose. If it is too thin or too long, reverse the technique.

3. Do not apply rouge too low on the face. This is aging. Give your face a lift by placing it higher on the face.

4. Beware of powdering over wrinkles. Your make-up base should be very light. Otherwise base and powder will settle in the wrinkles and make them much more noticeable.

5. Dark eye shadow is not usually flattering to the older woman.

6. If you apply your mascara with a brush rather than rolling it on, be sure that the brush is not too wet. It should be just barely damp in order to avoid a beaded look.

• • •

7. NEVER use a black eyebrow pencil except in combination with a brown one. It is too harsh when used alone, even if you are a brunette.

8. Be sure that your lips are dry and clean before using your lipstick. Begin the application at the center of the lips and work out to the corners. Blot with tissue. A light powdering will help keep the rouge from running into any little lines you may have above the upper lip. There is also a product designed to help camouflage these little lines. It is colorless and is used under your regular lipstick.

If you would like to have my leaflet about make-up, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 50 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Putnam's a Good Egg Cook

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

Anything that came out of that oven might amaze him — but apparently not surprise him. Or, perhaps, today's candidate for Chef of the Week, Attorney Leonard Putnam's expression could be one of hopeful anticipation.

Putnam was elected City Attorney by the Long Beach City Council in February of this year.

Born in Long Beach, Putnam attended St. Matthew's Elementary, Will Rogers Junior High, finishing at Wilson High School in 1944, just in time to join the U. S. Navy as radio operator, seaman first class.

Chef of the Week

After two years in the service, he entered USC for pre-law work, later transferred to UCLA as a political science major and was graduated magna cum laude from Southwestern Law School in Los Angeles in 1953.

• • • • •

WHILE STILL in law school, he worked as an insurance investigator. For a year prior to joining the city attorney's staff, he was in private practice here. In 1955 he was appointed deputy city attorney for Long Beach, which position he held until his late appointment as city attorney.

Putnam's legal experience includes work on ordinances, drafting contracts, tax assessment matters, street opening and vacating, appellate practice and personal injury trials. He has appeared in federal court in bankruptcy, tax, admiralty and criminal, and as advisor to the Civil Service Court.

A member of the Barristers of Long Beach, he belongs to the American, the California and the Long Beach Bar Associations. He's also associated with the 100 Club, Boy Scouts of America and is a coach in the Catholic Boys Baseball League.

• • • • •

PUTNAM has both an artistic sense, and that of a builder. He designs and builds model airplanes and miniature boats, complete with motors. He's an excellent swimmer, he bowls in the Mariposa League and likes to fish. His finesse at pinochle is said to be a bit dubious.

The Putnam family consists of wife, Lillian, daughter, Nancy, and two pups of questionable ancestry.

Our "Chef" loves to barbecue. Contends not too much can go wrong with a good barbecue sauce in the making. While not what one might call an organized cook, he's never in a state of uncertainty. He has patience, determination and is great at contriving and substituting should some ingredient be lacking in the larder. And . . . if the motor goes out—well, he'll turn by hand.

But, we'll expand no longer on his abilities at the barbecue pit. He's come up today with a recipe for Eggs Lillian. We're not sure whether it's "His" or "Hers."

EGGS LILLIAN

Combine 6 tablespoons ground ham, 2 tablespoons minced parsley and a little pepper. Butter 6 muffin tins and pat onto sides and bottom of each tin some of the ham-parsley mixture, reserving about ½ for topping.

Break an egg into each tin and top with cubes of cheddar cheese and remaining ham mixture. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 12 minutes or until eggs are set.

and copied it curve for curve for curve for curve.

It's the first stocking that's shaped the way you're shaped from the tip of your toe to the top of your thigh. No need to pull your stockings too tight. No bagging and snagging. No popping stitches. Even the fluted welt adjusts itself to you. Only a stocking that fits this well could be this sheer (a shadowy 14 denier) and still make sense. Extra protection: all-around runguards at top, toe, and heel. (Runs that start there get trapped there.) You own the original design. A pair, in fact. Do they look as good as they could? You'll never know till you've tried the first really faithful copy. Just Fabulous, 1.50.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He said us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

They nearly swallowed up a Spanish explorer and his company, they turned the Butterfield stage aside, but the Algodones Sand Mountains of Imperial Valley have succumbed to modern highway construction which pierces them to provide not only a rapid transportation route but a scenic diversion for winter visitors. The great dunes are soft and tawny, rippled and molded in strange designs. They cast shadows that are the delight of photographers. "Dune buggies," odd vehicles with bulging tires, traverse the sands to provide a relatively new sport. Kids ski there on old tires. These are some of the aspects of the Algodones, pictured on today's cover. For more about these shifting dunes, see Page 10.

In His Case, the Egg Came First

By Betty DeWeese

WHEN an ex-gold miner, bronco buster and expert on eggs takes up the theater —and when the theater takes up an ex-gold miner, bronco buster and expert on eggs — that's news.

No one in recent years has caused more of a stir from Maine to California than Harve Presnell, who knows all about a lot of things, but especially about Molly Brown.

Harve Presnell, who starred for more than two years as the colorful Leadville Johnny Brown in the original New York production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," makes an auspicious motion picture debut co-starred with Debbie Reynolds as Molly in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's motion picture version of the musical hit.

THE FILM contract climaxes an amazing career for the rugged, handsome, 6-foot 4-inch, 190-pound Presnell, who was born on a working ranch at Modesto on a 14th day of September. He claims the ranch turned out the greatest eggs in the world.

The versatile Presnell started singing opera as a child and at the age of 8 sang a Bach Cantata with a subsidiary of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. He became an all-around rodeo champion and bronc buster while in his teens; won a water skiing championship; excelled in football, track, basketball and swimming; and after graduation from Modesto Junior College enrolled as a special music student at the University of Southern California. During summers, he studied at the Music Academy of the West in Santa Barbara, and also did some gold mining.

While at USC, he was selected as a soloist for the Roger Wagner Chorale, and then, after singing the leading role in "David" at the Hollywood Bowl, received many offers for opera. He went to Paris for the European premiere of "David," remaining in Europe to sing more than 200 leading operatic roles.

PRESNELL was in Germany for further opera engagements when Meredith Willson telephoned him to return to New York to audition for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," writing several of the musical's hit songs especially for Presnell.

Producer Lawrence Weingarten, who had been searching for a new and exciting personality to play Johnny Brown in The Unsinkable Molly Brown," arranged the test, which immediately won Presnell a contract. Since Presnell signed at MGM, he has become one of the most-in-demand young singing stars in America. He recently co-starred with Betty Hutton for the opening of California's musical center, Melodyland, in "Annie Get Your Gun." MGM Records has placed him under contract in one of the top recording deals of the year and his first album, "Harve Presnell Sings —The World's Greatest Love Songs," will be released this year.

Harve Presnell makes film debut with Debbie Reynolds in MGM's "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." He played original New York stage role of Leadville Johnny Brown.

'Notorious, But Never Famous'

By Vynola F. Limerick

WHEN Lola Montez came to California in 1853, she had been on the stage for more than 10 years and had known the great and near great of Europe.

Her arrival in San Francisco created quite a stir because in addition to being a well known actress and dancer, Lola was noted for her dazzling beauty and daring, vivacious ways.

More than 100 years have passed since Lola Montez sailed through the Golden Gate. How much is fact and what is fiction of the thousands of words that have been written about her is hard to say but all narrators agree that there was never a dull moment when the lively Lola was around.

Maria Dolores Eliza Rosanna Gilbert was born in Limerick, Ireland—her birth date ranges from 1818 to 1824—of an Irish father and a Spanish-Moorish mother. She used Lola, diminutive for Dolores, most of her life.

ALL THROUGH her life, the dramatic Lola made up stories about her background, claiming to be the daughter of Lord Byron; vowing she was the child of a Spanish gypsy; her father was a native Prince of India — and other similar tales. One spiteful acquaintance topped her by saying she was born of a cockney washerwoman.

By the time Lola was 14, she was living in India where her father, Capt. Edward Gilbert, had been ordered for English army duty. When she discovered her mother, who didn't want to be bothered with her spirited child, was making secret plans to marry her off to 60-year-old Judge Lumley, rich and rheumatic, she eloped with a young lieutenant. The pair repented at leisure, and Lt. Thomas James, bored with his child bride, ran away with a fellow officer's wife.

Lola bade a tearless farewell to India and sailed for England. There she discarded domesticity and permanently adopted the name of Lola Montez to go on the stage. With castanets clicking, her debut was a success. But, according to all accounts, it was not due to any terpsichorean talent.

THE NEW TOAST of the town was undeniably a great beauty with violet blue eyes fringed with long lashes, a creamy white skin and raven hair. Lola also possessed a trim figure with small feet and shapely legs.

In no time at all the popular dancer was hobnobbing with kings, noblemen and top-flight writers and artists of the day. Through her friendship with the King of Bavaria, she became the Countess of Lansfield—later she acquired the title of Baroness of Rosenthal.

Soon, however, her personal affairs were in a tangled mess and the enchanting Lola packed her trunks with jewelry and other finery. She booked passage to America in search of new fields to conquer.

Her reception in eastern United States was luke warm, so she set sail for California.

WHEN SHE arrived on the West Coast, she again sought

Body of this merry little duck for Easter decoration is the shell of an egg.

The Eggshell and You

By Lorena Fleissig

FOR the party giver, eggs must do more than provide a nutritious meal. As soon as the contents are removed, the porcelain-like eggshell becomes chameleon-like in assuming almost any character the imagination, or the season, calls for.

Easter, eggs and ducklings are symbolic of spring and creation. Nothing could be simpler than conjuring up a fuzzy appearing, waddly baby duck with an eggshell as the base.

To prepare the egg, force a darning needle point into the shell near the pointed end of the egg. Lift off a piece of shell the size of a nickel. This is preferable to blowing out the contents. In this way the egg contents may emerge with the yolk unbroken. The shell is then rinsed out and dried.

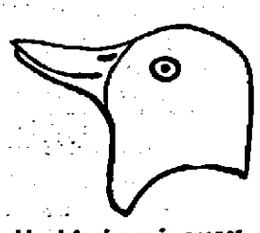

When the inside is thoroughly dry, cover the hole with a piece of thin white paper, or typing paper. Cut the paper circle only a little larger than the hole and paste carefully with white liquid glue. Press the patched place into the palm of the hand, gently, to seal it.

THE SHELL may be left brown or white as originally colored or it may be tinted, perhaps yellow, in several ways. Use water color or poster paints, cake coloring or a spray paint. Before painting or tinting, be sure the shell is grease-free of finger marks. The shell may be scoured lightly with very fine sandpaper.

In drawing the head for the duck, decide to enlarge or reduce it in proportion to the size of the eggshell. A plain white index card from a recipe file is good firm paper on which to draw the head which can be finished with ink or black laundry pencil.

The duckling in the picture

How Long Beach Has Halted Subsidence

By Lou Jobst

Contour lines of this aerial photo indicate Long Beach subsidence bowl at its peak. The sinkage ranged from 28 feet near the Edison plant on Terminal Island to 1.5 feet near the Municipal Airport, as seen in the outer line.

LONG BEACH might have gone down in history as a Space Age Atlantis, but for one of the most audacious and remarkable engineering projects in modern times.

This project, begun in 1953 and technically called a water flood, has seen more than 33½ billion gallons or 815 million barrels of water poured into the underground to keep a 20-square-mile section of the city and harbor from sinking into the sea.

The massive water injection, costing $30 million to date, has not only completely halted subsidence, a term for the sinkage, but promises to earn additional millions of dollars of oil revenues in the near future.

Subsidence traces its origin back to the discovery of oil in the harbor tidelands in 1936.

THE COLLAPSE or sinking of the land caused by the removal of the gas and oil began very slowly and was virtually undetected until the end of World War II.

Then it picked up speed and by 1951-52 some areas were sinking into the sea at a rate of 30 inches a year and the center of the subsidence bowl, situated on Terminal Island, had dropped 28 feet. Some places in the sprawling downtown had slipped two to five feet. The outer edge of the bowl extended well past Signal Hill.

Local leaders searched for a method to meet this menace and decided to gamble on water flood, a technique that had been tried out in the Middle East oil fields, but not on such a vast scale or in such a complex situation.

Engineers were faced with the problem of getting the water to the right places at the right time in a field which is composed of six fault blocks and seven oil zones, that range from 2,000 to 6,000 feet below the surface of the earth.

ALSO NEEDED were the agreement and approval of about a dozen private oil companies and thousands of land owners with direct interests in the oil field.

These were obtained, a new technology was literally built from the ground up and the first water injection plant was put into operation on Pier A in 1953.

Subsequently, six other injection plants, servicing 223 injection wells, have been put into service and two more are on the drawing boards.

Salt water for the flood is obtained from several shallow source wells situated about 150 to 400 feet deep. This water is de-sanded and treated to inhibit bacterial corrosion.

THE GREATEST volumes of water are injected in the areas immediately surrounding the oil pools at pressures of up to 2,000 pounds per square inch.

Not only does the repressurization of the oil and gas chambers keep the land from sinking, but the injected water drives the oil ahead of it, upward and outward toward the petroleum wells, greatly stepping up the amount of oil recovered.

The daily flood was 5,000 barrels of water in 1953; 180,000 barrels in 1958 and is 525,000 barrels per day at present. During the next 25 years, engineers estimate, another 16 billion barrels of water will be injected into the field.

The water flood, these same experts say, will increase the productivity of the field, the second largest in the U. S., by 75 per cent.

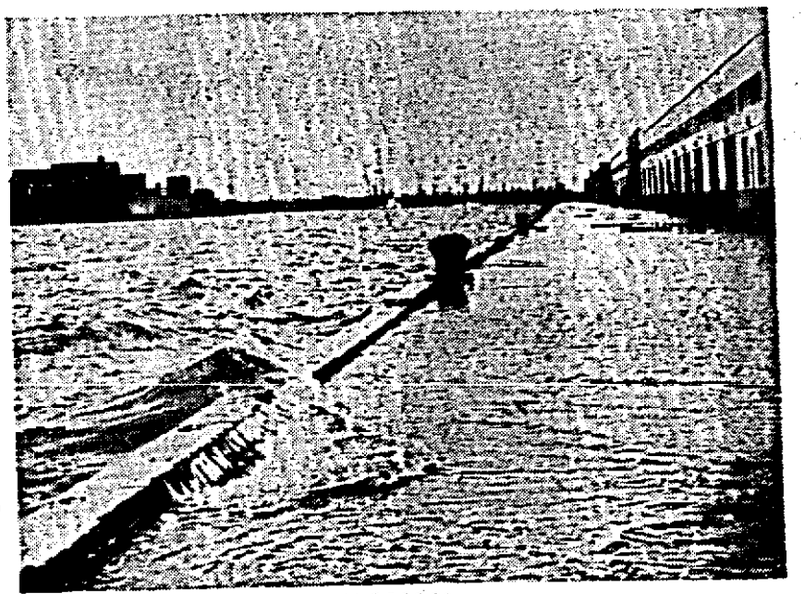

THEY ESTIMATE the flood, since 1953, has resulted in the recovery of an additional 95 million barrels of oil over what production would have been with traditional methods.

Water injection during the next quarter century will result in bringing the ultimate productivity of the entire tidelands field to 1.7 billion barrels of oil, 700 million barrels more than could be retrieved without water flood.

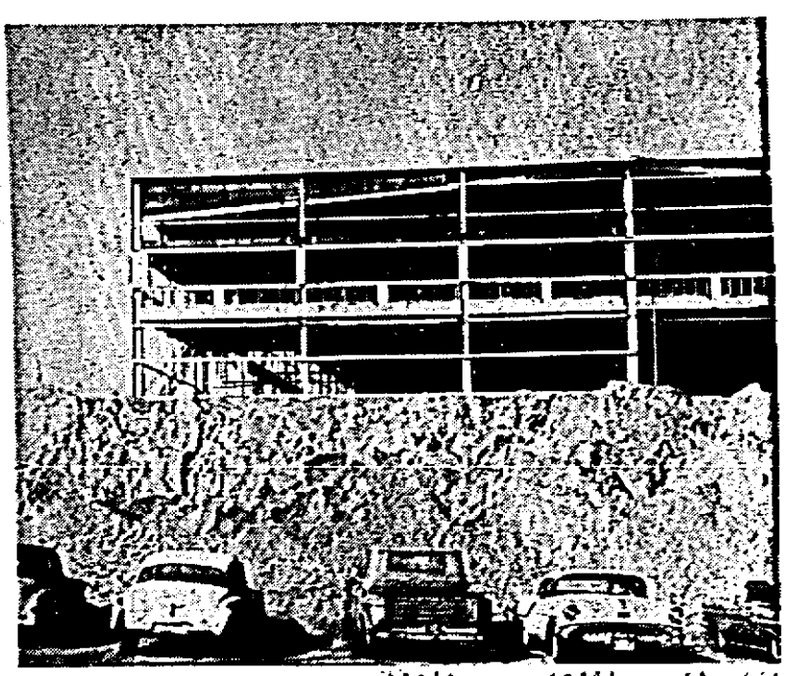

This means $1.6 billion in additional gross revenues.

The big accomplishment in any terms, however, has been the arresting of subsidence.

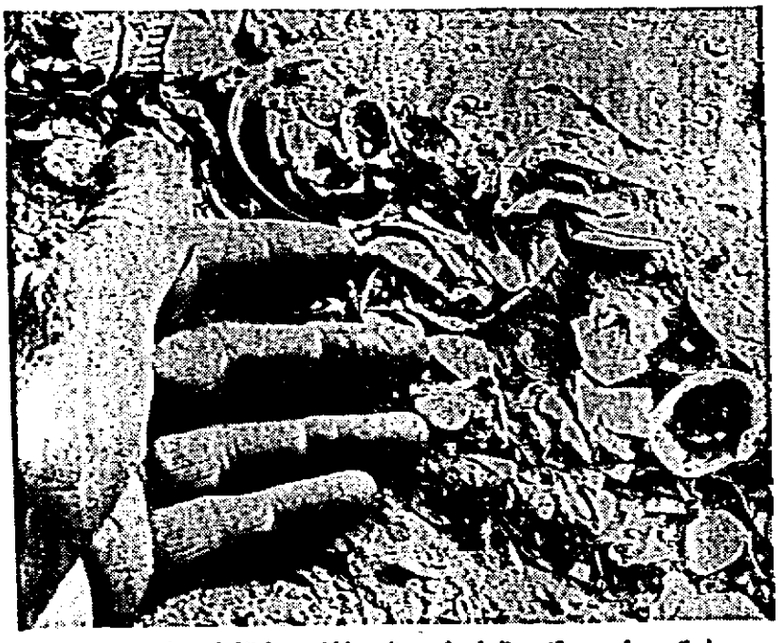

Not only has it been halted, but the land is rising in some locations.

Water pouring over northern edge of Pier A graphically illustrates extent of subsidence. The pier was awash several times before remedial work

Millions of dollars have been spent by the city in subsidence correction. One illustration is this huge fill of earth to restore the pre-sinkage level.

Digging through kitchen middens (term for Indian village refuse piles), like this layer of discarded shells, searchers unearth clues to history.

What was Southern California like before white man came?

'Pothunters' Dig Into Our History

By Frank Finch

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, a Johnny-come-lately among the world's major centers of civilization, is a land still searching for its past.

While libraries have been filled with the histories of the region under the Spanish and the Yankees, the pages covering the prewhite past are largely blank.

This shadowy, obscure and, until recently, neglected time—ending about 200 years ago—is being reconstructed in bits and pieces by a small, but industrious band of amateur archeologists and historians commonly known as "pothunters."

Working in concert with professionals, these weekend diggers have uncovered scores of aboriginal ruins during the past 10 years and have put together a pretty good picture of what life in the Southland was like before the advent of western civilization.

IT WAS A FAR different place!

There were no swaying palm trees or towering stands of eucalyptus, or citrus (all imported by the white man) or cultivated fields. What is today metropolitan Long Beach-Los Angeles was a vast, virtually treeless plain covered with mustard grass that grew 10 feet tall.

This great plain was rimmed on three sides by towering mountain ranges and on the fourth by the Pacific Ocean. Numerous streams and the beds of four great rivers meandered across it, flowing sluggishly from the foothills to the sea.

On the slopes of the foothills grew thick stands of oak, fir and pine, and in the river beds, slender alders and leafy willows.

HERE AND THERE in a seemingly random fashion, were situated the villages of the Gabrieleno Indians, semi-nomadic hunters who built small thatched huts, wore little clothing and worshipped a weird god called Chinigchinix.

A rather large Gabrieleno village, numbering possibly 1,500 huts, stood on the site of present-day Los Altos. Discovery of the village site was made in 1932 by workers building a shopping center. Another village stood on a bluff overlooking the Santa Ana River in what is today Costa Mesa. This site was uncovered about three years ago. Still another village was perched on the white limestone bluffs of Upper Newport Bay.

THESE AND MORE than a dozen other sites have been excavated in the past few years and have yielded tons of artifacts and a growing insight into the culture of these native Californians.

Kitchen middens, as the village refuse piles are called, reveal the Gabrieleno hunted deer and other small game with a bow and arrow, was a skilled fisherman and crude craftsman. He seemed to prefer to summer near the mountains where he gathered acorns for his native bread, and spend the winters at the beach where he subsisted largely on shellfish and other marine life.

No one is certain how numerous were the Gabrielenos, the last of the tribe died about a half-century ago, but they occupied all of Los Angeles and Orange Counties, the western sections of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties and several of the Channel islands, including San Clemente and Santa Catalina.

THE OFFSHORE residents commuted to the mainland, where they traded cooking utensils made of soapstone and semi-precious stones, in outrigger canoes.

"They were probably the most earnest and sophisticated of the Indians of the region," claims one historian.

The Gabrieleno culture included burial (a universal mark of civilization and thoughtfulness among primitive man) and the worship of the feathered god, Chinigchinix.

The idol of Chinigchinix was commonly a collection of animal parts (lion claws, hawk beaks, deer horns, bird feathers) wrapped together in a coyote pelt and placed on a rude altar in a clearing. Upon the altar sacrifices of small game, usually birds, were made.

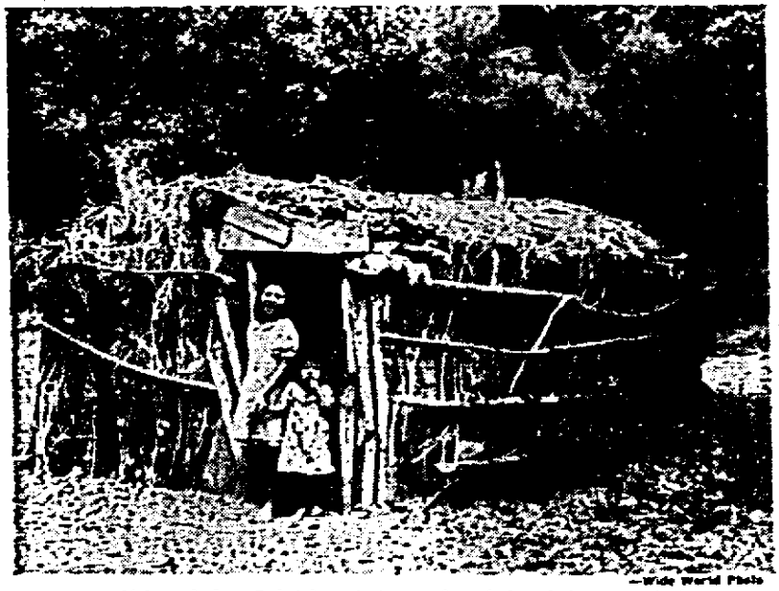

AMONG THE MORE curious customs of these people was the birth purification ceremony in which a mother and newly born infant were

It is believed that Gabrieleno Indians, who inhabited the coastal plain, built thatched huts, perhaps like this Arizona hogan, in which to live.

BEWARE THE 'MECHANIC'S GRIP,' AND KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN

Just How Friendly Is That Little Game?

By Robert Hazelleaf

MOST OF US have the idea that cheating at cards went out with Mississippi River boats, or with that glamorous age when wealthy suckers commuted between New York and Europe on fast, luxury liners. We picture the typical card sharp as a devilishly handsome bounder, decked out in frock coat and gold brocade vest, or at least a tuxedo. Naturally, the games were for high stakes and the debonair villain plied his trade with impunity—a romantic crook who stole from the rich and kept it, but never touched us small fry.

Dave Alexander, a 21-year-old Lakewood magician and card trick specialist, has other ideas.

"According to John Scarne, a well-known authority on cards and gambling," says Alexander, "there were 62 million decks of playing cards manufactured last year. Hundreds of thousands of decks were bought by specialty houses that exist only to doctor legitimate cards for cheating."

ALEXANDER drives the point home by reminding the reader that some nationally-circulated magazines run ads every month, calling attention to card novelties that are nothing more than marked decks, gadgets that permit cheating without detection, even trick eyeglasses that let a player read an entire pack from the back.

"You know who buys those gadgets?" Dave asks, then answers his own question. "Amateurs. The guy down the street who wants to win at poker, gin rummy, pinochle, even a complicated game like bridge. One company sells marked cards and red-tinted contact lenses for something like $160 a set. This is supposed to be a sure-fire guarantee of big winners. But there's a catch. Did you ever see a man with purple eyes? How long do you think he'd last in a game?"

The magician points out that, among professionals, the mail order "gaffs" would be pretty crude, immediately detected by any intelligent player.

He describes a Rube Goldberg device known as a "holdout" that works from up a player's sleeve. A spring mechanism retains cards for release at the flexing of a muscle, placing wanted cards in the hand, retrieving others. The package sells for something like $95.

"IMAGINE a man trying that in a really serious game," Alexander suggests. "Within five minutes, the others at the table would break the holdout and the arm that operated it."

If the statistics on trick cards and gadgetry are correct, it seems there's a lot of cheating going on in friendly card games with neighborhood and club groups. Just to plant a tiny seed of suspicion, maybe there's a good reason for one couple or person winning so consistently in the weekly penny-ante game.

But, if the tricks delivered in plain wrapper, COD, are next to useless, how does the cheating go on?

"All it takes is time and skill," says Alexander, who specializes in closeup magic at nightclub tables with an emphasis on card tricks. "A good card sharp can go into a game cold. By the time the deal gets to him in a five-man game, he has already crimped, nicked or fingernailed aces and kings. When he deals, he takes a peek (the "glimpse") at the top card, bottom, or both. If either is good, he'll wind up with one or both in his hand, simply by second or bottom dealing. A good man can deal the second or third card, or even the bottom, at will and not get caught."

IT BEGINS with the "mechanic's grip," a way of holding the pack that allows the whole hand to work when necessary. When that grip is used in a game, watch out! With it, cards can be dealt even from the middle of the deck.

Well, then, doesn't cutting the cards take care of cheats? To an extent. But a good mechanic can place the pack in its original order and make it look like an honest cut. Or he can crimp half the deck as he passes it for cutting. With that slight bend in the cards, he can find the spot again and work from there.

"You see," Dave explains, "in a big game, the cheater is usually a pretty good player. All he needs is a sure hand at the right time."

There's a rule, "Never play for money with strangers."

WITH THAT, too, there is a ploy. Suppose a "salesman" drops in on a client, or a "patient" to see a local doctor. After a couple of visits, conversation gets around to the Wednesday night, two-bit-limit card game, and why not drop around? The man is no longer a stranger, and is accepted by the group as a vouched-for friend.

"A good mechanic is a better sleight-of-hand expert than most of us magicians," Alexander declares. "We can work with a line of patter, use any distraction we like. But the card sharp must work close to his opponents who watch every move. Some are real artists with cards. They keep moving from one city to another to stay in business. If they're careful, they can work for years without detection."

A national magazine recently told of a mathematics professor who, with the help of a computer, has devised a system to win consistently at blackjack in the casinos of Nevada. He wins often enough to be blackballed wherever he tries to work.

"Old stuff," says young Dave. "Gamblers have been doing it for years, without computers, although electronics have simplified the mental work."

THE SYSTEM rests on a combination of photographic memory and knowledge of the game. First, the gambler must occupy the last seat to be dealt. Second, he must be able to memorize every card as it's played. Then, when the deck is about three-quarters dealt, he knows the remaining cards and makes his move. His $3 or $4 bet becomes a table limit of perhaps $200, and he knows almost for a certainty that he will win. With a large enough stake to handle an evening's play, the sharpie can leave the table with a substantial roll. It's no method for the faint of heart, or for those with poor memories.

"Remember," Dave says, "the big-time gambler doesn't try to win on every hand. He may work most of an evening setting himself up both psychologically and mechanically for his opponents. All he wants to do is make his score and leave some for next time. That way, he remains in business and above suspicion.

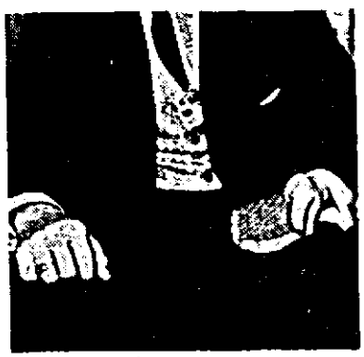

And what about the amateurs, those who patronize the gimmick mail order houses? According to Dave Alexander, they soon learn that using gadgetry calls for a dexterity they don't possess. The only out left for them is the marked cards at $2 to $5 a deck, but even they are far from foolproof.

A GOOD TEST for marked cards is simple. Modern pasteboards are as consistently and precisely printed as machinery and quality control can make them. Borders, designs, tiny details always appear at exactly the same spot on every card. Grip a deck and flip through the cards, design toward you, much as you did the childhood "movies" that came in cereal boxes. If there is anything amiss, it will stand out, regardless of back design. Details will seem to move or jump as cards are flipped.

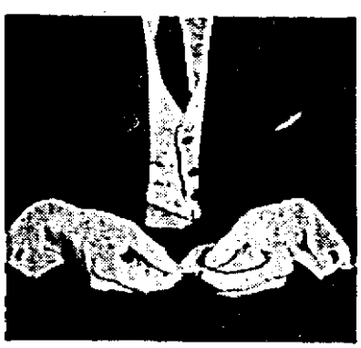

As a final word, beware the "mechanic's grip," keep your eyes open, and be sure you know the new fellow who just came in with Charley.

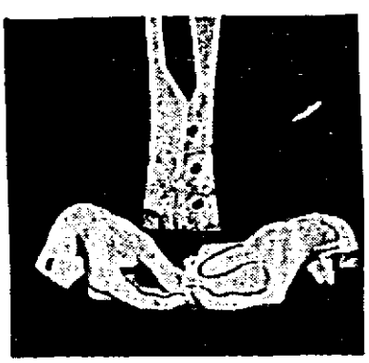

When a gamblin' man cuts cards like this, it is no cut; the deck is returned to its original sequence.

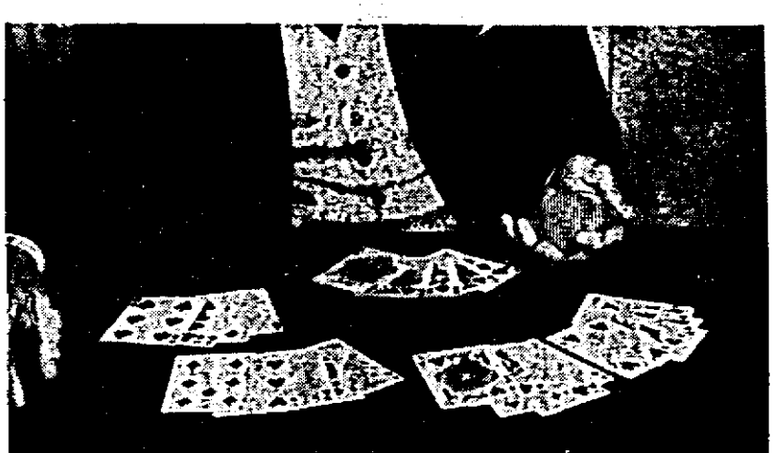

"Mechanics's grip" lets a clever and fast dealer work the second, third, bottom, even center cards.

Dave Alexander "second deals" a card which, without the camera, would seem to come off the top.

"Bottom deal" works smoothly if properly done. Deal is so fast a keen eye is needed to detect.

The Sands of the Algodones

By Alan McElwain

IN GREAT soft mounds tawny as a lion's hide, the Algodones Sand Mountains stretch for 45 miles along the Imperial Valley in Southern California.

The Spanish explorer Juan Bautista de Anza barely got out of them alive. The old Butterfield stage line couldn't get through and had to detour south through Mexico.

But today, thanks to modern highways, the Algodones are an exciting sightseeing experience for winter travelers.

This is an area that, aside from the sand mountains, is full of all sorts of interesting and unusual sights and experiences, according to the region's All-Year Club.

IMPERIAL VALLEY, beside the Mexican border at the extreme southeast corner of California, is a former desert sink, once the bottom of the Gulf of Baja California, and now mostly below the level of the Pacific Ocean 80 miles away.

The town of Calipatria, 184 feet below sea level, has its famous flag pole exactly that high, reputedly the tallest flag pole in the country, so its flag can wave at sea level.

Bottom of the sink is filled by Salton Sea, 235 feet below sea level, an orphaned ocean for warm winter fishing for the big sporty Corvina, swimming, boating and water skiing.

There's almost no rain, so they get water from what's reputed to be the biggest man-made river, the All-American Canal, 200 feet wide and 80 miles long, reaching to the Colorado River. There are more miles of irrigation canals than roadways in the valley.

HARVESTS are in winter. So are the harvest celebrations—Niland's Tomato Festival, Holtville's Carrot Carnival and the California Mid-Winter Fair at Imperial are held in February.

Along the eastern rim of this valley the Algodones Sand Mountains have humped up, even 90 feet high, always a frustrating block to transportation—until recently.

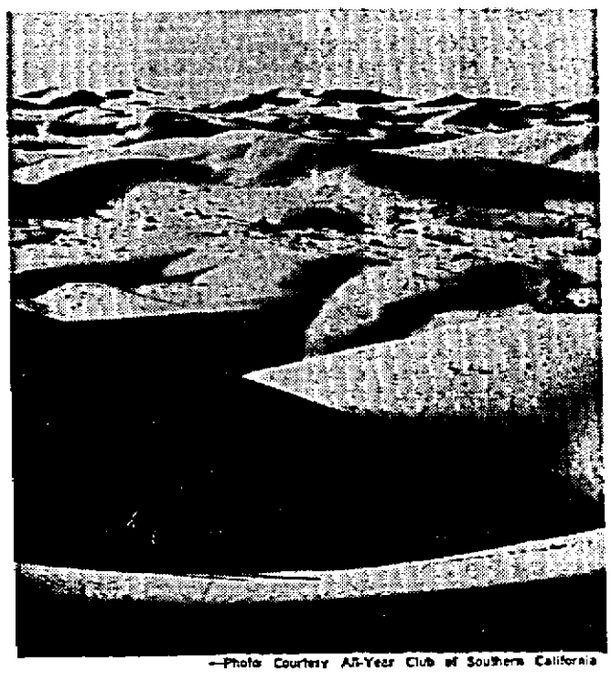

First there was the Old Plank Road, once the only way over the dunes, and even then you had to dip the right car wheels in the sand to let another auto pass. Remnants of the Old Plank Road are still there beside the modern freeway of Highway 80.

Newest of the ways across the dunes is the Glamis road eastward from the city of Brawley. It cuts through giant dunes and crosses fills 80 feet high in this boundless ocean of sand.

Up the very highest dune of the range, engineers ran a branch roadway with a paved observation platform on the top. The panorama is fantastic. Beyond the waves and mounds of sand, to the north and east are the bare rock Chocolate Mountains (they look like blobs of melting ice cream). To the east and southeast the flat tops of the Picacho and the Cargo Muchacho mountains with the Tumcho gold mine ghost town. Southward, the mountains of Mexico.

WHAT LOOKS like a squat short bug scurrying over the sand, up grade and down dip, becomes at closer view to be one of the queer "dune buggies," especially shortened autos with bulging tires. As the sport becomes more popular, platoons of these vehicles criss-cross the sands. Add to that the youngsters sand skiing on old rubber tires, and the dunes near the highway can become a mass of trails.

But not by tomorrow morning — the winds will have blown them out into smooth, soft tawny mounds again.

Molded by the winds of time, Algodones Sand Mountains provide interesting sightseeing for winter visitors.

Dirty, Maybe, But Stainless

By John Ronson

WILE Frenchmen carry gleaming new coins made of stainless steel, natives on Yap Island still use one of the oldest-known forms of money. Their "coinage" consists of huge round stones, one of which can be exchanged for ten thousand coconuts — or for one wife!

The U.S. five-cent coin, the nickel, is so-called because it is composed of an alloy of nickel and copper—but there was a time when nickels didn't contain even a gram of nickel! During World War II, our country needed all available nickel for its defense program; consequently, from Oct. 11, 1942, to Dec. 31, 1945, the composition of U.S. nickels was 35 per cent silver, 56 per cent copper and 9 per cent manganese.

Many coin collectors — or "numismatists" — had a silvery gleam in their eyes recently when it was announced that these nickels are now worth more than seven cents each! Due to the gradual rise in the price of silver since 1961 (it's currently selling for $1.293 an ounce), the amount of silver in each of these World War II nickels is worth two cents more than the face value on the coin.

SINCE SILVER is a "fiat" product or "wildcat commodity" (its value, like that of diamonds, can be overrated at any time and can change quite quickly), one might think that the making of coins is a profitless operation. But the fact is, the U.S. Mint is the only branch of our government which is a profit-making organization! The annual report of the director of the Mint for the fiscal year 1962 listed a profit of $67.4 million.

Most of this profit ($57.5 million) is called "seigniorage," the difference between the circulating value of a coin and the cost of the bullion and the minting. It is a holdover term from the Middle Ages when kings extracted taxes for coinage which they considered a service for which the barons, and later the bourgeois, must pay.

You probably never realized it, but the manufacturing cost of 1,000 pennies is only 72 cents. We make $100 worth of dimes for just 93 cents, 1,000 "nickel" nickels for $1.51, $250 worth of quarters for $2.05, and 1,000 50-cent pieces for $3.74.

CHANCES ARE, you may one day be carrying steel coins in your pocket or purse. The French are already doing it! On Jan. 1, 1963, La Monnaie—the French mint—introduced new one and five centime pieces made of stainless. These durable coins have the value on one side, and on the other "Republique Francaise" in script and a stylized stalk of wheat.

Actually, stainless steel coins have been around for some time, and steel has performed quite satisfactorily as a medium of exchange. The U.S. Mint struck stainless one colon and two colones coins for Costa Rica in 1954. Canada minted steel nickels in 1944-45, 1951-52, and 1953-54. Italy's stainless coins include the 1939-45 20 centesimo, 1939-44 50 centesimo, and 1939-43 one and two lira pieces. From 1940 to 1945, Hungary issued 2, 10 and 20 fillers made of steel.

Since stainless steel is the strongest, most durable and most wear resistant of all commercially used metals, it is claimed that coins made of this material will not tarnish, nor will they wear smooth or bend out of shape; they will last indefinitely.

STAINLESS steel is readily available and in good supply within our own country. It is much less expensive than silver, which would result in considerably lower minting costs and worthwhile savings. And a Costa Rican official has been quoted as saying that the stainless coins our Philadelphia mint made for his country have not only a pleasing metal quality, but also a superb capacity for fine design detail. The latter attribute can be traced to the great design-stamping advances made by the stainless steel flatware industry. Once very plain, stainless flatware can now be stamped with traditional patterns and enormously elaborate designs.

The rarest of all American coins is listed by the Chase Manhattan Bank Money Museum as the silver dollar of 1804. Only 15 were minted, and the last to appear on the coin market sold for $36,000.

An accidental discovery made by the French is really responsible for the metal our one-cent pieces are made of today. Lacking stainless steel, French coin makers of the late 18th Century were unable to solve the problem of producing pennies that would not tarnish. When the French were melting church bells for copper after the Revolution of 1789, they discovered that the bell metal (95 per cent copper, four per cent tin, and one per cent zinc) proved to be excellent "coinage bronze."

Our pennies today use the same percentages, and — though most people think one-cent pieces are made of copper — technically, they're made of bronze, which is what the alloy is called.

Proposed design (above) for a new stainless steel U. S. quarter was done by a noted American sculptor, Robert Engman, who calls current U. S. coinage "designless."

AT ONE END of the room is a grand piano, decorative to be sure, but much used since Mrs. Ludmerer is a concert pianist. Far on the other end is a long, antique white cabinet which conceals hi-fi, record player, tape recorder, etc. Above the cabinet is a large, gold-framed mirror. Carpeting in the dining room, living room and hall is mauve gray. The decor is Classic.

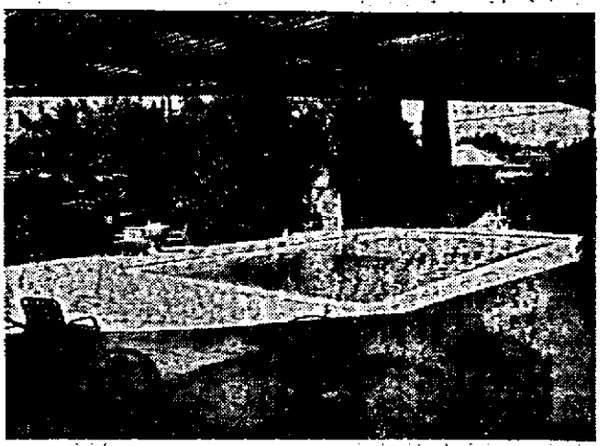

An extra wide hallway adjoins the living room and leads to the bedrooms. Hallway and family room to the left are carpeted in emerald green. A garden mural adorns the walls of the hall, making it seem even larger.

Boys' rooms are tailored to their special needs. In the master bedroom autumn tones predominate. The spread is golden orange which goes especially well with the fine Regency furniture.

THE FORMAL dining room faces the driveway in front of the house. Behind the serving table on the far wall is a fountain mural. A long buffet is next to another wall.

A large pool predominates the rear garden. Plants, trees, and shrubs enhance to the fullest since they have had a chance to reach maturity in many cases.

Truly elegant in decor, the Ludmerer home has a wonderfully lived-in and comfortable atmosphere both for family and guests.

At dockside, poolside or just to light a garden, this miniature coastal lighthouse is a unique installation.

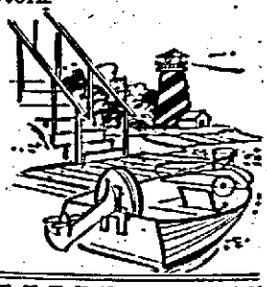

By Bill Meyerriecks

A LIGHTHOUSE that actually lights up the garden? That's the limit! Actually it's not, because Sketchbook's unique Lighthouse project has a lot of other interesting suggestions for its placement. It is a natural for boat owners with a dockside, or beside a home swimming pool. It can also be a front light for the summer bungalow by the lake or sea.

Building the lighthouse from the Sketchbook plan is not difficult. It stands just over four feet in height, slightly under two feet at the base. Its inner frame is made from ½ inch exterior plywood and its wrap-around shell is ⅛ inch tempered hardboard. Its construction is sturdy for outdoors.

There's a slight trick to fitting the hardboard shell that the plan explains in the basic construction details of the lighthouse.

The actual light installation is shown and explained in the plan, too. You can install a regular light for use outdoors, or put a revolving dome light to work. It is listed as optional in the S-152 plan, which may be obtained by sending 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magaine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90812.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we have genealogy on HEPBURN. — Mrs. H., Garden Grove

H.: HEPBURN, famed now from the film actresses Katharine and Audrey Hepburn, had its basis in a now-vanished village in Buckinghamshire, England. "Hepe-burne," the source, had the poetic meaning "wild rose brook." The Hepburns became prominent in Scotland. Their coat-of-arms is a red shield decorated with a red rose, symbolic of the name meaning, placed on a silver chevron between two combatant red lions. The unusual Hepburn motto is "Keep tryst."

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about AUTH—Mrs. H.B.; Long Beach.

H.B.: AUTH is German. This rarely seen surname evolved from the ancient German word "Uht" meaning "willow tree." The ancestors apparently resided in a glen filled with willows.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of EUSEBI?—E.E., R.E., Long Beach.

E.E., R.E.: EUSEBI is Basque, from northwest Spain. This name was used in honor of Eusebius, noted 3rd century Christian Bishop of Caesarea, whose name meant "devout and pious one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on DRURY.—W.D., Long Beach.

W.D.: DRURY is English. This family descended from John De Drury, the son of a Norman French nobleman who fought his way to power in England along with William the Conqueror in 1066. The Drurys held large estates in Suffolk, England, for centuries. Their coat-of-arms from the 1200s has a Tau cross between two gold stars on a green band across the top of a silver shield. Drury descendants lived in Massachusetts as early as 1651.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on CAJON. — M.F., Long Beach.

M.F.: CAJON is Spanish, defined as "box or chest." This surname was assumed by a forefather who was noted for his expert workmanship in making chests and other items of furniture. In Spanish America "cajon" means "box canyon," exemplified by Cajon Pass in Southern California.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain DODD, — E.D., Los Alamitos.

E.D.: DODD evolved from the 10th century Saxon English "Doda." This hero name meant "strength and power." Records of 1069 list Britric, son of Doda, the primary ancestor. The Dodds have been land owners in Cheshire and Shropshire since the reign of King Henry II, 1154-1189. Their shield has a wide red band between two narrow wavy black stripes on a silver background. The Dodd motto "In copia cautus" means "wealth through caution." The first Dodds to settle in New England arrived in 1646.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information an BATTOLLA.—P.P., Bellflower.

P.P.: BATTOLLA is from Italy, a Christian religious name that combines Battista meaning "Baptized one," with the nickname ending "-olla." The complete name refers to "young baptized one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze DEDDEN.
—E. H., Lakewood.

E. H.: DEDDEN is German, an old provincial dialect surname. The source, Diet-en, meant "young man of the people," a description of a popular young man approved by his townsmen.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly explain the background of YANDELL.—C.W., R.Y., Long Beach; G.M., Wilmington.

C.W., R.Y., G.M.: YANDELL is an American form of the German surname Jandl. This cognomen began as an endearing family nickname, "Jan-dl" meaning "Johnny." The source name Jan is from Johann or John meaning "God is gracious."

DEAR MISS RULE: What it the background of CAPORUSCIO.—W.M., Anaheim.

W.M.: CAPORUSCIO is a dialectical Italian surname taken from "Capo-russo." This was a medieval physical descriptive terminology for "red headed one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on HARKINS.—R.H., Garden Grove.

R.H.: HARKINS had its inception in 12th century England where the root syllables were "Harri-kins" characterizing "Young Harry or Henry." Harry and Henry typify "ruler of a private estate."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze the Dutch name ANTEN.—T.A., Seal Beach.

T.A.: ANTEN had three Dutch and north German source words and meanings. It is primarily from the ancient Germanic given-name Ando with the inexplicable meaning "earth." Alternately, Anten is a nickname meaning "Spirit," and from Anti describing "sharp point," perhaps referring to a spearman's sharp-pointed weapon.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of GUANTE.—T.G., Wilmington.

T.G.: GUANTE is Spanish and means "glove." This surname had its start from a sign over the doorway of the ancient [illegible] forefather's glove making shop.

The Eggshell

has feet and wings of chenille stem bent to shape. Pipe stems may be used or even simply drawn webbed feet could be inked on the index card base, at each side of the shell.

IN FITTING the paper head to the shell, place it thrusting somewhat forward and mark the spot with a faint pencil line. If the neck curve does not fit snugly to the shell, trim it carefully until it does. Apply white liquid glue to the neck curve and also to the pencil line on the shell. Do not put together until after a few minutes elapse. When the glue is tacky, the head will remain firmly in place.

The shell is glued to a 3 inch square of index card or other stiff cardboard, with the patched hole down. A small pointed triangle of paper may be added as a tail.

You Ask We Answer

Q. Please repeat the explanation of why children so often tell lies. E. S.

A. Children fail to tell the truth for different reasons. One class of lies is due to a misunderstanding or misapprension by the child of what has happened to him or what has been said to him. He tells what he thinks is the truth, but it is not. The tense of verbs and the meaning of time differences may be the cause of other lies: the child may not know the difference between "I did" and "I will" and "I mean to." Another class of lies is due to confusion of the fancied with the real: a child may believe that his dreams were actual events. A fourth type of children's lies is deception as an adult understands deception: a conscious substitution of the untrue for the true is made. One reason the child tries to deceive is fear, another is to gain his own way without friction, a third, to attract attention. A fourth reason is the desire to preserve his self-respect or the respect of his associates: a child often lies to avoid ridicule.

Q. How did a comma once cost our Government a large sum of money? B. S.

A. This has happened at least twice. In the tariff act of June 6, 1872, the duty-free list was intended to include "fruit plants, tropical and semi-tropical, for the purpose of cultivation." The clerk who copied the bill for publication put the comma after the word fruit, making the phrase "fruit, plants tropical and semitropical." Before this error was corrected, about $1 million in duties was lost by free importation of oranges, lemons, bananas, etc. The other error, which cost about $2 million in taxes before it was corrected, resulted from the omission of a comma in the oleomargarine act passed in 1886.

Q. Is sassafras tea made from the tree's roots? R. E.

A. It may be made from pieces of whole root, or from bark stripped from the roots (not from the tree itself). The roots have a thick layer of soft, pink bark which can be pelled or stripped off. Root-bark usually brews a better-flavored tea than does the whole root.

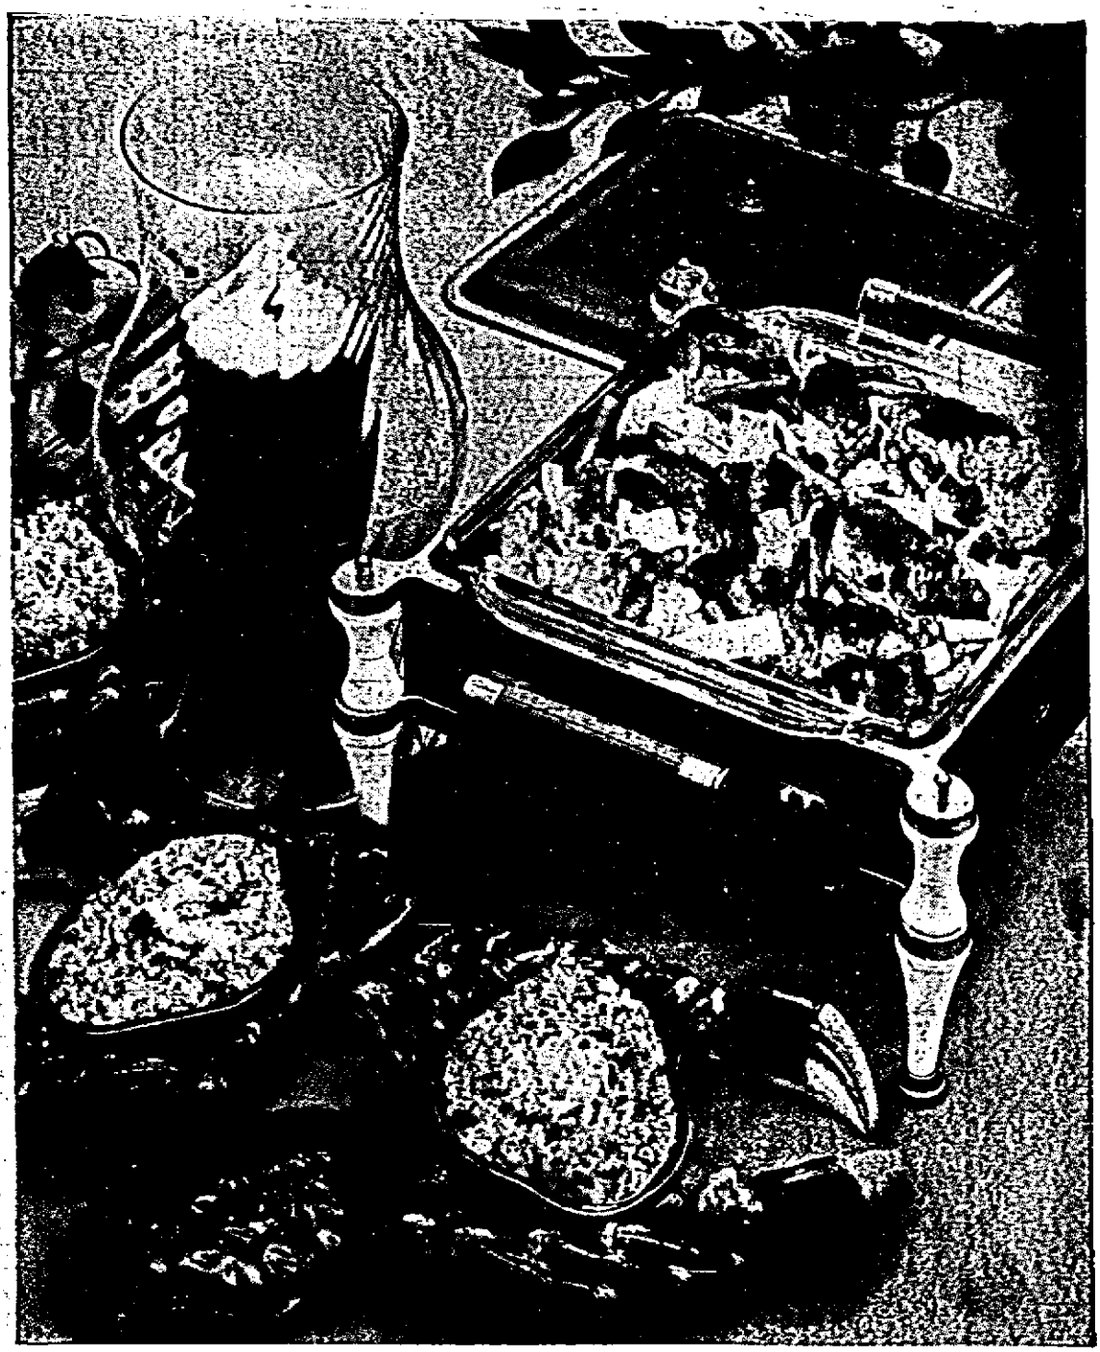

Q. Are capers a type of pepper? C. K.

A. Capers are unexpanded flower buds of a tropical plant, preserved in vinegar. They are used as seasoning or garnish.

Food That Whets the Appetite

Casserole Cooking--It's Easy!

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

Casserole cookery is easy and elegant—as elegant as you wish to make it. The two casseroles pictured above, Veal Casserole Italiano and Company Crab Casseroles, certainly can delight the eyes as well as please appetites.

CANNED condensed soups and canned green beans rank among the mainstays of casserole cookery, an easy method of meal preparation. Tender blue lakes, pole beans grown especially for canning in the verdant, water-rich Pacific Northwest, provide full-bodied flavor in an array of casseroles. And today's wide range of selection in the realm of canned condensed soups eminently qualifies these food favorites for the versatile roles they play in enhancing casseroles.

Two cases in point are herewith pictured in "Elegant Casserole Duo."

"Veal Casserole Italiano" is influenced by the Italian cuisine so popular with many of us. The combination of veal (thinly sliced and pounded as for scaloppine), noodles, tomatoes, green beans and mushrooms in a condensed Cheddar cheese soup sauce perked up with lively seasonings is not only festive in appearance but mama mia! what flavor.

Seafood casseroles also have a tremendous following, and few could possibly excel "Company Crab Casseroles" in eye or taste appeal. They are a tempting concoction of crab meat, green beans, celery and zippy seasonings baked in frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup with a border of buttered bread crumbs and a topping of Parmesan cheese. Actually quite easy to prepare, they are of [illegible]

Veal Casserole Italiano

1 lb veal for scaloppine
Flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (11 oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 cups cooked noodles
1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans, drained

Dredge veal in flour. Melt butter in skillet; add veal and brown on one side. Turn meat and add mushrooms and garlic; brown, then remove veal. Stir soup, tomatoes, salt and oregano into mushroom mixture. Heat until just bubbly. Add noodles and beans. Turn into 8-inch square casserole along with veal. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes or until veal is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Company Crab Casseroles

1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
1 can (10 oz.) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 can (7½ oz.) crab meat
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons sherry wine
½ teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
½ teaspoon tarragon, crushed
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Drain beans, reserving ¼ cup liquid. Combine liquid and soup in saucepan; heat, stirring, until soup thaws. Rinse, drain and flake crab meat. Add to soup along with beans, celery, sherry, lemon juice and herbs. Stir to mix. Turn into 4 or 5 lightly buttered individual casseroles (or a 1-quart casserole). Toss bread crumbs in butter; sprinkle around edge of casseroles. Dust cheese over top. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 20 minutes. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Chicken Green Bean Bake

2 tablespoons shortening or salad oil
2 packages (1 lb. each) frozen chicken breasts, thawed, OR 1 frying chicken (2½ to 3 lbs.) cut up
1 can (1 lb.) cut green beans
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon basil, crushed
2 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento

Heat shortening in skillet; brown chicken. Transfer to 2-quart casserole. Pour off drippings, drain beans, reserving ½ cup liquid. Blend liquid, soup and seasonings in skillet. Pour over chicken. Cover; bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 1 hour. Mix together beans, rice and pimiento. Spoon around chicken. Cover; bake 15 minutes more or until heated through. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Minimum Schooling

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: How many years of schooling are considered the minimum necessary for understanding and communicating satisfactorily in the modern working world?

ANSWER: Until recently, the standard set by the United States Office of Education was five years. Francis A. Gregory of the United States Labor Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training reports that the number of years is now eight.

However, the high school diploma—12 years of education—is rapidly becoming a universal qualification for employment.

QUESTION: Do our schools teach too much and yet not enough?

ANSWER: Contradictory as it may seem, that sometimes appears to be the case—particularly in the field of science, with which education has become preoccupied in recent years.

Alexander Calandra, professor of physics, Washington University, St. Louis, complains that in attempting to teach too much science, many schools today fail to teach basic science. A science teacher, trying to teach his students about cyclotrons, may neglect teaching them fundamental laws of physics.

This, says Calandra, is like trying to teach space-age arithmetic without preliminary instruction in addition and subtraction.

The best place to start an education is with the basic units of knowledge. The student must crawl before he walks, and toddle before he runs.

QUESTION: Is it too early for my eleventh grader to be taking any effective steps toward getting into college?

ANSWER: No. By the time a student gets to the eleventh grade, he should have a fairly good idea of the area of study in which he plans to concentrate his effort. In this year he should look at the college catalogues, get acquainted with the admission requirements, and familiarize himself with the various tests he may have to take.

'Chautauqua City by the Sea'

By Olive Breed

In this tree-shaded structure, a unique program of music, classes and lectures took place in 1884, and won Long Beach the unique title of "Chautauqua City by the Sea."

LONG BEACH in 1884 was christened "Chautauqua City by the Sea" because of a unique two-day program of music, classes and lectures with religious overtones during that summer. This distinctive meeting of "education, religion and recreation" came into being at Chautauqua Lake, New York, ten years earlier. Chautauqua is an obscure Indian name, roughly translated "Place of Council."

The program itself grew out of the frustration and ambition of John Huyl Vincent, a gifted 22-year-old with no money for college. He became pastor of a small Methodist church built in a grove beside a beautiful lake at Camptown, N.J., and dramatized the charm of the place by converting the grounds into a scale model of the Holy Land. He called the sheltering trees "God's own Temple," and there is where he held summer services, "in cool shade beside still water."

Within two years he had originated for himself and others a four-year reading course and a two-week training course for Sunday School teachers, and had 40 applicants signed up.

LEWIS MILLER, business man of Akron, Ohio, (later Thos. Edison's father-in-law), suggested the use of a camp meeting site, consisting of a central pavilion with surrounding living quarters, at Chautauqua Lake, N.Y., that Rev. Vincent and associates teach during the day. He would take his own vacation to supervise living arrangements for the students. After the day's work life would be made delightful with camp fires, open air concerts, group singing, and all the swimming and boating they wished. In keeping with the custom of that time, they were well chaperoned. Miller accomplished this at a cost of $6 each for two weeks.

This first summer school also walked the narrow paths of a simulated Holy Land which Vincent created there, a feature that is still a part of the Chautauqua grounds in 1964. In some manner the group and two leaders captured an intangible something that became known as the "Chautauqua Spirit," and this also became part of the whole movement. The two weeks at Chautauqua Lake became famous.

CAMP MEETINGS were numerous and, across the nation, were conducted in groves near a body of water. Vincent was deluged with applications for a like program but he could only give applicants his blessing. If they qualified as to standards and ethics, a local committee was organized to recruit lecturers, musicians, teachers, and others for periods varying from a few days to two months in many cases, and called it, "Going to Chautauqua." Ten years and 200 towns later the movement reached Long Beach for a two-day session. Now for the first time the shade trees were not beside still or calm waters, but the restless waves of the Pacific. Back across the continent, Long Beach was referred to as the "Chautauqua City by the Sea."

Long Beach Library treasures programs showing the growth of those "permanent" chautauqua sessions from year to year. Typical is the 6th Annual Chautauqua" of 1892, the purpose of which is stated on the front page of its 10-day program:

"Our purpose is the moral, physical, intellectual and religious welfare of all."

The program listed Sunday School Normal Class, tabernacle entertainment, lectures, Round Table Vespers, a piano contest and classes in music, conchology, art, oratory, literature, cookery.

EXPENSES: Board $4 to $5.50 per week; cottages $3 per week or $10 per month; tent owners could live on $2 per week.

Patrons were politely asked to remove hats and bonnets, and not to hitch horses to young trees or the fence.

The 1895 tenth annual session covered 30 days; the 1900 session celebrated Antisaloon Day, as Long Beach voted by a large majority to banish its one saloon and be a temperance town.

These so-called "permanent chautauquas" are not to be confused with the circuit, or tent chautauquas which began in 1904 with 15 towns in the state of Iowa, and flourished for almost 30 years. They were as prevalent as baseball, with 12,000 towns covered by 1,400 circuits in 1925. It was estimated 35,000,000 people attended one or more programs during that year.

With 2,500 city-recruited programs traveling into the small, sometimes isolated towns, it was simply impossible to avoid colorful, humorous, tragic stories and encounters in every instance. The crew going into the town consisted of college men and girls who stayed during the entire week of the programs, and their impact was never negligible. One crew man grew up to be Milton Eisenhower.

J. H. Vincent became a famous bishop, and with Lewis Miller, continued as part of the Chautauqua Lake program, which grew every year; their 91st annual session of 1964 is preparing to care for a daily 60,000 or more, and Southern Californians may still go to Chautauqua there, though it would be well to start about March and write for reservations to Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua Lake, N.Y.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Marvel Drug Intrigues

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

AT LEAST 30 pharmaceutical manufacturers have shown interest in marketing the new marvel drug, dimethyl sulfoxide.

The new agent, also known as DMSO, is currently undergoing investigation at the University of Oregon Medical School. A preliminary report indicates that DMSO may be of value in the treatment of a number of conditions, including arthritis, the common cold, pain and infection.

Dr. Stanley W. Jacob, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Oregon, reports in Current Therapeutic Research that DMSO:

- Increases the anti-inflammatory effectiveness of cortisone.
- Reduces blister formation in second-degree burns.
- Prevents adhesions in experimental situations.
- Acts as a tranquilizer.
- Acts as a diuretic—that is, promotes excretion of excess body fluids.
- Relieves pain in headache, sinusitis and arthritis.
- Accelerates the effect of insulin in depressing sugar level.
- Inhibits the growth of certain bacteria—Escherichia coli, Staphylococcus aureus and Pseudomonas aeruginosa. Also appears to alter the sensitivity of resistant bacteria to antibiotics.

One of DMSO's main features is its ability to enhance the penetration of other drugs. The fact that it can carry other drugs with it and penetrate the body very rapidly may be of value in cancer therapy.

DMSO is produced from lignin, a wood constituent.

Dr. Jacob said it will not be made available to the general public for medicinal purposes until further research has been conducted.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS who complain a lot and then suddenly lose understanding and support from family members are potential suicide victims, a psychologist discloses.

Dr. John W. McKelligott of the Los Angeles VA Center calls such patients the "dissatisfied-dependent type." They do an "inordinate amount of complaining," he says. A study of 30 suicides shows that loss of understanding at home may provide the final push toward suicide.

THE TRANQUILIZING drug Proketazine may be helpful in treating the withdrawal phase of acute alcoholism.

Withdrawal symptoms cleared within three days in 55 percent of 96 patients. Improvement was marked or moderate in another 41 percent.

Proketazine, also known as carphenazine, is given by intramuscular injection or in tablet form.

Patients ate and slept well even during the acute withdrawal period, according to a report in the Journal of the Medical Association of Georgia.

A SOLUTION of a new compound called oxymetazoline is proving effective as a nasal decongestant.

Dr. C. G. Stringer of London, reporting in The Practitioner, said the compound benefited 30 of 31 patients and was effective for up to eight hours.

Ten patients who participated in a trial of the agent commented that it was superior to other compounds.

All-America Flowers Tops in Their Field

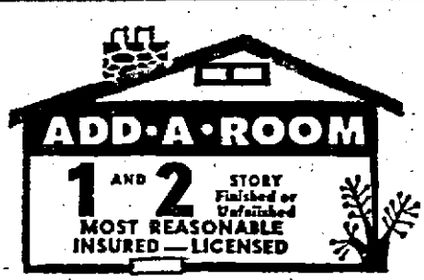

All-America flowers usually win that honor because they are absolutely tops in their field. Among annuals this year, two zinnias were elevated to AA rank and both are offered as seedlings by California Association of Nurserymen members this year. The variety Thumbelina, a wonderful dwarf with double and semi-double flowers about 1¼ inches across, is found in mixed colors.

These little plants grow only about six inches high and are wonderful for edging and massing. The variety Firecracker is a huge cactus type zinnia, found in red only as the name might suggest.

A Long Look Into the World's Seapower

GOSTA E. SANDSTROM

Hazards, follies, fortunes, disasters and triumphs of man's age-old desire to dig in the earth are chronicled by Sandstrom, himself an earth explorer, in "TUNNELS" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $6.95).

THREE MEN in the state mental hospital at Ypsilanti, Mich., a clerk, a farmer and an electrician believe they are Jesus Christ. "THE THREE CHRISTS OF YPSILANTI" (Knopf, $5.95) by social psychologist Milton Rokeach explores the causes behind the renunciation of their real identities.

Rokeach sought, over a period of two years, to find out if they would abandon their fixations if they lived together, were constantly face to face. He has made out this real-life story of the three totally lost men, not only what is surely a psychological study of major importance, but one digging deep to the foundations of personality.

The hospital was inadequately staffed; the three lost men seldom saw a doctor (once a year at best). "Whatever hopes we may have had of somehow being able to bring them back to reality were quickly dissipated, the loss of their ego boundaries . . . had become accentuated through years of neglect."

THAT INEXHAUSTIBLE gold mine, the Bible, has attracted yet another prospector, Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt. His "SEARCH OF THE SCRIPTURES" (Lippincott, $4) stakes out a claim to the medical aspects of the Good Book. Dr. Greenblatt uses as his mining tools the newest knowledge of scientific medicine.

The nuggets are many. He finds that "when most of the world considered disease a divine visitation or punishment, Moses recognized that some diseases were communicable, that they could be controlled by forethought, and that contact could be reduced by isolation or quarantine."

Jesus, says Dr. Greenblatt, "knew that we have come to realize only recently, that much of our illness comes from broken international relations, from guilt, and from the void where no love is. His earliest doctrine linked preaching with healing."

"EVEN though most of a man's thought is first rate, we ought not to assume that all of it is. More than that, no military thought, any more than policies and operations, ought to be exempt from the processes of scrutiny, analysis and discussion."

This concept underlies publication of "NAVAL REVIEW, 1964" edited by Frank Uhlig Jr., the U. S. Naval Institute's annual survey of world seapower, 416 pages, 326 photos, $10.

"Naval Review, 1964" gives its readers new critical analyses of developments that affect world seapower and U.S. defenses today and how they will affect them in the future. Essays range from "The Soviet Submarine Force" to "The Future of the Enlisted Man."

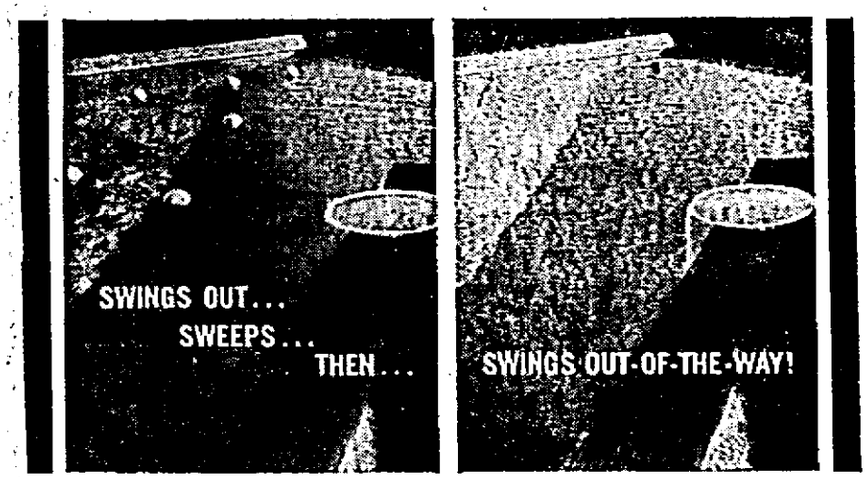

Useful appendices include a short survey of the professional backgrounds of recently-selected flag officers; a naval chronology from January 1962 through June 1963; a pictorial and statistical description of all U.S. combat ships built since World War II; the "10 best" naval photographs; and the U.S. defense program, 1964-1968.

WHEN RUSSELL KIRK says "My country right or wrong," the first part of his two meanings. Kirk is the ablest spokesman of the somewhat right of center school of thought in the United States; not the "way-out-there and gone" right, but those who cluster around Barry Goldwater. And indeed, Russell Kirk's "CONFESSIONS OF A BOHEMIAN TORY" (Fleet, $4.50) has much to say about the Arizona senator; "his amiability, honesty and candor stand unchallenged," the writer assures. Were Goldwater elected President, says Kirk, "no Harry Hopkins will make up his mind and no Sherman Adams will keep the key to his office."

Kirk writes with admirable forthrightness and is a man of considerable style. The poets T. S. Eliot, Robert Graves and Roy Campbell were among his friends and companions; he sees in them staunch enemies of conformism. He waxes indignant over the banning of school prayers; he has much to say about the decline of religious influence, which of course he decries. The right is fortunate to have such an able spokesman.

WITH INDEPENDENCE in Africa has come a by-product for which the rest of the world should be grateful—a young and vigorous literature, not yet producing Chekhovs or Poes, but promising fine things for the future. Cheikh Hamidou Kane, a Senegalese, is typical of the better African writers; his novel "AMBIGUOUS ADVENTURE" (Walker and Company, $3.95) deals with the educated African's need for identity and a belief, and an intellectual's poignant search for them.

It is the story of Samba Diallo, chief of a tribe, educated in an Islamic school, in a French school in Senegal, and finally in a French university. It is the story of a man of integrity and his struggle against being changed into an image alien to his people. If for no other reason, it is worth reading for the understanding it gives of the mind of the cultured African, torn by ambivalence.

Recipe of the Week

EGGS AND avocados are combined in a recipe that wins this week's prize of $5 for Mrs. Roman Gray, 129 Morningside St., Long Beach, 90805. The recipe:

Deviled Eggs-ocado

4 Hard-boiled eggs
2 tblsp. chopped sweet pickle
1 medium-size, ready-to-eat avocado
Sweet-pickle juice
Salt and pepper to taste (garlic salt may be used)

Peel eggs and chop finely, add chopped sweet pickle. Peel avocado and mash until smooth. Add enough sweet-pickle juice to make it the consistency of mayonnaise. Add to eggs and blend well. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes a delicious dip-mix, or spread for open-face sandwiches.

NOTE: When there was no mayonnaise in the house, Mrs. Gray found the avocado and pickle juice mixture a perfect substitute. A brand new flavor was born!

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Artifacts have shown these local Indians had a primitive technology. The men made weapons and tools from stone and bone and the women wove baskets from rushes and waterproofed them with tar which seeped upon the beaches from the subterranean petroleum deposits of the coastal oil fields.

In addition to a crude (and very small) bow and arrow, the Indians were armed with clubs, spears, slings and crude boomerangs. They were not a very pugnacious breed, however. War and murder were rare. They were easily docile by the Spanish and disappeared very rapidly thereafter.

California condors, like this feathered giant, may be winning their battle for survival against huge odds.

By Jan R. Young

WITH THE recent sighting of 11 young condors in a single flight, there is renewed hope that the California condor, symbol of a vanished era, may be on the increase.

Best estimates indicate that no more than 60 of these giant birds remain within their two remote sanctuaries in Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties in Southern California. Like the bison, they have been considered almost extinct until the recent report (mandatory of all Forest Service personnel) gave hope that the aloof, seldom-seen birds, the largest flying land bird in the world, finally may be winning their battle for survival against almost unbelievable odds.

These giant ancestors of the western vulture thrived in prehistoric times as proved by recovery of their fossil remains from the La Brea Tar Pits of Los Angeles.

But if these gargantuan birds could survive the tests of centuries, man proved to be their nemesis. During the gold rush, condor quills were a favorite receptacle for gold dust, while the birds' size made them a natural target for every trigger-happy miner and hunter. Due to their habit of frequently gorging themselves to the point of being unable to leave the ground, they were roped by cowboys for sport. Countless others were slaughtered by early settlers who mistakenly believed that the condors swooped from the sky to carry off their livestock.

A DAILY soaring flight of 200 miles is nothing for a condor but they still have difficulty in locating enough food to meet their minimum requirements. Scavengers rather than killers, they have been driven by civilization into these remote areas where they can still find game which has died of natural causes. Because of their 10-foot wingspread, they require wide open spaces to become airborne and cannot enter much of California's bushy, wooded areas where game is usually plentiful. Instead, they prefer rocky, craggy areas where they can step effortlessly off into space rather than make the laborious hopping, flapping, 40-foot run which is often necessary to get them off the ground.

In addition to falling prey to marksmen, scarcity of food, poisoned bait put out for coyotes and other hazards, the condors' own monogamous mating habits have contributed to their decline. A single, greenish-white egg is produced every second year, usually deposited on a rocky ledge or declivity without benefit or protection of a nest. If the parents are disturbed they are likely to abandon the egg or fledgling, which requires a minimum of seven months of constant parental care to reach airborne maturity.

THOUGH A JUST claimant to the title of the world's largest land bird, the California condor takes no beauty prizes. Relative of the vulture, the adult bird possesses a bare, orange-and-red head and neck, sooty black and brown plumage, with white under-wings. In the young birds there is no white underlining and the head and neck are a dusty gray. Weighing some 20 to 25 pounds, the California condor is lighter than his cousin, the Andean condor, but his superior wingspread makes him the larger bird. With his flaming red eyes and clumsy, turkey-like feet, the condor is a grotesque caricature when earthbound but once in the air, soaring on the currents and updrafts that are his birthright, he is unequalled in majesty.

In a final stand against extinction, 35,000 rugged, almost inaccessible acres of the

Hawaii Comes to Desert Rodeo

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

ALOHA, PARDNER!

The salutation, strangely, sounds like a mixture of Hawaii and the Great American Southwest.

And that's exactly what it's meant to be. You'll hear the greeting everywhere at the 28th annual Palm Springs Desert Circus April 8-12 — an event honoring our 50th state, Hawaii.

The idea of using an individual state as the Circus theme was suggested several years ago, and has been carried out ever since.

At next month's event, Gov. John Burns of Hawaii will be grand marshal of a giant parade starting at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 11. There'll be other evidences of things Hawaiian. You're invited to wear an Hawaiian-theme hat while in Palm Springs. If you don't, you better wear some other kind of hat or face the prospect of being haled into Kangaroo Court to explain why.

THE CIRCUS program will come off something like this:

Wednesday, April 8: street dance at the Desert Inn.

Thursday, April 9: "Night on the Town" when pretty girl deputies — dressed in Western shorts, hats, boots and armed with shootin' irons—raid the various dining spots and night clubs selling immunity badges and giving summons to Kangaroo Court.

Evening: chuckwagon dinner-dance at the Ranch Club.

Friday, April 10: Kangaroo Court at the Desert Inn. (You're liable for a fine if you're not dressed in Western or Hawaiian togs if you don't have an immunity button).

Noon: Luncheon at the Riviera Hotel Convention Center and annual Hat Parade in which contestants vie for glamorous prizes (two in each of these six classifications: zany hats, men's hats, most beautiful hats, Hawaiian-theme hats, Palm Springs hats, and commercial hats. Some winners will get a case of champagne!

Saturday, April 11: Chuckwagon breakfast followed by the big parade down Palm Canyon Drive at 10 a.m. Entries will include horses and riders (16 classifications), floats, marching bands, majorettes, sheriff posses, mounted police.

THE QUEEN of the Circus parade usually is a movie star, of whom you'll see plenty while at the desert resort. Past year's queens have included Anita Ekberg, Natalie Wood, Jayne Mansfield, Shirley Temple, Debbie Reynolds and Janet Leigh.

Since the Circus is one of Palm Springs' biggest annual events, local and national firms donate all kinds of products, funds and prizes.

IT'S SPRING, and this calls for weekend gadding. Here are some other events worth attending:

March 29: 2:30 p.m.: Easter parade of "best dressed" boats in the new Marina del Ray on Santa Monica Bay near Venice; Scores of gaily-togged boats, of all sizes, participating.

April 3-5: World's Lowest-Down Golf Tournament, the Fred Harvey Invitational, at Furnace Creek resort in Death Valley—280 feet below sea level.

April 4-5: El Cajon Rodeo. The real thing in rodeos, with a parade preceding each day's show.

Palm Springs Desert Circus visitors (April 8-12) will find the countryside abundant with life and beauty.

Spot to Visit

In Nuuanu Valley, one of Honolulu's oldest and most sedate residential sections, is a public botanical garden where visitors any time of year may see and photograph rare tropical plants in blossom.

It is Foster Park, generally called Foster Gardens. There in a greenhouse filled with orchids of all sizes and colors. Travelers discover floral beauties many of them have never seen, heard or dreamed of.

Originally, the park was the garden of an early botanist, Dr. William Hillenbrand. He imported many plants not native to the islands, and a number of trees. Today, the trees are of impressive size, and the collection of plants one of the finest in the Pacific.

The garden is open daily, without charge.

Area Sunrise Services

If you expect to be away from Long Beach next Easter weekend, but still in the Southland, you might like to attend one of these Sunrise Services:

Riverside: 53rd service atop Mt. Rubidoux.

La Jolla: Atop 800-foot Mt. Soledad, with panoramic view of La Jolla and the Pacific.

Yosemite Valley: Probably the latest in the U.S.A. because the sun must climb above the lofty granite walls before it can shine on Mirror Lake.

Hollywood Bowl: A mass of 75,000 Calla lilies provide the setting as trumpeters greet the dawn.

Palm Springs: At O'Donnell golf course, with many famous people in attendance.

San Diego area: Mt. Helix, Cabrillo National Monument overlooking San Diego Bay, at organ pavilion in Balboa Park, and at the Serra Cross erected from ruins of California's first mission.

Hemet: At famous Ramona Bowl.

Twentynine Palms: At the oasis, original spot where trailblazers found the 29 palm trees that gave the place its name.

Avalon: On Mt. Ada, with sun rising over the Pacific.

La Habra: In Memory Garden Memorial Park, Brea.

Pre-Inca Puzzle

Panagra Photo

Mysterious remnants of a pre-Inca civilization which may have flourished as long ago as 7,000 B.C. may be seen in an open air museum in La Paz, Bolivia. The monolith above was found at Tiahuanaco, site of this ancient settlement and one of South America's outstanding tourist attractions. Here, near Lake Titicaca about sixty miles from the Bolivian capital, tourists may still see the Gateway of the Sun and the Moon and the strange half-man half-bird statues that continue to baffle archaeologists and anthropologists.

Wandering Music

Visitors to Germany will learn that in an age of radio and television a large city like Hamburg still has a few street musicians wandering around —17 at last count. Some play accordians; there are seven barrel organists (two with monkeys); and trombone and trumpets are also popular street instruments. "Pan-koken" bands, generally three or four musicians, are an old tradition in Hamburg. They wear band uniforms and roam through various sections of the city playing sentimental tunes, according to the German Tourist Office.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We planned to go to Europe this August but understand it is very crowded and hot at that time of year . . ."

RIGHT on both. Like Americans, the Europeans vacation in August. Half the restaurants in Paris will be closed—the French head for the beaches. Which also means you probably can't get rooms at the beach resorts.

The Germans and Scandinavians and British will have booked most of the Costa Brava in Spain. And you go limp in the Madrid heat. Rome is overloaded with Americans. And every Swiss watchmaker takes his vacation in August and heads for the Swiss lakes.

If you have reservations and stay in one place, you do fine. But if you are on the grand tour, it's like taking your vacation on the rush hour commute train. The big season doesn't slack off until mid-September.

"Could you give me some information on Spain where we expect to go in July. Should we take train or bus around the country? Guided tour or not? Costs?"

MY IDEA would be to get there in June. By July it gets hot from Madrid southward. Government offices close and everybody heads for beach or mountain.

Take the Spanish tour bus. Trains are not so good. I think the guided tour is good —particularly if it's your first time in Spain. Costs will be a delight. Spain is still inexpensive. I'd estimate $15 a day for two would cover everything.

Now, if you want to do this on your own: Car rentals are cheap in Spain. Use a Spanish car agency—ATESA is a good one. If you are not already using traveler's checks, buy Spanish checks. They're about one-third the cost.

Gasoline is about 90 cents a gallon. But your car won't use more than three a day. Cigarettes are cheaper in Spain than anywhere in Europe—about 35 cents for American brands in the government kiosks and the same on the open black market.

NORTH from Madrid is the cool country. Very few tourists and most of these will be French. The Atlantic coast is Galicia. And I'm high on the old Roman town of Pontevedra. Deep blue inlets with white beaches. Fishing towns. Good wines and seafood. Weather about 70 degrees.

Return to Madrid by driving south into Portugal. Turn toward the hills and Spain again at the old university town of Coimbra. Your best hotels will be government-owned, historic inns called paradors in Spain, pousadas in Portugal. Cost will be about $2 a day per person with three meals included.

"We want to take two weeks of our European trip to lie on a beach but would like to find an uncrowded area. Would that be possible on the Riviera?"

I surely doubt it. All that area—France, Spain or Italy —is popular and loaded.

Friends of mine who've looked into the new areas (TWA public relations people) say the untouched areas now are in south Portugal and north Africa.

There are two new luxury hotels at Sagres, Portugal, where 100 miles of beach goes all the way to Spain. Prices are $5 to $6.50 a day with three meals included. Warm and sunny.

In Tunisia, he says, there are two excellent hotels in Hammamet. Orange groves along 12 miles of beach. At $3.50 a day with breakfast included. The TWA man is high on the island of Djerba (he calls it the Tahiti of the Mediterranean). First-class hotel Ulysses supposed to open this spring at $10.50 a day. Meanwhile the place has a second-class hotel at $3.

"Our vacations in the U. S. are always fishing vacations. (We have four boys.) But this year we would like to take a long trip out of the country . . ."

THE GREAT fishing country is New Zealand—and with that big a family there's an added advantage that it is not expensive living.

Zoren, Pomeranian dog, regards June Simpson's six tortoises with friendly interest as they dine on lettuce.

By Eleanor Avery Price Turtles Are Stirring

TORTOISES are like swallows in that they come out of their winter naps at the same time the swallows mysteriously return to San Juan Capistrano. So, if you have a tortoise tucked away in straw in the garage or in a small garden hideout, chances are it has begun to stretch and is hungry and thirsty.

Get out the canned peaches, the crisp lettuce. Chop an apple and pluck some clover. Also fill a shallow pan with water. Some tortoise fanciers believe the creature needs only moisture from juicy food, but tortoises I've known stick their heads under water and drink for several minutes. This "tanking up" usually gives them enough water for a week.

TORTOISES in captivity need regular doses of vitamins, some bone meal and cod liver oil. Also orange juice. Soft shells and very slow growth indicate diet deficiency.

Tortoises of any age make good pets. Adults need more room and enjoy an outdoor enclosure with sand and with shrubs for shade. Be certain the pet can't dig out. It can "run" freely in a well-fenced yard and if there is protection from pools.

A pet tortoise soon learns to recognize footsteps and often responds to a given name or to a food call.

IT IS ILLEGAL to pick up a desert tortoise, and none can be sold. So, unless you have a friend who will give you one, or a box turtle, you may want a tiny pet shop water turtle. All you'll need for it is a bowl or tank with water and a few rocks or a sloped bowl in which you can make a "coast" of firm gravel on one side. Air temperature should remain warmish. Hang a lightbulb over the bowl at night if necessary. When you change water, be sure the fresh supply is of the same temperature. Don't keep the terrarium in direct sunlight for long.

The water turtle can have commercial food, ground meat, insects, wee balls of fish, aquatic greens and leafy vegetables. An older turtle needs food only every other day.

For a treat, the pet likes to swim around in a big tub. And for your own pleasure, stage turtle races with a friend.

Should you purchase a turtle that is painted, carefully scrape off the paint, as the shell cannot grow. Use no strong paint removers on the pet.

Lola Montez

to take up her career as an actress and dancer. For awhile she packed the theaters but the press did not take kindly to the town's latest sensation. Editors and ministers took up the cry against her famous "Spider Dance" and her star began to falter.

The fiery Lola was given to using a riding whip on anyone who dared cross her. She cornered one editor in his office and lashed him thoroughly. But Patrick Hull of the San Francisco Whig took a more charitable view of Lola's performance and they were married, moved to Grass Valley to live in bucolic bliss until, one day, the idyll was shattered when Hull accidentally killed one of Lola's pet bears. Hull moved out.

Lola Montez spent her last days in New York, her fame and money gone. In the end, she was penniless and ill, and the once beautiful Countess of Lansfeld, also Baroness of Rosenthal, died on Jan. 17, 1861. She is buried in Greenwood Cemetery in New York and her epitaph reads:

Mrs. Eliza Gilbert
Died
January 17, 1861

Lola Montez is the one who said, "Notorious I have been —but never famous."

Bermuda Lawns Need Scalping Now

By Joe Littlefield

SOUTHLAND gardeners with lawns of St. Augustine or Bermuda (devil) grass may "turn Indian" at this time of year and scalp their lawns for improvement later on. Scalping in this case means to mow the grass almost to the soil line, eliminating the thatch of thickly matted growth which prevents water and lawn food from getting down to grass roots and which also develops dead runners and old leaves that won't decompose.

A couple of weeks later, fertilize the lawn with a turf fertilizer that contains all-organic base nitrogen, necessary minerals to combat alkali build up in the lawn soil, and an insecticide to control lawn moth worms or cutworms.

Shrubs with spreading, mounding branches help soften bleak looking corners, hide low porch foundations and present a neat planting look.

COTONEASTER microphylla with small foliage and low arching branches fits these specific landscape needs. These spreading shrubs serve also as bank covers, in rock gardens, or on rocky slopes. The rose colored cotoneaster with similar spreading growth habit, has slightly larger attractive gray foliage, and bright red berries. It is Cotoneaster conspicua decora, known as "necklace cotoneaster."

Two other shrubs that tolerate dry conditions are prostrate rosemary with blue flowers, and baccharis pilularis the "dwarf chaparral broom" with white flowers.

Both of them stand excessive heat, lots of cold, and grow quite well on minimum water.

ANY SHRUB grows much better if soil is prepared before it is set out. It's a good idea to dig the hole twice the size of the plant root ball. Mix one of the organic materials such as leaf mold, pre-moistened peat moss or a prepared planting material with the soil. Mix two parts of the organic material with two parts of soil into the plant hole and set out the plant. When planting, top of plant root ball must be level with surrounding garden soil before ring of soil is built up at edge of plant hole to contain the water for good root soakings.

Sturdy and Beautiful

DUET, a 1961 All-American Rose Selections winner, continues to win praise from those who view its beautiful, warm pink flowers. It has been most rewarding to gardeners in the coastal areas, proving to be mildew resistant and providing heavy foliaged, sturdy plants.

Lettuce at Best When Fresh Picked

Lettuce is never better than when picked fresh—which is true for most vegetables but particularly for those on the delicate side. Therefore it is an excellent time to plant.

You can grow the head type but for the home gardener who doesn't want to do anything but reap his harvest with a minimum of labor, try Romaine and the loose leaf kinds. They are very easy. Do put out bait to discourage snails and slugs, however, as they like lettuce, too.

Garden Clubs

Lakewood Garden Club will hear a talk by Gordon Baker Lloyd, garden expert and TV personality, on a new method of garden culture at a meeting Thursday in the Sierra Room at Mayfair Park, 5720 N. Clark Ave., Lakewood. A salad luncheon will be served at noon, preceding the lecture. The public is invited and $1 donation for the lecture and luncheon will be devoted to the club's scholarship fund. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. E. Owen, telephone 429-7051.

ORANGE COUNTY Rose Society members will hear Bert Slatter of Orange discuss "Mysteries of Plant Life and Plant Culture" at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sun Garden School, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. The public is invited and members and guests may bring plants or flower arrangements to the meeting. Refreshments and prizes will be provided, George F. Roy, program chairman, said. The society, holding only its fourth meeting, is nearing a membership of 100, he said.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Watch the dahlias you stored for aphids and spray them if needed.

Check your California Association of Nurserymen nursery for early spring flowering shrubs and trees and make your selection when the plants are in bloom. You can plant instantly, of course, as they will be available in containers.

As your flowering shrubs and trees come into bloom—you can shape them up to your desire and use the flowered branches as indoor decoration.

Separate the chrysanthemums by lifting and dividing the mother plants then replanting the divisions promptly. Naturally you can pick up additional plants at the nursery if needed.

You'll be amazed at how beautiful and green your lawn can be with a regular feeding and watering program. See your nurseryman for information on proper lawn care.

Dorothy Digs

Now is the time of year when we begin to wonder about the lawn. The growing season is here and an early application of fertilizer is in order. If you have used a winter covering of steer manure it has surely done some good in conditioning the lawn but a heavier, longer lasting treatment should be started now.

Grasses vary considerable as concerns the amount and kinds of fertilizer required to keep them in the best of condition. Bermuda grass does not require feeding as often as some other types of mixed grass lawns or dichondra lawns.

One of the easiest and best ways to keep any lawn in the best of health is to feed a liquid fish fertilizer.

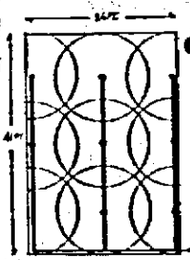

Big Max is a huge new pumpkin being introduced for 1964, and is shown with W. Atlee (Widge) Burpee IV, youthful member of the Burpee Seeds family. Big Max averages 100 pounds in weight and up to six feet in circumference under proper culture and good growing conditions, its developers claim. The yellow-orange flesh grows from three to four inches in thickness.

BOB BOYLE
Spaghetti or Salad

NINETY-NINE per cent of the finer restaurants in this area serve soup or salad with their dinners. Many include both soup and salad.

There is one restaurant in Long Beach, however, which gives its patrons a delectable continental alternative. Francois Manhattan, a very superior, very popular place at 1909 E. Fourth St., offers a side dish of spaghetti (or salad) for its third course. Many of its guests, skilled in selecting food contrasts which add extra enjoyment to a meal, prefer the spaghetti because they are a bit weary of the salad served at conventional restaurants. On the other hand, salad lovers wouldn't dare miss the Manhattan's tossed green salad with choice of dressing. Mixed at the table by efficient waiters or waitresses, that salad is a prime example of choice, chilled lettuce.

The Manhattan, owned by former Air Force pilot and veteran restaurateur Bob Boyle, has developed an international reputation for quality, thanks to the many perfect courses in its table d'hote dinner. The first course is a tray of clever and tasty continental appetizers. Then comes the soup, delivered in a steaming tureen which permits second helpings. Next is the spaghetti or salad, followed by the entree with potato or rice, assorted sourdough breads, beverage and dessert. The multitude of entrees, priced from $2.80 to $5.25, includes such masterpieces as veal Picatta, lobster thermidor, beef Stroganoff, crabmeat pancakes, roast duckling, turkey Marco Polo, stuffed mushrooms and frog legs.

Reservations are suggested for parties of six or more for the Manhattan's large special Easter dinner which will be served from 2 p.m. on, starting two hours earlier than usual on Sunday.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

BERT'S EYE VIEW

She Didn't Look the Teacher Type

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Marian Collier almost didn't show up for the interview.

She didn't think she looked like the type that could portray a s-"ool teacher."

"I'd been playing glamour girls, terribly sexy parts—ich!" she said.

But what did she have to lose by keeping the interview appointment? Time, that was all. She had some of that to spare.

Immediately after the interview, including reading for the role, Marian was told she had the part.

The producers of "Mr. Novak" were convinced that many real-life teachers were attractive. Being ugly and frumpy were not basic requirements.

• • • •

GLAMOUR-GIRL Marian, a little toned down, became Miss Scott, a home economics insructor.

"I was delighted," she said. "I had no idea it was a continuing role and I'm not sure they did either."

She did so well, however, that she has been in all but five of the NBC-TV Tuesday series' dramas. There are plans afoot to develop a little stronger TV romance between her and James Franciscus, title star of the series.

She has received national recognition from professional education trade magazines.

• • • •

SHE HAS YET, however, to hear from any of her old school teachers in Washington High School in East Chicago, Ind.

"It wasn't that I was delinquent," said Marian, "I just talked too much.

"I had a regular chair in the dean of woman's office."

She regrets that "regular chair" attitude now and feels an "intense responsibility" in the portrayal of her schoolteacher role.

"Our behavior is important, particularly to the youngsters who watch our series," she said.

"I have more respect for school teachers now than I ever did.

• • • •

It's a respect that has come from meeting with them in conjunction with the series. It's a respect that has come from learning "school teachers are just as human as we are."

As for the role itself, Marian is still "delighted" she obtained the part.

"It's a whole new image for me," she said. "I never really knew what I wanted to do, but now I've found it.

"I can finally play a nice girl. It's like a miracle."

'Mister Ed' Goes West

MAE WEST AND 'MISTER ED' . . . That Ain't Hay

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Two of the entertainment world's most interesting characters—Mae West and "Mister Ed," the talking horse of television, are co-starring in a segment of the nag's series at 6:30 p.m. today (Sunday).

They're both blonds.

The 71-year-old Miss West appears mostly in stage shows these days. She rarely is on television.

During a discussion of her "Mister Ed" appearance, Mae played the hostess in her Hollywood apartment where she stays when in town. She also has a beach house in Santa Monica.

It was late afternoon, but Mae was wearing an ankle-length orange dressing gown and pale blue lace jacket as she sat in her living room.

"I never really stopped working," said the veteran glamor gal whose career goes back many years. "I'm either in a show or doing an act. I did this television show to satisfy my fans."

Mae says her fans are legion, consisting of at least three generations of grownups. Mae hopes to pick up a fourth, the kiddies who watch CBS-TV's talking Palomino.

"I'VE GOT TEEN-AGE FAN CLUBS," revealed Mae. "That comes from the time I appeared on the Academy Award show with Rock Hudson."

Youngsters would have trouble finding a Mae West show, not to mention getting parental permission to watch. So she feels a television appearance is the right thing to do for them.

"Arthur Lubin, producer of 'Mister Ed,' has been after me for a couple of years to do this show," Miss West said.

Others have had ideas for turning Mae into a regular television personality. She's listened but rejected all offers. Some consisted of Mae as hostess of panel shows. One person suggested Mae go on television with advice to the lovelorn.

"I don't think my public would like me in a panel show," she said. "They want me acting. I can't do too much talking."

Mae wiggled her shoulders to illustrate what she meant by silent action.

The blonde perennial suggested she might become a regular television star in the near future. It could be one of video's whackiest shows, one in which she plays a private eye.

Mae said it with a straight face.

Pan and Fan Mail

There can be too much of anything.

We are glad that March 17 is a thing of the past and that every TV program won't have a bunch of jerks in funny costumes jumping around and bursting their lungs with ballads (?) about dear old Eire.

There's a bit of Irish blood in our veins, but we never worked at it or tried to pan ourself off as a professional Irishman.

Next week, dear friends, Easter bunnies!

J. Paul Gleason, Long Beach

For shame on you, J. Paul. Shure and 'tis a small measure of an Irishman that you are indeed. Here's hoping all your Easter bunnies come packed in shamrock.

I understand that Elvis Presley's film "Love Me Tender" has been sold for TV release. I would be very grateful if you could verify this and, if so, tell me when it will be shown.

Sharon Fainbrough, Norwalk

"King Creole," a 1958 Paramount movie starring Elvis Presley, has been purchased by NBC-TV. No release date has yet been set. No television station, as best as I can determine at this point, has tendered payment for "Love Me Tender."

I've got a crooked picture and I'd like to know when I could see a test pattern to get it straightened out.

Everett Robinson, Bellflower

Try channel 5 at 7:45 a. m. any day. Good luck.

U.S. Video Shows Become Major Export

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The stream of American television shows being shipped abroad has become a virtual torrent, making video exports a major item of international trade.

Hundreds of series—and single shows—both new and ancient are being shown from Japan to Uganda in breath-taking quantity.

Millions of dollars are involved. "Bonanza," for instance, is seen in 56 different countries. "Ben Casey" is being distributed in 57. "Perry Mason" in 48.

Every civilized country outside the Iron Curtain—and some uncivilized ones—beam American television shows.

Certain patterns have emerged that indicate foreign tastes in video entertainment vary tremendously from home-grown preferences. Situation comedies are the least popular exports while they top the ratings at home.

Variety shows and musicals also are taboo.

Distributors are experimenting with new sound tracks and laugh tracks, however, and "The Dick Van Dyke" and "I Love Lucy" shows are beginning to catch on around the world.

BUT THE BIG FAVORITES are "The Defenders," "Burke's Law," "Dr. Kildare," "The Greatest Show on Earth," "Gunsmoke, "Twilight Zone," "The Fugitive" and "Outer Limits."

Such oldtimers as "Medic," "87th Precinct," "National Velvet," "Panic" and "Victory at Sea" are still going strong.

Our biggest customers are Australia, Japan, the South American countries and Mexico. Australia buys more than 40 of our series, as does Japan. Not all of the shows are run on a weekly basis. A German station, for instance, beams only six "Perry Mason" shows a year.

Blase Paris runs only two American shows in prime time—and both are amazingly square for the city of lights—"Wanted, Dead or Alive," and "My Friend Flicka," neither of which were hits in the U.S.

Foreign countries rely almost entirely on American television to supplant local shows. But England is moving into the field now.

A trickle of British-made shows are flooding into this country, "The Saint," "Danger Man" and "Espionage."

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus constriction from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus prevent a fever breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists have and recommend MENDACO.

SPECIAL

PETTICOAT JUNCTION—Beatlemania reaches the hinterlands, and Uncle Joe decides to cash in by getting Kate's three girls (plus "Dobie Gillis'" old girl, Sheila James) to don mop-like wigs and kookie outfits and give England's exports a run for their money as the Ladybugs. Comedian-actor-singer-dancer Donald O'Connor directed this Paul Henning-scripted segment at 9 p.m., ch. 2, with Jesse White guesting as a bigtime theatrical agent summoned to see the way-out femmes.

TELEPHONE HOUR — Singer-dancer Carol Lawrence is hostess for a musical color hour heralding the Easter season at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Met stars Regine Crespin and Franco Corelli join in arias from Verdi's "A Masked Ball," with the Robert Shaw Chorale offering devotional music of the season, composer-pianist Andre Previn playing popular tunes from films, ballet stars Rudolf Nureyev with a rare pas de deux and Miss Lawrence singing music of current Broadway musicals.

Portly Sebastian Hosts 'Suspense' with Port

SEBASTIAN CABOT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Columbia Broadcasting System gets its first summer replacement series on the air this week and the flowers aren't blooming yet.

You've got to hand it to 'em for such a quick start.

While most folks are shivering in their overcoats, CBS executives are looking ahead to the shirt-sleeve days of a humid and hot summer.

The web's offering for the balmy days is "Suspense" a dramatic anthology series that starts suspending us Wednesday (8:30 p.m., channel 2).

"Suspense" consists of 13 episodes of a series which never got on the air, plus 11 repeats of other dramatic shows.

Host for the weekly series will be that portly, bearded Englishman, Sebastian Cabot.

Cabot, during a hefty lunch, described his host's role, one which he should admirably perform.

• • • •

"I UNDERSTAND they've built a set for me, an elegant library with a fireplace and big chair," Cabot said. "I might walk around the set with a book or a glass of good port in my hand."

Sebastian's last television series was "Checkmate" in which he played a raconteur who appreciated good living. It is an image that he would like to take with him into the lucrative field of television commercials.

He already has done commercials for a wine company and a home appliance firm. Representatives of a food processing company and an insurance firm are interested in Sebastian as their television spokesman.

• • • •

"I WANT to do some of that voice-over commercial work on television," Cabot said. "If you get enough of those you can make $150,000 a year. For the amount of time you work, the remuneration is magnificent."

Commercial work can provide economic security for an actor who must depend on periodic work. More and more performers are turning to commercials.

"It takes the worry out of acting," Sebastian said. "Too often actors are bad in a role because they weren't suited for it and only took the part for the money."

A healthy bank account gives the actor an opporunity to turn up his nose at a turkey role or show. And there's nothing an actor likes better than to be well fed and able to choose his lot in life.

Unfortunately such performers often make the wrong choice—but at least it was made on a full stomach.

'Tarzan' Series

A series of one-hour "Tarzan" episodes especially made for television is planned by CBS for either the 1964-65 or 1965-66 season. Much location filming in Africa will be done.

High-Wire Human Pyramid in TV Collapse

BY JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Last fall, while an NBC-TV camera was recording a rehearsal by the high-wire Wallenda troupe of its spectacular seven-man pyramid stunt, the wire snapped and the performers came tumbling down.

Fortunately, they were on the 12-foot-high rehearsal wire instead of at the usual performance height of 50 feet. There was no duplication of the tragic results of the 1962 Detriot fall when two performers were killed and a third permanently crippled. However, Gunther Wallenda suffered a brain concussion.

The day after the practice spill in Sarasota, Fla., training quarters, Karl Wallenda, leader of the troupe, congratulated NBC cameraman Robin Still, who was gathering material for the "Du Pont Show of the Week" telecast, "High Wire . . . the Great Wallendas" (airing 10 p.m. this Sunday on channel 4).

* * * *

"WE ARE both lucky men," Wallenda said. "You're lucky because you have a film of something that has happened only twice in 40 years. I'm lucky because I'm alive."

Wallenda had promised the producer of the video "biography" of the famous act that the seven-man pyramid would be performed during a scheduled engagement in Fort Worth, Texas. The network suggested that the stunt be dropped, but he refused.

"It was not that I was concerned about their television show," Wallenda explained. "I had to do the pyramid for my own sake. The Wallendas have been circus people for 300 years. My mother put me on the trapeze when I was five years old.

* * * *

"IF I admitted that I was was afraid to do the trick, everyone would know I had lost my nerve. My career would be over.

"I couldn't stand that. On the wire, I'm somebody important. people are watching me, cheering for me. Down here, on the ground, I'm a dishwasher or a ragpicker."

There was some disagreement among members of the troupe about carrying out the promise to do the pyramid.

"We had a meeting in my tent before we left Sarasota for the Fort Worth engagement," Wallenda said. "At first, almost all, even my brother, said I was crazy to attempt the pyramid again after it killed my son-in-law and crippled my son, Mario.

* * * *

ONLY my daughter, Carla, stood by me. One by one, we convinced the others that if they backed down, they would always wonder if they really had any guts."

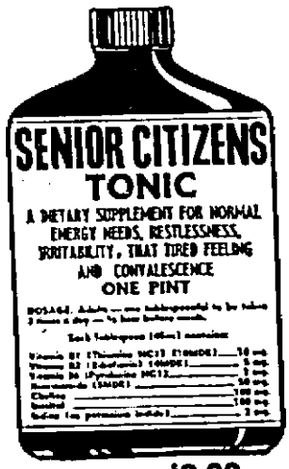

The troupe performed the pyramid 10 times in Fort Worth without incident, and Wallenda felt that the point of courage had been proven sufficiently. He announced on the final night that the Wallendas would never do the pyramid again.

"I know what I did may seem foolish," the acrobat said, "but there's a great deal of pride in circus people. It's what separates the act in the center ring from the poor fellow nobody watches.

KARL WALLENDA, injured in high-wire fall last October, awaits medical examination in hospital emergency room. His troupe is subject of a documentary special, "High Wire," at 10 p. m. today (Sunday), channel 4.

Jack 'Stoney Burke' Lord Sings Along Rodeo Trail

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jack Lord, who played a rodeo cowboy in television last season, is cleaning up this year in real rodeos as a singer.

While authentic cowboys collect a few bucks and uncounted broken bones, Lord picks up as much as $25,000 per appearance simply warbling a repertoire of popular songs. It pays him more than his old salary on the defunct "Stoney Burke" series. (The series, in repeat form, airs 8 p.m. Thursday, channel 13).

Brooklyn-born Lord doesn't like hitting the trail as much as he does acting, but the pay is so good he can't turn it down.

"When I was offered the opportunity to play a rodeo I almost refused because I didn't have an act," he said. "So I spent eight weeks taking voice lessons. I guess I could have done what other television stars do on personal appearances — just show up —but I didn't think that was fair to the people who pay to see me perform."

He rides in on a horse, waves to the crowd, then starts singing.

* * * *

LORD described some antics employed by other actors.

"Jim Arness of 'Gunsmoke' had a comic act in which he fought off a pack of midgets," he said. "Some of the others bring along a stunt man. They fake a fist fight with the star winning.

"One of the funniest is John Bromfield—he used to star in 'Sheriff of Cochise' and 'U.S. Marshall.' He'd chase another guy around the arena in a station wagon, pull him over to one side with a squeal of brakes and then pretend to shoot him with a shotgun.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Because of volume of mail received, PARADE cannot answer queries in connection with this column.

IF. If you had invested $1,000 five years ago in the common stock of Control Data, you'd have approximately $225,000 today. If you'd bought Xerox or Mattel, you'd have $130,000. These three issues have grown more in the past five years than any others listed on the N.Y. Stock Exchange.

BOMBARDED BACON. In New York today, bacon is on sale which keeps for two years at room temperature. The bacon has been bombarded by so-called clean gamma rays. These X rays destroy bacteria without harming the bacon. Soon on sale, processed by the same form of radiation: potatoes, clams, oysters.

SEARS MUTUAL FUND. Sears Roebuck, already in the savings and loan, travel and insurance businesses, plans shortly to enter mutual funds, will sell stock through 5,000 Allstate agents.

PILOT POOL. Within the next 20 years, approximately 65% of all airline pilots in this country will have reached the mandatory retirement age of 60. Where will tomorrow's pilots come from? The pool of ex-military pilots, those trained for duty in World War II and the Korean War, is practically dry. The shift to missiles has discouraged high school and college students from entering aviation. It may well be that by 1980 the airlines will have to recruit and train their own pilots.

FLORAL TISSUES. Decorating toilet and facial tissue with printed designs has become so successful that large paper corporations are now copying the style set in 1962 by Sanitary Paper of East Hartford, Conn., which first brought out "Doveprints." In fact, Sanitary has been so successful, it sold out to Swanee Paper Corp. Coming soon: monogrammed face and toilet tissue.

SEX FEAR. According to Dr. S. J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists, many mysterious illnesses which defy medical diagnosis are caused by a fear of sex. Writing in the British Journal of Medical Hypnotism, the doctor lists asthma, insomnia, blackouts, fainting spells and migraine headaches as "insurance policies against undesired or feared marital duties. Many married couples," Dr. Van Pelt declares, "prefer asthma to passion" and sleep in separate rooms to avoid the company of their mates. To support his belief, Dr. Van Pelt details the case of a young man who became asthmatic a few months after marriage. His attacks came on just as he and his wife retired for the night. To prevent disturbing his wife the young husband slept in a separate room. His wife thereupon developed insomnia worrying about their marriage. Presently, the husband, placed under hypnosis, was asked about the cause of his asthma attacks. "I was afraid," he confessed, "I would be no good at making love. I was afraid I would disappoint my wife. I was afraid she would despise me. I have always felt guilty about sex." After treatment under hypnosis, the young man lost his old fear, the asthma disappeared and the marriage was saved.

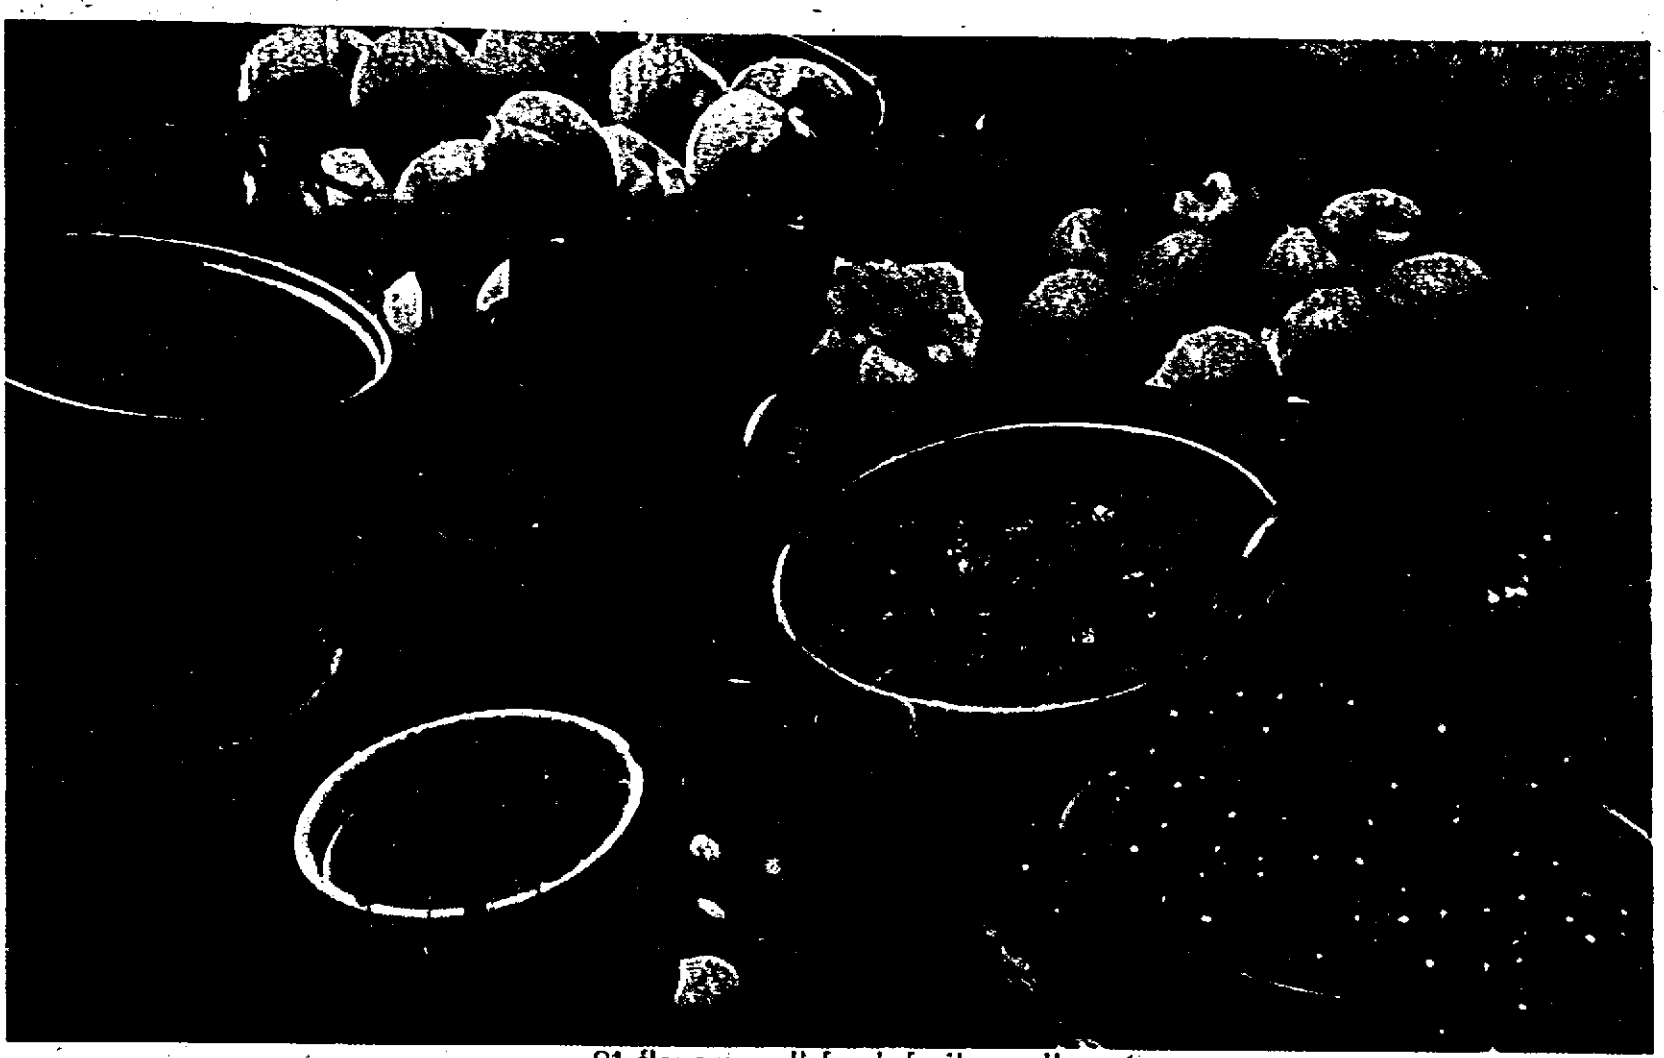

ITALIAN PEYTON PLACE. Lina Agostini, a 24-year-old Rome housewife, has been charged with obscenity and offending public morals by writing a novel, Giorgina. It describes the amorous adventures of a young Italian girl in postwar Italy. Written in the first person in basic, forthright language, the novel so shocked the author's school-teacher-husband that the couple has now separated. The Rome Public Prosecutor has seized hundreds of copies of Giorgina on grounds of obscenity, and Lina faces a 3-year jail sentence if found guilty. "All I wanted to do," says Lina, who took time off from housework to write the book, "was to earn a little extra money."

NEW ISSUES. The Securities and Exchange Commission in its Special Study of Securities Markets reveals that in the decade 1952-62, 1,050 companies whose stock had been sold to the public went broke with a loss of $100,000,000 in capital funds. Moral: investigate before investing, especially new companies.

BIRTH CONTROL. India is embarking on "the largest family planning program in its history." More than 9,000 clinics have been established to distribute contraceptives, and another 138 clinics have been established to provide free sterilization programs.

GLEASON IN MIAMI. Starting this fall, the Jackie Gleason TV Show will originate in Miami Beach. Gleason likes to play golf in Florida and reportedly threatened to quit TV unless he could do his weekly TV stint from the Miami Beach Auditorium. The network has agreed to the switch from New York, and Miami is spending $250,000 to install the latest TV facilities.

IN A NEVER-ENDING STRUGGLE, GOVERNMENT AGENTS RISK THEIR

undercover war against narcotics

MILLION-DOLLAR HAUL ... and marijuana is examined by ... agents (above). The drugs ... a record ... [illegible]

ADDICT-INFORMER ...

N-MEN'S ARCH ENEMY. ...

Several weeks ago, federal narcotics agents descended on an astounding prey, Salvador Pardo-Bolland, Mexican ambassador to Bolivia. They charged he and two cohorts had been smuggling heroin into the U.S. for the Mafia. More than $52 million in narcotics was seized.

The arrests, in New York and Montreal, culminated a lengthy investigation by U.S., Canadian and French police. Agents had tailed the ambassador for months and watched the world-wide operation unfold.

This was only one of the dangerous incidents in which the 280 unsung agents of the Narcotics Bureau are plunged every day. Shortly before that, after a 100-mph chase through Chicago, agent Gayle Ruhl hooked up in a blazing gun battle with Nolan Mack, a syndicate gunman, and shot him dead. And across the U.S. and around the world, these men continually risk their lives in a never-ending war against one of the most relentless conspiracies and greatest evils.

The Narcotics Bureau fights most of its campaigns from the inside, behind the enemy lines. It was the first law enforcement body to infiltrate the underworld's most closely guarded citadel, the Mafia, known to its members as La Cosa Nostra, or Our Thing. The bureau moved into the Mafia 20 years ago in a long battle against organized dope-smuggling.

How successful it has been is evident from the decrease in the narcotics trade. Significantly, although only 2 of every 100 government agents are N-men, they are responsible for 15 of every 100 convictions.

ALL IN THE LINE OF DUTY

As undercover men, narcotics agents learn to look like gangsters, talk like gangsters, think like gangsters. Sometimes they also die like gangsters—shot, knifed or strangled in some dark alley. They work across the world, for the traffic in illicit drugs knows no frontiers. The shadowy figures they trail may lead them into any city. And always death walks with them.

Last year alone, N-men engaged in seven running gun battles with drug smugglers: three in this country, four in Turkey. Agents have been run down by automobiles. One was thrown through a window. Some have died under torture. They face addicts who are wildly unpredictable, racketeers who will stop at nothing to defend their huge revenues. Often the men against them are equipped with speed boats, planes, radios—and, above all, cold cash to buy silence, to hire killers, to appear respectable.

Inside Cosa Nostra, one small slip can mean an N-man's death. For those who have taken the Mafia blood oath are the world's most sinister cutthroats. Their mood can switch in a moment, and they can kill without warning. Agent Wilson Shee, for example, had an appointment with an informer who had been furnishing him information for several months. Suddenly the squealer whipped out a gun and shot Shee to death, then killed himself.

LIVES TO INFILTRATE—AND DESTROY—THE MAFIA

by JACK ANDERSON

Another agent, about to handcuff an addict in a top-floor room of a Harlem tenement, was suddenly grabbed and dragged through the window. The agent managed to clutch the railing of the fire escape and hang there as the addict plunged to his doom.

On a New York street, a gangster fired five times at an agent who was trying to arrest him. Two of the bullets slashed through the agent's raincoat. Before the N-man could return the fire, a woman strolled between them, wheeling a baby carriage. The agent holstered his gun, sprinted across the street and collared the man with his bare hands.

THEY NAB 'MR. BIG'

Narcotics officers have been responsible for the arrest and conviction of the Mafia's most notorious ringleaders. Prize of the bag: Vito Genovese, who, even in prison, is still regarded as Mister Big of the Cosa Nostra. Others put behind bars include such delegates to the infamous Apalachin crime conference as chunky, snarling Carmine Galente, who has a reputation in the underworld as a sadist; big, booming, 240-pound "Big John" Ormento, who had a weakness for flashy clothes, which he has unhappily exchanged for prison garb; and barrel-chested Vincent Mauro, a surly customer who is described in Narcotics Bureau files as a merciless and "vicious killer."

Not long ago, an agent called on Mauro in prison and tried to pump him for information. The mobster spurned a warning that he would be wise to co-operate. "You're the one who has to worry, not me!" he snarled at the agent. From underworld tipsters, the Narcotics Bureau later learned that Mauro's threat was no mere bluff. According to the Bureau, the Mafia lords in prison, alarmed over the demoralization of their mobs, had marked five agents for murder. Such a dramatic gesture was needed, they agreed, to show their defiance of the government and to impress rank-and-file mobsters.

Mafia leaders on the outside feared the scheme was too dangerous. "You kill five federal agents, and they won't be above framing all of us," was the reaction of one racket boss, as quoted by an informer. Genovese reportedly decided it would be enough to bump off one key agent. The last word was that the murder "contract" had been issued, but all five agents alerted by informers are on their guard.

PARADE can also reveal that it was George Gaffney, then chief of the New York Narcotics office and now Deputy Narcotics Commissioner, who persuaded squealer Joe Valachi to violate the code of omertà (secrecy or death) and take the witness stand against his colleagues in crime.

Valachi was no stranger to the N-men. He had directed a smuggling ring which brought heroin into this country in false trunk bottoms. Agents moved in on him in 1955, but his conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals. In 1959, however, they got enough evidence to send him away for 15 years. Another conviction in 1961 added 20 years.

But his book wasn't closed. Undercover men learned that the Cosa Nostra regarded Valachi as a weak link who couldn't stand confinement and might crack any time. They decided to eliminate him. Valachi heard the same whispers and tried desperately to contact Gaffney with an offer to talk. Soon Genovese, who shared a cell with Valachi, made the whispers formal. Valachi reported that he received the ceremonial Mafia "kiss of death" from Genovese, who, he said, handed out a "contract" to another Mafia inmate, the emaciated, cold-blooded Joe DiPalermo, to silence Valachi forever.

MURDER BY MISTAKE

From then on, Valachi lived in terror. It was in terror that he grabbed an iron pipe and killed convict John Saupp, whom he mistook for DiPalermo. It was only after this murder by mistake that Valachi, through his defense attorney, was able to contact Gaffney, and thus became the most important informer yet on the Mafia.

Success stories like the Valachi case make headlines, but similar successes—the result of relentless sleuthing and unsung heroism—are legion in the files of the Narcotics Bureau. And they are no accident. For N-men are picked not only for their razor-sharp wits and ice-cold nerve but also for their ability to mix in the underworld without suspicion. All the top narcotics officials have been undercover men. Only 10 years ago, Narcotics Commissioner Henry Giordano was posing as a racketeer to gain the confidence of the sinister Mallock brothers, John and George, who were smuggling dope into Canada and the U.S.

Working with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Giordano wormed his way into the Mallock mob. He played his part so convincingly that on one occasion the brothers told him they trusted him implicitly. His work led to their arrest, but they skipped bond and fled to Mexico. In 1953, George Mallock was rash enough to sneak back into New York to visit a favorite barmaid, was promptly nabbed, hustled back to Canada and sentenced to 21 years. John Mallock was tracked down in Mexico, pursued in a wild car chase, died when his car crashed into a truck.

In recent years, the Narcotics Bureau has branched out. N-men are at work all through the Mediterranean, the Middle East and Southeast Asia, where the pipelines start. Most of the time they pose as American gangsters, having patiently built up their background against checking.

The recent arrest of the Mexican ambassador had just such world-wide ramifications. It began with the arrest of Guatemala's former ambassador to Belgium, Mauricio Rosal, who was picked up with 250 pounds of heroin. On trips between Brussels and Guatemala City, Rosal arrived in New York with 180 pounds of luggage, departed with only 100. But because of diplomatic immunity, he couldn't be searched.

FROM THE EMBASSY TO THE PEN

Then Rosal made a slip. On one trip, instead of continuing to Guatemala City, he decided to return to Brussels. He was no longer technically in transit, thus lost his diplomatic immunity. He was quickly and quietly searched. His luggage was loaded with heroin, largest haul ever made in the U.S. Rosal confessed he had received $40,000 in courier fees. He is now in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

Narcotics agents, living as they do in the shadow of sudden death, can ill afford to make a slip. But they admit ruefully that they pull their share of boners. One told PARADE how he finally won the confidence of a smuggler who agreed to sell him dope at a lonely rendezvous. The smuggler showed up without the goods, explained nervously that his car was known to the police and he might have been jumped. If the agent, whom he knew as an out-of-town racketeer, would trade cars, he would go and get the drugs.

For all the N-man knew, the smuggler was wise to him and had arranged a trap. But rather than blow the case, he handed over the keys of his car. Then he followed the smuggler and waited for him to go into an apartment. When the smuggler emerged with a parcel, the N-man made his arrest. It wasn't until they reached police headquarters and he got his keys back that he noticed a metal tag on the key ring inscribed: "Property of the Narcotics Bureau." If the smuggler had caught a glimpse of that tag, the agent might never have lived to tell the anecdote!

Some Bible Beliefs Have To Be Wrong!

When two Christians take different and conflicting meanings from the Bible, it is possible for both of them to be sincere.

But they can't both be RIGHT!

A small minority, for example, believes from their interpretation of a single verse of Revelation (7:4) that only 144,000 of the "elect" will inherit the kingdom of God. A greater number will live forever in an earthly paradise. The wicked will simply be annihilated.

This interpretation, of course, disagrees radically with the conviction of the majority of Christians that Christ opened the gates of heaven to the faithful. It also disagrees with the majority belief as to eternal reward or punishment.

Using the Bible as a book of prophecy, people have undertaken to predict the date of the second coming of Christ. Some contend that world events prove He is already invisibly here. These interpretations, of course, disagree with the words of our Lord, Who said of His second coming: "Of that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father only" (Mark 13:32). Nor can the majority of Christians believe, as a few do, that Christ took power in heaven only as recently as the last half century.

These are only a few examples of the conflicting interpretations of Holy Scripture which divide Christianity into hundreds of creeds and cults. While the sincerity of those holding contrary views is not questioned, the logic of their arguments must be considered by all who seek the truth.

Both obviously cannot be right when one says Christ is God and another respects Him merely as an enlightened teacher. If one believes in the Holy Trinity and another scoffs at this understanding, one or the other is wrong. Baptism can't be necessary, as many believe, and unnecessary as some others contend.

As Catholics see it, our Lord foresaw the confusion that would result from private interpretations of Holy Scripture. The Bible itself says: "No prophecy of scripture is made by private interpretation" (2 Pet. 1:20), and "As also in all His (Paul's) epistles ... in which there are certain things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, to their own destruction" (2 Pet. 3:16).

Catholics believe that our Lord invested the Church with the sole authority to interpret His teachings. As a result, the world-wide unity of Catholics in the principles of their Faith contrasts sharply with the numerous divisions of opinion among other sincere Christians.

Happier and healthier, Colombian child, held by U.S. benefactor, shows improvement over last year (below).

A VILLAGE BEGINS TO SMILE

VERSALLES, COLOMBIA.

One year ago, the boy on these pages looked out at PARADE readers solemn-eyed, sad and with an air of doom. Resident of this tiny village in Colombia, he suffered from parasitic intestinal disease, caused by Versalles' polluted water, was underfed and tubercular, and looked forward—if he lived—to a life without joy or hope.

Today, as the top photo shows, the face is pudgier and the smile sparkles. And the little boy at last has hope.

The difference between those two pictures is the tall, blond North American at top—Dr. Richard P. Saunders. As reported in PARADE April 14, 1963, Saunders came to Versalles and, by quiet talk and friendly example, taught the villagers something they had not known before—how to work together. He inspired them to build a pipeline to carry pure water down from the top of the mountain. He gave them only $6 worth of tools they could not otherwise afford.

Saunders has gone into some 40 Colombian villages, and, without knowing Spanish, performed similar miracles. He advances little money, and his shoestring organization, Futures for Children, 5612 Parkston Rd., Washington 16, D.C., has no paid workers. The contributions of Saunders himself and other North Americans provide the modest funds.

Today, in fact, the organization is at a turning point. Inspired by their success so far, the people of Versalles are talking of new co-operative projects—a beekeeping industry, new schools, more health measures. But Dr. Saunders feels a trained, Spanish-speaking counselor should be on hand to assist. No money is available for one.

However, Saunders believes that the most important part of the battle of Versalles is won. "Practically all of the people are still malnourished," he says, "but now they are beginning to think for themselves, to plan for the future." To a small boy and a small town in Colombia, hope has come at last.

and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

GEORGIA BEAUTY
Cecilia Upton was able to trim down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of several highly respected educational institutions, leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute"— his XSX1M Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¾ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. Y. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

MORNING STRETCH
for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

Handy blade: You'll find many uses for this adjustable razor blade knife (top right). A touch on the control button allows you to slide the blade out, lock it in place for opening packages, cutting twine, clipping newspapers and magazines. Another touch and the blade slides back and locks inside the case for safe carrying in pocket or purse. You can also expose entire blade edge in a special side channel for paint scraping, other uses. When blade dulls, slip in any new single-edge razor blade. Chrome case is 1½" x 2½". $1.50. Modern Systems, Dept. PP, Box 228, Alhambra, Calif.

Ice cube maker: This new appliance (lower right) for your kitchen, recreation room or patio makes up to 22 lb. of cubes a day, can store 140 cubes in a convenient bin. It connects to ¼-inch water line, needs no drain, works on 115-volt current, measures 14" x 24" x 14", can be recessed in a wall or used free-standing. Complete details: U-Line Corp., Dept. PP, 811 E. Vienna Ave., Milwaukee 12, Wis.

Kitchen aid: A new metal cleaner is designed specifically to solve the problem of removing grease from electric frypans, other aluminum cooking utensils. It's an easily applied liquid that softens encrusted grease so you can just brush it off or remove it readily with soap pad and water. 8-oz. can, good for up to 2 years' use. About $1.25 in stores. Sunbeam, Dept. PP, 5400 W. Roosevelt Rd., Chicago 50, Ill.

Antiquing your furniture: With a new kit you'll find it easy to produce an antiqued painted finish on any piece of furniture—without need to remove the old paint or varnish first even if it is marred, checked or fogged. You simply apply an off-white undercoater, brush on a coat of color glaze, wipe with cheesecloth to produce subtle shadings. The glaze dries to a soft satin sheen you can buff or wax. Glaze colors are pink, blue, olive, gold, red, antique white. $4.95 kit has enough material for one chest or two chairs, including undercoater, choice of glaze, brushes, cheesecloth, instructions. Martin-Senour, Dept. PP, 2500 S. Senour Ave., Chicago, Ill.

DOCTORS RECOMMEND:

1. Rest in bed
2. Drink plenty of fluids
3. Take aspirin to reduce fever and relieve pain

REPORTING on a Government-Financed Study of Five Leading Pain Relievers, an article in The Journal of The American Medical Association showed that Bayer Aspirin was unsurpassed by any of them for speed and strength of relief. The report also showed that Bayer Aspirin was as gentle to the stomach as any product tested, including the higher-priced buffered product. On the other hand, the two combination-of-ingredients products tested upset the stomach considerably more often.

DIET SCHOOL: NEWEST WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT

by FRED WARSHOFSKY

Lecturer talks to New York diet school students.

NEW YORK, N.Y.

Once a week, a band of roly-poly housewives, executives and career girls gathers in a classroom on the second floor of the City Health Department Center here to fight the battle of the bulge. And for the next hour, they get expert advice on the whys and wherefores, do's and don'ts of dieting, punctuated by a battery of plastic food models and colorful charts to make sure the lesson sinks in.

These student-patients are enrolled in diet school, a unique program to teach interested citizens the art of "obesity control." The results have been so good that classes now have a waiting list 2,000 portly people long, all eager for the solid facts about nutrition that are essential to successful dieting.

FATS AND FADS

Run by the New York City Health Department, the 10-week course shuns pills, ancient Chinese exercises and the sensational promises of the faddists to concentrate on one thing—common-sense eating. On the premise that there is such a thing as a balanced, varied diet in which calories are not all that count, the classes are open to those who are 20 to 30 pounds overweight—the "moderately obese," Dr. George Christakis, director of the Health Department's Bureau of Nutrition, calls them.

The classes are conducted by Mrs. Ruth Larsen, a Health Department nutritionist with 20 years of experience. "We teach good eating habits," Mrs. Larsen explains. "Most people have no real idea of what they are eating and only get the required nutrients through a haphazard combination of foods. Often the amounts they consume are in excess of their bodies' actual needs; the result is obesity."

Basic diet needs are unfolded to the students in 10 easy-to-digest lectures, calculated to chip away at long-established faulty eating habits. Sample menus and calorie charts are distributed, and students learn to avoid certain foods almost without thinking.

For example, Mrs. Larsen turns thumbs down on rich sauces, gravies, dressings and fats. But she gives the go-ahead to such low-calorie, high-nutrient vegetables as beans, mushrooms, parsley, spinach. And should between-meal hunger pangs become unmanageable, Mrs. Larsen cheerfully suggests green pepper or celery for nibbling.

However, dieters have to watch even their vegetable intake. Artichokes, beets, eggplant and squash, for example, are limited to one serving per day. Difficult as it may be to imagine even the most voracious dieter dreaming of a beet binge, these vegetables are higher in calories and lower in nutritive value.

Mrs. Larsen teaches her students not only what to eat, but how to prepare it. "Eat at least five fish meals weekly," she declares, raising high a tray of plastic fish. "Notice that the fish is not fried," she adds, as the class strains to detect signs of broiling.

NOT BY POUNDS ALONE

Meats, too, come in for scrutiny. They are divided into three groups: lean, medium lean and medium fat. Student-patients are limited to three meals a week in the medium-fat group—beef, lamb, pork—and Mrs. Larsen cautions them to "trim off all visible fat before eating."

The success of the school is measured not only by weight loss but also by the ability of the students to stay down. Of the class of 53 who attended the school when it began last April, 36 completed the course and 26 achieved maintenance.

But success in keeping weight down depends largely on motivation. An insurance man, the father of six, studied the actuarial tables and realized that as his weight ballooned, so did his premiums. "The premiums are based on how good a risk you are," he explained. "And with six kids, I decided to do everything I could to cut the odds." One woman, however, admitted to enrolling in the course so as to "look as glamorous as possible at my daughter's wedding." Her return from size 12 to size 20 and obesity is almost certain.

Student weighs in before class as Mrs. Larsen (l.) looks on. Results are charted, discussed.

She displays tray with plastic food models making up high- and low-calorie sample menus.

Students also learn to fit the new eating patterns into the framework of family meals. Self-analysis cards are kept with scrupulous accuracy. Each meal, as well as between-meal snacks, is recorded, and at the next meeting the cards are exposed to the class for discussion.

The benefit of these discussions is twofold. First, they give rise to competition between students for weight loss. But more important is the feeling of mutual striving and support derived from the discussions. Each overweight student finds out that he or she is not alone with the problem of obesity, that others tend to raid the icebox and take an extra helping of dessert. And this helps to supply the extra will power needed to endure what is for some people a drastic cut in the high-calorie foods they have been accustomed to eating.

Still, dieters are beset by temptation. The men, who usually eat lunch in restaurants, complain of the difficulty of maintaining a balanced diet. To solve this problem, one class session is devoted to selecting nutritious, low calorie foods from a typical restaurant menu.

For the women, the biggest problem lies in "tasting" while they are preparing meals for husbands and children. "It's awfully hard not to nibble when you are constantly surrounded by food," one dieting housewife says.

To counterbalance the tendency to nibble, housewives often resort to skipping breakfast. But it just doesn't work. "Skipping a meal usually results in stuffing at the next—and this leads to obesity," Mrs. Larsen explains. "The body simply cannot handle the excess."

One woman pasted a photo of herself when she was slim on the refrigerator door. Others confessed to reciting phrases learned in classes, such as "Ten seconds in the mouth, an hour in the stomach, a lifetime around the middle."

As for the future of the school, Dr. Christakis is hopeful. "Most of our patients have tried dieting in one form or another for years without success," he says. "Even if not all our patients achieve maintenance, they will at least have learned that there is such a thing as good nutrition."

TO PARIS WITH LOVE

And the school can point to one stunning success—a plump young social recluse who had resigned herself to becoming an old maid slimmed down to 116 pounds and returned recently to the school to announce her engagement. "We haven't decided whether to live in California or in France," she announced. "But I'm going to make sure to come back at least once a year for my maintenance checks."

The checks are the final phase of the curriculum. "Without them," states Mrs. Larsen, "many of our students would slide back into their old eating habits." Checks are made one month after the final class, then every three months for two years and finally once a year for three more years. The purpose is twofold: to provide scientific data to evaluate the program and to give the patients an opportunity to review their eating habits. Thus the weight they have lost and the knowledge they have gained remain a permanent part of their lives.

Newlyweds Suzanne Pleshette and Troy Donahue appear at Hollywood premiere. Suzanne, 26, married Donahue, teenagers' favorite, in Beverly Hills three months ago.

by ARNO JOHANSEN

SUZANNE PLESHETTE:

WHAT SHE WANTS, SHE GETS

In motion pictures today there are only four or five actresses who matter at the box office: Doris Day, Elizabeth Taylor, Ingrid Bergman, Audrey Hepburn and possibly Shirley MacLaine, all of whom demand and get a minimum of $500,000 per film.

The rest of the actresses mean relatively nothing.

The late Harry Cohn, tyrant chief of Columbia Pictures, once told me—and his opinion was typical of many studio heads: "Any dame with a pleasant face, a 36-inch bust and a fourth-grade education can hold down the average girl role in the average movie."

This was an exaggeration, of course, but as most people now realize, there is little correlation between screen stardom and acting talent. Rita Hayworth, Lana Turner, Kim Novak, Betty Grable, Jayne Mansfield and Sandra Dee are all cases in point. These are what the industry calls "personalities."

Once in a great while a young player hits Hollywood who has the characteristics of both a "personality" and an actress.

Such a young woman is Suzanne Pleshette, 26, who recently married the teenagers' heart throb, a 27-year-old "personality" who works in motion pictures under the name of Troy Donahue.

Suzanne has the drive, talent and intelligence to become a full-fledged screen star, providing she is cast in major films.

NOT EXCLUSIVE

Unfortunately, she is under contract to Warner Brothers, a studio which specializes in "popular-type movies." In the 37 years that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has been in existence, Warner Bros. has produced 2 Academy Award winning films for best production: The Life of Emile Zola in 1937 and Casablanca in 1943.

Fortunately for Suzanne, she is not under exclusive contract to Warners. She owes them two films a year but can do as much outside film and TV work as she likes. Her latest job, for example, is at 20th Century-Fox on a loanout starring opposite Glenn Ford in Fate Is the Hunter. This film is directed by Ralph Nelson, who directed Lilies of the Field, one of the best motion pictures of 1963.

A black-haired, green-eyed New Yorker, daughter of Eugene Pleshette, who used to manage the Paramount Theatre in Brooklyn, Suzanne wants desperately to become a movie star—"Not because I'm particularly ambitious, which is a dirty word when it's used in connection with a woman, but because today a movie star has only to make one picture a year to maintain her status.

"What I want," she continues, "now that I'm married, is to have enough time off to look after my husband and raise a family. If you're a big star, you can do that. If you're not, then they cast you in any kind of junk and you've got to work your tail off, hoping against hope that maybe somehow you'll hit it big.

"In Troy Donahue I think I've got the best husband in the world. Now if I can only become a big star, I'll have the best of two worlds. No girl can beat that."

Suzanne Pleshette boasts the acting ability to become a major star—she's had a lengthy apprenticeship: The High School of Performing Arts in New York, drama study at Syracuse University and the Neighborhood Playhouse, work in more than 200 television dramas, the starring role on Broadway in The Miracle Worker (succeeding Anne Bancroft)—but such background does not qualify her for stardom.

HAS SHE GOT IT?

What movie-goers demand in their screen goddesses is sex appeal. Does Suzanne Pleshette generate enough of that quality?

Her husband of two months, who at one time or another dated so many Hollywood sexpots that he was acknowledged the successor to the late Errol Flynn, says: "Suzanne is one of the most sexy girls I ever met, which is one of the reasons I married her. Whenever I kiss her, even now that we're married, those bells still ring." Donahue's viewpoint is, of course, biased, and what he finds in his wife is not necessarily transmitted on the screen. Several directors I've spoken to believe that Suzanne's appeal is primarily intellectual. "She's an outspoken girl with a good head on her shoulders," one told me. "She's got talent and brains," another explained.

Suzanne Pleshette plays scene with Glenn Ford in her latest film, Fate Is the Hunter.

"She's ambitious, domineering, clever, candid, industrious and hard working," a third concedes, "but when it comes to sex appeal—lusty, tingling, stimulating sex appeal—that's not her forte. Maybe she'll become another Bette Davis—Bette is the only actress without sex appeal who ever made stardom—but somehow I doubt it. What I think Suzanne will develop into is another Anne Bancroft or Pat Neal or Geraldine Page. Primarily she's a stage actress."

A girl of strong opinions, Suzanne disagrees with the contention which holds her deficient in sex appeal.

"Just because I won't pose for leg art and that sort of thing," she says, "that doesn't mean I'm without sex appeal. I don't believe any girl should flaunt her womanness, if there is such a word. Besides, I don't want stardom if I have to get it on the basis of chest measurements. I refuse to believe that movie-goers don't admire talent, attractiveness, entertainment and subtle sex appeal."

Ralph Nelson, the actress' current director, declares: "Sex appeal is a very individual matter. I, for one, am convinced that Suzy has what it takes to become a great star, an enduring star. For me she has a smoldering sort of sex appeal, a sex appeal with great potential; the kind which teases the imagination. In addition, she has intelligence, basic honesty and a tremendous desire to work only at her best. Suzy will get what she wants in life because she's willing to work for it. She wants nothing for nothing."

SHE GOT HER MAN

The consensus of opinion in Hollywood concerning Suzy is that what she wants she gets.

"Almost three years ago," a rival actress points out, "Suzanne set her cap for Troy Donahue. At that time he was getting 4,000 fan letters a week. Every girl in town was throwing herself at his feet, and none of us thought Suzy would even get to first base with the guy. Today she's Mrs. Troy Donahue, and I'm still looking for a husband. Get my point?"

"Got it," I said. ■

How can you imitate them when no two are alike?

Talk about unique. Each Contac capsule contains over 600 tiny "time pills" *no two of which are the same! It took the makers of Contac 7 years and 35,000 man-hours to develop this unique principle of continuous action medication.

Today Contac is America's largest-selling cold medication. And it's no surprise that over 90 "Johnny-come-latelys" have tried to climb on the bandwagon. These imitators look like Contac. Some even have names that sound like Contac. But do they work like Contac? How can they! None of these imitators has the famous Contac tiny "time pills" with their exact, scientifically proven formula. These imitators may cost less, but Contac remains a better buy. Why? Because the more a cold capsule does for you the less it really costs. And nothing else does as much for your head cold congestion as the formula in the tiny "time pills" in Contac.

That's why it will always pay you to ask for Contac by name. At your pharmacy.

*By an exclusive process, the tiny "time pills" in each Contac capsule are given coatings of varying thicknesses to provide continuous action medication up to 12 hours.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield tried to hush up a Democratic family quarrel that exploded on the Senate floor. He pleaded with his colleagues not to wash the party's "dirty linen" in public.

Later, he tried to explain that the linen wasn't really dirty, not even slightly soiled. "It was just linen that should have been kept in the closet."

"Maybe," suggested an eavesdropping Republican, "it was just tattle-tale gray."

My Favorite Jokes

by Phyllis Diller

EDITOR'S NOTE: Phyllis Diller of Lima, Ohio, is that rarest of creatures —a housewife turned comedienne. Mother of five, she turned to show business in the summer of 1955, "when the furnace, washing machine and car broke down, and the bills mounted." Phyllis was then living in California, writing copy for Kahn's department store in Oakland. When a friend told her that lots of money could be earned by making people laugh, she auditioned for a job at a club called the Purple Onion in San Francisco. She was so good the club booked her for 89 consecutive weeks. Ever since, she has been working steadily, appearing on all major TV shows, working the top night spots throughout the country, cutting records, "and picking up a spare buck wherever I can." Happily married for more than 20 years, Phyllis lives outside St. Louis, Mo., with her family when she isn't working, which is practically never. Much of her humor concerns the relationship between the average housewife and her husband. Herewith a few Killer-Diller samples.

I love husband jokes. My husband's name is Fang, and I must have at least 40 million Fang jokes. Here are a few:

I'm giving him a watch for his birthday. I promised him one as soon as he learned to tell time.

I can tell Fang isn't afraid of work by the way he fights it!

He's been under a lot of pressure lately, though—three quilts and a blanket.

Fang is a wonderful cook. He serves food that melts in your mouth—it's frozen.

It's true, we fight. But we've never gone to bed mad. Of course, one year we were up for three months.

Once he tried to run out on me—but the police arrested him for leaving the scene of an accident!

Fang loves crowds. It's not that he's gregarious—he's a pickpocket.

Years ago, when he told me he was a confirmed bachelor, I said: "Keep your religion out of this."

Fang told me one day that he was going to school and study Karate. "That's something that you learn," he said, "so you can break furniture with your bare hands."

"Who needs to go to school for that?" I replied. "Just ask the kids!"

Actually, though, he said he wanted to study Karate in case he ever needed to defend my honor. I told him to mind his own business.

Fang has that lean look. Every time I look at him, he's leaning on something. He's semi-retired, you know. He looks for a job in his pajamas.

You wonder why Fang won't work? Well, he tells me that he doesn't believe a career and marriage will mix.

I love animal jokes, too. Did you hear the one about two elephants entering Noah's Ark? One said to the other: "On the other hand, Clyde, who else has ever asked us to take a boat trip?"

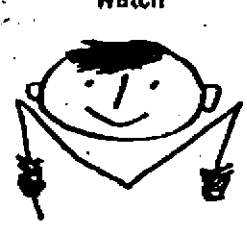

An Eskimo mother was sitting in the igloo and reading from a story book to her small son. "Little Jack Horner," she read, "sat in a corner."

"Mother," asked the kid, "what's a corner?"

Mrs. Smith is sitting at her kitchen table drinking coffee, reading the paper, wearing an old chenille robe, curlers in her hair and bedroom slippers, and the kitchen is a mess of dirty dishes.

Her husband arrives at the back door with his briefcase after a hard day's work, and she looks up in surprise and says: "Are you home already?"

It costs a while a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

I apply for "Accumulative" Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree (1) to pay the premium of 50c per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper or my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.
